The Turned-Down Corners

Here and there in the Ledger of Life you have turned down the corner of a page for remembrance sake—you'd forget something if the turned-down corner wasn't there.

To-day, turn down a corner deep and wide to remember this one sure fact : "Quality is remembered long after price is forgotten." Every time you come to that particular page—remember. Every time you try to sell inferior quality, think of the turned-down corner—what it stands for, and what it really means to your success.

It's No Longer a Theory It's a Fact that Old Homestead Brand canned goods are incomparably the finest canned goods ever put on the Canadian market.

We Had a Theory that the fruit and vegetables grown in the fertile Picton district, put up by the best processor in the business, under conditions of the most scrupulous cleanliness, would outclass any other canned goods on the market.

We Turned that Theory into a Fact

We put up our fruits and vegetables in the stoutest tin and the handsomest labels, and we named them The Old Homestead Brand.

Then we began to tell the trade about Old Homestead Brand. The trade caught on, so that this year we had to double our capacity. The trade continued to catch on and are still catching on, because they find that The Old Homestead Brand are the kind of goods that hold old customers and bring in new ones.

The Old Homestead Brand are now handled by the best grocers all over Canada.

Have you put Old Homestead in stock? If not, send for a sample order. If your jobber can't supply you, write us direct.

ADVANCE IN APPLE PACKING

Results of Recent Instructions as Demonstrated at the Ontario Fruit and Flower Show—Honey Exhibit and a Honey Book—A Splendid Show.

The third Ontario Horticultural Exhibition of fruit, flowers, vegetables and honey, Tuesday to Saturday of last week in Massey Hall, Toronto, was so pronounced a success so far as the number and quality of exhibits went that it surprised even its managers.

The number of entries was 1500 more than last year and that was 1200 more than expected. In conjunction with the Exhibition the annual meetings were held of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association, the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association, the Ontario Beekeepers' Association and in the proceedings was much of interest to every wide-awake purveyor of food stuffs.

An inventory of the fruit exhibit was prepared for the Dominion Department of Agriculture and it shows the extent of this department, 20 county exhibits comprising 538 plates of apples, general display of apples, single varieties, 350 plates; pears, 77 plates; grapes, 32 plates; four society exhibits comprising 384 plates; exhibits of 8 experimental stations and 2 experimental farms, comprising 283 plates; pyramids of fruit 45; commercial packages, 288; 3 package displays by th? co-operative associations comprising 67 packages of grapes, boxes and baskets 25.

In the exhibit of home-canned fruit there were 237 jars.

Better Apple Packing.

The feature of the exhibition, however, from every point of view was the improvement shown in apple packing and packages.

Deputy Minister of Agriculture C. C. James when at the exhibition speaking of this feature said: "and what pleases me more than anything else is the increasing tendency to use boxes in the packing of apples. When the Horticultural Exhibition opened for the first time three years ago, there were only one or two boxes—now there are over two hundred exhibited. There is double the money in the fruit so packed, either for domestic or foreign use."

This year the boxes are practically uniform. This has been brought about by the adoption of the British Columbia box, 10x11x20, containing 2200 cubic inches, which is just 18 cubic inches less than a bushel.

A carload of B.C. boxes, that is 30,000 were brought here by the Cold Storage & Forwarding Co. of St. Catharines, one of the growers' co-operative associations. They have been adopted also by the Chatham Association. These boxes are of British Columbia spruce. The sides are thicker than the top and bottom which keeps the sides from bulging and enables close packing of the boxes for shipment.

The packing of these boxes show?d remarkable advancement beyond the packing of former y?ars. It was a demonstration of what the progressive apple growers have learned from the experts brought on here by the Government. Bois of British Columbia, two years ago and Stewart of Idaho this year.

Work Quickly Done.

There are 130 different combinations for packing these boxes and the expertness quickly attained in the art is amazing. The principal commercial packs however, are few and they are shown in the accompanying illustration. There is the side pack with the spaces at the side; the end pack with the spaces at the end, and one or two others. By these expert methods a dozen more apples can be got into a box and there is no breaking loose and bruising of the fruit. The ordinary time required to pack a box is from 5 to 10 minutes. A girl employe of the Cold Storage Co., St. Catharines, wrapped and packed 33 boxes of pears in less than 8 hours besides sweeping up the packing house and getting her own boxes and paper. That is less than 15 minutes for wrapping each pear and packing a box.

At the St. Catharines Exhibition next September a packing competition will be held and prizes will be awarded. This is an advantageous move the Ontario Exhibition authorities should copy next year. The cost of wrapping and packing a box of pears, including paper is less than 10 cents.

The exhibit of apples in barrels was the best ever. The packing in this department also showed marked improvement, and this having been a dry season the color and appearnce of the fruit was excellent.

As usual the judges of the commercial packages were Alex. McNeil, chief of the Fruit Division of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, and Inspector P. T. Carey, both men of pronounced ability and long experience.

The Vegetables.

In the vegetable department there were 400 entries, half as many again as last year. The features showing pronounced excellence were cauliflower and onions. The ropes of onions were especially fine. There were cauliflowers more than a foot in diameter and Brussels sprouts which experts declared could not be excelled in the Old Country. This department of the exhibition was under the direction of F. F. Reeves. Humberside, president of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association.

New Line in Honey.

This year the honey exhibit, instead of being made up of a lot of individual exhibits was a large display put up by the Ontario Beekeepers Association. Instead of prizes the Association was granted $200 to pay the expenses of the exhibit. It contained upward of 2500 pounds, clover, basswood, buckwheat, in the comb and strained in glass and tin. A new feature was the use of lithographed tin instead of plain tin for pails.

For the dealer in honey an interesting feature of the display was the free distribution of a little book entitled "Food Value of Honey and Honey Cooking Recipes." It is a book of interest to every house-keeper and every grocer who wants to push his honey trade would do well to get a few hundred of them and distribute them among his customers. The president of the Beekeepers' Association R. H. Smith, St. Thomas, had charge of the exhibit. It was very tastefully arranged and proved an attractive feature of the Exhibition and interested a great many visitors.

Bigger Building Needed.

The flower show part of the Exhibition which, naturally, is the part the public most delight in was also an advance upon other years. It occupied most of the main auditorium. The commercial package fruits, and all the vegetables were relegated to the basement where the light and accomodation was very poor. The Exhibition has outgrown Massey Hall and an effort should be made to secure the Armouries for it next year. It is practically a public undertaking in the interest of the fruit, vegetable, flower, and honey industries of the country and there should be no difficulty in securing the Armouries.

George A. Robertson of St. Catharines told the Vegetable Association:—"The continued introduction of new diseases, the production of new varieties, and the bringing into being of new conditions, will keep the tomato-growing industry in an experimental stage for some years yet."

The Committee of the Fruit Growers' Association appointed to report regarding the Spencer seedless apple, stated'—"although the core is smaller and less distinct than the average apple there is still sufficient to make the process of coring a necessity. The practical absence of the calyx tube leaves an abnormally large and deep opening reaching to the core—thereby involving loss of flesh nearly equal to a normal core as well as affording a harbor for injurious insect pests. The specimens examined showed this space to contain an objectionable mold-like accumulation. They also gave well developed seeds though fewer than the normal apple. The specmens seen by us were about equal to our Fameuse or Snow and those tested for quality were about equal to the Ben Davis."

DISCUSSED AND ORDER DUPLICATES.

Half a score grocery travellers were sitting about after supper in a Western Ontario town, the other evening, discussing ways and means. The question of giving their customers duplicates of orders came up. Opinion was against the practice of giving duplicates.

Then the quiet man butted in:

"Well, if I were a retailer, I would have a duplicate of every order I gave. If it served no other purpose, it would keep me from ordering the same stuff from any one of the dozen travellers that called before the goods were delivered. But if the retailers don't know enough to demand duplicates, its not my business to educate them."

The Canadian Grocer wishes to join the many friends of W. G. Estabrook, of the firm of J. F. Estabrook & Sons, St. John, N.B., in expressions of sympathy because of the death of his daughter, and only child.

LONDON GROCERY NEWS.

Changes in Two Important Retail Houses—The Assoication.

Last week is marked by the change of ownership of two of the best known grocery business in the city.

The long established business of Somerville & Co., 112 Dundas Street, has been taken over by John W. and Alfred Hockin, brothers, who have been employed in the store for several years. Mr. Somerville has been in business in London nearly thirty years, and at one time was in partnership with the late Wm. Horner, the firm name being Horner & Somerville. He is well advanced in years and is retiring from commercial life altogether. The Hockin brothers began their career as grocerymen in the store of John Moule, the present police court clerk of London, and have been together in their work during their whole experience.

J. & G. Bloomfield began business on Wednesday of last week, in the grocery store occupied during the past few months by Edwin Lees, and formerly known as "John Lawson's Grocery," 261 Dundas Street. Messrs. Bloomfield are brothers, and are particularly well-known in the northern part of the country, where they have lived several years. John Bloomfield has been traveling for a London wholesale house lately, and prior to that conducted a general store at Mooresville. George Bloomfield has also had considerable experience in the grocery line, although he spent some years teaching school and was recently a teacher in the Fort William High School. Mr. Lees came from Hamilton, when he bought out Mr. Lawson, and his son came with him. A short time ago Mr. Lees, junior, decided to go to Cobalt and Mr. Lees, senior, arranged to establish a brokerage business here with wholesale grocers as his customers.

The Retail Grocers' Association deemed it advisable to take some action to stop wholesalers from selling to people outside of the trade, and invited a deputation of the wholesale men to a meeting of the Association on the 7th instant to discuss the matter. It is said that friends of employes of the wholesale houses are often supplied with goods to the detriment of the men in the retail business.

TRAVELLERS NEW PRESIDENT.

E. D. Marceau Elected by Acclamation —Other Nominations.

Saturday evening last at a general meeting of the Dominion Commercial Travellers' Asosciation, held in their rooms at Montreal, nominations for officers and directors for the ensuing year were received.

The officers were elected by acclamation, the results being:—President, E. D. Marceau; Vice-President, John Patterson, Manufacturers' Agent, formerly with Greenshields, Limited; Treasurer, Robert C. Wilkins, re-elected.

Directors were nominated as follows:—A. J. Brown, E. E. Guilbault, J. T. McBride, J. T. Parkes, G. W. Prescott, James Robertson and S. D. Stewart. As there can be only five directors it will be necessary to hold an election. This will be held at the annual meeting, which takes pace December 15, at Karn Hall.

It was decided to hold the annual dinner, for which the Association is noted, and a committee was appointed to make arrangements.

A special committee, appointed at the last annual meeting of the Association is to investigate the manner in which were conducted the last annual elections made a report. The matter was settled by the secretary, Mr. Wadsworth apologizing to Mr. Egan for any remarks made at that time. The whole trouble was due to a misunderstanding.

Fred C. Cains, retiring president, occupied the chair. He spoke of the progress being made by the Association, and prophesied a very satisfactory report at the annual meeting. The membership had been largely increased, while the death claims were light, and as a consequence the Association was likely to show up well financially

OUR NEWFOUNDLAND TRADE.

Some time ago, it was stated as a probability in these columns that American manufacturers would open a co-operative sample room in St. Johns, Newfoundland, with a view to trying to regain their trade in the island. This they have done, and Canadian manufacturers and merchants with a trade in the island colony, should adopt similiar means to hold the trade they have got and extend it. In July last, E. D. Arnaud, Canadian commercial agent in the island wrote of Newfoundland in the "Weekly Report" of the department of Trade and Commerce:—

"It may be generally stated that the inhabitants have to be fed and clothed by importations from abroad."

"For many years these have mainly been brought from Great Britain and the United States for reasons which are well understood, but which at the present time have not the same force that they once had. The rapid progress of Canada as a manufacturing and exporting country, together with the greatly improved facilities of communication with this ancient colony, is sufficient to account for the fact that the imports from Canada have been largely augmented in recent years, naturally at the expense of our competitors in Great Britain, and more particularly those in the United States.

"Other things being equal, there is, I am satisfied, a decided preference in favor of Canada, and it only remains for the traders of the Dominion to cultivate in a careful way the requirements and good-will of their kinsmen in this colony, not only to retain the large share they now have, but to extend it very materially in the years to come."

In 1901 Canada exported to Newfoundland goods to the value of $2,260,499. In 1905 this sum had increased to $3,473,713; but the last fiscal year shows a decrease to $3,213,439. In 1901 Canada imported from Newfoundland goods to the value of $625,610. This was increased to $1,197,372 in 1903; fell to $1,059,417 in 1905 and rose during the fiscal year of 1906 to $1,758,425.

ORANGES AND THE BOX TRUST.

The cost of boxes to the orange producers of California has been increased by the "box trust" about 30 per cent., and instead of the profits which the growers had looked forward to owing to the favorable outlook for the coming season, they are now face to face with actual loss. The rise in price is especially hard on the independent shippers, as it seems that members of the Exchange will be protected from the increase by early contracts with the box material manufacturers. The Mexican growers, although interested in the affair, are not so deeply concerned as those of California.

To what extent the Canadian market will be affected by the advance is not yet known, but outside of the question of price, it is said that one result may be that the growers will make use of baskets instead of boxes for shipments to the East. This plan is said to have been tried in a number of instances and found feasible. Canada is fortunately in such a position that she is dependent upon no particular market for her orange supply, and all are covered by the same duty, so that if there is trouble in one quarter she has but to draw more heavily on the other producing points.

The California fruit is a favorite in Canadian markets, however, and a very steep increase in price will be necessary to curtail its sale to any appreciable extent.

UNIFORM FREIGHT RATES.

Every year at about this period there is great activity in the warehouses of wholesale establishments, due largely to the general desire to make as many shipments as possible before the close of navigation. There are numerous lake and river ports which are more easily and speedily reached by water than by rail; some of which can only be reached conveniently by water. Transportation by rail is made difficult by the lack of sufficient freight cars. The principal cause of the unwonted shipping activity however, is that on the 15th November winter freight rates come into force on the railways and are considerably higher than the summer freight rates.

Why should there be a difference in the rates for the two seasons? Certainly with conditions such as they are to-day one would not think it necessary that there should be any difference. True, the railway companies may have greater difficulties to contend with from fall to spring, but they don't justify an advance of 20 per cent. to 25 per cent.

The practice is an old one and conditions are greatly changed since it was inaugurated. Business men do not feel that they are being fairly dealt with by the railways.

JAPAN EATING BREAD.

Japan is at last beginning to receive the attention due her as an objective point for the export of Canadian flour. The Japanese are rapidly adopting the use of wheat and flour in the place of an exclusive rice diet, and the United States has so far reaped the greatest benefits from the change. In 1905 the exports of wheat from that country to the port of Kobe, Japan, were valued at $343,301, while the nearest competitor was Australia, with shipments approximating $212,628. Canada's share of the trade figures in the reports as nil. Imports of flour from the United States for 1905 amounted to nearly two million dollars, while Canada's were valued at $39,948.

Mr. Alexander MacLean, Canadian Commercial Agent in Yokohama, has been urging that greater attention be paid the Japanese field by Canadian producers, and Earl Grey, on his recent Western tour, spoke on the same lines.

The Japanese demand for flour is chiefly confined to the lower grades, (mainly) because the use of flour is making the greatest strides among the poorer classes of the country, they having found that the quality of wheat mixed with rice is not only more strengthening, but cheaper than rice alone. A large quantity is also used for making paste in the manufacturing of screens, fans, kites and similar articles.

A report from the United States Consul at Kobe, states that Japanese imports of rice are falling off to a marked extent, and that the heavy tariff now imposed will further lessen these, while it will increase the consumption of bread.

If the poorer grades of wheat and flour have found such favor among the poorer classes of the country, there is no reason why the better grades should not find an equally good place among the better classes. The opportunity is Canada's if she wishes to take advantage of it. One step in the right direction was the recent incorporation of a milling concern in British Columbia, having as its main object, the exportation of flour to Japan and South America. There is room for the example to be followed by many more.

THE HURRY WAS IN LONDON.

In our issue of October 26th, we drew attention to the fact that the report of the Canadian High Commissioners in London, dated March 31st, appeared in the "Weekly Report" of the Department of Trade and Commerce, dated October 22nd.

The editor of the "Report" responds with the following "Special Notice" on an otherwise blank page. We cannot, in a notice to our readers, return the courtesy in space, but we have pleasure in publishing the explanation, which removes the onus in the esteemed High Commissioner's office, for unlawful speed in transmitting the report:

"Certain criticism having been directed in the press to the apparent delay upon the part of this department in publishing the Canadian High Commissioner's Report from London, Eng., dated March 31st, 1906, which appeared in Weekly No. 143 of October 22nd, the department desires to make it known that the report was received at the department on October 8th, too late for the edition of the Weekly issued on the 15th of that month, as four commercial agents' reports previously received, were prepared for that issue, consequently the High Commissioner's Report was published the following week, namely, in No. 143, of October 22nd."

THE PEDLER.

"I am well pleased with The Canadian Grocer," writes a Western Ontario subscriber. "Think you could do some good by stirring up a movement to raise the license on pedlers. They are hurting the country stores and doing the people no good, as their prices are high, but people will buy of any pedler."

The pedler is a nuisance. Everyone will agree with that except the pedler. He makes a living in a dozen municipalities and pays taxes in only one, probably a very small amount at that. The storekeeper pays heavy taxes in one municipality and his trade is confined within a narrow area why should the itinerant trader be allowed to demoralize the business of the settled merchant? Municipal councils everywhere should look to it that their merchants are protected from unfair competition.

On the other hand it is up to the merchants to make a fight for their trade. They can do it and win out. They can push their tea trade by judicious advertising and good salesmanship. It isn't manly or businesslike where opposition comes to simply stand aside and let the opposition have its way.

The merchants should press the fight in the first direction; get together and persuade the council to impose upon pedlers such a license as will conserve the interests of the local merchants.

WHAT CASH DISCOUNTS REPRESENT.

The margin between buying for cash and accepting the full credit terms represents to many a merchant an amount with which he could be well satisfied without figuring on any further net profit from his business. How, in view of this, the importance of cash discounts can be overlooked is amazing. One does not have far to seek to see evidences of their great potency as an element in successful modern merchandizing. Take the big departmental stores, for instance, which are taking away by their mail order system a great deal of trade from the country merchants. Cash discounts represent the greater part—and in some cases all—of their net profit. That is how they are able to make prices which attract readily, and emulation of their policy in this respect is the first step that the small dealer must take in placing his business on such a basis that the people of his district will prefer patronizing the home market to sending abroad. Competition at the present day is so keen that the man who would attain success must figure close and hard, and pass by no short cut that presents itself. There is none that will curtail the distance which he must travel more than that to which access is gained by way of cash discounts.

In the majority of cases it will pay the merchant to borrow money from the bank for the purpose of discounting his bills. It is easy for him to figure out how he is going to profit handsomely by doing this.

From merchants at various points we learn that the trend of trade is more and more toward a cash basis. The public has plenty of money and, generally speaking, asks for credit as little as possible. This is a satisfactory condition that should be nursed into greater proportions each year, until the straight cash business is made possible. To reach this goal should be the ambition of every merchant.

NOT BEER—TEA.

Beer, the ancient staple of the British people, is rapidly losing its place as an article of necessity to the daily life of the country. Great Britain is already one of the world's greatest tea-drinking nations, yet recent statistics show such an increase in the imports of tea for home consumption, and such an enormous decrease in the consumption of beer, that it is now asserted that the Briton is changing his national beverage from beer to tea.

A consular report states that "English journals draw as a deduction from these figures that the habits of their people are improving." Certainly from the tea dealers' point of view their habits are improving, and it is to be presumed that temperance advocates will shout in triumph over the regeneration of a people apparently lost in vice. But what of the authorities who affirm that the health of the tea-drinker is infallibly undermined and eventually ruined by the continued use of the cup that cheers but not inebriates? Are they to be expected to sit idly by and witness the British people sliding into national insanity or other awful doom? There must be some who will awake to the possibilities of an event like this—some who will safeguard the nation in this hour of peril.

If the consumption of alcoholic beverages is now so near extinction, where then is the raison d'etre of the Women's Christian Temperance Union and other kindred organizations? Why continue their allegiance and confine their attention to a cause which is dead? Why will not they seek for new worlds to conquer, and become the saviours of the nation by the institution of a Society for the Prevention of Tea-Drinking throughout the British Empire?

Mr. Alexander McLean, Canadian commercial agent in Japan, according to an Ottawa despatch, thinks that Canadian firms should have representatives in Japan if they wish to witness an increase in their business with the Japanese. In effect, Mr. McLean says that it is hardly likely that Canadian houses will notice any large increase in their trade with the Orient unless they send agents there to represent them.

Markets and Market Notes

QUEBEC MARKETS.

POINTERS—

Fish—Revised.

Maple Products—Advanced.

Evaporated Apples—Advanced.

Montreal, Nov. 15, 1906.

Jobbers report an active trade in general grocery lines. The market this week does not present anything particularly new of interest. Sugar remains about steady under the recent decline, business transacted in this line being fair to good. In canned goods nothing new has transpired. In teas, green particularly Ceylon and Indian, are reported very strong, while low grade blacks are higher. A little more enquiry for molasses is noticeable. In dried fruits, the feature of the week is the arrival of the second and last steamer direct from the primary markets. This is the Jacona which brought a cargo of assorted goods. Currants have been again advanced. In spices there is a firmer tendency in the market. Coffees are moving out slowly in some quarters, but in other sections a good trade is passing. Evaporated apples are higher again this week.

CANNED GOODS.—In canned goods the situation is absolutely without feature. Nothing new has transpired. Grocers who have not yet received their orders in full should soon be quite stocked. The shortage of strawberries is being felt in some sections. There is nothing new in tomatoes, nor in corn or peas. Fair trade is passing in these lines, but the size of any orders received is not large, owing to the fact that grocers have but recently received these goods for which they placed their order a few months back.

SUGAR.—Sugar is about steady at prices quoted. Beets were a little lower the beginning of the week, but the raw markets have been up one day and down the other, so that the situation is not materially effected. Fair trade is passing.

TEA.—China greens, but particularly Ceylon and Indian greens are reported exceptionally strong. The market is almost bare of Ceylon green, Hysons, for which there is a large demand. All low grade blacks are higher. Ceylon Pekoe Souchongs and Orange Pekoes have been advanced fully a penny a pound in London and Colombo during the past two weeks.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.—The market continues interesting. Most lines quoted are still upward in tendency. In California, the market for seeded raisins is now fully 50 per cent. higher that at the time of opening. It is currently reported that more raisins were sold than were grown. Evidently too much faith was placed in the first estimates of the crop, which, as events proved, were far too high. In some quarters to-day the crop is said to be as high as 60,000 tons, with a probability of being from 10,000 to 15,000 tons short of this figure. About the only California article now left to be sold is the prune. The market is firm at present, especially for forward shipments. Valencia raisins are rather easier in tone. Spot stocks are very light. Orders to arrive are being booked at prices slightly lower than now ruling. The second and last direct steamer, the Jacona, has arrived in Montreal, with a good cargo, which will be the means of filling numerous orders. Currants are again higher, the price having been advanced 1-2c.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS.—

Dried fruits—Continue to advance.

Valencia raisins and currants—Scarce on spot.

Butter—Advanced.

All canned goods firm.

Red clover, fancy—Advanced.

Toronto, Nov. 15, 1906.

Business in all lines of seasonable food stuffs continues brisk, but collections are a little disappointing in some districts, This is largely due to the fact that farmers, from one cause or another, principally because they are short of help and behind with their Fall work, are not marketing their crops.

Locally, dried fruits continue to advance. Sugar seems to be steadier. The canned goods situation is very firm. But this seems true of all food stuffs.

CANNED GOODS.—The tomato situation is very interesting. Wholesalers report that already the consumptive demand, especially north and west, is heavy. The Canadian canners filled only 80 or 85 per cent. of their orders, and they do not seem to have been much heavier than last year. The issue now turns upon the pack of the other canners. A pretty careful estimate is that the total pack is a little larger than last year. Some of the outside canners who can afford to, are holding their stocks for better prices, and there have been sales at prices in advance of present quotations. Some wholesalers look for an advance after Christmas.

TEA.—Latest mail advices from London indicate that the market for Indians is heavy, and for Ceylons slower and animated. Locally prices are firm.

COFFEE.—The market is very quiet, and locally without feature.

SUGAR.—The raw market is very quiet, with a tendency to steadiness. Reports of the European beet crop are all favorable, and the same is true of the American beet crop. Prices of refined are unchanged.

N. B. MARKETS.

St. John, N.B., November 12th, 1906.

Dealers are extremely busy, particularly the wholesale grocer. His great difficulty is to get the goods he has bought, with which to fill his orders. The railways seem to be tied up. There is great delay even between here and Montreal. Perhaps the greatest difficulty is in the case of California dried fruits, while one car came through in nineteen days, many cars are a month on the way. Considering the conditions in California, shipments have been made promptly, except in the case of carton prunes, the outlook is these will be very late, owing to the difficulty in getting the cartons. Another difficulty the wholesaler meets, is in getting cars for outward shipments.

In the markets, raisins and currants are higher, and in short supply. Spices, particularly Jamaica ginger, hold at full values. Cream of tartar rather higher. Rice firmly held.

OIL.—It is all rush in burning oil, dealers trying to get orders filled before close of navigation. Prices unchanged. A fair, steady sale for lubricating oils. Gasoline continues a fair demand, while in both these lines this is the quiet season, still there are openings for business now that there are not in the summer. Paint oil quiet, with firm prices ruling. Cod oil in fair receipt.

SALT. — Quite full stocks held in Liverpool coarse salt. Prices are firm Owing to the high freights charged by the Winter port boats receipts, at least for some time, will be small. In fine salt, business is quiet.

CANNED GOODS. — Vegetables, which are the big line, are very firmly held. Corn, and particularly tomatoes, rather light supply, that is looking forward for the whole season. In fruits, full values asked. Strawberries, which have a good sale here, are high. Spring salmon continue to be received. This line particularly controls the market. Full values rule. Lobsters extreme. New oysters quoted, prices are high. One result of the agitation in American canned meats is that such lines as potted ham are offered in two grades. Canned meats are firm. In domestic fish, business is rather dull.

GREEN FRUIT. — In apples, best stock brings full figures. Oranges continue ruling at full figures. Jamaicas quite reasonable. Lemons, while lower, are still high. Stock offered is good. Sale of bananas beginning to drop off. Grape fruit is becoming more popular. Some particularly nice Bahama stock offered. Bahama oranges also being pushed. Cranberries higher. Cape Cods about out of the market. Season ir Canadian grapes about over. Nice Malaga stock offered.

DRIED FRUIT.—Dealers find it difficult to keep track of the market. Market is almost bare of raisins. The few Velancias brought have been sold and no more to arrive. There is a fair stock of Malaga layer, though small boxes are short. There are no Malaga loose. About two cars new Californias have yet been received, and in loose none to hand, and the quantity bought not large. Prices in all raisins higher, and market very firm. Currants are also short and fill all. Prices are high. But one car prunes yet here. The prunes in cartons are proving a taking line, only a very few here and further supplies will be late. Dates and figs are firm. Peels are high, stock not large. Evaporated apples higher. In onions a full supply.

SUGAR.—While market is unchanged. The situation is not a strong one, it affects sales.

MOLASSES.—There are fair stocks, except perhaps in fancy Barbadoes. In this line higher prices asked. The quantity of Port Rico imported this year was not as large as usual.

FISH.—In fresh fish business is light. Supplies have been short. This has caused a firmer price in finnan haddies, Dry cod, while ruling at quite high prices, are not so firmly held. Supplies have been coming to hand quite freely. Pickled herring are easy. Smoked, while light supply, have but limited demand.

WESTERN ASSOCIATION NEWS

"The Canadian Grocer" the Official Organ.

Address all communications for this department to THE CANADIAN GROCER, 511 Union Bank Building, Winnipeg, Man.

Winnipeg merchants are alive to the advantages to be derived by united action through their Association, and last week a deputation representing all branches of the retail trade, waited on the City Council to explain their grievances in relation to the removal of garbage. The deputation consisted of S. J. Rothwell, Horace Chevier, M.L.A., A. G. Lowman, Thornton Andrews, J. E. Thomas, Norman Lindsay, C. L. Chavest, J. A. Parks and T. E. McRobie. While the grocers and the butchers were the classes most interested, this deputation included representatives from the hardware dealers, clothiers, druggists and musical instrument dealers as well.

Their request was that garbage should be removed from stores by the city as it is done from private houses. The trade are willing to pay a special tax to have this work done by the city, as they complain that they cannot get satisfactory work from the carters and scavengers. Under the present system they cannot prevent the frequent delays of which the health department complain, and they are, moreover, compelled to pay ruinously high prices for this unsatisfactory service.

The civic health committee of the Council promised to give serious consideration to the representations of this deputation.

Mr. Coulson has sent out a circular letter to delinquent members of the Association calling their attention to the fact that their dues for this year have not been paid. No doubt many dealers in the country are as yet unable to see any direct pecuniary benefits from their membership in the Association, but they should remember that time is required to work the miracles which some members seem to expect. Since the Association was organized less than two years ago, it has gained recognition by wholesalers and manufacturers as a representative body of retailers, and it has been able to deal effectively with complaints about selling to consumers and similar grievances. It is surely worth very much to the retailers to have an organization prepared to speak for them in negotiations with other branches of the trade.

Members are not taking advantage as they should of the Association plan for the collection of overdue accounts. Winnipeg dealers have been using the Association collection forms for months past with the very best success, and the plan works as well in the country as in the city. It is the best system yet devised for the collection of slow accounts without antagonizing the trade unduly.

MANITOBA MARKETS

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 15, 1906.)

Christmas grocery trade is now in full swing, and the local jobbing houses are very busy. As an instance of the volume of trade done by the Winnipeg wholesale houses, it might be mentioned that about a month ago, one local house had orders on file for 40 cars of straight groceries.

Values are steady in most lines quoted below, but there is a steadily upward tendency in the foreign dried fruit markets. Evaporated apples are also advancing.

CANNED GOODS. — The feature of the canned goods market is the scarcity of cohoe salmon. Local supplies are almost exhausted, and it is doubtful whether any more can be obtained. We quote:—

A DOUBLE PROFIT

Royal Baking Powder Pays a Greater Profit to the Grocer Than any Other Baking Powder He Sells.

Profit means real money in the bank. It does not mean "percentage," which may represent very little actual money. A grocer often has the chance to sell either:

1. A baking powder for 45c. a pound and make a profit of 5c. or 6c., or,
2. A baking powder for 10c. a pound and make "20 per cent profit," which means only 2c. actual money. Which choice should you take?

Royal Baking Powder makes the customer satisfied and pleased, not only with the baking powder, but also with the flour, butter, eggs, etc., which the grocer sells.

This satisfaction of the customer is the foundation of the best and surest profit in business—it is permanent. Do not take the risk of selling a cheap alum baking powder; some day the customer may find out about the alum, and then your best profit in the customer's confidence is gone.

Royal Baking Powder pays greater profits to the grocer than any other baking powder he sells.

TRADE IN TIN CAN GOODS DEAD

The prejudice against goods packed in tin is becoming so marked that the Packer is being forced to the conclusion that he must do away with this style of package or the reputation of his goods will surely go down a peg in the estimation of the buying public. Dealers, who were the first to realize this fact (coming into direct contact with the Consumer) are continually expressing the view that the time has come when all articles of food such as Lard, Jam, Butter, Syrup, Candy, Mince Meat, Pickles, Biscuits, etc., etc., must be put up in wood packages such as

CANE'S NEWMARKET WOODENWARE

"THE STANDARD GOODS IN CANADA."

They are greatly superior to the "tin article"—being made of sweet, clean and natural wood—and are safe containers for foods of every description.

Read the following extract from a leading daily paper:

"The trade in tin can goods is dead! The agitation on the subject has affected everything that goes into a tin. Fruit, meat, vegetables, fish—everything." Such was the statement made the other day by the managing director of a firm largely interested in tinned goods. The imports of tinned meats to the Albert Docks, London, from Boston and New Orleans for the months of June and July in 1905, as compared with those for the same months this year are eloquent. Here they are:—

June, 1905 - - -	27,000 cases.
June, 1906 - - -	4,000 cases.
July, 1905 - - -	24,000 cases.
July, 1906—To date -	Nil.

cents by the case. Guaranteed fresh eggs sell at 40 to 45 cents in the green market. Cheese is steady at 14 cents. The jobbers here are anticipating another decline in the price of sugar. California raisins are quoted here at 9 to 9 1-2 cents, and Velencia layers at 10 cents. New figs in ten pound boxes are quoted at 9 cents. The Dominion Molasses Company has advanced the price of Fancy Barbadoes two cents per gallon. The jobbing prices are: Puncheons, 30c to 31c; 40 gallon barrels, 33c to 34c; 25 gallons, 36c to 37c. Lard is quoted at 13 1-2c to 13 1-4c.

FISH.—Newfoundland fish buyers are invading the Nova Scotia fish markets, and they are buying up all the available dry codfish. Robert Moulton, a prominent fish dealer of Burges, Newfoundland, has been in Lunenburg the past week, and he has succeeded in purchasing 12,000 quintals of codfish from W. C. Smith & Co., and Adams & Knickle. The price paid was about $6 per quintal. Some schooners have been chartered to carry the fish direct to Oporto, and the fish are now being weighed off and prepared for loading. It is also stated that Mr. Moulton has purchased 6,000 quintals at Lahave. The good demand for fish in the foreign markets is the cause of this speculative move. There was a slump in the price of mackerel in the Boston market last week, owing to the heavy receipts from Cape Cod. Most of the mackerel taken last week in the western shores of Halifax County, were purchased by Halifax dealers, iced, and shipped direct to Boston, but they brought more than the price paid to the fishermen who caught them. This will cause a temporary setback to the shipments here, until the Boston market shows more strength.

David Churchill, Petrolea, has opened a grocery in his own block, lately occupied by C. R. Polly. Mr. Polly is moving to larger quarters in the Wickett Block .

WINDOW COMPETITION.

The art of decoration and display is in its infancy in the grocery trade of Canada. But it is developing rapidly and more interest is taken in it every year. In this trade science of attractiveness the window is a first consideration. Window dressing is very often the clerk's work, for one man who has natural ability in this direction there are a dozen who may become proficient by an intelligent study of the subject.

The Canadian Grocer desires to encourage interest in window dressing and has instituted a monthly competition with prizes of $5, $3 and $2.

Every grocer or dealer in foodstuffs is eligible. All that is required is to address to the editor of the Canadian Grocer, 10 Front st. east, Toronto, a photograph of the window to be entered for the competition and a description of how it is dressed, naming the articles used, giving the name of the person who dressed the window.

The Wee MacGreegor Company, Toronto agents for Skipper sardines, in their advertisement in this issue lay stress upon the fact that these sardines are entirely different from the ordinary Norwegian sardines, there being an absence of the smoky flavor. They are claimed by connoiseurs to be equal to the finest French fish. The proof of the pudding is in the eating, thereof, and the Wee MacGreegor Company give everyone a chance to test the merits of the goods. Write them for sample, mentioning the Canadian Grocer.

rations and will interest every dealer in border is in fashion, and we wish our answer could reach everybody at once and forever. The use of a border, whether ornamental or simple, is regulated by the character of the room and by the architectural proportions. Borders are always "in fashion." Sometimes a fabric for the wall or for doors or windows is complete without a border, sometimes it needs a border. It is like a picture which requires a frame, simple or ornamental, according to its character. There are occasions when the architectural character of a sidewall with mouldings and cornices eliminates the need for a fabric border on the fabric, but the border is there—it's inwood. The border is the emphasized frame.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN.

The cheese market is at present in a very mixed state, recent country markets show an apparent considerable decline in prices, it must, however, be taken into due consideration, that the quality has now also considerably deteriorated, as present offerings are mostly of November make, which is always more or less faulty in quality.

Most factories are now closed for the season and only those receiving a sufficient quantity of milk, are enabled to make a few cheese, but, owing to feed and weather conditions, the quality of these cheese is naturally inferior to the September and early October make and they should therefore not be classed in price or value with the better quality of goods made previously.

Our supplies at present consist of three distinct qualities, viz : September and early October make, late October make, and November make, and each of these are quoted differently, however, current receipts being the lowest priced cheese, have more or less influence on the market quotations as the better grades are at the moment neglected, and only when the lower priced goods are cleared off the market and a new demand for "finest quality" comes on, will we again see higher quotations.

The statistical position is as strong as ever, our stocks in Canada are very light as compared with previous years, but meanwhile, the visible supplies in Great Britain are considerable and some of the large houses there seem to hope, that they may be able to shake out some of the weaker holders and get possession of their goods by taking up maturing drafts, this is a game of "the big fish eating the little ones," it does, however, not affect the real situation in the long run.

Receipts in Montreal were last week 58,857 boxes of cheese and 7,002 packages of butter, against 66,849 boxes of cheese and 10,920 packages of butter for the same week of last year, or a total since May 1st of 2,229,325 boxes of cheese and 567,662 packages of butter, as compared with 2,190,998 boxes of cheese and 725,383 packages of butter for the corresponding period of last year.

Our exports were last week 55,083 boxes of cheese and 482 packages of butter, against 41,703 boxes of cheese and 774 packages of butter for the same week of last year, or a total since May 1st of 2,105,662 boxes of cheese and 360,418 packages of butter as compared with 1,999,496 boxes of cheese and 550,371 packages of butter for the corresponding period of last year.

These figures show an increase in the receipts of cheese of 38,327 boxes and an increase in the shipments of 106,166 boxes, leaving a decrease in the stocks of cheese in Montreal of 67,839 boxes as compared with the same date of last year, but stocks at country points are so very much less this year, that it is a safe assertion, that our stocks in Canada are 150,000 to 200,000 boxes less than a year ago.

In butter we find a decrease of 157,721 packages in the receipts and a decrease in the shipments of 189,953 packages, which would leave an apparent surplus of 32,232 packages in our stocks at present as compared with the same date of last year.

But butter is different from cheese, the latter is ruled by the exports, or by the demand from Great Britain, while the former is more or less dependent on the home consumption. We have in previous articles given our opinion, that butter has this season been largely shipped into Montreal and that other consuming points in the Dominion of Canada were cut short in their supplies in consequence.

Recent developments have fully confirmed this theory instead of larger supplies of butter on the Montreal market, we are actually short of local requirements and late country markets all showed a substantial advance in prices, caused largely by outside orders from western and country towns. Quite a lot of butter, both dairy and creamery, was sold to Toronto and other inland towns, both dairy and creamery butter was brought back from England and sold here at a profit to go West, all of which shows a shortage of supplies in places outside of Montreal and the situation seems therefore quite healthy, at any rate, we are now quite independent of the export trade and will need our supplies for the home consumption.

OUR OLD COUNTRY LETTER.

88 Fleet Street, Lond n, E.C

November 3rd, 1906.

Supplies of Canadian cheese continue to come to hand in large quantities, but the demand is so poor as to make the volume of trade transacted on the spot very small. Buyers are showing no great desire to come in and buy. Even when they do come along, sellers, despite the general dullness of business, are not over hasty in making concessions. Probably they are bearing in mind the fact that future supplies from Canada cannot continue on the same scale as at present, and are keeping supplies in warehouse against future requirements. Judging from the half-hearted manner buyers have been making purchases for some while past, one cannot help thinking that they have been adopting a hand-to-mouth policy, and that their supplies on hand are small. In this case, sellers are wise in declining lower prices. As might be expected, cable advices from Canada are tending upwards. Spot quotations range from 62s. to 64s. The quality of Canadian cheese on arrival is, taken altogether, good, but one or two retailers say that by the time it reaches them it shows signs of staleness. This, of course, Canadians cannot prevent. It is the result of speculation over here.

Although the demand for butter has been better during the past few days, the demand for Canadian has shown little improvement. For choicest parcels sellers are endeavoring to make 114s., but the response is far from good. Supplies, however, are not large. Fair quantities of Australian, as well as of Siberian, are on hand, and these suffice to keep things going. Choicest Siberian makes 104s., with lower grades fetching anything from 94s. to 98s. This second grade butter is not clearing very fast. Siberian butter is very popular on this market, and it is wonderful what strides this industry has made within the past few years. Australian butter of choicest description is making 114s., with occasionally 116s. This is the new season's product.

Canadian bacon is in an unhappy way at the moment. Trade in Continental bacon has fallen off during the week, and this has had an adverse effect upon the market generally just at a moment when stocks of Canadian were beginning to accumulate. Prices have dropped something like 8s.

PROVISION SITUATION.

The Old Country market is not attractive to the Canadian Packer. Bacon selling there now at 54s cost 58s or 60s. Then the Christmastide is approaching when the British public expects something other than pork. The largest Canadian exporter sends forward normally 1,000 to 1,200 boxes of bacon a week and in anticipation of Christmas the cure for the week after next will be cut to 500 and for the next month the same.

The packers will turn their attention to the domestic trade and put away some stock for the early spring trade.

Farmers have not taken kindly to the decline in the price of live hogs, but they are coming to see that just before Christmas is not the time they can hold with any hope of a rise. Last week deliveries were a little below normal and Montreal got most of them. This week indications are that deliveries will be freer. Prices are down to a basis of $5.40 to $5.50 f.o.b. country points. One large packer quoted $5.30 to $5.35 and another $5.50 to $5.75. Stocks of domestic products are not very large yet and demand is very good for the time of the year.

A winding-up order has been granted by the courts in Montreal in the case of the Colonial Creamery Company, of that city. The company has branches in Quebec and Sherbrooke, but the plant in Quebec is the only one running now. It is said that lack of capital caused the trouble, the company being but a young one. The stock is placed at $20,000.

EGG-O-SEE TO MOVE.

After January 1, the Egg-O-See Company, with offices now in Quincey, Ill., will remove all of its office force to Chicago, and the officers of the company will also remove their homes to that city. The company has leased for a a long term of years the entire eighth floor of the American Trust Building, said to be the finest office building in Chicago.

J. W. Cassidy, president; J. E. Linihan, general manager, and L. D. Wallace, jr., assistant to the general manager, are now preparing to send their families to Chicago.

JAPAN'S RICE CROP.

The Canadian Commercial Agent in Japan, writing of the rice crop, says:

"According to reports from different sources, the rice crop of Japan for the coming autumn promises to be abundant, or at least to be much more so than that of last autumn. Farmers in the eastern provinces are expecting a record crop over recent years. The weather has been comparatively favorable ever since the rice was planted. The locusts this year have not been destructive; the plants have attained more than satisfactory growth on the whole; and but for heavy storms in the future, the crop will be a record one. There are, of course, some exceptions where disastrous floods were experienced some time ago, and rice fields extending to thousands of acres were completely ruined. These exceptional cases are, however, insignificant when compared with the area under cultivation, and will be fully made up by the abundance of the crop in the rice-growing provinces generally."

HE CERTAINLY WILL.

(The Advertiser, Kentville, N. S.)

W. H. Seyler has been promoted to the management of the Canadian Grocer, Toronto. D. B. Gillies, the former manager, has gone to the Northwest. We hope the new manager will be as good a friend to Nova Scotia as was Mr. Gillies.

J. W. Windsor, Montreal, has returned from a short business trip to Quebec.

DEER HUNTING.

On Thursday night, November 8th, two travelers who cover Eastern Ontario for a Toronto firm, left with a number of kindred spirits for a two weeks deer shooting expedition. They were supposed to be well provided with funds and all the accessories necessary for such an outing, but on Friday night, just 24 hours after they had started, the firm was astonished to receive the following telegram, signed by one of them—"Rush $25.00 care Robertson Bros., Gooderham, Ont. The bunch are already busted. Make sure at once. No fooling."

The firm is wondering what can have happened that their supply of funds should have vanished so suddenly, particularly as there has been no very marked depreciation in the market price of deer.

BUSINESS MEN IN MUNICIPAL LIFE

No. 1.

It is a fact that goes without saying that in every municipality the successful business man is the man best qualified to serve his fellow citizens in municipcipal office. Clear-cut, far-sighted and withal economical business methods are required in the administration of the affairs of a municipality, just as they are required in the management of a store, a warehouse or a factory. The same qualifications which fit a man for success in the management of his own business are required in the administration of civic and municipal affairs.

All this goes without saying, but in many towns and municipalities it is a very difficult matter to persuade business men to offer themselves for election:

MERCHANT MAYOR OF SASKATOON.

they plead that they can't spare the time from their business and that they don't like the turmoil of an election campaign. Nevertheless these are the men best qualified for civic and municipal honors and their services are required. Recognizing the importance of interesting business men in these matters The Canadian Grocer commences in this issue a series of sketches of business men who are serving either as mayor of their town or in some important office in the Board of Trade.

Sasketchewan is the most rapidly growing province in the Dominion and Saskatoon claims to be its most rapidly growing town. Very much of the rapid progress of Saskatoon is due to the efforts of Mayor James Clinkskill, the subject of this sketch.

Mr. Clinkskill is a successful general merchant who has been in Western Canada since the early days of the country. In 1882 he left his native city of Glasgow and commenced business in Prince Albert, and the following year he removed to Battleford where he still has a successful store. In 1899 he opened a branch in what was then the little hamlet of Saskatoon.

Although a busy and successful business man, Mr. Clinkskill has found time for public and municipal affairs. In 1888 he was elected to the Legislature of the N. W. Territories and was a member of that House for ten years.

In December, 1905, Mr. Clinkskill was elected mayor of the town of Saskatoon, and in June last, when the city of Saskatoon was formed by amalgamation with surrounding towns of Riverdale and Nutana, he was elected mayor of the new city . During his term as mayor a progressive policy has been carried out. The council has prepared the new city charter on novel lines making provision for the appointment of city commissioners to conduct the active business of the city. In some measure the organization resembles the Board of Control in Toronto and Winnipeg. A progressive programme of local improvements—waterworks, sewage and electric light—has been inaugurated involving the expenditure of over $300,000; and the approval of the ratepayers has been secured for the establishment of a civic hospital to be built, equipped and maintained by the city. A project is being considered for the purchase of a plant to dispose of garbage along the latest and most scientific lines—following the example of Winnipeg.

Clearly the business man's administration is involving the expenditure of large sums of money, but Saskatoon will be a large city before the close of this decade and the city fathers are wise in planning for the future. When such large expenditures are neecssary, Saskatoon is fortunate in having as mayor a business man of proved ability who will superintend these big expenditures and see that the city gets value for its money.

HAMILTON GROCERS.

Address by Mr. Bristol and Presentation to A. G. Bain.

The feature of the last regular meeting of the Retail Grocers' Association of Hamilton, was an address by George E. Bristol. He gave a splendid talk on reasons why the wholesalers and retailers should work harmoniously together, so that the best results could be obtained not only for both classes of the trade but for the public. He also touched upon the losses which the retail trade is put to on account of bad debts, and to the position the retail grocer holds in respect to the public. All other branches of business can get cash, but the grocer must give credit.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Bristol. It is the intention of the association to have a prominent speaker at each monthly meeting hereafter.

A. G. Bain, who was chairman of the 1906 picnic committee, was given a surprise. On behalf of the association President Smye presented him with a magnificent Morris chair. Congratulatory speeches were made and Mr. Bain replied suitably.

President Wm. Smye, jr., was in the chair.

LEWIS P. MASON ILL.

Lewis P. Mason of Mason & Hickey, Winnipeg, is seriously ill with typhoid fever. While on his regular fall trip through the West, he was taken ill at Medicine Hat, and consequently he will be unable to make the trip as usual. Western dealers who buy from Mason & Hickey, should therefore send in their orders direct to the firm.

GOOD WINDOW DISPLAY

The Newfoundland Window That Won a Diploma in London and the Man Who Did the Work—Window Dressing Notes.

Herewith the Canadian Grocer is pleased to reproduce a photograph of the window which won for F. W. Lake, a clerk in the employ of Hon. G. Knowling, St. Johns, Newfoundland, a diploma from the Grocers' National Exhibition, recently held in London.

Mr. Lake is a Devonshire boy, and served his aprenticeship in Sidwarth.

"Window Dressing," he writes, in answer to an enquiry from Canadian Grocer, "has always been my delight. I can scarcely call it work, as it is a pleasure to me. It is one of the things very much neglected in this country. I suppose because it takes so much time. My opinion is that 'wasting' time over the windows pays the employer. It keeps things fresh for the public view, and we are well aware very few people will take the trouble to look at the same window more than once.

"This year I thought I would try to secure recognition of my work from the Grocery Exhibition in London. You may be sure I am very proud of the diploma awarded me for having the faith to come to this country."

In answer to our enquiry as to his methods of window dressing he wrote:

"I am afraid I can say very little about my method of window dressing. It comes natural to me. I am always careful that all articles are shown to the best advantage, and that there is no overcrowding. I am also careful not to hide stock of any kind, and not even to use stock for building purposes. I am careful also to see that all the leadronto, has not a very ornate, but plain-figures."

WINDOW NOT CROWDED.

Geo. J. Melhuish, 587 Yonge St., To ronto, has a not very ornate, but plainly attractive window this week. He is fortunate in being on a corner and has a wide display space on two streets.

F. W. LAKE, St. Johns, Newfoundland.

There are two large sheets of plate glass in each window.

The Yonge St. window has three separate displays, honey, preserved fruits in glass and a line of cereals. Each display is small and self-contained, but neatly arranged. The window facing the side street contains cereals only. Nowhere does the window trimming rise higher than two feet. Some grocers might think there was not enough in the windows, that space was being wasted. But each display has individuality, is attractive and a change could be easily and quickly effected.

A WINDOW WITHOUT FORM.

In a grocery window of a store doing a large business in a pretty good residential district of Toronto 13 different lines were counted. It was a small window, too, and quite evidently there had been some attempt at artistic display. The result was far from artistic. A passer-by would get the impression of a confused collection of things to eat, suggesting perhaps a table upon which a sideboard had been emptied preparatory to cleaning. Very evidently the grocer was not getting the profit he should out of his window.

A LOT OF LIGHTS.

A British newspaper estimates that the United Kingdom consumes 500,000,000 matches a day, or about 12 for every man, woman and child. Smokers probably account for the greater number. About 90 tons of wood are used up in the form of matches every day, or about 35,000 tons a year. Sweden and Norway export over 25,000 tons of wood in matches every year. In France, where the tax on matches averages 8 cents per inhabitant, the consumption is comparativey small.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Markets are Steady and Nothing Unusual Appears in Price Quotations—Potatoes are a Little Scarce at Toronto—Storms Have Hindered Fish Shipments.

The Toronto cranberry market is still higher this week, while Montreal, being nearer the source of supply, and having also Nova Scotia to draw upon is trading at prices if anything lower than last week. The green fruit market apart from apples is now dependent upon imported varieties for the greater part of its supply

The stormy weather prevailing on the Atlantic coast has led to a shortening of fish supplies which is felt in all markets.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS.—A brisk trade in fruits is passing. Dealers report good demand for all lines. There is an easier feeling in the market this week. Apples are obtainable for prices between $2.50 and $4.75, which are lower than last week's figures. Jamaica oranges are also easier in price, while cranberries are offered at $9 a barrel. The first lot of Mexican oranges arrived this week. The goods are of good quality, and are selling well at $2.65 a box. Figs are selling freely from 8½c. to 13c., and dates are one cent higher than they were last week.

VEGETABLES.—There is but a fair trade passing in vegetables these days. Prices remain very steady, there not being much going on which would tend to change quotations. Potatoes are now selling from 75c. to 85c. Owing to the fact that the potatoes offering are not all ripe there seems to be a fear on the part of grocers to order very heavily, and as a consequence all the trade being done is for goods required for immediate consumption. The Green Mountain potatoes, which are very much favored locally, are now about finished.

FISH.—With the coming of the cooler weather fish dealers are beginning to turn over increased business, last week being a particularly good one to illustrate this. Lake trout are now off the market. Haddock and cod arrivals are not large, the catch being limited owing to continued stormy weather. Quite a few lots of fresh frozen fish have been received from the west, and these are now beginning to be a feature on the market. Haddies are still scarce, this being due to the fact that fresh haddock, from which they are cured, are not obtainable in desirable quantities. New smoked herring are now quoted, while kippers and bloaters are in good supply. There is a good demand for salt herring, the price of which is firm. Green cod is scarce, and prices may advance any day. Oyster, bulk, are arriving in good quantities, but the shell are not so plentiful. The fishing season in Prince Edward Island is nearly finished.

EXPRESS TARIFF TOO HIGH.

For Inter-provincial Trade, Says W. S. Loggie of Chatham, N.B.

W. S. Loggie, M.P., of Chatham. N.B., head of firm of W. S. Loggie & Co., fish and fruit canners, was in Toronto Saturday, en route to Winnipeg, whence he will return in time for the opening of Parliament.

No one is better qualified to speak of the fishing industry of the Eastern Province than Mr. Loggie. To a reporter, regarding the inter-provincial trade in fish, he said:—

"Shipments of fresh fish to Ontario are practically prohibited by the tariff of the express companies, he states, and imports from New England to Ontario were subject to a customs duty. He thought the express companies could afford to lower their rates, and also that Toronto should have a large general freezing establishment such as already exists in London and Ottawa.

The lobster pack this year, Mr. Loggie said, was an average one, and prices were well maintained. The canned lobsters were exported chiefly to the United Kingdom, France, Germany and Denmark. The salmon catch was good this year, and prices in Great Britain, which took the most of them, were higher than usual. Prices in Boston, however, were poor, the market being over-stocked.

SUGAR vs. GLUCOSE

Dishonest Jam and Jelly makers don't depart from legitimate standards for any other reason than to make more money.

They don't care a rap for you, your customers, your future, your bank account. Glucose is used by such makers to take the place of granulated sugar and thereby reduce the cost of manufacture.

None of my Cigars ever come in for the Tight-Rolling that makes the draw hard, nor the Loose-Rolling that makes them burn badly

My "Pebble" and "Pharaoh"—in fact, all my cigars—get the perfect roll, right amount of filler, properly protected by the binder, properly finished with the wrapper.

You may not be acquainted with these facts, but smokers certainly are; and, of course, you know Mr. Smoker is the doctor.

"Pebble" and "Pharaoh" suit the final party, therefore, they should be sold by the middle party —you.

"500" offer—don't forget it still stands good.

DO

Smokers buy all their tobacco from cigar stores? Not they!

The Grocer comes in for a good share by reason of the fact he is handy to get at and—two birds can be killed with one stone: the grocery order given in and the tobacco bought at the same time.

HERE AND THERE WITH THE TRADE.

B. O. Beland, importer of wines, etc., Montreal, has sold to the H. L. Boisseau Co.

M. J. Parks has purchased the general store of the late L. B. Currie, West Dublin, N.S.

There has been an advance of ¼c. in nitrate of soda and indications point to still higher prices.

Castile soap has been advanced from ½c. to ¾c. a lb., owing to the high prices now being asked for oils.

J. W. McLeod & Co., general merchants, Denmark, N.S., have been succeeded by McLeod & McLean.

The assets of Lucien Levesque, general merchant, Lake Megantic, were advertised to be sold on December 8th.

Ernest Lizotte and Joseph G. Guilbeault, Grand Mere, Que., have registered as Lizotte & Guilbeault, grocers.

J. T. Irwin has purchased the general store business at Port Morien, N.S., formerly carried on by C. A. McAskill.

Harris & Barnes have opened a general store in Disley, Ont., in the building formerly occupied by Mr. Mahony.

Walker, Reid & Holmes, of Edmonton, are building an addition to their store in preparation for the Christmas trade.

The general store business of J. W. Webb, Bridgewater, N.S., has been transferred to a limited liability company under the style of the J. W. Webb Co., Limited.

C. A. McGrath, who conducted a grocery business in the north end of Halifax, has closed out his business, and has taken a position with Davis & Burton, grocers, of that city.

An exposition of Canadian made products is being held in Hamilton's Departmental store, Montreal, this week. Several of the largest manufacturing houses in Canada are represented.

Fred. J. Clarke, who some time ago bought out the grocery business of J. L. Archibald & Sons, Halifax, has registered the co-partnership of J. L. Archibald & Co., being himself sole partner.

Michael S. Hocken, general merchant, a prominent citizen of Chatham, N.B., and closely identified with the muncipal affairs of that town, was stricken with paralysis and died suddenly a couple of weeks ago.

William H. Dunn, 396 St. Paul St., Montreal, has been appointed sole agent, for the province of Quebec for Gillard's Pickles. Gillard & Co., of London, conduct one of the largest pickle establishments in the British Empire.

J. R. Goring, Welland Port, has taken the store formerly occupied by R. J. Gracey, and will install a general stock. He has also the post-office. This stand Mr. Goring formerly occupied a goodly number of years, and his host of friends wish him continued prosperity.

The Wee MacGreegor Co., Toronto, have opened another branch store at 89 Bank street, Ottawa. They demonstrate their methods of making oat cakes and scones on the premises, and judging by the way the business is increasing, the public seem to have caught on and made up their mind it's a good thing.

Proposed changes in the system of measurement of lobsters, to determine the minimum length to which they must attain before being offered for sale, are meeting with vigorous opposition on the part of Maine fishermen. who claim that further restriction would mean ruin, owing to the scarcity of lobsters, which comply with even the present requirements.

W. T. Merrick, Toronto, manager for Rose & Laflamme, Montreal, has removed his office from Room 501, Board of Trade Building, to more convenient and commodious quarters at Room 510 in the same building. Among their long list of agencies, Rose & Laflamme include H. Goodwillie & Son's fruits in glass, and Mr. Merrick says the sales this year have been phenomenal. In fact they for the first time found themselves oversold.

"Campbellcroft," said a traveler to The Canadian Grocer representative this week, "is one of the few places in Ontario that hasn't and ought to have a bank. There's more business transacted than in many places where there are banks. A stockman told him the other day he had paid out there in a year $100,000. The place has a flour-mill and sawmill and there is a large trade in grain, fruit and cheese. A local capitalist is prepared to put up a building for a bank if one would go in."

WALL PAPER

THE Canadian wall paper trade is in good condition. Manufacturers were busy last month filling orders to be shipped by boat. Export trade, though small, is growing, and each year sees a larger number of orders to be shipped before the close of navigation. Some factories have been working overtime to have these orders filled.

The fine landscape borders which were brought out last Spring have proven to be good sellers, and have amply repaid manufacturers for their enterprise. The heavier class of paper has sold a trifle better this year, and there has been a satisfactory demand for higher qualities.

Sanitary papers have sold exceedingly well, and larger orders have been placed than in previous years. It is noticed that these papers are of better design than usual, and that the process by which they are made washable has been improved.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS.

DURING the month of August, last, Canada imported 40,712 rolls of wall paper from the United States, 5,583 rolls from Great Britain and 212 rolls from other sources. The value of these importations were $4,298, $1,346 and $42 respectively. During the same month she exported 134 rolls of the value of $19 to Great Britain, 200 rolls valued at $16 to the United States, 100 rolls valued at $10 to Newfoundland and 3,547 rolls, valued at $522 to other countries.

The import figures are somewhat less than those for August 1905, when we imported a total of 56,609 rolls, as against 46,507 rolls this August. The export figures fall very short of those for 1905, which gave a total of 71,152 rolls as against only 3,981 this year. This can be accounted for from the fact that Newfoundland got in her full supply during the month of August last year and only a small portion of it during August this year.

A LINE OFTEN NEGLECTED.

IN the majority of smaller general stores throughout the country there is great need of improvement in the mode of handling wall paper. Too often the department is stocked without mature thought, and the display of attractive lines and the cultivation of appropriate policy in salesmanship are neglected. If the papers are simply piled up on the shelves with no attractive feature visible but the common little sample cards, how can the best results be secured? Couple this condition with the offices of a clerk who will automatically and without appreciative enthusiasm pull down and show the different papers, and put them back again without saying anything stronger or more impressive than "Now, here's a pretty thing," or "How does that suit you."

It is seldom a difficult undertaking to put new life into the wall paper department. After the stock is in classify it according to the different uses for which you will recommend it, and then infuse the proper spirit into the clerk in charge. Do not be backward about making displays and changing them often. You need not attempt any elaborate arrangement in these; what you want primarily is to have the most effective colors and patterns in your line taken from the shelves, and placed so that they can get a chance to attract.

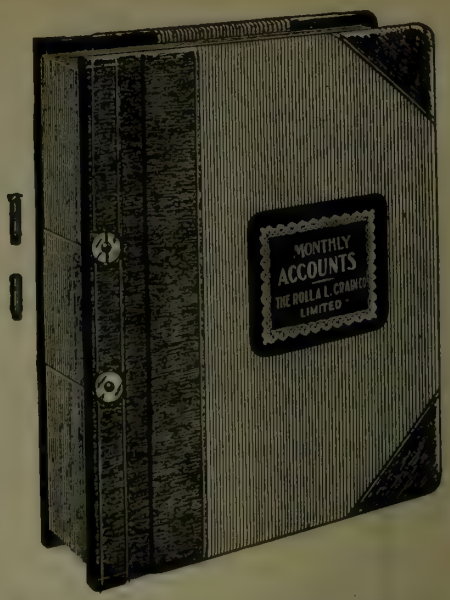
The Crain Monthly Account System



$17.75 is the price we have always charged for this excellent system for the retail trade.

It Cannot Be Purchased Cheaper

that is in the 14 x 11 size. True, the Monthly Account System is being quoted cheaper. We can supply you with a complete outfit for $14.75 in our 8½ x 11 size, but we do not recommend it as it is more expensive in the long run to the merchant, and it is not as easily handled. The sheet being short only accommodates one account, while with the 14 x 11 size you can have three accounts to sheet.

When purchasing a Monthly Account outfit consider first the size of the sheet, then the cost of supplies. In the first cost of putting in a system a couple of dollars should not be considered. In an 8½ x 11 size one thousand billheads; in the 14 x 11 size, assorted one, two and three accounts to the sheet, you get from two to three thousand billheads.

STRIKING SNAGS

One of the greatest perils in navigating the western rivers lies in the danger of striking "snags."

A snag often upsets all the calculations of captain and crew.

Just so with a poor lot of coffee in a grocery store. It is a commercial snag. While it may not completely wreck your business, it does great damage.

The grocer who pins his faith to WOOD'S COFFEES always has plain sailing.

WARNING!

Crescent BM&Co. TRADE MARK. Brand

SODA-CRYSTALS (WASHING SODA)

Foreign Soda Crystals—and some of English manufacture—are being extensively offered for sale in this country which are grossly adulterated with Glauber-Salts (Sulphate of Soda), a cheap product which is not only entirely useless for washing purposes, but is even likely to injure the fabrics with which it comes in contact. The Adulterated Soda-Crystals, although nominally lower in price than BRUNNER MOND'S PURE SODA CRYSTALS, are in reality much dearer owing to the large quantity of useless and injurious matter which they contain.

A PROMINENT GROCER recently said to a Wethey representative,—

"When I think of MINCE MEAT the name WETHEY immediately comes to my mind. I cannot think of one without the other. I have handled the line for years, finding a ready sale at all seasons, and I would feel my stock incomplete without a case of WETHEY'S MINCE MEAT on hand."

Fairy Soap, Copco Soap
Fairbank's Glycerine-Tar Soap
Fairbank's Scouring Soap
Fairbank's Sanitary Soap

We are willing and anxious to acknowledge the service they can render us by rewarding them in direct proportion to the interest they display in pushing these goods. Our method of rewarding is "The Fairbank Plan," which is a system of couponing our specialties in such a manner that the coupons can be easily removed when the goods are sold, and giving for these coupons useful articles, the best that money can buy. Our whole aim is to give the clerks the best value we can secure.

The products embraced in "The Fairbank Plan" are easily sold because they are the best value and give the greatest satisfaction to the consumer. They increase the trade of the store and "The Fairbank Plan" rewards the dealer or his clerks for selling them.

POINTS THAT SELL

Suchard's Cocoa easily and quickly :

SOLUBILITY—Scarcely a trace of sediment remains in the cup. This proves purity.

SMOOTHNESS--Because it all dissolves so readily, Suchard's has a velvety smoothness peculiar to itself.

FLAVOR—Once a person tastes

properly made, that person is almost certain to become a steady customer. The flavor is finer and more delicately rich than that of any other brand.

ECONOMY—Although Suchard's costs more per pound than some other cocoas, you only need to use a very small teaspoonful per cup, and much less milk is required than with cheaper brands.

These qualities make Suchard's a quick and ready seller, and the profits are larger per pound than on cheaper cocoas.

Why I Order Southwell's Jams and Marmalades

By HENRY BOLTON

HINT No. 2

I was talking last time about trying to win prospective buyers over to the line of Jams and Marmalades that I was carrying.

Well, it occurred to me that my business was not to dictate customers' wants, but to supply them.

Yet, at the same time, I recognized that it would be impossible to stock up every line of Jams and Marmalades on the market.

I decided I would systematize the buying.

FUTURE OF THE APPLE IN ONTARIO

The future of the apple trade in Ontario rests upon several natural conditions, soil, climate, markets, transportation and the trend of trade, as well as upon the character of the men who are growing the fruit and the character of the men who are handling it. I will also assume that men will do what is for their best interests although I am perfectly well aware that not infrequently this rule of action is violated. On the whole it would be more correct, perhaps, to say that I am endeavoring to show the lines along which the apple industry should develop rather than the actual development that will take place.

Of the various elements that enter into this problem I propose to select a few, the importance of which has been overlooked, or which are not likely to be handled by others. Some of the most important I will pass over with just a simple reference, transportation, for instance, is a most important element in connection with the future development of the apple industry. Soil is also another important element. Forunately here I need say little inasmuch as there are few parts of Ontario where the soil is unsuitable for the culture of apples. Some parts may be slightly better than others, but on the other hand the conditions are so uniform and the question so local that it may fairly well be omitted in an investigation of this kind.

Apples and Altitudes.

I would first draw attention to the heights of land. This element in the determination of climate is not a striking one in Ontario. Nevertheless, the net results of height above the sea level are just as definite and just as effective as in mountainous districts such as British Columbia. The traveler in British Columbia can stand at the foot of a slope and pick tender flowers, but raising his eyes but a few hundred feet, he can see the whole mountain top covered with snow and, perhaps, even with glaciers that never disappear. The result is brought about solely by the differences in the height between the base of the mountain and its top.

The slopes in Ontario are so gradual that we are not aware of the heights we reach. I would, therefore, play the schoolmaster to the extent of noting that Lake Huron is 575 feet above the sea level, Lake Erie 565, and Lake Ontario 262 feet. Compared with this we have: Chatham 589 feet, London 805, Brantford 705, Stratford 1189, Durham 1687, Walkerton 931, Mount Forest 1348, Orangeville 1557, Lindsay 854, Peterboro 649, Ottawa 215, Montreal 47.

The height of land embracing the Counties of Dufferin, Wellington, Perth, and Waterloo, renders the winter climate frequently so severe as to make it impossible to grow the tenderer varieties of apple trees. We are, therefore, obliged to put these counties in the same apple district as the northern portion of the province, which I have designated as district No. 4, and which includes the Valley of the Ottawa and St. Lawrence Valley, roughly as far as Kingston. For the purpose of the apple industry I need only consider the more favored portions of this district No. 4 where they grow the Fameuse and McIntosh Red, the Wolfe River, Duchess and Wealthy. Such varieties as the Spy, Baldwin, Cranberry, Pippin, King, etc., are altogether too tender for this area, so that this district is not considered in the production of what we call winter varieties.

North of Lake Ontario.

The counties bordering on the north shore of Lake Ontario, together with a small portion of the County of Grey bordering on Georgian Bay, and one or two townships in the County of Dufferin, designated district No. 3, have that happy medium climate that renders them peculiarly well-fitted for the winter varieties. The temperature is not so severe as to cause serious loss from winter killing, and the summer temperature not so high as to prematurely ripen these varieties.

The counties bordering on Lake Huron, and the second tier of counties north of Lake Erie, named district No. 2, are also admirably suited in climate and soil for the production of winter varieties, but the orchards of these districts were planted under different conditions that have induced me to place them in a separate class.

We come now to the counties bordering directly on Lake Erie which I have grouped under district No. 1. This may be called the tender fruit belt of Ontario where peachers, cherries, tomatoes and all tender fruits are grown with the greatest success. The apple also grows here to perfection. Nevertheless, it is a matter of notoriety that, though the earliest orchards of Canada were planted in this district and though it made its reputation as an apple growing district long years before the other portions of the province were settled, of late years the industry has fallen into disrepute. Splendid old orchards in perfect health and vigor and bearing a full crop have been chopped down to make way for ordinary grain crops, and even in years of comparative scarcity, as last year and this, thousands of barrels of apples have been allowed to go to waste in orchards in this district. Some of the finest of the apples, if not the very finest exhibited at the recent Horticultural Exhibition in Toronto, came from this district. Such a condition of affairs calls for some explanation. If the fruit can be grown to perfection and if orcharding is profitable, why is it that we find this waste of fruit and want of confidence in the apple industry ?

Too Warm for Winter Kinds.

The explanation is partly a question of climatology and partly an economic question. As a matter of climate, this district No. 1 has a mean annual temperature many degres higher than districts 3 and 4. The Fameuse apple will be in full bloom in Chatham early in May; the same variety will not be in bloom in Lindsay for two weeks later. The fruit grower in Chatham does not fear serious frost until the first of November, probably until the 10th or 15th of November. The fruit grower north of Lake Ontario is very anxious, indeed, if he has any apples exposed the last week of October. It will thus be seen that the apples north of Lake Ontario begin to grow nearly two weeks later than in the southern parts of Ontario. It will also be noted that in district No. 3 they do not have nearly so high a temperature during the summer months and consequently are nearly a month later in reaching the same degree of maturity as the varieties in district No. 1. In consequence of this, all the common winter varieties, such as the Baldwin, spy, russet, and king are ripe in district No. 1 early in October and in the natural order of things are subjected to the warm genial weather that prevails in this district during the latter part of October. At the end of three weeks of this warm weather the apples are in a condition of maturity when they must go at once into consumption. That is to say, apple operators will not store these varieties, or if owing to very favorable conditions of temperature, they do attempt to store them the consequence is a very serious loss when they come to be repacked during the winter months. The growers, then, of winter stock in this district, are forced to sell so as to go on the market at least before Christmas and they have not the alternative of accepting this market or the later winter market.

The Cheap Season.

It might be noted just here that in the apple industry it is always likely that the cheapest apples will be those that must go into consumption during the months of October, November and December. During these months there will always be the fag ends of the high priced early apples as well as the odds and ends of the late winter varieties that for one reason or another have to be forced upon the market. These two sources of supply, together with the large volume of apples that ripen normally at this period, will always make a surplus at least of No. 2 grade at this time. Herein lies the reason for the low prices and for the want of market for the apples grown in district No. 1.

Somewhat different conditions prevail in the district which I have designated. No. 2, including the second tier of counties on Lake Erie and the counties bordering on Lake Huron. This district, of course, fades imperceptibly into district No. 1 upon the south, but upon the whole is admirably fitted for growing the winter varieties. In common with district No. 3 it has that happy medium of climate not so severe as to induce winter killing and not so high in temperature as to permaturely ripen the apples. The standard winter varieties are matured normally so as to meet the temperature approaching the freezing point that prevails in these districts after the first of November. These apples go as it were into a natural cold storage and, if harvested with care and placed at once where they will be protected from the occasional warm days, will be in the best condition to be repacked and shipped for the winter market.

Future for Early Apples.

What, then, should be the aim of the orchardist in the counties north of Lake Erie, district No. 1 ? One thing is certain, they can never compete under natural conditions with other portions of Ontario in the production of winter apples. It is verv true that in this respect they have conditions not dissimilar to the orchardists in New York State, and they may make orcharding as successful in New York State by adopting the same devices as have been adopted there, namely, an extensive system of cold storage. If, at some point, or several points, in this district, cold storage facilities are provided whereby the apple may be packed when they are matured (the last of September or the first of October), and placed in cold storage chambers, where they will be quickly reduced to a temperature near the freezing point, they may, with confidence, then be repacked for the winter trade. Dismissing, however, the question of cold storage, the orchardists here should recognize the defects of their apples and market them early in the season, indeed, though they have not clearly recognized the defects of their apples as keepers; all the apples that have been used have been sold for immediate consumption.

The Irresponsible Buyer.

As has already been pointed out, the market is not always a reliable or steady one, and consequently the more reputable dealers have avoided this district in their operations. It has been the prey too frequently of the irresponsible buyer who has come in with his glib tongue and a light purse, and promised prices that induced the apple grower to part with his fruit. The apples were packed and shipped and if the price realized was a good one, or if the apple operator was so fixed that he could not get out of the district readily, he paid the farmer a part, or the whole, of what was promised. If, on the other hand, the markets were poor, if he made a clean breast of the matter and explained that the markets had gone wrong and he could not pay the promised price, the farmer very quickly realized that he had no recourse.

This, however, is not a necessary condition of affairs. It simply indicates bad business methods, and the remedy here is quite aside from any question of climate, soil, varieties or markets. The question is simply one of organization among the apple growers themselves. This has been demonstrated by the success of one or two co-operative organizations which have been working in this district. I need only to refer you to the success with which the Chatham Fruit Growers' Association is working. Another co-operative organization is working most successfully in Simcoe. Both of these organizations have this year sold all the apples their patrons had at prices much higher than the average prices paid for winter apples in the counties north of Lake Ontario. What has been done at Chatham and Simcoe can be done in Essex and Elgin and other counties constituing this dtstrict.

Markets for Early Apples.

Just here may be a convenient place to discuss the question of markets for early apples. The two most important markets for early apples are the western provinces and Great Britain. The markets of the western provinces are opening so rapidly that few who have not paid special attention to this matter will realize and appreciate the extraordinary growth of late years. The influx is not likely to lessen for many years, but the market for apples cannot be measured by this standard, large as it will be. The great cost of distributing the apples limits the consumption very largely to the cities and towns capable of taking at least carload lots. During the last few years there have been established along the railway lines of the western provinces, hundreds of stations, none of which, until recently, were able to take the fruit in carload lots. Last year and this some dozens of these places have come into the market accepting carload lots. A few years ago Winnipeg was the only distributing point. Now large distributing warehouses have been established at Regina ,Prince Albert, Moose Jaw, Calgary, Lethbridge and Edmonton. In consequence of this an extraordinary demand for fruit has sprung up, quite out of proportion to the number of people entering the country last year and this. The comparative cheapness with which the fruit can now be distributed has increased the consumption among the people. The extraordinary prosperity of the Northwest has made it possible for almost everyone to enjoy fruit, which necesasrily is high-priced even yet compared with the price which is reecived by the grower. We can look forward then confidently to a market there that will readily absorb a very large proportion of all the fruit that Ontario can grow. It is very true that the Ontario grower in the near future will have to meet the competition from the Province of British Columbia. This, however, he need not fear. The growers of each province, when all the elements of success are taken into consideration, are upon a comparatively equal footing, and even if this were not the case, the market will likely increase much faster than the production of fruit in both provinces.

Market in Great Britain.

In addition to the Northwest there is another growing market available for the Ontario grower, namely the market of Great Britain. It has formerly been an axiom of apple growers that Canadian fruit would be acceptable in Great Britain only when there was a failure of the English and European crop. This conception of the British market is not a true one. For a number of years a large quantity of early fruit has gone from Canada to Great Britain, and prices have always been quite satisfactory and there appears to be no good reason why this market should not continue and, in all probability, increase even in the face of the competition with the apples of the home market. It is quite true that the Canadian apples will not compete with the best early fruit of Great Britain, but there are certain features of the business that are distinctly in favor of the Canadian growers. First, we have an admirable system of ocean transportation and a fair degree of efficiency in the railway transportation. If the early fruit is cooled properly before being packed and then shipped in a refrigerator car, there is almost an absolute certainty of its reaching Great Britain in the best of order. The question therefore of losses in transhipment is reduced to a minimum. During the last two or three seasons the cargo inspectors at Montreal and at ports in Great Britain have very carefully reported upon the condition of the apples at the time of shipment and upon arrival in Great Britain, and in no case has there been a serious loss where it could be shown that the fruit was properly started from the orchards

Benefit of Big Shipments.

In the British markets the Ontario grower has upon his side the large brokers and fruit merchants. The Canadian apples reach the brokers and fruit merchants in uniform packages, uniformly graded, and in large quantities compared with English fruit of one or two varieties. This element of uniformity in grading packages and variety, will itself, almost offset all the disadvantages that we have in the matter of transportation. It is easier for the fruit merchants to buy and distribute Canadian apples than it is to buy and distribute the home grown fruit. The English orchards have the disadvantage of being planted with a great many different varieties, and no two portions of England put up their fruit in the same kind of packages. It is very difficult for the dealer in Great Britain to get the same varieties or the same packages of home grown fruit twice. This makes all transactions in English fruit a retail affair, and naturally the large sales all go to the Canadian or American product. As compared with the American apples I quote from the latest number of an English market paper, The English Grocer, to show that Canadian apples have a preference of two shillings per barrel, which effectually protects them from any serious competition from states to the south of us.

Taking these two markets then, the markets of the western provinces and the British markets, I see no reason why the present stock of apples should not be sold at good prices if proper means are taken to place them upon the markets.

Markets for Erie Counties.

One word more with reference to this southern division, No. 1. If, then, the market for early fruit is to be a growing one, I should strongly recommend that the growers confine themselves very largely to the early varieties. The Red Astrachan can be shipped from the County of Essex the third week in July, the Duchess the last of July and the first of August, the Wealthy, of course, somewhat later. Such varieties as these, therefore, should be selected, and this district should apply itself to supplying, not only the western provinces, but our own city population in Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec, with all the apples they need after the first of August, when we would entirely exclude the American product that now finds its way to our markets. It is unfortunate that the orchards of this district are devoted so largely to Baldwins, spies and russets and other winter varieties, inasmuch as these apples come in in the glut months of October and November. If the orchards were composed of the early varieties that I have mentioned, the prices would be much higher than could be realized for the very best winter fruit in any part of Canada.

District of Many Varieties

The conditions in district No. 2 are somewhat peculiar. Of course, there is no sharp line of demarcation between these districts and the southern portions of Brant, Oxford and Middlesex may in some years be properly classed as part of district No. 1, but the greater portion of district 2, including the Counties of Lambton, Middlesex, Huron and Bruce and part of Grey, has all the advantages for growing the very best winter varieties of apples. The planting however, was done in the earlier days. In the selection of varieties there was the greatest latitude. No orchard was considered complete without a dozen or more varieties, which was all well enough for home market or for home use, but rendered the conditions very unfavorable for the commercial market. Every farm, too, had an orchard, very few of a large size, and very few making a specialty of apples, in fact, very few counted it more than a pure side line in their general farming operations. The result is that, though the small orchard predominate, yet the aggregate is a very large number of trees, probably not less than two and a quarter million.

The difficulty comes in in making sales. The large apple operator cannot without extraordinary expense harvest these apples profitably. He cannot send his gangs of men around more than once or twice at most, and yet these orchards would furnish almost continuous picking from the first of September until the close of the season. As a consequence, many of the apples are picked before they are ripe or sometimes after they have reached maturity, and many of them are not picked at all, because they are not in the proper state of maturity at the time the gang visits the orchard. Though the aggregate, of course, is so large the number of desirable varieties is probably not more than half the aggregate number.

Need of Co-operation.

The recommendation which I would make for this district is co-operation in marketing and selling. There is no one who can pick these apples so cheaply or so well as the man who grows them, but he cannot pack them nor market them. He has not enough of any one kind to pay him to do this properly. It can be done, however, by uniting into co-operative associations, which would furnish the packers and the facilities for selling. It is notable that two of the most successful societies in co-operative associations are in this district, namely, Walkerton and Forest, and I cannot help thinking that a very slight encouragement would organize several more associations.

The central counties of Western Ontario marked No. 4 call for some special comment. The altitude here and consequently the climate is adverse to the best conditions for apple growing. Flesherton is fifteen hundred feet above the sea level, nearly a thousand feet higher than Lake Huron and twelve hundred feet higher than Lake Ontario. Nevertheless, there are many sheltered spots where the apples, even of tender varieties, succeed fairly well so that it is not surprising that in this district there are probably more than half a million trees. One could not recommend though, the planting of early varieties for commercial purposes. These varieties would be three weeks or a month latter than those grown in the southern tier of counties and would come in during the glut months, having none of the advantages of the apples of better varieties and better quality grown in the southern tier of counties. I see no hope, therefore, of a profitable apple business being conducted here, except along the general lines that would be recommended for the Ottawa and St. Lawrence Valleys, district 4.

I have referred to the height of land running through the central portion of Ontario, beginning at Queenston and constituting the bluff from Queenston to Hamilton. This height of land, continuing, as it does, north to the Georgian Bay, slopes much more rapidly towards the east than it does towards the west, as it approaches the Georgian Bay, and it begins near Collingwood to once more take the high cliff form similar to that between Queenston and Hamilton. It is upon the eastern slope of this height of land, near the Georgian Bay, that we find some of the finest orchards in the world. It is a happy blending of soil, situation and climate that makes it an ideal country in which to grow winter apples. Here new orchards are being planted very rapidly, and as a general thing the bearing orchards are composed of comparatively few varieties. The fruit growers of this district had learned the lesson taught by the experience of the older orchardists in Southern Ontario and gave their orders so as to have, say, three, four or a half dozen varieties in their whole plantations. They also had sufficient confidence to plant in large blocks of ten, twenty or thirty acres, and are now reaping the reward of their forethought.

Eight Hundred Dollars an Acre.

It is not an uncommon thing at all in this district to find large orchards that are paying dividends on a capitalization of five to eight hundred dollars an acre. When you consider that the land without trees is valued at from fifty to seventy-five dollars per acre and that the cost of putting in an orchard and caring for it until it comes into bearing is probably not more than a hundred dollars per acre. It can readily be seen that the whole operation is a paying one for the farmer. The drawback is that he has to wait ten years for his dividends, and in this glorious age, when fortunes are being exchanged every few hours, ten years looks to be such a hopelessly long period that even the patient farmer sometimes dismisses the scheme in disgust.

The counties north of Lake Ontario, styled district No. 3, owe their high reputation as an apple region, partly to the climate, partly to the geological formation, and partly to the shrewdness of the orchardists in learning lessons from the experience of the older orchardists in the west. Geologically, the best apple orchards in this district are in what is known as the Iroquois Basin, extending to the high land at varying distances from the present shore of Lake Ontario. This land is extremely fertile and has the climatic advantages of the lower situation protected by the high ground to the north. Many very excellent orchards, however, are grown on the high land just beyond this basin till it merges into district 4, where only the hardiest trees will grow.

Large Orchards, Few Varieties.

Large orchards are the rule in district 3. The varieties have been well selected to meet the requirements of a winter trade. Orcharding is a specialty with many growers, and the enterprise is considered extremely profitable. This district is well adapted to the usual methods of the apple operators. Owing to the larger orchards, and the fewer varieties, the cost of picking and packing is much smaller than in district No. 2. The recommendation here is, of course, to continue along similar lines, planting the hardy winter varieties.

Cold storage is quite unnecessary in district No. 2. They are, consequently, twenty-five cents a barrel, at least, ahead of winter varieties grown anywhere else to the south. The business, therefore, of growing apples might possibly, though it is exceedingly improbable, become unprofitable in New York State, while the growers north of Lake Ontario could continue with a margin of twenty-five cents per barrel, at least.

Dessert Apples to Perfection.

District No. 4 contains probably much less than a million apple trees, many of these of unsuitable varieties. The area covered is extremely large, so that, with the exception of a few small sections in this district, it cannot be regarded seriously in the light of a business. Nevertheless, there is no part of Canada where a larger return might be made than in this district. They grow to perfection here the Fameuse, the McIntosh Red and the Wealthy. In addition to these the Alexander and the Wolfe River can be grown quite profitably; they are much better apples and better keepers than when grown further south. Nevertheless, they are not of extraordinary quality. The Fameuse and the McIntosh Red stand at the head as dessert apples. If the excellence of these apples as a dessert fruit were recognized, and if the growers would but pack in boxes after the style of the Pacific Slope fruit, the business would be extremely profitable. There is a splendid opening for any packers who will take up the packing of these apples in this district, and cater to the very high class of customers—those who are willing and able to pay a large price for a most excellent article.

A Summing Up.

To sum up the situation generally, I should recommend that district 1, or the counties along Lake Erie, should devote themselves very largely to early fruit.

The pressing need in district No. 2, or the counties along Lake Huron, is better organization for harvesting and selling. Co-operative associations are an absolute necessity in this district of small orchards, with many varieties.

What has been said with reference to the Ottawa and St. Lawrence valleys is equally applicable to many parts of the central high counties of South Grey, Wellington, Waterloo and Perth.

The Georgian Bay and Lake Ontario counties, district No. 3, will undoubtedly devote themselves to the winter varieties, and we can look for a large increase in the acreage of orchards on these lines.

I have less hope that many new orchards will be planted in district No. 4. Nevertheless, if co-operative associations were formed, that would induce a somewhat better culture, and introduce box-packing, fruit growing would become one of the leading industries.

TOMATOES AND TRUSTS.

Toronto Grocery Resolve to Abstain From Buying Ahead.

The Toronto Retail Grocers' Association held its monthly meeting in the Temple Building on Monday evening last. The secretary reported that there were now 28 members on the roll. A discussion took place regarding the holding of the Annual At-Home. According to present arrangements the evening might conflict with Lent. It was though better to avoid this, and a committee consisting of Messrs. Snow, Beaton and Bell, was appointed to secure options on more suitable dates.

It was suggested that more attention be paid by the Association to actual trade matters. The advance in soap prices was a question which should be looked into, and the suggestion was made that the Association purchase out of its own funds sufficient soap to supply Toronto retailers at present prices. This opened up a discussion on the canned goods situation. There was nothing to warrant tomatoes being at their present price of $1.57 1-2, it was argued. The remedy lay with the grocers themselves, who should cease buying canned goods far in advance of the opening of the canning season, as the pack was entirely governed by the demand. One of the speakers stated that he knew for an actual fact, that last year tomatoes were dumped in Georgian Bay in order that if anything, the pack should be short. The discussion ended in the passing of a resolution that "the grocers of this Association condemn the practice of buying, heavily in advance, canned goods, gem jars, and articles of like nature, as directly aiding and abetting combines which are detrimental to the best interests of the retail trade." The members present pledged themselves to observe this resolution, and to induce as many other grocers as possible outside of the Association to assist in the matter. It was also suggested that a standing committee be formed to look into such questions as they arose, and to advise members as to the best course of procedure in each.

The secretary's report on the finances of the outing was left over until the next meeting, when the nomination and election of officers will also take place.

Among those present were: Messrs. Snow, Vice-President; D. G. Beaton, Secretary; McLean, Kelly, Panter, Cootes, Bell, Stewart, Bond, Thorne and Clarke.

CROP GROWERS' GRIEF.

For the first time in many years, Vancouver is enjoying the delight of eastern grapes this fall. Western grapes are as different to eastern grapes as day is from night, and are not to be compared with them. Nearly all the grapes consumed here come from California, and while they make excellent light wines, they do not compare with eastern grapes for table purposes. In the Niagara district, which is the great grape-growing section of Canada, Concord grapes are regarded as an inferior variety. In plentiful years they rot upon the vines. It is no uncommon thing to find them being sold in the stores for a cent a pound. Yet in Vancouver small baskets of them containing two or three pounds sold on Saturday for a dollar. If the farmers in the Niagara Peninsula ever hear of this they will tear their hair and weep and be afflicted with a great grief.—Vancouver Province.

FROM GROCER CORRESPONDENTS

INGERSOLL.

Ingersoll, Nov. 12, 1906.

The volume of business reported thus far this month, is below the average, for which state of affairs the fine weather is chiefly responsible.

Alarmed by the wintry spell at the beginning of the month the country people have been busily engaged harvesting their roots, shipping their apples and winding up their work in general, hence the marked dropping off in all branches of trade.

For the remainder of the month and until the holiday season a very brisk trade is anticipated by the merchants. They have stocked up extensively as usual for the Christmas trade, and their shelves and counters have a decidedly bright and inviting appearance.

Few towns can boast a better retail trade than Ingersoll, and with the advent of Winter, the merchants see busy days ahead of them.

No little difficulty has been experienced in meeting the demand for butter and strictly fresh eggs. Both of these commodities have been unusually scarce, much to the chagrin of the average purchaser. The ever increasing number of cheese factories in the "Oxford district" the home of the cheese industry, has had the effect of materially diminishing the butter supply. The supply on the market every Saturday has been far short of the demand, and had it not been for the foresight of the merchants in stocking up from outside sources, a famine would undoubtedly have resulted. From twenty-five to twenty-seven cents per pound has been the ruling wholesale prices for creamery butter and from twenty-three to twenty-five cents per pound for dairy butter. There is a keen demand for fresh eggs at twenty-five cents per dozen. Dried apples will be plentiful. They are just being marketed, the majority of the sales being made at five and a half cents per pound. There is a good demand for potatoes at seventy-five cents per bag. A number of the merchants have already stocked up, some making purchases of those grown on the sand to the South.

There has, until the past few days, been a shortage of poultry. This is explained by the fact that many buyers are at work in the country, and that in many instances the producers are holding their stock in reserve. The most of the sales have been made on the basis of ten cents per pound, or on an average of from seventy-five to ninety cents per pair. The receipts of canned goods have been heavy, for which there is a somewhat brisk demand, after a comparatively quiet period.

Jas. Brooks, for some time cake baker for Fred Dutton, has leased part of Jacques & McPherson's store, and has embarked in business on his own account. He has very convenient quarters for his work-room, and a tempting assortment in his window. He reports a very gratifying month's business.

Fred Dutton, who for several years conducted a very successful grocery business, and latterly was engaged in the bakery and confectionery business, has decided to take up insurance work. He has disposed of his business to Mr. Talbot of Aylmer, who has had wide experience. Mr. Dutton will be travelling representative for the Central Life Insurance Company, with territory from Woodstock to Sarnia.

LONDON.

The Retail Grocers' Association of London held a meeting last week at which a number of wholesale grocers were present by invitation of the Association, and questions of mutual interest were discussed in a highly profitable manner. President C. H. Lee presided and Messrs. John Dillon of A. M. Smith & Co.; Wm. Turnbull of Edward Adams & Co.; T. B. Escott, and John Garvey, were some of the wholesalers who delivered addresses. Many interesting facts were cited and useful pointers given by the speakers. A suggestion that the retail and wholesale men unite in an organized opposition to "dollar" goods, met with general favor and it was decided to ask the grocers of other cities to take the same attitude in this matter. There are many articles sold by the manufacturers at $1.00 a dozen, and which the retailer must sell at 10 cents each, if handled at all. Both the wholesalers and retailers contend that, taking everything into consideration, this margin of profit is too small. Hence their ultimatum to the manufacturers: "No more 'dollar' goods."

The Late Wm. H. McCutcheon, London.

William H. McCutcheon, for many years a prominent grocer of this city, died suddenly at his home, corner of Waterloo and Oxford streets, on the 10th instant. He was the first United States Consul at London, having come here in that capacity 27 years ago. When the Cleveland Government first attained power, Mr. McCutcheon was displaced, and, deciding to remain in London, opened up a grocery at the corner of Dundas and Clarence streets. He afterwards removed to the corner of Waterloo and Oxford streets, where he remained in active business up to the time of his death. Mr. McCutcheon was born at Baltimore 65 years ago, and had been a Captain on the Great Lakes before entering the Consular service of the United States. His death was due to heart trouble. He had just arisen from his bed in the morning when he was suddenly taken ill, and died before a doctor could be called. His widow and two daughters, Mrs. E. S. Hunt of Port Arthur, and Mrs, Robert Pearse of this city, survive.

KINGSTON.

Kingston has a standing population of 19,000, not counting the men at the Penitentiary who wear the clothes of many colors.

When the fall comes, 1,200 students arrive, this adds considerable to the population, but I might add that they subtract from it when they reach their finale by taking off our good looking daughters. It is surprising what a stimulus it is to trade when 1,200 students with big appetites come and sit down three times a day at our tables, 25,200 meals a week and as eggs poached, fried and boiled went down, how the price went up and stock disappeared.

Well, we are glad to have them with us and proud to have them go up and wallop Varsity at football. It is the meat they eat that gives them pluck.

It has been proposed to let the convicts of the Penitentiary cut stone for the new Medical Building for Queens.

The unions are aroused and called a meeting to protest. A petition was taken around and signed by many, and is being sent to Parliament. Some business men say they are compelled to sign all these petitions sent around whether they feel like it or not. The college is considering the advisability of using brick. We await developments.

The Bailey Broom factory is booming, and has a big stock of corn on hand, finest grade. Their putting the retail price on the label of each broom is a brain saver for the merchant, and prevents to a great extent price cutting. Would that all manufacturers in all lines would adopt this plan. There would be less assignments in the country. Sam Bailey has been all his life making brooms, except when he goes after the ducks and partridges. He

APPLE ARTICLE BY AN EXPERT.

The first article in this issue, "The Future of the Apple Crop in Ontario," is by Alex. McNeill, chief of the fruit branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. By years of experience as a fruit grower and shipper, and by virtue of his energetic discharge of the duties of his present position, bringing him into intimate relation with the fruit industry throughout Canada, and the markets of Great Britain, no other man is so well qualified to speak on this subject. Ontario is the great apple producing province of the Dominion. Of the total production of twenty million barrels, Ontario produces eighteen millions. Following the lines indicated by Mr. McNeill, the industry will in the near future assume very much more importance than at present. This article will be read with interest by everyone interested in the Canadian apple trade.

FOOD FAIR FOR MONTREAL.

The Grocer learns upon excellent authority that Montreal is to have another Pure Food Fair, which will take place it is said, the last two weeks in April, 1907. The Montreal Arena, the largest rink in the city, has been secured. The fair held this spring was very successful and drew large crowds every day, but with a larger space and greater facilities for handling the visitors, even greater success may be anticipated for the Food Fair of 1907. The retail Grocers' Association, of Montreal, will, it is understood, run the affair, and plans are now being made, although nothing definite nor authorative has yet been given out.

APPLE CROP SHORT.

Fruit Inspector, P. I. Carey, who is in a better position, perhaps, than anyone else to know the apple situation in Ontario, states to the Canadian Grocer this week, that the No. 1, winter pack was about 50 per cent. of the average. The ink spot, bitter rot and coddling moth, have worked havoc and the crop is especially poor in the large producing districts, while in the less important districts the crop is pretty good. The quality of the stocks for export, Mr. Carey says, is not satisfactory, and the inspectors have their season's work cut out for them.

In Colbourne, 65,000 barrels are stored, in Brighton, 30,000, and in Trenton, 30,000, says the same authority. That is somewhere about three quarters of what was stored there last year, and the storage in those three places is about 60 per cent. of the storage capacity in Ontario, and repacking has already commenced.

There seems now to be no doubt, despite earlier estimates to the contrary, that the apple crop in Canada is short. The total export of apples this year will be one to two hundred thousand barrels less than last year. To date, the shipments are one hundred thousand barrels short.

A HARD CRACK.

The head of a well-known commercial house in Canada told an interesting story the other day about his early experience in business, when capital was very scarce with him. In his efforts to get business he had allowed a certain retailer to get into his books, to the amount of $1,500. Upon finding one day that the outlook for payment was very bad, he told a fellow business man, who was also a creditor of the retailer, what his fears were. Instead, however, of keeping this information to himself, in order to ingratiate himself with the retailer, repeated to the latter what he had been told.

A few days afterwards the head of the firm who had unbosomed himself to his confrere, was surprised to receive a writ for $10,000 damages for libel. After failing to get the Court to order the plaintiff to guarantee costs he, at the instigation of his own lawyer, settled for $500.

To make matters worse, shortly afterwards the retailer failed and his estate was then in such a deplorable condition that he did not pay one cent on the dollar, the creditor in question losing his $1,500 as well as the $500 costs.

This was hard luck, but the moral is, "Be very careful to whom you express your fears in regard to customers."

BACK TO THE TALLOW DIP.

Citizens of the smaller towns throughout the country who find fault with the service furnished by their local electric lighting plants, are not the only members of the community who have cause for complaint. During the past week, Toronto has suffered with an electric lighting service, which, in many instances, would disgrace even the humble coal-oil lamp or the tallow candle. In some cases actual loss has been occasioned subscribers to the service, owing to the poor quality of light and the lack of power compelling early closing, when extra time was really required to keep pace with the rush of business. The service is a disgrace to Toronto, and the Grocer takes this opportunity of inviting a tender for the purchase of the plant from some town having no particular aspirations to become a modern city.

ACADIA SUGAR'S GOOD SHOWING

The annual statement of the Acadia Sugar Refining Company for the year ending September 30th, which has just been issued, shows the net trading profit for the year to be $210,681.14. After providing for the interest on the bonds and the regular six per cent. dividend on the preferred stock the Directors recommend that three per cent. be paid on the common stock. Last year and the preceding year only one per cent. was paid on the common stock. The company had a most successful year as the following comparative statement will show:—

1905	127,656.66
1904	223,009.54
1903	181,018.60
Total	$742,365.94

Along with the report that increased importation of tea has lessened the consumption of beer in England comes the statement that the use of beer in Ireland has also declined from 30.25 gallons per head of population in 1895, to 27.90 in 1905.

Markets and Market Notes

QUEBEC MARKETS.

POINTERS—
Fish—Revised.
Foreign dried fruits of interest.
Evaporated apples—Advanced ½c.
Maple products—Advanced again.
Honey—Advanced.

Montreal, Nov. 21, 1906.

The jobbers are exceedingly busy with their local trade. By this is meant the business they are carrying on with customers resident along the St. Lawrence, and who are reached much more easily by boat than by rail. Every effort is being made to get all orders delivered to these before the close of navigation, which will probably take place within a week or ten days. Collections are reported very good for the season of the year. Interest centres in raisins at the moment. The markets for California, seeded and sultanas, as well as Valencia raisins, are most interesting, and should be followed by all grocers. There is more or less activity in canned goods, salmon being purchased freely by grocers in all parts of the country. Jobbers are experiencing some trouble in obtaining deliveries of tomatoes. Sugar is without feature. No change is expected in prices at the present time. Teas are rather quiet than otherwise. Some trade is passing, but this is limited There appears to be a little more enquiry for syrups and molasses, but there is not any very noticeable improvement yet. Evaporated apples continue to advance, and are now quoted as high as 9c. Beans are very scarce, as is also honey. Maple products are again higher in price. Soap has been advanced 30c a case by two large manufacturers. Castile soap quotations have been withdrawn from the market for the present.

CANNED GOODS.—There are yet some jobbers who have not received full shipments of tomatoes and corn ordered before prices were made known. Many have secured a sufficient number of cases to fill the orders of many of their customers, and in some cases, of all, but very few have obtained any goods for store—goods which are most urgently required for local trade. One jobber said he "wired every morning and wrote a letter every evening," but still the tomatoes were not forthcoming. The answer of the packers is lack of help, or lack of cases, or something else, which precludes their shipping the goods. Meanwhile there is considerable activity in other lines. Grocers all over the country are buying salmon in rather large quantities, despite the very high prices which rule. This is the cause of much surprise in the trade. Formerly but few lots of salmon were sold outside of what seemed barely necessary for the season. Now, with prices such as they are, everybody is calling for salmon. The jobbers do not understand the situation.

SUGAR.—The sugar market is featureless Interest in this article in limited, although there seems to be a fairly good business being done There are many large lots going to points on the river routes, but outside of this, and some buying in the West, there is not a great deal of activity Prices are steady and a change is not looked upon as possible at the moment

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.—There is a little more interest in syrups and molasses with the coming of the cooler weather. On the whole, however, the situation is just about unchanged. A period of activity is succeeded by a period of stagnation, and the one balances the other.

TEAS—The quiet which has ruled in the tea market lately is being dispelled gradually. Enquiries are coming in a little better than for some time past. There is a firm undertone to the markets generally. Most tea merchants are doing some little business, but not much. Ceylons are very scarce, few lots being offered. In their circular for the month of October, dated November 3, McMeckin & Co., of London, say of Indian teas: "The offerings at London public auction were 233,000 against 195,000 in the same month in 1905. This is almost the largest quantity offered any one month, and it is a testimony to the strength of the demand that it was taken by the trade with comparative ease. The market opened strong with very active demand, continuing so until the middle of the month. From then onwards there was less animation, with lower prices for all grades, and there was no recovery at the close."

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.—Raisins command the greatest attention on this market. This applies particularly to the seeded article. The market locally is bare, and the New York market seems to be just as bad. Large houses will not book any further orders for at least two weeks. California raisins are advancing, but it is impossible to say anything definite to-day, with a chance of its being authorative to-morrow. Nobody can tell what is going to be the state of the market twenty-four hours hence. So much for existing conditions. It is generally conceded that the California market is bare, while the local market is little better. Valencia raisins are in small supply locally, but the tone of the market is rather easy than otherwise. Prunes are very strong and advancing. Sultana raisins are practically off the market here, few lots being held. For such as are obtainable 12c to 15c is asked.

EVAPORATED APPLES.—"Is there going to be a repetition of last year?" This is the question in the trade regarding evaporated apples at present. Indications point to a continually advancing market, and few would be surprised, if present conditions continue, to see this line selling at 15c and 16c, as it did this spring. As it is, prices are again higher, 8½c to 9c being asked for what goods are on hand.

BEANS.—Beans on spot are very scarce, and much in demand, which is rather an embarrasing state of affairs for dealers. Any firm holding stocks at present can coin money. Some houses have supplies in cars in the railway freight yards, but are not able to get the goods for some reason or other. Lower prices are thought possible, but have not yet been realized.

MAPLE PRODUCTS.—Maple syrup in bulk is now selling all the way from 7½c to 9c, and in some cases a shade above the latter figure, according to quality. This is another advance in the market. Maple syrup is moving out very well.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS.—
Shipments Delayed.
Raisins Stocks Short.
All Canned Goods Firm.

Toronto, Nov. 22, 1906.

Business is very heavy and the freight congestion is causing much delay and annoyance. Goods both coming and going are being held up. Take one wholesaler's experience. Goods that were passed at the customs on November 9, were delivered on the 13th.

The unloading of a car of raisins on track in Toronto was begun a week ago Monday, and the last were delivered Tuesday. A car of seeded raisins was passed at the customs a week ago Monday, and no word has been had of them yet. There are great quantities of goods in the freight sheds, that in the rush have got mixed up and no one knows when they will be delivered. These are the experiences of only one house. All are in the same box.

A leading broker said to the Grocer yesterday:

"The difficulty of obtaining transportation by rail from the seaboard, which usually exists at this time of year exists in an intensified form, and not only is it difficult to get a transfer of the goods from the docks to the railways, but transportation is slow and facilities for cartage very inadequate, so that delivery is difficult to obtain. The same conditions make it very difficult to ship out promptly, as the cartage companies sometimes fail to lift goods for days after notice. Buyers should recognize these conditions, and give as much time as possible for the execution of their orders."

All canned goods are in a very strong position. Sugar is quiet. Dried fruits are scarce on spot, and some anticipate a scarcity of raisins before Christmas.

CANNED GOODS.—The situation in all lines is regarded here as very strong. Tomatoes are strongly held by the few canners who have them. Offers are being made at a 10c. advance over canners' opening price for No. 1. The pack is thought to be but little in excess of that of last year, and the consumption is expected to be considerably heavier. The pack of canned peas is said to be about the same as last year, and the indication is that there will be no carrying over.

TEA.—The statistical position of Ceylon is very strong. Stocks in London are lower than for a very long time, and the volume of teas arriving is much below the average Flavory sorts are scarce and high, and there is no indication of any change in this condition for some months. Indian teas are not in the same strong position, that is, not to the same extent, but the position is strong enough to warrant recent advances, and it looks as if the market would go still higher. Cable reports today quote an advance of 1-2d. above the last weeks' prices, and state that future advances are expected. There is no change in the position of Japans, but values are easily 10 per cent. above those ruling last year. The curtailed consumption of Japans alone, prevents the position from becoming very acute, as there is no available quantity to supply anything but a sluggish demand.

SUGAR.—The market for raws is steadier, but little business is passing and in New York, the tone is easier, as the opening of the new Cuban campaign approaches. Refined quotations are unchanged locally.

COFFEE.—Fair business is passing, and the situation here is unchanged.

DRIED FRUITS.—Raisins are scarce on spot. Shipments by the Jacona are only arriving here now. Some anticipate a scarcity before the Christmas trade is over. The Valencia situation is strong for immediate shipment. California raisins have advanced to 10c. f.o.b. on the coast, which means 12 1-4c. laid down here, a prohibitive price. Currants remain firm as yet, but it is thought they will be lower later on. Evaporated apples are in a strong position.

NUTS.—Almonds are about 25 per cent. higher than last year. Wallnuts are rather lower than last year. New goods have arrived at eastern points, and are due here. Filberts are about 2 cents higher than last year. Sales of nuts generally are not in excess of actual demands, but it is too early in the season for an actual shortage to have manifested itself. Shelled almonds are very scarce, and the primary market is continually advancing. Reports from primary sources suggest an early exhasution of the crops. Malaga raisins are 50 per cent. higher than last year, and are scarce. The great bulk of the fine qualities was destroyed by storms. Shippers find great difficulty in executing orders in complete form.

MANITOBA MARKETS

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 22, 1906.)

Owing to the advancing cost of raw materials, the Western manufacturers of laundry and toilet soaps are advancing their prices. As the margin of profit on soap is very small already, it will be necessary for retailers to advance their prices, and it is quite possible, that the manufacturers' advance will be a good thing for the small store man. Prunes are still advancing in California, and there can be little doubt that higher prices will prevail in Winnipeg in the very near future. Dealers would be well advised in anticipating their requirements and buying at present prices as an advance of a cent a pound is not at all unlikely. Christmas trade continues very brisk, and wholesale houses report the largest trade on record.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN.

The market for cheese continues to be a conundrum, the season for manufacture is about closed, as most country boards have held their last meetings for this year, prices have shown a great decline, which must, however, be largely attributed to the poor quality of the late offerings, the demand from Great Britain has been very poor and really finest qualities are neglected, so that our present market must be called "quiet and uninteresting."

Recent advices report that a large retail concern in London, operating some 500 retail shops, have reduced their price to sixpence (twelve cents) per pound, this is below the cost price in Montreal, and it simply means, that they are willing to sell their goods at a loss for reasons of their own, but, if they continue this for any length of time, it will certainly bring on an increased consumptive demand, and this, under the existing condition of light supplies, might lead to extraordinary high prices later on.

Under much improved storage facilities, especially in London, and a much cheaper fire insurance. Cheese have been sent forward from here more freely this season than ever before, and the result is now, that the bulk of the visible supplies are in British centres and therefore in sight of the distributors, who buy cautiously, thinking that the holders of cheese will have to reduce their prices in order to clear their stocks.

This is undoubtedly a weak feature in the present situation, but, with stocks in Canada fully 200,000 boxes less than a year ago, and nothing to be expected from the United States from now on, these visible supplies may melt down very quickly, and a large shortage may be discovered long before new supplies can reach the consuming markets.

Receipts in Montreal were last week: 47,737 boxes of cheese and 6,185 packages of butter, against 54,386 boxes of cheese and 9,028 packages of butter, for the same week of last year, or a total since May 1st of 2,277,062 boxes of cheese and 573,847 packages of butter, as compared with 2,245,384 boxes of cheese and 734,411 packages of butter for the corresponding period of last year.

Exports were last week: 58,964 boxes of cheese and 747 packages of butter, against 77,491 boxes of cheese and 2,825 packages of butter for the same week of last year, or a total since May 1st of 2,164,626 boxes of cheese and 361,165 packages of butter, as compared with 2,076,987 boxes of cheese and 553,196 packages of butter for the corresponding period of last year.

According to these figures we have further reduced our stocks of cheese in Montreal by 11,227 boxes during last week, and, as there are practically no stocks in the country east of Toronto this year, while there were larger stocks last year, and prices are now about on a par with last year's prices at this time, we cannot but think, that the situation is perfectly healthy and that the natural demand for the coming winter months will absorb all the supplies at good and probably advancing prices.

The butter market is not like the cheese market. We have at present a very strong market, and prices have advanced sharply. We have brought back from Great Britain quite a lot of both dairy and creamery butter, yet we seem to be short in our supplies in spite of the fact that the difference between receipts and shipments should leave us a surplus in our stocks of 31,467 packages, but we have had a large demand from interior and western points, which upsets all statistical arguments of receipts and exports.

The fact is, as previously reported, climatic and other conditions have curtailed the flow of milk, and our production of milk has been very much less this year in consequence, the farmers have been getting very high prices for their milk, but it is an open question, whether they have really received larger returns per cow, as they had a less quantity to deliver.

The butter markets in Great Britain have not been profitable for exporters from Canada, and now they are able to return to us quantities of our own butter to be resold here at a fair margin of profit after paying expenses both ways.

Prices are high and they may still go higher, but there is a "danger signal," it is an old saying that "high prices make long crops." Butter will be made as long as cows can be milked at a profit, and, with no export outlet, we may after all, have enough or more butter than needed for the home consumption.

PROVISION SITUATION.

The market for live hogs is firmer this week, and products are lower, the reason for the former situation is that there was an apparent shortage of hogs last week.

Deliveries everywhere were light. One of the largest firms got 2,000 less than expected, and others were worse off. The price this week is $5.65 f.o.b., east, and $5.75 f.o.b., west. The farmers appear not to be delivering freely this week either. Most of the hogs that have been coming forward have been light, so that the farmer if he doesn't like the price can afford to hold for a while yet. And the farmer is not satisfied; because of the decline from $7.00, and over, some are already talking of going out of hog raising. But at present prices, according to authorities, grain fed to hogs pays 50 per cent. more than sold to the grain dealers.

In the Old Country, the market last week was practically stronger. American and Canadian shipments were light, and Danish were about normal. Prices there, however, still show a pretty sharp loss for Canadian packers. Hogs received next week will be marketed in England during Christmas week, and their demand will be very light. The danger facing the packers at the moment, is that they may get loaded up with high priced hogs.

The domestic demand for hog products is falling off, and trade is not regarded as very gratifying. This accounts for the decline in prices and only about 15 to 20 per cent. of the normal deliveries of hogs throughout Canada go into domestic cuts. The percentage of current receipts will be, perhaps, a third. Receipts for the last two or three weeks have been running eighteen to nineteen thousand. Normal receipts are twenty-five to thirty thousand. Reports indicate that there are plenty of hogs in the country.

PROVISION AND DAIRY MARKETS.

MONTREAL MARKETS.

PROVISIONS.—Compound lard is scarce and firm, which has the effect of making the market for pure lard also quite firm. Although no advance in prices has occurred, from the present indications there will be an advance before there is a decline. Smoked meats are moving but slowly, as is usual at this season of the year. Prices asked for American pork are high, and as a consequence the feeling in the local market is a healthy one.

BUTTER.—A very firm market rules at present. Good demand exists for all kinds at current prices, which are slightly higher than those quoted last week. Grocers are buying for their winter requirements, and quite a few large orders have been booked recently. Stocks here are very light. EGGS.—A little more buying is being done this week than last, and there is a good feeling generally in the market. Fresh selects, while quoted at 27c, are practically unobtainable. Considerable trade is being done in storage goods, some fairly large lots have changed hands recently. Grocers in river ports have been buying larger quantities than for some time past. BUTTER.—Deliveries are slightly heavier than recently, owing to the closing of the cheese factories; but the factories kept on as long as they could so that their closing makes less change than usual. Western Wheat Higher on Account of Snow and Nearing the Month End—Flour Trade Quiet and Quotations Unchanged.

Grain markets have been quiet save for some manipulation in wheat. Early in the season excessive estimates were made of the crop both in Canada and the States to aid the bull movement in railway stocks. There were heavy short sales then which are now being covered.

A Beerbohm estimate of the Argentine crop about to be harvested places it at 5,000,000 bushel less than last year.

Last week's world's shipments of wheat were 10,512,000 bushel, compared with 11,008,000 bushel a year ago. The visible supply of wheat on Monday was 39,370,000 bushel against 33,744,000 bushel in 1904.

Oats are half a cent higher on the strength of shorter supplies. The visible supply on Monday was 11,248,000 bushel against 27,913,000 bushel a year ago and 24,324,000 bushel in 1904.

TORONTO.

GRAIN. — Western wheat is higher. The snow storm and the end of the month approaching have made operators anxious to cover contracts for November. Millers are buying only in immediate requirements. Ontario wheat is quiet. Oats are advanced 1-2c.

SULTANA RAISINS.

Interesting Report by a reliable Smyrna Firm—Fig Crop.

The following report on the Sultana raisin and fig situation, was received this week by P. L. Mason & Co., Toronto, from C. Whitall & Co., one of the most substantial and reliable firms in Smyrna:—

SULTANAS.—It is now possible to arrive with a certain accuracy at the probable result of the yield of sultanas this season.

The total sales to date including Smyrna, Vourla, Cesme and Carabournou, amount to 7,800 tons.

Stocks remaining in the country are estimated at 17,000 bags, equal to 6,000 tons, total 23,800 tons.

We have made every effort to obtain the most reliable information with regard to stocks lying in the country and although the reports we have received show some divergence, we have in the majority of instances, included in the above list, the maximum figures received. At the same time we must point out that dealers here are not inclined to assess stocks remaining in the country at over 4,500 to 5,000 tons It is interesting to compare the above figures with last year's statistical position at the same date:—

Total sales to date as above, 17,800 tons in 1906, 32,000 tons in 1905.

Stock in Smyrna to date, 1,300 tons in 1906, 4,000 tons in 1905.

Total stocks remaining at this date, 6,000 tons in 1906, 23,000 tons in 1905.

No doubt can now exist about the shortage of the production this season, and it has merely become a question at present whether the eventual result will prove nearer 22,000 or 24,000 tons.

Our market presently is extremely irregular. Stocks have sunk to a dangerously low figure, and arrivals from the interior are steadily diminishing. On the other hand, demand till last week has been very active, and continental buyers, who had practically kept aloof throughout September, have within the past fortnight operated with more freedom and the latest cable advices from Germany would warrant the expectation that further supplies will be required by that country. Symrna dealers are very bullish in their view, and are in no way inclined to sell the small stocks they have on hand except at a further substantial margin of advance. Business is becoming very difficult to work, as much owing to the scarcity of low and medium qualities, and the consequent difficulty of grading standards, as to the reluctance of dealers to bind themselves to the firm offer of their fruit even for an interval of twenty-four hours.

FIGS—Total arrivals to date amount to 99,242 camel loads, as compared with 89,068 loads in 1905. In spite of the prospect of the production exceeding last season's record total of 108,000 loads, or say about 23,500 tons, prices have been steadily advancing since the middle of September, and the demand prevailing still continues to absorb all daily arrivals.

W. B. Stringer of W. B. Stringer & Company, fruit brokers, Toronto, was in Montreal for a short time this week, and gave the Grocer a call.

SOAP ADVANCED.

Surprise and Eclipse Soap has been advanced by the manufacturers to the extent of 30 cents a case. A prominent wholesaler, speaking to the Grocer about the advance, thought that Danial J. Sully was responsible for the action of the manufacturers. "Sully, the former cotton king," said he "has now a heavy interest in an American soap firm capitalized at $1,500,000. This company has cornered the tallow market, and thus forced soap makers to advance their price. I would not be at all surprised to see more advances within a few days."

Castile soap quotations have been withdrawn from the market for the time being. By some, this action is attributed to the recent soap combine in England.

looks out for advancing markets, and is generally pretty well corned.

The retail merchants held a meeting lately, and discussed the pedlar nuisance. They are pleased with the changes and hope the officials in each city will do their duty. That's the weak spot. We have too many wooden officials who do nothing but draw their salary. They actually don't know the by-laws on the books. The Government should hold examinations of officials and displace the incompetent. Then we would have some recompense for our trouble in getting by-laws passed, as it is, it is sawing wood with a toothless blade, and is much against the grain.

The Kingston retail merchants at present are united and working in harmony.

There is very little price cutting going on which goes a long way to foster good feeling.

Regarding by-laws, such as Transient Traders, Pedlars, Early Closing, etc., well, we have them on our Statutes, but the difficulty is this, the officials are so long in service they simply won't bother themselves and attend sharply to offenders. We have a good magistrate, who acts fairly to all, and will punish law breakers when brought before him. Merchants do not feel like becoming informers on each other. The police are paid to do this work, and their chief should see that they do it, until which time peddlers and hawkers will have full sway and free trade.

Our Government Dairy School, under the management of J. W. Mitchell, B. A., opened November 19. Mr. Mitchell advertised, and offered the farmers around Kingston $1.30 for their milk, 10 cents higher than last year. Mr. Polley, proprietor of the Clarified Milk Company, offers the same, and it is a question if enough milk will be obtained in the neighborhood to keep the milk churns and churn presses busy at the school. Last year the Victorian Creamery, Lindsay, sent their cream to the Dairy School, and the students were kept busy making pasteurized butter and white and colored cheese.

The attendance at the school last year was large. They came from all over the globe to learn the art and they were a happy and jolly lot of young men.

James McCulla, proprietor of the Belfast Tea House, has been on the sick list for several weeks, he is now able to stand behind the counter and receive the good wishes of his friends and customers, who were anxious about him. He is one of the many grocers who believes in early closing, and enjoys a drive in his runabout every evening.

The stock and effects of Wm. Pollick Baker, were put up at public auction this week. William was a hard worker and built up a large trade. He had a genial manner and was liked by all his customers. Family troubles caused financial cramps and William took Horace Greeley's advice and went West. His assets about covered his liabilities.

Jas. E. Purdy, for many years clerk in Gilbert's main store, bought out Harry Newbury, and is paddling his own canoe. Harry Newbury went out to have a look at the great Northwest, to see if the hills are as green as pictured. He may find some of them white before he returns.

GALT.

A. Hollands and A. McAuley, formerly with the Galt branch of the Wm. Davies Company, will open up a new meat and provision store on South Water street, next month. The store is a large double one ,and was recently occupied by Norris & Lockhart, plumbers. Mr. Hollands, who was manager at the Wm. Davies Company's store, has been succeeded by W. M. Hall of Toronto.

John Sloan was in London last week on business.

Hugh Walker of Deans & Walker, Main street, made the remark to your correspondent that his firm had recently experienced considerable difficulty in securing a prompt delivery of orders placed with Toronto wholesale houses.

"Last week," he said, "we placed an order with a Toronto house for a commodity of which we were entirely out. The firm's representative assured us that we would have the goods here next day. The consignment has not yet arrived, and we have had the Toronto house on the 'phone and on the broiler several times. It would seem as though the Toronto houses were almost independent of us. If we thought we could get better satisfaction from some other house we should certainly give another house our orders. But they are all the same."

The Grocers' Section of the Retail Merchants' Association, the Galt branch of which was recently re-organized, is in good working order and practically every grocer in town is a member. It is confidently expected that the work of the section will be of great benefit to the trade. The chairman of the section, is John Sloan, and the other members are: A. Deans, J. H. Laird, Wm. McKenzie, Wm. Mullett, P. Radigan and Hugh Walker.

It is a somewhat remarkable fact that the grocers of Galt control the prices on the market each Saturday. The Galt market is a large one, but there is absolutely no advantage to be derived by townspeople purchasing their supplies there. The prices on all produce are controlled by the prices ruling in the grocery stores . Last week eggs sold for 30 cents on the market, while in the grocery stores the price was 28c. This is an instance in which the price in the grocery stores was less than on the market. And there are frequently other instances of this character.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I.

Charlottetown, Nov. 19, 1906.

Oats are very scarce and prices rule high. Well informed persons predict $1.00 oats before spring.

Potatoes are almost a failure. Prices are higher than ever known.

Among the traveling men who lately returned to the mainland with well filled order books was H. B. Potter, representing the Gold Dust Twins and Sunny Monday Soap.

Major Ed. Lalibertre, of the Quebec fur house of that name, was here the past week and reported good sales for this time of year. Mr. Lalibertre reports furs as high this year.

P.E.I. oysters are very high and scarce. The S.S. Concouna took out 500 barrels on her last trip.

After an absence of five years the genial representative of Magic Baking Powder, T. T. Cartwright, has been a welcome visitor to the trade here. Mr. Cartwright has just returned from an extended trip to Newfoundland in the interests of the E. W. Gillett Co.

W. W. Walker, formerly with Sidney Grey, has branched out in the grocery and fruit business for himself, being a popular young man he will without doubt do a good business.

Carvell Bros. are very busy these days, their business is away ahead of last year. They are large importers and exporters. They recently made a large shipment of P.E.I. produce to Newfoundland.

A. Campbell, M.P., proprietor of Campbell's Flour Mills, Toronto Junction, was a visitor the past week. Mr. Campbell's Queen City Flour is extensivey used in P.E.I. It has been well advertised under the supervision of Mr. Campbell's son.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Another Estimate of the Cranberry Crop—Storms Lessen Fish Supply, Cold Weather Increases Demand—Potatoes More Plentiful.

There is a general quietness in the fruit market. In most cases, lines which have changed show a decline. Cranberries are still advancing, though not to any marked extent. The most recent reports state that shipments from Massachusetts to date exceed the total crop for 1905 by 50 per cent., and as a considerable quantity will be held in reserve for later winter trade, conservative estimates place this year's crop at nearly double that of last year, or approximately 250,000 barrels. According to these figures it would appear that the price of cranberries has almost reached its highest point for the season.

In vegetables there is practically no change. Potatoes are now fairly plentiful in all markets, and there is a good trade.

Storms continue to cause scarcity in the supply of fish. A shipment of frozen British Columbia halibut and salmon has just arrived in Toronto direct from the Coast, instead of by the usual route via Montreal.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS. — In green fruits there is not very much trade passing at present. Local navigation will soon close, and dealers are making such shipments as they may have, as quickly as possible. Apples continue very interesting, and some good orders are being filled this week. There is quite a rush to fill late orders for export. Prices continue unchanged. There is a brisk demand for bananas, which are in good supply, and which are quoted at very good prices for buyers.

VEGETABLES. — In the vegetable trade locally, there is very little business being done. Dealers appear to be resting on their oars for the time being. Prices rule steady. Boston lettuce has been advanced 25c., and wax and green beans are lower, but otherwise quotations show no change. Potatoes are in good supply, and fairly good trade is being done at current prices. Onions are selling freely, and some business is being done in carrots, beets and cabbage, while tomatoes are subject to very good demand.

FISH.—Better business in all lines is being done as the weather becomes cooler. Dealers are hoping that the frost will soon be here to stay. The season for Malpeque oysters is now about over, and dealers no longer quote. Bulk oysters have been advanced in price owing to stormy weather, which interferes with the fishing. Storms are also responsible for continued high prices on haddock and cod, which are scarce. New frozen sea and lake fish are arriving in good quantities, and the quality is said to be good. In smoked fish, the feature is the scarcity of haddies, occasioned by the limited supply of fresh haddock. Yarmouth bloaters and kippers are in small supply. There is a good strong demand for green cod, arrivals of which are fairly large. Labrador herrings are firm.

TECHNICAL LECTURES FOR CLERKS.

The Toronto Grocery Clerks' Association met in their rooms in the Temple Building last week and spent an enjoyable social evening.

The entertainment committee decided to attempt a course of technical lectures on trade subjects, beginning with the January meeting. There are between three and four hundred grocery clerks in the city and all will be welcome to these lectures whether members of the association or not.

PATIENCE

The little boy said, "when I catch this fish and two more I shall have three." If his bait, patience, and fishing were good he probably got 'em.

We believe it is only a question of time and truthful advertising until the Canadian Householders "get the habit" of asking "GENTLY BUT FIRMLY" for SKIPPER SARDINES.

SKIPPER SARDINES have not that pronouncedly smokey flavor found in other brands of Norwegian Sardines. SKIPPER is in a class by itself. These Sardines are the British Housekeeper's Favorite Brand, and will suit your customers to a "T."

WE WILL MAIL A TIN TO ANY DEALER IN THE DOMINION, SO THAT THE "SKIPPER" CLAIM MAY BE INVESTIGATED.

Attach Importance To What Is Important

Cigar selection is an important matter—Important to you, because on the wisdom of your selection depends the earning power of your stock—Important to your friends, because on the wisdom of your recommendation depends the number of times they'll be seen at your store.

Smokers require value consistency, taste evenness in cigars. Pebble and Pharaoh take full marks on these points.

And these very cigars are included in a "500" assortment that I am now offering to the grocery trade on the "three months" basis.

POTATO CROP IN NOVA SCOTIA

Less Than 3-4 of an Average—Large Shipments to Cuban Ports—Old Varieties Run Out—Getting New Ones From Scotland.

(Special Correspondence of The Canadian Grocer.)

The introduction of new varieties of potatoes into Nova Scotia by the farmers of the Annapolis and the Cornwallis valleys is looked forward to with much interest in this province. The present varieties are about run out, and as the farmers now find a good demand not on the local, but on the foreign markets, they have to introduce new stock. Several varieties of Scotch potatoes have been imported, and they come highly recommended as good yielders, and of very fine flavor. The crop this year is much shorter than the average, and this is accounted for by the varieties running out. There is a good demand for all the potatoes available, particularly from Havana and other Cuban ports, where large shipments are now being made almost every week. New Brunswick potatoes are always in good demand here, and find ready sale at top prices. They are very dry potatoes, and of good flavor, but the shipments to the Halifax market are very limited, as the cost of transportation keeps the price high. The Prince Edward potatoes are the best sellers here, the variety being Calicoes, Dakotas, and Whites. They are brought here in bulk, and sell low from vessels at the wharves. While these potatoes keep longer, they have not the flavor of the New Brunswick or Nova Scotia varieties.

Advices from Prince Edward state that produce promises to be high there this season, owing to the shortage in the crops. A number of vessels are receiving cargoes for the provincial markets, principally Halifax and Sydney. The price there has advanced to 35c. for potatoes, and 40c. for oats, an inducement to the farmer to market his product more freely. There is a good demand for produce, buyers being out on the road importuning the farmers for their loads. The crop in many sections is not half of that of last season. Some of the farmers have not enough for their own use. Potatoes are quoted here at 60c. per bushel, but a drop in the price is looked for as soon as the vessels come in with their cargoes. There is an abundant crop of turnips in the Cornwallis valley this year. In fact they are so plentiful that the farmers are feeding them to their stock.

The following statements, taken from the crop report which will shortly be published, give the average estimate from 130 correspondents throughout the various parts of Nova Scotia in regard to the crop yield of the past season. To average these figures will scarcely give a fair estimate of the conditions prevailing in any one community, more particularly as there is this year a wide variation in the crop returns. Some farmers, living on dry, hilly farms, especially in the centre of the province, claiming that crops were never worse, and others, especially in the Cape Breton Counties, claiming that the season has been an unusually good one. The returns, made upon the basis of 100 for an average crop, are as follows: Hay, 96 per cent.; Oats, 80 per cent.; Wheat, 83 per cent.; Barley, 81 per cent.; Rye, where grown, 95 per cent.; Buckwheat, 83 per cent.; Beans and Peas, where grown, 91 per cent.; Indian Corn, grown mostly for fodder, 94 per cent.; Potatoes, 71 per cent.; Mangles and Turnips, 85 per cent. For apples, the average report is about 70 per cent., although it might be stated that with this crop, as well as with the general farm crops, the difference in the yield in different communities is very great. In Gravensteins, for example, the estimate runs all the way from 20 per cent. to 95 per cent., with an average of 67 per cent., and for Bishop Pippins, 60 per cent.; for Blenheim Pippins, 70 per cent.; for Ribston Pippins, 77 per cent.; for Ben Davis, 70 per cent.; for Nonpareils, 76 per cent. For plums and pears the estimate is a 62 per cent. crop, and for the small fruit the average reports indicate an 85 per cent. crop.

W. J. Elliott, Coldwater, who was burned out last summer, has purchased a store in a block recently built by H. Borland, next door to the Bank of Toronto, and has moved in. The building is brick and has a plate glass front. Mr. Elliott has added boots and shoes to his grocery stock.

NEW FISHING ENTERPRISE.

Magdalen Fisheries Limited, is the name of a new fishing enterprise which has been established. The new company will be one of the largest of its kind, and will have for its business the development of the fisheries of the Magdalen Islands. The company has been formed by capitalists in Montreal, Quebec and the Lower Provinces, and C. E. Archibald of Montreal, is the president and managing director. Modern plants are being erected on the Islands, and on the mainland, on which over $100,000 will be spent. The company will be in a position to carry on business with the opening of the spring season. One of the chief ends in view is the supplying of bait to the fishermen on the banks, both Canadian and American. Each year these fishermen congregate at the Magdalen Islands. A packing business will also be transacted, canned lobsters being shipped to all parts of Canada, and also to the States. The fresh mackerel business will be given attention as will also the cod, herring and smelt fishing. A large chemical freezer will be erected on the mainland, while there will be others on the Islands. It is expected that business may be done with centres as far west as Chicago. When their plant is quite completed considerable attention will be given to smoked fish, this line being considered a good one to develop.

Cream of tartar is advancing, and indications point to still higher prices.

VISITED GROCERS' EXHIBITION.

W. Crooks, Coplestone, has returned from an eight weeks' visit to the Old Country. He reports a thoroughly enjoyable trip, this being his first visit home in 20 years. His old friends were still on hand, and the family circle yet unbroken. Mr. Crooks visited the largest grocery stores in London, and attended the Grocers' Exhibition. The most striking differences which he noted between English stores and our own were the elaborate decorations entered into in the former, and the amount of light deemed necessary for them. He considers the English grocer quite abreast of the times. Mr. Crooks' return voyage was made on the Empress of Britain, and he was charmed with the provision made for the comfort of the passengers.

Interesting But Not New

We mean the oft repeated tale of increased sales of RISING SUN Stove Polish in cakes and SUN PASTE Stove Polish in tins. This season history repeats itself and shows our sales of both styles of our goods very largely in advance of our sales for corresponding period last year. This interests you almost as much as it interests us because it proves for you our claims to superiority. Push RISING SUN and SUN PASTE: It pays to do it.

The Turned-Down Corners

Here and there in the Ledger of Life you have turned down the corner of a page for remembrance sake—you'd forget something if the turned-down corner wasn't there.

To-day, turn down a corner deep and wide to remember this one sure fact : "Quality is remembered long after price is forgotten." Every time you come to that particular page—remember. Every time you try to sell inferior quality, think of the turned-down corner—what it stands for, and what it really means to your success.

"Long Terms" Versus "Best Values"

We have often observed that in buying Teas, many dealers pay more attention to a four months' postponement of pay-day on large lots, than close values and short datings on small ones.

The far-sighted merchant buys "SALADA" Ceylon Teas on 30 days, and is enabled to turn over four or five purchases on these terms, while he would be disposing of one of the "long-winded transactions."

He makes more money, and holds his customers' trade, because fresh Tea is good Tea. It's "Wisdom" versus "Folly," that's all.

Japan Teas are losing favor.

"SALADA" Ceylon Greens are gaining . . . Can we tell you the reason why? "A postal enquiry will bring enlightenment."

ATTACK ON CANADIAN CHEESE REFUTED

Under the heading "Canadian Cheese under Suspicion," the Daily Consular Report, published by the Department of Trade and Commerce, at Washington, recently printed the following:

"Canadian cheese makers have during the last ten years gained a strong position in this market, but the reputation of their product here seems to have been adversely affected by reports which recently came to this side in regard to the general management of milk in Canada. In the Edinburgh Scotsman of Sept. 7, the agricultural editor says:

"'At the recent medical congress in Toronto, an exceedingly interesting and suggestive paper on the control of milk supplies was read by Professor Harcourt, of the Guelph Agricultural College, Ontario. He had great fault to find with the manner in which milk was kept and handled in Canada, and he added the remarkable statement that if a commission were appointed in that country to investigate the conditions under which milk was handled and delivered to the consumer, the report of the commission would be worse than the recent revelations relating to the meat-packing establishments in Chicago. If the general handling of milk in Canada is so unsatisfactory as this statement would indicate, it will hardly be contended that Canadian cheese is entirely beyond suspicion. Here, indeed, there is additional evidence of the need for increased vigilance on the part of our own authorities in testing and checking the purity and quality of imported dairy and other produce.'"

The Canadian Grocer wrote to Prof. Harcourt, inclosing the paragraph from the "Reports," and asked for a statement. Prof. Harcourt's reply follows:

"In reply to your request for some comment on the clipping from the U.S. Consular Report enclosed in your letter of recent date, I may say that the paper referred to was given before the State Medicine Section of the British Medical Association, which met in Toronto last August. The subject, which was taken up at the request of the secretary of the section, was "The Protection and Control of the Milk Supply." As the section was composed almost entirely of medical health officers, the question under discussion was naturally the milk supply of our towns and cities, and no reference was made to the quality of milk delivered at our cheese and butter factories. The object of the paper was to show the value of milk as food, to point out some of the common sources of contamination, and thus draw attention to the need of closer inspection.

"It is well known that, except in some few places, there is no system of inspection of the milk delivered in our villages, towns and cities that is worthy of the name. The larger dairy companies do exercise a close inspection of the source of their supply, and in some few cases milk producers are seeking to give their customers milk of the quality known as "certified," but this forms a comparatively small percentage of the whole of the milk consumed in the province.

"In the paper in question, I made the following statements regarding milk:

"'If the true value of milk as a food was more fully appreciated, it would be used much more freely. Chemical analyses and experience prove that among all our food materials there are none more wholesome than good pure milk. It is cheap, palatable, easily digested, and highly nutritious. Its value as an article of diet for children and invalids is fully recognized; but for adults in good health, it is too frequently regarded as a luxury to be used as a condiment with tea, coffee and fruit, and as an adjunct in cooking. Milk is, however, not only a condiment and beverage, but it is a food, and a valuable one.

"On the other hand, the very qualities which make milk such a desirable food, also render it undesirable from another standpoint. It is a particularly fine media for the growth of bacteria; and, as a result of the manner of its production and the way it is commonly handled, it is subject to contamination with bad flavors, dirt, and all the myriads of germs usually associated with the dust that accumulates in the stable.

"'The taste and purity of milk is influenced in many ways. Bad flavors may be given to it from the food eaten by the cow, by the foul air the animal is compelled to breath, by the products of certain germs, or by the direct absorption of bad odors. Milk is practically never free from bacteria, and, even with the utmost care it is impossible to altogether prevent further contamination. Under the usual conditions, hairs and scales from the body, dust from the udder, sides of the cow, and from the air in the stable, and even dried particles of animal manure all loaded with germ life find their way into the milk during the milking operations. When it is allowed to stand exposed in the stable until the milking is completed, as is frequently the case, more organisms are added. Further, when being delivered, it is again liable to be contaminated from the dust of the roads. In some cases partially cleaned bottles taken from one house are filled at the wagon and delivered at the next. In these and many other ways, milk may be contaminated with bacteria of various kinds and dirt of all descriptions. In fact, it is quite probable that if a commission was appointed to investigate the condition of the milk supply, a worse state of affairs would be found existing than reported of the United States meat packing houses.'

"It must not be forgotten that nearly all milk is consumed in the raw state, consequently, all the bacteria, whether of disease or otherwise, are taken into the system in an active condition and for this reason milk is more dangerous than cooked foods.

"After calling attention to the value of pasteurization and the danger of the use of preservatives, I stated:

"'In justice to the producers, it may be stated that they are not altogether to blame for the present state of affairs. The consumers have not, as a class, made themselves familiar with the nature of milk in order that they may intelligently judge of its quality and understand the care it requires after it is delivered. They have not shown a disposition to encourage the sale of the pure article to the extent of being willing to pay more for it. A really good milk cannot be produced as cheaply as the ordinary kind, and when the price of milk is raised, the consumer, not appreciating the added value, objects to paying the advanced price. This naturally discourages further efforts towards improvement. However, when consumers awaken to the true nature of the ordinary trade milk and realize the risk they are running in using it, and demand milk of known quality and purity and are willing to pay for it, such milk will be supplied.'

"'In conclusion, it may be stated that on every hand there is evidence of the need of closer inspection. Milk is an opaque substance which naturally hides impurities and adulterations and is particularly liable to serious contamination. There are, and doubtless always will be, certain men in the milk trade who, from the slovenly methods they employ, are a disgrace to the business and a menace to the health of the community. A system of inspection should be instituted and a standard of quality and purity for market milk should be devised, that will force these men out of business, encourage the careful producer and improve the quality of the milk offered for sale."

"In view of the fact that milk is so largely used by infants and invalids and that medical men state that the high rate of mortality among infants is due to impure milk, it is surely evident that everything possible ought to be done to insure milk being pure and to prevent this waste of life. Those interested in cheese factory work are at present asking the Government to arrange for a systematic inspection of the source of supply and of the handling of the milk for cheese factories. Why should there not be some more perfect and searching inspection of the ordinary market milk?"

Prof. Harcourt makes it plain that the Scotsman has been misinformed, but he does not tell what is being done to safeguard the quality of the milk consumed in the manufacture of cheese and butter, nor does he tell the methods in operation for the improvement of the dairy industry.

The Ontario Government is spending over $65,000 a year for the improvement of dairying in this Province. This is divided as follows: Grants to dairymen's Asosciation, $4.000; dairy instruction and inspection, $35,200; three dairy schools, $24,000; contingencies, $2,000.

There are two Dairymen's Associations, the Eastern and Western, and hold each year a number of meetings of milk producers for the study of the dairy industry. These meetings are analogous to the Farmers' Institute meetings, and are for the improvement of dairying methods. The Associations also confer with the Government regarding the improvement of the industry.

This season 39 men spent their whole time in the work of instruction and inspection in creameries and cheese factories. The factories which received instruction were required to pay a fee to the Department covering about one third of the total expenditure. Approximately three-fourths of the factories and creameries received instruction during the past season.

There are in the Province 1,250 cheese factories and 115 creameries. At the last session of the Legislature the Department was authorized to appoint two sanitary inspectors. The Act is named "An Act to amend the Act to Prevent Fraud in the Manufacture of Cheese and Butter." Besides providing for the appointment of sanitary inspectors the Act provides:

No person supplying milk or cream to a cheese factory or creamery shall keep his dairy, milk house, milk stand, or any vessels or equipment used for the storing or the carrying of milk or cream, in an unclean or unsanitary condition.

"Every cheese factory and creamery manufacturing butter or cheese for public use or sale, and the surroundings of every such cheese factory and creamery shall be kept in a clean and sanitary condition, and all the water used therein for the manufacture of any dairy products must be clean and pure."

A maximum penalty of $200 is provided.

Instruction has been carried on by the Government to a limited extent for 20 years, but it was not until 1901 that the factories were formed into groups and the work was done systematically and thoroughly. There were then seven inspectors in Eastern and three in Western Ontario.

The appointment last year of two sanitary inspectors was an experiment. It has worked so well that at the coming session of the Legislature the advance is to be made of clothing all the inspectors with the authority of sanitary inspectors.

At a meeting recently in Toronto of inspectors, chief instructors and representatives of the Dairy Associations called by the Government, four sugestions were made which it was authoritatively stated at the Department, would be embodied in an Act at the approaching session. The suggestions are:

1. That the province be sub-divided so that each inspector should have about thirty-five factories or creameries, under his charge. This would require a staff of thirty-eight instructor-inspectors. The instructor-inspectors will visit many farms and advise with the producers as to the best method of producing the desired quality of milk. In the opinion of the chief instructors the chief essentials in producing a first-class article is that the raw material receive proper attention by the producer and milk hauler. Chief instructors Barr and Publow stated that 90 per cent. of the rejections can be traced to inferior raw material."

2. That every factory or creamery be charged a fee of $12 to help defray the expense. The appropriation required would be $42,700. and the proceeds of the $12 tax would amount to $16,000.

3. That the instructor-inspector be required to test milk and cream for adulteration only on application, and after preliminary tests by factorymen have shown ground for suspicion.

4. That any owner or manager of, or assistant in a cheese or butter manufactory who shall knowingly receive or make ino cheese or butter any milk or cream that is tainted, gassy, overripe, or delivered in rusty or unclean cans or utensils, or in which a preservative of any description has been used, or which has been drawn from cows suffering from lump-jaw or other infectious disease, shall be liable to a fine. We now have a provision under which the producer can be prosecuted, provided he sell or supply to a cheese or butter manufactory any milk that is tainted or badly soured, and it is thought to be distinctly in the interests of the industry to have a provision by which a maker or proprietor can be dealt with provided he accepts any such milk to be manufactured into a food product for general use. This will have the effect of practically prohibiting a maker from accepting milk of inferior quality which has been refused at a factory.

Three quarters of the cheese exported from Canada is produced in Ontario. Most of the other quarter originates in Quebec and there the methods are similar to those in use in Ontario.

WINNIPEG CIVICS.

Disappointing in the extreme is the failure of the various committees of commercial organizations in Winnipeg, to present to the electors a business men's ticket for the new Board of Control. At an enthusiastic and well attended meeting, held a few weeks ago, it was decided to ask J. H. Ashdown to stand for the Mayoralty, requisitions were circulated and shortly after Mr. Ashdown consented. This was good work, but it is necessary that the Mayor should have the support of a business council and a Board of Control composed of men of more than ordinary intelligence and capacity. To the task of securing suitable candidates for the Board of Control—candidates worthy of the endorsation of the various commercial and professional organizations of the city—the committee bent their energies, but they did not succeed in arriving at any definite tangible results. The men whose candidature was most desired refused to stand and, rather than give four mediocre candidates the endorsation of the business organizations of the city, it was finally decided to make no recommendations for the Board of Control.

It was indeed disappointing that the committee should have failed in this undertaking, for it is as important that Winnipeg should have a good Board of Control, as a good Mayor. There seems now to be little doubt of Mr. Ashdown's election—probably by acclamation—and Winnipeg is therefore assured of a good businesslike head of her civic administration; but it must be disappointing to Mr. Ashdown that he is not to have the support in the Board of Control of at least one or two of the leading business men of the city.

BOARD OF TRADE ACTIVITY.

King's County Academy in Kentville, N.S., the institution of secondary education in that district has not been meeting the educational requirements of the neighborhood. The Kentville Board of Trade has a school committee and has had the matter under consideration for some time. At a recent monthly meeting of the Board the principal at the invitation of the Board spoke on the needs of the Academy and Public School. The Western Chronicle's report of the meeting contained :

On motion Principal Fairweather was made a member of the School Committee of the Board. It was decided to work in union with the regular School Board of the town and start with a public meeting in the Court House and get the parents in touch with the staff of teachers and get the citizens more interested in the school and in this way make Kentville in the lead as a residential town as the better the school the greater the chance to get people to move in.

This is in a Board of Trade, enterprise and public spirit. In every town of the size of Kentville in Canada about 1800 population improvements or progressive movements are needed that could be expeditiously effected by the co-operation of the citizens under the leadership of the organized business interests in the Board of Trade. The Board of Trade activity of the Maritime Provinces is a worthy example for all the rest of Canada.

ELECTING BANK DIRECTORS.

A bank director, the head of one of the largest mercantile institutions in Toronto, stated the other day that bank directors were appointed by the managers. That he asserts, was the practical result of the method in vogue. At the annual meeting of shareholders a ballot bearing the names of persons to be voted for as directors was handed each shareholder. These ballots were prepared by the manager and, all the shareholders had to do was mark the ballots and pass them back. That gave the form of election.

It's the shareholders' fault. Their money is at stake and any of them could nominate other directors. It might be scandalous but it would be only business. Many people regard banks with feeling of awe, the real temples of mammon, scarcely to be entered with one's boots on, and the Board Room as the Holy of Holies. A bank deals in money, securities and credit, just as a grocer deals in food stuffs and they hustle for business too. When bank shareholders in annual meeting realize their possibilities they will no longer continue as the great seal of the institution in the hands of the general manager.

REVIVALS AND EARLY CLOSING.

A Brandon, Man., dealer, in conversation recently with The Canadian Grocer said a good word for Crossley and Hunter the well known traveling evangelists.

"I can't say that I am much in love with the revival methods," he said, "but I must say that I noticed one good effect after the Crossley and Hunter meetings held a while ago. Mr. Hunter gave the people some plain talk about the injustice and imposition in making the stores keep open on Saturday night until long after midnight attending to late deliveries of goods that might just as well have been ordered earlier in the day. You know some people order goods at 11 o'clock that might just as easily have been ordered in the morning, and they want delivery that same night. Mr. Hunter's plain talk on this subject had a big effect at first but things are getting as bad as ever again."

"No Brandon isn't any worse in this respect than other towns, but its bad enough. People are thoughtless that's all."

Perhaps if dealers in Brandon and numerous other towns where storekeeprs are similarly troubled would ask their local papers to take the matter up there would be a change for the better. A few paragraphs in the local paper should be as effective as an evangelist's address in reminding people of the injustice their thoughtlessness entails.

SETTLING OF THE WEST.

Much has been said and written about the foreign invasion of Western Canada. People of all lands are seeking to make for themselves new and happier homes in the Canadian West, but a survey of the homesteading returns give the assurance that the prairies and the coast province will be not very different from the rest of Canada.

During August, for instance, there were 3,388 homesteaders located, and of these only about 10 per cent—to be exact, 373—were alien of tongue and origin.

From Eastern Canada came 687, and it will be reassuring to the Maritime provinces to know that 590 of them were from Ontario. There were 259 natives of the West and 940 Americans.

During the first eight months of this year, 110,527 immigrants arrived in Canada, against 85,722, during the same period a year ago. Of these, 92,579 were of British origin. There were 71,000 English, 17,000 Scotch and 3,000 Irish.

ONTARIO'S DIARY INDUSTRY.

Distorting Prof. Harcourt's address before health officers upon the lack of inspection of urban milk supplies into an attack upon the Canadian cheese industry is a sample of yellow journalism for which the Edinburgh Scotsman is probably not responsible. We assume at any rate that they asked their information as it reached them from this side. Curiously enough the Canadian daily press has not found time to take this question up. The American consular service were quick to seize upon matter detrimental to one of Canada's most important industries. The Canadian Grocer wrote to Prof. Harcourt and his reply stating the case very clearly is contained in this issue and will be interesting reading to all interested in the dairy industry.

It is not pretended that the handling of milk in Ontario is ideal, but it is a safe assertion that it is handled as well here, all things considered, as it is anywhere in the world. The Ontario Government is spending $60,000 a year on the improvement of the dairy industry in the Province. The Dominion Government is spending large sums in the interest of the export branch of the trade. The Provincial Government by dairy schools, assistance to the dairy associations and the provision of farmers' institute lectures is endeavoring to improve the industry from the producing side; by maintaining a corp of competent instructors to improve the manufacturing branch. Last year two sanitary inspectors were appointed with power to enforce improvements. Next year all of the two score inspectors are to have the powers of sanitary inspectors, and their duties will take them to the farmers as well as to the factories.

These facts together with the phenominal growth of the industry speak for themselves, and give assurance both as to the methods in vogue and the progressiveness of the dairy industry in Canada.

POTATOES.

An experimental shipment of Michigan potatoes has been brought into Ontario, but until Canadian potatoes go considerably higher, the importation of the tubers is not likely to assume large proportations. The duty is 15c. per bushel, and the Michigan variety is not as good by 5c. a bag as the eastern Delawares.

The action of the wholesale potato dealers in agreeing to make 80 lbs. a bag of potatoes, and to charge for the bag with the potatoes will at least simplify matters. Dealers, both wholesale and retail will know what they are doing, and it is not unlikely that bags will be better taken care of. It is a curious instance of the influences that directs trade in certain channels. Sugar is heavy, and a hundred pounds of it is smaller than ninety pounds of pototoes.

TRAVELERS' TAX MAY BE ABOLISHED.

During the recent conference of Provincial premiers held in Ottawa, which consulted Sir Wilfred Laurier on divers questions relative to the welfare of the provinces, there was a satisfactory consideration of the tax on non-resident commercial travelers which is levied on them by the provinces of British Columbia and Prince Edward Island and the tax on foreign travelers in Quebec Province. As the tax stands to-day in the province of Quebec, it calls for the payment of $300 per year for those travelers calling on liquor firms; a yearly tax of $100 on those calling on wholesale houses only; $200 per year on those calling on both wholesale and retail houses. A six months license is sold and cuts these figures in half. British Columbia has a nominal tax of $100 on all travelers representing firms outside the province. Prince Edward Island has a nominal tax of $20 on travelers who represent firms outside of the province. These three provinces are seriously considering a withdrawal of the tax much to the joy of all those concerned. With the abolishing of this business-restraining tax there will be removed the veritable thorn from the side of enterprising commerce.

In these columns the various phases of the question have been discussed from time to time. It is sincerely hoped that the next reference made to it will be its obituary notice. Such a task will be superlatively pleasant.

There is but little satisfaction to be derived from such a law, its benefits were probably known only to the provincial treasury coffers; long ago it was condemned by prudent men who thought that if protection were required, from trespassers on Canadian commerce, the tariff should serve that purpose, and if one province claimed more protection than another, it was a feeble way of admitting weakness, or a very questionable method of relieving distressed poverty.

The repealing of the law will once again fling open the doors of these provinces to all comers and stamp out a petty piece of provincialism that is not in keeping with the spirit of the age. They will be freed from a stultifying yoke of which they were ashamed. It is a sagacious decision and will be hailed with delight by all those who hold their province on the same level as their sister provinces.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Along with the report that increased importation of tea has lessened the consumption of beer in England comes the statement that the use of beer in Ireland has also declined from 30.25 gallons per head of population in 1895 to 27.90 gallons in 1905.

What wool and mutton mean to Australia is forcibly shown by recent reports, which indicate that there are now 93,000,000 sheep in the country, with New Zealand included, where there are almost 20,000,000. The exportable wool last year came to 1,860,455 bales, worth $116,305,055, an increase of about $25,000,000 as compared with the previous year.

American butter at Veracruz, Mexico, reports U. S. Consul Canada, sells for 60 cents per pound can, the home-made article at 50 cents, and Spanish butter at 40 cents. Several butter compounds are also sold, being put up in 5-pound cans and mostly used for cooking purposes. The Mexican laboring man, earning 75 cents a day, and the mechanic at $1.25, can not afford to buy butter at the high prices.

The Governor of New Zealand stated in the opening of Parliament at Wellington that the promotion of trade with the United States and Canada would be one of the subjects considered during the session. The members would also be asked to consider proposals for a renewal of the subsidies for the San Francisco and Vancouver mail service. The speech referred sympathetically to the proposals of reciprocity with Australia, and expressed confidence that the coming New Zealand exposition would compare favorably with old-world methods.

FROM GROCER CORRESPONDENTS

INGERSOLL.

Ingersoll, Nov. 26.

The local branch of the Retail Merchants' Association is a thoroughly wide-awake organization with much beneficial "legislation" in contemplation. The membership is large, and continues to grow at a rate that denotes a gratifying interest on the part of the merchants as a whole. I. W. Kingswood, representing the grocery trade, is the efficient president.

One important step taken by the Association was the appointment of a committee to interview Malcolm S. Schell, M.P., relative to promoting legislation regarding an amendment to section 520 of the criminal code, the object being to allow retail and wholesale merchants to confer with each other for the purpose of promoting trade interests.

Under the section of the criminal code referred to the merchants are denied this privilege. In support of their argument that they should have this privilege the merchants call attention to the fact that labor, manufacturers, and even doctors and lawyers have organized, arranged schedules of prices and taken other action promoting their own interests. In connection with the effort to have the desired amendment a petition is now in circulation which in due course of time will be forwarded to Mr. Schell.

Another phase of business life which long since became irksome to the average merchant is the constant and persistent manner in which he is solicited for contributions for "sweet charity's sake" and for other purposes. Working unitedly, the merchants have at last arrived at the conclusion that the remedy with which to abate this nuisance is in their own hands. Accordingly notice has been given that at the next meeting of the Association a resolution will be introduced looking to a discontinuance of indiscriminate giving. The merchants are agreed that they are simply being "held up" from day to day and there is every reason to believe that the motion will be carried unanimously.

Enquiry at the office of the Ingersoll Evaporator elicited the information that the output this year will be double that of last season. Lest there should be an erroneous impression it should be stated that the output generally last year was comparatively small, which will make this year's, by actual comparison, only about in keeping with the average. O. E. Robinson, formerly of the firm of Robinson Bros. grocers, whom your correspondent interviewed, stated that the major portion of the evaporated apples were being marketed in the West this year. The "sundried apples" those purchased from the farmers are being shipped as usual to Europe. There has been a good market for the evoporated product. The market opened at six cents per pound, wholesale, and has since reached seven cents per pound. The quality of the apples received at the evaporator this year were above the average.

The Ingersoll Canning Co., which was established four years ago has experienced a very gratifying growth. This season has been a very successful one and practically the entire output has been marketed which speaks well for the popularity of the goods.

KINGSTON.

The chief topic of discourse among Kingston merchants all week, was the sudden advance in several brands of soap. It came as a Surprise to them, causing dark forebodings, and one merchant wanted to know if the Eclipse would affect the Sunlight. Would it not be a wise move on the part of manufacturers to drop the prize system and give better weight—save the wrappers—save the coupons—what imposition on the public. Barnum said they liked to be humbugged, what a pity. Sunlight in Europe weighs 16 oz.; they reduced it to 15, and the retailers kicked so hard they were compelled to put it back to the old honest 16 oz. What weight do we get here? 8 oz. and save the wrappers and get toilet soaps free. Evidently the power of the Lever works like that used in the words of the old negro when they were lowering his wife into her last resting place. After singing the doxology, he with much emotion said, be careful bredden, raise her down gently, lower her up, whoa, whoa, oh deah, and they all said, amen; take Comfort brudder Johnston, take Comfort.

The Old Dutch Cleanser is here and everything looks brighter for her coming. The traveler for Old Church Catsup was around this week, he is a pretty square fellow and works hard for his firm.

We are glad to see the Knights of the Grip come and go. How we would miss that warm hand shake, that genial smile and that "by the way I have something special, just what you want," etc. We love them and their ways, and shame on the retailer who does not use them civilly. Of course there are exceptions. Some travelers are a bore.

George H. Williams, one of our busy knights of the tin-scoop, took a trip out west as far as Edmonton, and was delighted with the country. He invested, and expects gold nuggets some day.

Joseph Cullen, late of Craig & Co., wholesale grocers, and formerly of Gilbut's store, bought out Mr. Allen, cor. Princess and Alfred Sts. Joe is a hustler and should make his pile.

Kingston feels justly proud of its Wm. Lesslie, who with his gallant crew of mechanics and divers raised the big ship Bavarian. Score another for Canada.

Mr. Allen, who sold out his stock and good will to Jos. Cullen has gone back to Cobden his old home, where he conducted a large general store. If he can get suitable quarters he will again try his luck.

Herrick Roche, at one time one of our leading druggists and lately proprietor of Canadian Herb Remedy, died suddenly of heart failure, at Carberry, Man. He left here two months ago in the best of health accompanied by his wife and eldest son to push the sales of Canadian herbs. He had bright prospects ahead. He leaves a large family of little ones to mourn his loss and fight the battles of life. Through the upsetting of a lamp, after the telegram announcing his death came, his home was partly burned down, thus adding sadness to sorrow.

Mr. Lawlor, for many years clerk in McRae & Co., liquor department, has opened out on his own account on Wellington St.

A citizens' league has been formed here for the purpose of trying to have the number of wholesale and retail liquor stores reduced. There are certainly too many for the size of Kingston dispensing liquid ruin.

The genial Joe Zrasso, has opened up a meat shop on Montreal St., for the manufacture of sausages, etc., etc.

The Grocers' Association are going to take up the matter of wholesalers selling consumers directly and indirectly, that is, employers buy quantities and divide up, and also travellers selling hotels coffee, tea and other goods. They are going to spot them, and some of the knights of the grip will get the cold shoulder for being naughty.

HALIFAX.

W. H. Cawsey & Co., retail grocers, corner of Robie and Willow streets, have sold their business to Barnes Bros., and the latter have taken possession of the premises. The Messrs. Cawsey did a good trade and their store was up-to-date in every respect. The senior member of the firm, W. H. Cawsey, is an Alderman for the city and was also chairman of the Board of Fire Commissioners. He has gone to the Canadian West to settle, and his brothers who were interested in the business, and the other members of the family are soon to follow.

The grocery business in Sydney is expanding, and another wholesale house in Halifax finding that its business is so increasing there that it has decided to open a branch in the Iron City. A. & W. Smith have just completed the purchase of a fine store on one of the principal streets and will soon be ready for business. This is the second Halifax wholesale firm to open a branch of its business in Sydney this month.

A. L. Doyle & Co., who opened a branch of their grocery business on Spring Garden Road, last May, have disposed of their property and closed out the business. There still remain four retail grocery stores within a radius of one hundred yards on the same street.

GODERICH ET AL.

Huron County, always one of the best apple districts in Canada, has not fallen behind this year, by the figures now available. Mr. David Cantelon, Clinton, probably the largest shipper in the county, has closed up the season's business in this line with a final consignment which makes a total of 200 carloads, or about 35,000 barrels. Three separate orders that he filled were for five thousand barrels each, one lot going to Winnipeg and a thousand as far west as Calgary. Notwithstanding the fact that Nova Scotia is a large apple producing Province, Mr. Cantelon filled an order of 1,000 barrels for St. John. Mr. Robert Elliott has shipped 135 cars of apples from Goderich during the season, and with other shipments from other stations has sold altogether about 30,000 barrels.

Warrener Bros., Goderich, have commenced their new bakery building on Hamilton St., and have about completed the cement basement walls.

Arrangements have been made for the extension of the Bell Telephone from Goderich to Benmiller.

Gledhill Bros., Kincardine, have purchased the stock of boots and shoes and groceries belonging to the estate of the late Geo. Ballard, Clinton. Alf. Gledhill goes to Clinton to dispose of the stock.

LINDSAY.

November 25, 1906.

Lindsay is a town of about 7,800 inhabitants, and has no less than twenty-five grocery stores, half of which are located on the main street. Besides, there are two wholesale grocers and one large wholesale factory. All are apparently thriving.

The general grocery trade is good in spite of the present very bad roads. The demand for winter apples is good. The supply falls short of the demand in this section. The snow apples are of a good sample, plentiful and very reasonable in price, but the winter variety, such as greenings, Baldwins and spies are very scarce, particularly spies, which are also high in price.

"There has been," remarked a grocer, "quite a change in the dried fruit situation during the past year. Last year new Valencia raisins were selling at 3 lbs. for 25c., whereas now they sell at 3 lbs. for the same price."

Butter and fowl have been very plentiful in Lindsay, and the prices are at present a trifle easier than a couple of weeks ago. There is a splendid market for such produce in Lindsay, (the county town of Victoria County).

Adams' Bros., deal extensively in pressed hay, and sold two car loads a little while ago at $9 per ton. There has been a big demand for pressed hay this fall. Large quantities are being shipped at present to the lumber camps around here and in the north country.

A. Primeau has made extensive improvements in his store during the last week, enlarging and altering.

J. E. Adams, formerly senior member of the wholesale firm of Adams & Sparling, has gone into partnership with his brother, D. Adams

An old and respected grocery man, P. I. Hurley, died in the early part of November. He had lately been conducting a large boot and shoe business here.

Quite recently the well-known firm of Adams & Sparling, wholesale grocers, dissolved partnership. This prosperous firm opened business in February, 1905, and dissolved partnership on September 1st, 1906, F. W. B. Sparling continuing the business, under the style of F. W. B. Sparling Co. The new firm report an increased trade throughout their entire territory. A large and well-assorted stock is carried and the warehouse is conducted in first-class order. Mr. Sparling was for a number of years connected with the financial staff of H. P. Echardt & Co., Toronto, and bears the reputation of giving close application to every detail of business.

ST. CATHARINES.

The apple crop in the townships adjoining St. Catharines was a very small crop this season. The apples are of an inferior quality and consequently are not bringing good prices.

Owing to the Niagara, St. Catharines and Toronto Street Railway Company having their roads pass through Thorold, Merritton and from Port Dalhousie to St. Catharines with cheap transportation enables the citizens of these places to come to the city to do their trading and marketing which helps to fill the coffers of our merchants and tradespeople generally.

Meats of all kinds have lowered in price during the past week. The bad state of the country roads has slackened business to a large extent here as farmers and huxters will purchase at the nearest point thereby saving distance.

OTTAWA.

Business amongst retailers is reported fair. The weather is not at all the best for trade, but owing to Parliament opening on Thursday last, a stimulus has been given to business in some parts of the city. Merchants are looking forward to Christmas trade—in fact, most wish it were over, as it means a trying time endeavoring to fill so many wants at once.

The Retail Grocers' Association have their hands full at present. The new by-law regulating pedlars and transient traders, is being prepared to present to Council. The early closing petition, asking for 9 o'clock on Saturdays, is being circulated, and arrangements are being made for a joint lecture on Wednesday, 28th inst., on "Business Systems Suitable to the Retail Trade," by F. C. Gilbert, chartered accountant, and Aldolphe Provost, of Provost & Allard, wholesale grocers. This lecture is part of a series of evenings arranged for monthly, during the winter, by the Association, and it is open to all grocers, whether members of the Association or not, together with the privilege of bringing a business friend.

In connection with the pedlars and hawkers' by-law, your correspondent would like to express his feelings regarding the attitude of the members of the Association in the matter. Credit is due to the many grocers who were interested enough to attend the first meeting, and be in readiness to support the petition, asking the City Council to pass it. But a feeling of dissatisfaction cannot but be felt with those who, for the past few years, at every turn, took umbrage at the Association for (what appeared to them), its slowness in dealing with the pedlar question, but who, when they now have the opportunity to lend material assistance by their attendance and signatures, are inconsiderate enough to allow the members of the committee to leave their own places of business in order to obtain signatures. These, the thoughtless ones, are willing enough to give, but feel that in doing so they have done all that is necessary, or have actually conferred a power upon the Association.

This should not be, and it is to be hoped that the future will see better attendance in order that the full strength of the Association may be used in having this new and important by-law pass the City Council.

E. M. Trowern, of Toronto, Dominion Secretary of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, and J. A. Beaudry, Montreal, Dominion Treasurer of the same Association, are in the city in connection with the Amendments to the Criminal Code asked for by the Association.

The Standard Chemical Company, have opened a branch here, and for the first time, Ottawa grocers are selling charcoal.

The butter market is very firm. Advances of 1-2c. to 1c. have taken place with creamery blocks and solids. Eggs are in good demand, and will be, until after the holidays. Cooking stock is 22 to 23 cents, late gathered, 25 to 30 cents, new laid, 40 cents. Potatoes are also firm at 85 to 90 cents. Onions bring $1.25 to $1.35 a bag. Cheese is quoted about the same, 13c. to 13 3-4c., with no sign of advance. Lard, 12 1-4c. to 12 3-4c. Poultry of all kinds has been coming in more plentifully, causing a break in the high prices usually ruling. Although the demand is extra good, supplies seemed to be more than equal to it.

Prunes are wanted badly by the trade. Old stock is completely cleaned up, and has been all month. New stock not arriving when expected has caused a big loss in sales. However, prunes will be on the market in a day or two, and should be sold quickly.

Finnan haddies have been a scarcity for the past two or three weeks, and quotations are higher for what little stock is arriving. It is expected that supplies will be more plentiful in a few days.

Apples are in good demand.

No. 1 Spies ....$4.00 to $4.50

No. 1 Snows.. .... 4.00

CHATHAM.

Sydney Wood, for some time past in the employ of his father, Fred Wood, the grocer, intends, in the course of a few days, to start a meat business on Head Street, adjoining his father's stand.

While none have as yet definitely announced themselves, it is expected that

QUEBEC MARKETS.

POINTERS—
Evaporated apples—Advanced.
Fish—Revised.
Beans—Declined 5c.

Montreal, November 28, 1906.

Every wholesaler is very busy this week which is the last week of navigation. There may be a few boats running next week to points near Montreal but jobbers are not counting upon this being the case, and are doing all that is possible to get the last shipments off this week. A very brisk trade may be said to be passsing, but the wholesale houses are hampered by not having their goods on hand to fill orders. In some cases houses have been compelled to fill the commands of their customers at a loss of from 2c. to 3c. a pound on certain lines, simply because the stocks due to arrive had not come to hand in time, and the customers wanted the goods. In canned goods, fruits are scarce, but otherwise there is little that is new. Fair trade is passing in sugar at unchanged prices, while in teas the only feature of interest is the scarcity of Ceylon greens. Regarding molasses, reports from the Barbadoes say that the crop for 1907 depends upon the rainfall during the next couple of months. The situation in dried fruits remains about the same as it was last week. Good demand for spices is reported, due to the approach of the holiday season. Evaporated apples continue to advance, some dealers asking as high as 8¾c. to 9c.

CANNED GOODS.—Last deliveries of canned goods are being made, although it must be confessed, rather slowly. There is a slight trade being done by jobbers, but the retail trade is pretty well supplied. Canned fruits appear to be very scarce this season. Tnis is not surprising considering the crop figures of the different fruits. As heretofore stated strawberries are now practically an unknown quantity. Peaches and pears are not in large supply, while raspberries may truthfully be said to be scarce. And no relief is in sight before next year. The only hope lies in the vain possibility that there will not be a large demand for these goods throughout the coming year. But even though there be but a steady trade, supplies are likely to be exhausted. Gallon apples are said to be in good supply, but large quantities are being exported.

SUGAR.—There is nothing new in sugar this week. Demand is fair to good at steady prices. Jobbers do not anticipate any change for the time being.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.—There is nothing new in the local situation as regards molasses. Reports from the West Indies say that planters have now reached the critical period. Everything depends 'upon the rainfall experienced during the next couple of months. Up to the present the weather has been rather dry than otherwise, but hopes are high for favorable weather from now to the end of January.

Manufacturers of syrups are all busy, and report good trade.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.—Few changes have occurred locally, the situation remaining about the same as when last reported. Currants on spot are limited and prices firm. For futures, via New York on the "Clara," the price is somewhat shaded. Valencias are cleaned up on spot, and are reported slightly weaker in Spain. Reports from the coast contain very little news. The situation there is without change of note. Prunes are now selling quite freely. It is estimated that the crop is anywhere from 175 millions to 180 million of pounds this year.

EVAPORATED APPLES.—There has been no let up in the advancing tendency of this market. Remarks are freely made in grocery circles to the effect that we shall see the price 10c. to 11c. before January, and from present indications there is every probability of this becoming a fact. To-day dealers who have the goods to sell are asking 8½c. to 8¾c. and in some cases 9c.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.—Rice is without change, while there is not much of interest in tapioca. It is thought from present indications, that the price asked will be about half a cent lower towards February, but meanwhile any business passing is being done at figures quoted.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS:

Valencias—Very short on spot.
Tea—Market firm.
Sugar—Firmer.

Toronto, Nov. 29, 1906.

Wholesale grocery business continues encouragingly active, and collections are reputed to be satisfactory. The raw sugar, market is slightly firmer, but an advance in refined is not anticipated here. The American market closed Wednesday, until Monday. Dried fruit for immediate delivery continues very firm.

The steamer Hermia, due at New York on November 19, and not yet reported, carries considerable fruit for Toronto houses, and her arrival would considerably relieve the situation here.

Valencias will be cheaper after Christmas. Tapioca is lower for future shipment. The tea markets are very firm. All lines of canned goods continue very firm. Dried apples are advancing. Some evaporators are said to be holding their stocks for 9c.

CANNED GOODS.—No changes in quotations are reported, but everywhere the talk is of shortages and a strong market. The quotations are held out this week.

SUGAR.—The market for raws is slightly firmer this week, but an advance is not looked for here. The American market closed Wednesday will not open till Monday. European beet is firmer, having advanced a penny. The recent feature of most interest is the opening of the campaign in Cuba last week. One Central commenced grinding. Last year the beginning was made during the week ending December 12 and in 1904 the week ending November 21, and in 1903, the week ending December 5.

The commencement of the season is, therefore, a little earlier than usual, which is favorable for crop prospects. The important question is the labor question. General complaints from the Island during the week have been received on this subject, some estates going so far as to say that it will be impossible for them to make much, if any, sugars this season, but such reports at the outset of the crop must be taken with due allowance for contingencies that may arise. It may be that some unforeseen opening will occur by which better labor conditions will be obtained. Of course, there is abundance of cane in the fields to make a considerably larger crop than last year's and the limit to the crop will be the limit of labor.

MOLASSES.—The market is firm. A report to Geo. Musson & Company, this week, from Barbadoes, says:

"During the past two or three weeks the rainfall has been particularly light, and as a result, the canes are already beginning to show the need of moisture, naturally, planters are looking longingly for rain, and would welcome a downpour of several inches, as the months of November and December are critical ones in the development of the canes here, and if we were sufficiently unfortunate as to get dry weather during the next couple of months, it would cause a very marked falling off in the crop output of 1907, on the other hand if seasonable weather prevails from now until January, a large crop may be looked for, in other words, we have reached the turning point in the crop prospects and everything now depends on the rainfall during the next two or three months."

The output of Barbadoes, of sugar, was 49,864 tons this year, against 41,045 tons in 1905, and of molasses, 61,036 puncheons this year, against 38,653 puncheons last year.

TEA.—The market is firm, especially for Ceylons. The crop outlook in the island is not good. They had hurricanes when they should have had good weather. A London firm, principally interested in Indians, writing to Geo. Musson & Company, under date of November 14, say:

"You will have noticed from the remarks in our recent circular, that the statistical position of Ceylon Tea is exceptionally strong, and we see little prospect for any fall in prices for those teas for a considerable time. There is no doubt that this shortage in the Ceylon crop will react upon the prices for the Indian crop, although the latter is undoubtedly large, but in addition to the position of Ceylons, and their factor, which is tending towards higher prices all round, is that the China crop is so short that a very large quantity of low grade Indian teas have been purchased by continental buyers to replace low congous formerly used. There is no doubt that these, having once gone into consumption in the place of Chinas, they will hold their position, and we have little doubt that the increased outlet thus created, will gradually absorb any surplus stock which may at present exist in London."

"In this weeks auction for Indian teas there was a decidedly firmer tone for all grades, and prices for Ceylon low grades advanced 1-4d."

COFFEE.—The market remains about steady. Locally demand is pretty good and prices are unchanged. Willett & Gray, New York, continue to promise "considerable improvement in value."

DRIED FRUITS.—Little change has taken place during the week. Valencia raisins are very scarce on spot. The Hermia is ten days over due at New York, with considerable supplies for several Toronto houses. Prices are practically unchanged. California raisins and dried apples are especially firm.

CURRANT CHRISTMAS.

The Grocers' Journal commenting upon the Christmas trade in Great Britain, in relation to the shortage of dried fruits, says the shipments of raisins to London up to November 10 had been 4,500 tons, while the market requirements were 6,500 tons. Shipments to all of Great Britain averaged 16,000 tons, and the total crop this year was only 12,000 tons. Some people are calling it a "currant Christmas." The journal points out that fig pudding is no mean dish, and takes the cheery view that since everybody is prosperous, the grocer's Christmas trade and the nation's Christmas fare will be something to be thankful for.

BAG OF POTATOES 80 LBS.

Wholesalers Will Not Lend Bags After December 15.

A meeting of the wholesale potato dealers of Toronto, was held in the office of J. J. Ryan, Colborne Street, Thursday of last week, to organize with a view to disposing of the bag nuisance by mutual consent and concerted action. J. J. Ryan was elected president of the association and Thos. Vance was elected secretary. As each man will continue as custodian of his own fee, a treasurer was not deemed necessary. There were eighteen present.

The bag evil is two-fold, the size of the bag and the cost of it, or the ownership. Since sugar refiners began to put up their product in 100 lb. bags, and the trade has taken kindly to that method of handling, the sugar bag has been the commonest container for potatoes. The old-time flour bag held a bushel and a half, 90 lbs., easily, the sugar bag holds 80 lbs, but by a process of stuffing, shaking down and sewing instead of tying in the old-fashioned way 90 lbs. could be got into it. The shaking down bruised the potatoes at the bottom of the bag, and the unhandy method of closing the bag was a great waste of time and labor, As the wholesalers buy car load lots by the bushel, the question of the bag affected them only in their selling and the retailer and consumer.

As to the ownership of the bag, the wholesalers have found that they have been supplying the country with potato bags at 4c. per bag. One dealer got 3,000 bags at 4c. each, and within a month he had to borrow to get a single car unloaded. This shows how the practise of selling potatoes and "getting the bags back" worked out.

At a second meeting held Monday night, it was agreed that after December 15, the bag should go with the potatoes, which means that the cost will be included, and whoever owns the potatoes owns the bags.

In regard to weight, it was decided to make 80 lbs. a bag of potatoes after November 15. Secretary Vance was instructed to secure for each member a rubber stamp, so that after December 15, on every bill accompanying an order of potatoes will be printed: "These potatoes are weighed and sold at 80 lbs."

UNITED FACTORIES FIRE.

One of Their Toronto Warehouses Scorched—Loss $45,000.

Fire broke out in the United Factories Co.'s Toronto factory, on York street just after 6 o'clock Wednesday evening and damage to the extent of $45,000 resulted, while three firemen were dangerously injured by inhaling smoke.

The actual fire loss was only $5,000, but the loss by smoke and water to the United Factories Co.'s and adjoining premises, Stewart & Wood, paints and oils, and the Crompton Corset factory, is estimated at $40,000.

The fire was confined to the two upper floors of the United Factories Co.'s factory and the brooms, brushes and woodenware were food for the flames. Tons of water were put into the building and the firemen made a splendid fight.

As the company have complete stocks at their Montreal, London, Newmarket and Clarence street, Toronto, warehouses, the fire will not interfere at all with their regular business and orders will be filled with the usual promptness. The temporary offices of the company are in the Nordheimer building.

GROCER IN THE SENATE.

Hon. Robert Jaffray, who moved the address from the Throne in the Senate at Ottawa this week began life as a grocer's apprentice in Edinburgh; served his time, came to Canada and for many years was a leading grocer in Toronto. It was then he laid the foundations of his fortune and did that yeoman service for the Liberal cause that placed him in the position of a chief counsellor of his party. His elevation into the Senate was by himself delayed for years.

His speech on the address is good reading to every Canadian. It is a business man's view of the position of the Dominion, characterized by the broad vision and the wise outlook upon future possibilities that have made Mr. Jaffray a power in the financial and political life of his country.

R. Wright & Son report increased business in their new premises, "Clifts Wharf."

Harvey & Co. have put out a new tea which is winning great favor. Charlie Chetwynd is the right man in the right place as their tea manager.

W. A. Blaglour of Coleman, has returned from a two weeks' hunting expedition into the Three Rivers country. He got a couple of fine deer, and had a thoroughly enjoyable time.

Secretary W. A. Coulson of the Retail Merchants' Association of Western Canada, was in Portage La Prairie recently, making preparations for the organization of a branch of the Association in that town. Portage merchants are ready to fall in line.

The Royal Stores is a beehive of industry these days. The grocery department, under the management of Mr. Smith, is certainly worth seeing. This firm's teas have a large sale all over the colony.

local grocers will be well represented in the coming municipal elections. Alderman Wm. Potter, will, undoubtedly, stand for re-election. Jas. Massey, who has made a popular Alderman for the past year, has not as yet definitely announced himself. John McCorvie is a likely candidate for the new Board of Education, while a number of friends of W. H. Marshall, North Chatham, would like him to stand for municipal honors. In the course of the next two weeks, the list will likely be amplified.

Abraham Zakoor, for a couple of years past in the wholesale and retail fruit business here, has left the city, and his present whereabouts are unknown. His stock has been seized by the city tax collector for arrears of taxes.

N. B. MARKETS

St. John, N.B., Nov., 1906.

Winter port business is now in full swing, the big C.P.R. boat arriving here last week. It is a great disappointment to St. John, that the government would not allow the C.P.R. to land the Canadian mails here, as we believe better time would be made with all mails for the west, then via Halifax, and also better time would be made, out of St. John with export goods, if the steamers did not have to take mails at Halifax, but could take them from here. This is of particular importance to shippers of perishable goods. Weather here has continued up to the time of writing very open. Dealers are very busy. In markets the very high price of dried fruits, particularly raisins, is a feature. Sugar is easy. In general other lines unchanged. Cream of Tartar is rather higher. Rice is very firm.

OIL—Burning oil is unchanged in price, at least in the city. For shipments outside rather higher prices rule. In lubricating oils, a fair sale at even figures, while sale of paint oils is light, prices in both linseed and turpentine are firmly held and tending higher. Cod oil quiet. Receipts this year have not been large.

SALT—Liverpool coarse salt no further arrivals expected for some time. There is quite a full stock held. Prices are unchanged. The outlook is for higher prices in the coming season. Demand in fine salt is quiet.

CANNED GOODS—While a fair business, there is nothing exciting. Vegetables are held firm at full figure; tomatoes but a fair stock; strawberries scarce and high. Quite full stock of Gallon apples held, prices are firm. Market supplied with local packed goods. Oysters very scarce and rather higher. Meats just fair business. In domestic fish, sardines hold at the advance.

GREEN FRUITS—Apples show a wide range, for best stock Ontario spies sold, for all best grades prices high. Oranges unchanged; small variety. Lemons rather lower, Messinas offered Cape Cod cranberries efftreme, some fine Nova Scotias offered. Malaga grapes now supply the market.

DRIED FRUIT—This is still the line of interest. Prices, particularly of California seeded and California loose, are higher and very firm. The stock of loose raisins is small, there are very few Valencias and no Melaga loose this year. Stock of Malaga table raisins is light and goods cannot be replaced. Currants are high and stocks continue small. Carton goods sold chiefly. Prunes more firmly held. Carton goods are very late arriving. Dates higher than last year, package good have a large demand; figs and peels firm; evaporated apples higher. Onions unchanged. Peanuts show very marked advance, which is unusual at this season, when new goods are coming in. Old goods much preferred.

SUGAR—Quite large quantities of Scotch granulated arriving. While price is unchanged market is easy. Molasses, stocks are not large, and particularly in fancy Barbadoes, higher prices are asked.

FISH—Market rather dull. Medium dry cod, while quite high, are rather easier. Pickled herring, though selling freely, are a large stock and quite low compared with last year. Smoked herring, light supply and price well maintained. Finnan haddies hold firm at full figures. There is little business in fresh fish.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—In flour, prices are unchanged. Feed is still high, and has steady sale. Oatmeal unchanged. Our trade will not handle bags. Cornmeal sell freely at even figures. Beans, just fair business. While white beans are unchanged, yellow eyes are much higher. Barley dull.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS

Halifax, N.S., Nov. 27.

The produce markets are now attracting considerable attention, due principally to the high price of potatoes. The season is now advancing and the quantity of potatoes on the market is very small for this time of the year. Very few cargoes have been received from Prince Edward Island thus far, and the bins of the grocers who store hundreds of bushels over the winter are still empty. There is keen competition among the speculators, and from the present outlook the price is not expected to go below fifty cents per bushel. New Brunswick potatoes are quoted here this week at $1.75 per three bushel bag, parsnips, carrots, and beets are quoted at $1.50 per barrel, and turnips from 25 to 30 cents per bushel.

There appears to be an easier feeling this week in the dried fruit markets, particularly Valencia raisins. California raisins in packages are quoted at 11 to 11½ cents, currant in bulk are 8¾ cents, and cleaned in packages about 9¼ cents. American plate beef is jobbing here at about $15.00 and American pork at $21.50, the prices on both having been advanced recently. Lard is up ⅝ of a cent per pound, and pails are quoted at 13 cents. The dairy markets are very active. The quotations on eggs and butter are unchanged and the receipts of both are light.

FRUITS—Good Jamaica oranges are now on the market, and are quoted at $5 per barrel, Floridas at $3.50 per case, and California Valencias at $5.50. Bananas are quoted at $2.00 to $2.50, and Malaga grapes from $5 to $6 per keg. Most of the cheap varieties of apples are now pretty well cleaned up, and better stock is coming on the market. The best are now ',P.fy ei-fsuvail ket. The best No. 1 of winter varieties are now quoted at $3.00 to $3.50. Recent advices to the Annapolis Valley state that there is a jump in prices in the British market.

James Mitchell, a leading commission merchant and representative of the E. B. Eddy Company in Victoria, died in that city on November 5. He was 82 years of age.

The Walker store at Norwich has been much improved by recent alterations. A plate glass show window, a new floor and an improved arrangement of partitions have assisted in the renovation.

John Cotts, a well-known Toronto flour and feed merchant, who has conducted a store on Dundas street for the past 25 years, dropped dead on Nov. 12th. He was 63 years old, and is survived by a widow.

Andrew Graham, for many years with E. Brown & Company, grocers, Peterborough, has gone into business for himself at the corner of Aylmer and London Streets. He reports trade even better than he had anticipated.

C. W. Robson, a well-known commission merchant of Vancouver, died on November 5. He was formerly in the firm of Weeks & Robson, grocers and wine merchants, and had lived in Vancouver nearly 20 years.

Ernest Beech, who has been the Stratford agent for Douglas, Lacey & Company, Toronto, for some time past, left on November 1, for London, Ont., where he will enter the general store business with his father.

Adam B. Fraser, who for forty years was in the grocery business on Bleury Street, Montreal, died suddenly in that city. Mr. Fraser retired from business some years ago. He leaves a widow, but no family.

Wm. Wasson has disposed of the flour mill at Warsaw, Ont., which he has operated for the past three years, to Stewart Payne and George Taylor. Mr. Wasson will resume the general store business, taking over the store which has been conducted by Lyman Brothers. The latter will leave for Western Canada.

The town of Lindsay lost one of its most prominent citizens in the death of Patrick J. Hurley, which occurred on November 5. Mr. Hurley was fifty-four years old, and came to Lindsay in 1876. He conducted a large grocery, grain, and boot and shoe business, and was an ex-Alderman of the town, besides being prominent in various societies.

Jules Cloutier, a well-known grocer of Montcalm Ward, Quebec, dropped dead on November 2. Mr. Cloutier, who was 59 years of age, was apparently in perfect health, and had just returned home from business, when he fell to the floor and expired. At the last municipal elections he was an unsuccessful candidate for one of the seats in Montcalm Ward, and was well-known throughout the city.

PERSONAL MENTION.

W. R and F. W. Webster, of Sherbrooke, were in Montreal last week.

J. L. Barton, formerly of Finch, has opened a grocery in a new store in Stratford.

J. A. Campbell, Orangeville, grocers and flour and feed, suffered considerable loss by a fire next door to him.

Alderman R, Toy, baker and confectioner, Kingston, is talked of as a possible candidate for the mayoralty.

Ald. C .K. Barnsdale, of Stratford, one of that city's most progressive grocers, has announced himself a mayoralty candidate.

Mrs. Upham, mother of John Upham, traveler for the Dominion Tobacco Co., and mother-in-law of W. D. McRae, also a traveler for the Dominion, was found dead in her home in Brockville Monday of last week.

Geo. W. Prout, manager of the Dominion Produce Co., Winnipeg, returned to his desk last week after an enforced holiday of almost three months during which time he was wrestling with typhoid fever. Mr. Prout had a very severe illness and his friends are congratulating him on his safe recovery.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN.

The cheese market continues to be "quiet and uninteresting" as reported in our last issue. The principal country boards are all closed for the season and only the larger factories, able to obtain sufficient milk, are still open and making a few cheese.

This has been a most peculiar season for the cheese trade, the farmers have done fairly well, as they received extraordinary high prices for their product right through the season, but the Montreal merchants have had a hard time to make both ends meet.

On the other side, the farmers side, while they were receiving high prices for their product, the yield of milk has been far short of ordinary years, and it is very doubtful, whether even the farmers have done as well as what might be supposed from the ruling high prices of both cheese and butter during the past season.

Receipts in Montreal were last week 38,054 boxes of cheese and 5,975 packages of butter, against 28,169 boxes of cheese and 7,323 packages of butter for the same week of last year, or a total since May 1st of 2,315,116 boxes of cheese and 579,822 packages of butter, as compared with 2,273,553 boxes of cheese and 741,734 packages of butter for the coresponding period of last year.

The exports were last week 37,870 boxes of cheese and 235 packages of butter, against 42,933 boxes of cheese and 845 packages of butter for the same week of last year, or a total since May 1st of 2,202,496 boxes of cheese and 361,400 packages of butter, as compared with 2,119,920 boxes of cheese and 554,041 packages of butter for the corresponding period of last year.

Comparing receipts and exports, that is, taking the difference in both, we find that we have shipped 41,013 boxes of cheese in excess over the receipts and 30,729 packages of butter less, comparing receipts alone, we find that we received 41,563 boxes of cheese more and 161,912 packages of butter less than last year, these figures show an enormous decrease in the production of milk, and this is augmented to a very large extent when we consider that most of the stocks of cheese east of Toronto are this year held in Montreal and that interior and Western points have been kept short of butter, so that they had to purchase their supplies in Montreal.

Meanwhile the stocks of cheese, in British centres, are larger than last year, but in Canada the stocks are fully 200,000 boxes less, present prices here are about the same as a year ago and the probabilities are, that the situation is very safe and that prices will advance considerably before the new season opens next year.

The situation on butter is a peculiar one, a general opinion of unusually high prices to come seems to have gone all through the consuming classes, and large out-of-town orders, for almost the entire winter's trade, are coming in constantly, this has had the effect of advancing prices steadily. No doubt Montreal received the lion's share of butter right through the season, while outside consuming places were cut short in supplies, but now prices are at high water mark, cheese factories are shut down and butter packing continues with no export outlet, so that it seems there will be enough butter for the home consumption, especially as fresh dairy rolls are already coming forward and, as previously remarked, butter will be made as long as cows can be milked at a profit.

At the moment butter is scarce and there is a brisk demand at high prices, the same condition exists in the United States, and some dealers think that the United States will draw on us for some of our goods, but it is well not to be too sanguine in this respect, as it might lead to disappointments.

PROVISION SITUATION.

From the domestic point of view the market is in pretty good shape, demand continues very good for this season of the year, and so far no accumulation of stocks is evident. The prices of a number of products have advanced slightly. The exporter, however, has not the same rosy outlook. The old country market has been slightly fluctuating and is somewhat excited. Christmas is approaching. The quantity of Danish bacon coming forward is heavier; a good many hogs have been coming out in Canada, and last week prices were shoved up a little higher.

The feature of the moment is the advanced price being paid for live hogs. The price this week is $6.15 f.o.b. at country points, about 40c. higher than last week opened at. Again the farmer is getting the big end of it. He evidently did not relish the recent decline, and decided to withhold his hogs. Last week he succeeded so far, that the packers began to compete for hogs to keep things going, and prices began to climb. Deliveries were about an average, and this week they promise to be larger.

At the lowest prices ruling this fall, farmers can make a good profit on hogs, at the advanced, packers doing an export business, and that represents about four-fifths of the total output of hogs, have to figure on a loss. That is bad for the industry and ultimately must be bad for the agricultural end of the industry.

P. B. Ball, Canadian Commercial Agent, at Birmingham, writes:—

The following statement appears in a continental journal, and will no doubt be of interest to Canadians.

'Considering the high prices for bacon in the north of Europe, and the prospects of stiff higher prices or downright bacon famine during the forthcoming winter, it may be expedient to survey the prices and prospects of export from the different countries likely to be of any importance.

'South-eastern Europe, the original home of the pig, may be completely passed by, for since epidemics and want of food have decreased the number of pigs, and the German market has been closed, Hungary, Servia, Roumania and Russia no more, influence the world's price for bacon. Italy and France, which supply their own requirements of bacon at about two-thirds of the price in Germany, cannot be reckoned within the world's market either. Switzerland, Spain and Norway belong to the bacon importing countries. Sweden produces its own requirements, and is endeavoring to again become an exporter of bacon, which it has not been since the introduction of duty on maize and other articles of food for the pigs eleven years ago. There are in Europe only two countries which export pigs or bacon, and they are Ireland and Denmark. The former country exports every week 30,000 hogs to England, of which two-thirds are alive, and the rest in the shape of bacon. The export of Denmark to England likewise amounts to about 1,500,000 hogs annually in the shape of bacon. Ireland with a population of 4,000,000, exports two hogs for every five inhabitants; whilst Denmark with its 2,500,000 inhabitants, exports three hogs for every five inhabitants. At this rate, Germany, if adopting the same tariff and the same rational agriculture as Denmark, ought to be able to export 36,000,000 hogs annually.

'From where are the ever increasing requirements to be supplied. Outside Europe there is only North America to reckon with, as Mexico does not export bacon.

'In Canada, in the province of Ontario, 40,000 export hogs are killed every week. The other Canadian provinces have no importance for the world's market. Of these 40,000 hogs, some ten years ago, 32,000 went to England as bacon, but by and by Canada's home consumption of bacon steadily increased, whilst the production remained about stationary, and of the 40,000 hogs produced per week, only 15,000 to 18,000 are now exported to England, and the price is almost as high as in Denmark, viz., 37 marks per 50 kilograms live weight.

'If the Canadian population goes on increasing as has hitherto been the case Canada's export of bacon to England will cease in the course of a few years. There only remains then the United States, and it is that country that regulates the price of bacon on the world's market. In the course of time, and under the influence of the immense increase of population, things, however, are subject to such changes that there is every reason to believe that this apparently inexhaustible country within a measurable time will consume its own production of bacon. The large slaughter houses west of Chicago, which as little as twelve years ago competed with Chicago on the eastern market, now send almost everything that is not used in the States around the Missouri to the western and southern states, whilst the east has more and more to fall back upon its own production. This state of affairs must likewise account for the fact that bacon prices in the United States, contrary to all expectation, have been slowly rising, and at the big slaughtering centre, pigs now cost 31.50 marks (one mark about one shilling) per 50 kilograms live weight, a price which has been reached but once before during a severe failure of crops. New places for export of bacon are Oklahoma, Arkansas and Wisconsin, but so far they have not made much progress. The maize growing states of Iowa, Illinois, Minnesota, Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska, are the only places in the world where an increase in the number of pigs raised takes place, and if it happened, through some cause or other, that the number of pigs produced in those parts was reduced by say, only 20 per cent, we could see prices which would make the producers jump for joy, whilst millions of people, to a greater or smaller extent would have to give up animal food.'

R. T. Steele is about severing his temporary connection with the firm of Lucas, Steele & Bristol, Hamilton. What his future intentions are no one knows, but being well known to the retail trade it is likely his old friends will hear from him later on, Commodore Lucas, who retired from the firm some time ago and Mr. Steele will be missed by the trade with whom they were so long associated, and will be missed also by the office staff and travelers of Lucas, Steele & Bristol.

W. Austin Titley, St. Kitts, W.I., was a visitor to Toronto recently, calling upon the grocery jobbing trade. Mr. Titley is interested in the manufacture of West India Table delicacies, guava jellies, etc., and while here, arranged for the sale of his products.

SOAP TRUST WASHED AWAY

British Retail Grocers' Organization, Public Feeling and the Press too Strong for it—Situation in Canada.

The retail grocery trade of Great Britain has just come through the most exciting campaign in its history and won. A cable despatch this week states that the soap trust has disbanded and the victory of the grocery trade is temporary at least. The grocers did not have to fight single handed, the press and the public took a keen interest in the issue and got a good deal of pleasure and satisfaction out of belaboring the combine. The gang invaded the music halls and the quip that was a thrust at the trust brought down the house.

W. H. Lever, M.P., head of Lever Bros., was the author, finisher and master mind of the trust. The capital was £12,000,000. The first move was to coerce as far as the trust could the raw products. The next was to reduce the size of the ordinary bar from 16 oz. to 15 oz. That alarmed the retailers and aroused the public and press.

Probably every grocers association in Great Britain and their name is legion passed a resolution against the trust and calling upon the trade to handle only the goods of independent firms. The press of Great Britain as with one principle backed their appeals and the public fell into line. In some districts the trust's sales fell off almost entirely by their own admission. Then the trust put back the ounce of soap and followed it with the usual trust method of killing competition. They cut the price under cost and immediately the independents found themselves climbing a steep grade. But even reduced price did not prove oil, at any rate not sufficient, upon the stormy waters the trust was attempting to navigate.

Grocers' Journals' Review.

The Grocers' Journal of London commenting upon the situation early in the month said:

"It is gratifying to find that retail traders are sufficiently alive to their own interests to continue in active opposition to the working arrangement" which Messrs. Lever have organized in conjunction with several other soap magnates—an "arrangement" otherwise variously designated as an amalgamation, a combine, or a trust, and under either title quite at variance with the independent system of British trading which has long been the boast of the nation. Grocers, at any rate, seem generally of one mind on the subject, as is very clearly shown by the reports published elsewhere in this Journal of meetings held in various parts of the country; and it is perhaps scarcely necessary to add that these reports, condensed as they unavoidably are, could be supplemented, if space allowed, by many more. The point most fully brought out in the discussions at the grocers' meetings, and which should recommend itself to retailers everywhere, is that the recently reduced prices of the combine's soaps can only be regarded as a temporary concession, and grocers should be on their guard against playing into the hands of the associated manufacturers by following a lead which is not at all likefy to prove ultimately beneficial to them. Taken as a whole, however, the grocers certainly appear firm in their resolve to fight the Soap Combine by every legitimate means they possess, not only in their own behalf but also in that of their customers; and, as far as it is possible to gauge public opinion, they have the country at their back. Several minor victories have already been placed to the credit of the non-combine firms and their staunch supporters, but it must by no means be supposed that the end is yet in sight. Everyone interested should take part in the fight as if success depended entirely upon his or her efforts, and there should be no slackening of determination, for nothing less than the will of the people can withstand an amalgamation of money and influence such as is now in force in the soap industry of Great Britain."

The result as indicated by the recent cable will add zest to the Christmas festivities of the grocery trade throughout Great Britain.

Situation in Canada.

The recent advance in the price of Surprise and some other higher grade laundry soaps in Canada, is said to have been made necessary by the increased cost of raw material following the cornering methods of the English trust. Some have even ventured the opinion that the forces behind the English "working arrangement," were trying on the same thing here.

It is well known that the Sunlight Co. some time ago acquired the business of Pugsley, Dingman & Co. A few days ago a meeting of most of the prominent soap manufacturers was held in King Edward Hotel, Toronto, for the purpose of coming to an arrangement in regard to prices. Harmony did not reign from all accounts obtainable, and the soap situation in Canada may be interesting for some time to come.

BREAKING IN NEW SALESMEN.

For breaking in new salesmen a Cincinnati wholesale house recently originated a method that has since been adopted with great success by other houses. When a young man is sent out on the road he is allowed to pursue his way for about a week, when he is recalled by a laconic telegram: "Come back at once." When he reports he is taken into the general manager's private office, and there he is immediately taken to task, the general manager opening on him with a volley of questions that would make the ordinary man boil over with anger. The salesman is given a chance to recover his breath and start to explain why he has not done better, when he is interrupted with another volley of questions of a nature to arouse his ire.

If the young man loses his temper he is at once discharged, but if he takes it calmly without trying to get back at the "boss" and without stinging sarcasm or show of temper, he is informed that they have been trying him out to see how he would deal with an irritable customer, and he finishes out his trip and becomes a "regular" on the salesman force.—P. A. P.

A LITTLE DIPLOMACY.

I was in search of my first job and had been scanning the "Help Wanted" columns every day for a month before school closed, when at last I read the words: "Boy Wanted—Call at No.— Market Street, at 8.00 o'clock a.m., References."

I showed it to the Principal at school, who readily gave me a "To whom it may concern" reference, setting forth all my good qualities, and, armed with this, I presented myself at No. — Market Street at 7.30 a.m., when lo! to my dismay there stood twenty others ahead of me.

I took my position in the rapidly increasing line, however, and had waited fifteen minutes when a young man appeared to sweep the sidewalk. While watching him a plan occurred to me. Why not send my letter in ahead?

Calling the boy, I asked him if he would take my "references" in if I would finish sweeping the walk, to which he readily agreed. Upon his explaining matters to the "Chief" the latter immediately sent for me, "took me on trial" and dismissed the line of applicants.

I am still employed by the same firm, but as a salesman now, having given up my broom six years ago to another.—J. R. M.

It is proposed to give Capt. R. Bartlett, who has been north with Peary, a reception on his return. Capt. Bob is very popular with the boys.

C. P. Eagan, corner Duckworth and Prescott streets, has one of the most up-to-date grocery stores in the city. Mr. Eagan carries a fine stock of all grades of goods and does a very fine business.

Reports received in the city say that negotiations are well advanced for the starting of a new butter factory in this city.

F. J. Wood, Petrolea, has moved from his former location on the east side to a store which has been newly fitted up opposite the Hotel Iroquois. Mr. Wood has already found an improvement in business.

Quiet Markets Everywhere—Free Deliveries of Western Oats Cause Decline of Prices for Oat Products East, But Business Continues Brisk.

Grain markets are inactive everywhere and the dull season is approaching.

Commenting on the record of the world's largest wheat crop raised this year and of the world's largest wheat visible supply Nov. 1, 1906, since 1900, Beerbohm says it may well be argued that all this has been discounted in the present low level of prices. It may also now be granted that, in view of the large continental demand for wheat and the probability that the Argentine crop will not equal last year's, the price of wheat ought to be a fairly safe one.

The U.S. Agricultural Department confirms the reported big shortage in the Russian crops, viz.: Wheat, 120 millions; rye, 146 millions; barley, 68 millions. The oats shortage is said to be about 200 millions, making a total deficit of about 534 million bushels. A liberal percentage of the late Russian exports, it is said, has gone to other ports in that country, and this failure to leave Russia finds confirmation in diminished total on passage.

Flour markets also are quiet and demand is not so brisk. Export demand is at a low ebb.

Fewer deliveries of western oats have caused a decline in oat products, but millers still report an active demand.

MONTREAL.

GRAIN—Oats is very firm, but outside of this fact, the situation is without feature. There is a good demand for corn, and some trade is being done in feed barley at prices quoted.

LEWIS A. HOWARD.

Lewis A. Howard, Elected by Acclamation—Admirer of Sports.

Lewis A. Howard, President elect of the Commercial Travellers' Association, was born in Toronto, March 22, 1870. He is the son of the late R. H. Howard, one of Toronto's prominent wine and spirit merchants. Mr. Howard's father also was one of the oldest travellers on the road before even the days of railroading.

Mr. Howard was elected to the Board of Directors of the C.T.A., in 1897, since which time he has occupied the position of 2nd Vice-President for two years, and then last year, 1st Vice-President. Mr. Howard, for nine years, covered Ontario, from Toronto East as far as Kingston, until 1891, when he took up the Western Ontario ground, as far as Windsor, until 1895, when at the death of his father, he took up with his brother the management of the business in Toronto. Besides being recognized as one of Toronto's prominent business men, Mr. Howard is the youngest occupant of the President's Chair of the C.T.A., and may be correctly styled a genuine and thorough-going traveller, he having gone on the road at the age of 18 years.

Mr. Howard is a great admirer and supporter of athletics, he having been President of the Toronto Lacrosse Club, Vice-President of the Toronto Football Club, as well as past President of the Sons of England, and an active member of the Albany, Victoria and Granite Clubs, Royal Canadian Yacht Club, Canada Bowling Club and Ontario Jockey Club. In Masonic circles, Mr. Howard has also been recognized as an active member.

LABEL YOUR PARCELS.

Our attention has been directed recently to the carelessness of retailers in sending back goods to the jobbers. In many cases parcels come in without any indication whatever about them as to who has sent them. Of course, this is the retailer's loss. How can the jobber give credit, when he does not know to whom to give it? It is not to be expected that he will go to the expense of finding out the party sending back the goods, if he has a better way of spending his time and money.

Therefore, dealers are advised for their own good to label their parcels carefully, being always sure to state by whom they are sent. It is also as well to send a letter at the same time, giving particulars about the forwarding of the parcel and a list of its contents.

THE TRAVELERS DEER HUNT.

The party of Commercial Nimrods who haunted the wilds of Gooderham lately returned safely, despite the fact that telegraphic appeal had to be made for funds to bring them home. They are home and brought splendid specimens of venison with them, sufficient for themselves and their friends, among the latter of which the Grocer was thankfully remembered. The venison steak was appreciated particularly as it was accompanied by a jar of MacLaren's Imperial Cheese. Thanks Jack!

CHIEFS OF TRAVELLERS' BENEFIT

James S. N. Dougall, President, and James Robinson, Vice-President, Both of Montreal—Busy Men Who Have Time for a Good Work.

Fifty-three years ago was born in Montreal, Jas. S. N. Dougall, who has spent all of that time in his native city, during the latter twenty-five years doing much to help in making Canada a country as to command a place among the nations of the world, for Mr. Dougall is one of the most public spirited men in Montreal has the fortune to possess within her limits.

He was only 16 years of age when he entered the business field in which he has attained such success. Entering the employ of McArthur, Corneille & Co., he spent nearly twenty-five years in the paint, varnish and color business, being for ten years of this time junior partner of the firm.

The firm of McCaskill, Dougall & Company was started in 1892 as a varnish manufacturing concern, and Mr. Dougall has now, for several years, been senior partner of this firm.

JAMES S. N. DOUGALL, Montreal.

In 1887 Mr. Dougall was first connected with the Board of Trade, and since that time he has been one of the Board's most valued members. He was for three years the treasurer of the Dominion Commercial Traveler's Association, and but recently was re-elected President of the Dominion Commercial Travelers' Mutual Benefit Society.

Socially he is known by many. A life member of the M.A.A.A., and a member of the Canadian Railway Club, he also belongs to the Montreal Business Men's League, and the Royal St. Lawrence Yatch Club. He is also an enthusiastic member of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, being this year chairman of the Montreal branch.

James Robinson the Vice-President.

The Vice-President of the Dominion Commercial Travelers' Mutual Benefit Society is one of the busiest men in Montreal. He has large and varied interests to take up his time, yet he finds in the course of his daily duties time to give some thought to good work for others. His efforts are evidently appreciated since he was re-elected to the post he now holds.

It was in 1856 that Mr. Robinson first saw the light of day, and, as he himself expresses it, he was "born very young." At the age of fifteen he obtained a position with the old firm of Ames Millard & Company, which used to have premises on St. Peter St., but which is now the Ames Holden Company, Victoria Square. Here he remained nine years, learning much that has stood in him in good staid later in life.

His first trip with the grip was made in the interests of the late Hon. G. Bresse, of Quebec, the shoe manufacturer. For the past twenty-six years has been traveling more or less all the time although his work has kept him in the city pretty well during the past five years. It was in 1886 that he started for himself handling shoes in a small way. Later he organized the Maple Leaf Rubber Company which has been in existence twelve years, during the whole of which time Mr. Robinson has been president of the concern. He is also president of the Durham Rubber Company, the Minudie Coal Company, of Nova Scotia; the General Explosives Company of Dover, N.J., and is interested in several other corporations.

Mr. Robinson was for two years president of the Montreal Board of Trade, and served one term as vice-president, being elected by acclamation on the three occasions. A member of the Dominion Commercial Travelers' Association, he has always taken a keen interest in the welfare of the men with the grip. He is at present vice-president of the Association as well as of the Benefit Society.

In February last he was elected to represent St. Lawrence Ward in the City Council and has a seat on the Finance Committee where his wide experience in commercial affairs is at the disposal of his fellow citizens.

Vice-President James Robinson.

LOBSTER SITUATION.

Montreal Canner's Views, After a Visit to the Atlantic Coast.

J. W. Windsor, Montreal, packer of canned goods, has returned from an extended trip to the Maritime Provinces, and in an interview with the Canadian Grocer spoke interestingly about the fish situation in Eastern Canada.

"Lobsters," said he, "are practically unobtainable. In all the fiishing districts this season, there has been much rough weather, and the catch of fish is much below the average. The lobster catch is fully one-third below what it was last year. Codfish and mackeral are also scarce. On the other hand, demand for lobsters especially, has grown, both at home and abroad, the foreign markets being very active, so that we are in a quandry at present. As you may know, the Magdalen fishing district was granted a month's extension, and this may have helped the situation as far as they were concerned, but not much. The usual lobster season is from April 20, to July 11, but the Magdalen fishers were allowed to keep on fishing an extra month. Those who had not contracted for the disposal of their catch made good money on what they caught during this extra period.

"The packers have not any stocks on hand to my knowledge, while none of the large jobbers have anything worth speaking of in store. Some of the wholesale grocers may have some stock which will carry them through the winter, or part of it, and they are fortunate. Lobsters are advanced in price, as is known. If any high-class goods were to be obtained as much as $3 a case above last year's price might be secured. Other lines have advanced proportionately. The packers have thought with each succeeding year, that they had seen the highest price which would be paid for lobsters, but with each year comes higher figures, so that now no one ventures to say that we have seen lobsters as high as they will ever be.

"Yes, the rough weather seems to be the only means to account for the shortage, not only in lobsters, but also in mackeral and cod fish. In the opinion of some this may have been an off year, such as has been experienced in British Columbia with salmon, but this view does not appeal to me, since last spring, for instance, there was not a great deal of rough weather, yet the catch was very small. Speaking of the prices advancing, it is a noticeable fact that raw material, such as tin plate, solder, boxes and the like, have been advanced considerable, which is another factor in increasing the prices of all canned goods."

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Apples the Only Fresh Canadian Fruit Now on the Market—Changes in Prices —Bringing Potatoes From Michigan.

With Canadian pears and grapes off the market, apples are now the only Canadian fruit obtainable. Shipments of Northern California oranges have begun to arrive, and the fruit will command a good price. Almeria grapes are in good supply. Although cranberries are reported to be advancing in the Quebec market, Ontario prices show a slight decline.

Large potato crops in Michigan have induced Toronto dealers to look in that direction for supplies, but so far as is known only one car has yet arrived.

In the fish markets smoked haddies are still said to be scarce, while arrivals of new frozen herring are reported.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS.—Fair trade is passing in green fruits at present. Dealers are doing considerable business with grocers in local river ports, who are securing last lots before the close of navigation. Bananas are selling well. There was a scarcity the early part of the week, but supplies are now coming forward better. Prices have advanced, and dealers are now asking from $1.50 $2 according to quality. Cranberries are advancing also; as high as $10.50 is now asked. Almeria grapes bring all the way from $2.50 to $6 a barrel.

VEGETABLES.—There is not a great deal of activity in vegetables at present. Some business is passing, but not very much. Prices are now very high for cucumbers, lettuce and such lines, and it is only the high class trade that calls for such supplies. With certain classes of the trade there is considerable business being done for this reason.

FISH.—Advent, which begins December 3, is the feature of the fish situation. Dealers are making preparations for a record season's business, and expect to be kept busy right up to the end of the holidays. Supplies of haddock and cod are better this week, and lower prices prevail. New frozen herring, and a few other lines of frozen fish, are now on the market and commanding a fair share of trade. In smoked fish, haddies continue rather scarce, and high as regards price. Stocks of green cod are limited, and higher prices would not be a surprise. Arrivals of Labrador herring are now more plentiful, as are also the receipts of lake and sea trout in half barrels. In oysters, Malpeques are about finished, but small lots are being held, for which high prices are asked. For bulk oysters, which are arriving more freely, prices are firm.

IN THE CORNWALLIS VALLEY.

Hillcrest Orchards Limited, Kentville, N.S., have issued a booklet of views that is a revelation of horticultural achievement in the Cornwallis valley. Fourteen full page illustrations, four half page and two double pages can but suggest the luxury of photo-engravure displayed in the brocure.

The orchards, comprising 14,000 trees, apples, plums, pears, peaches and apricots were planted by Ralph S. Eaton, president and manager of the company. The booklet describes the orchards fully and tells much that is interesting of fruit growing in Nova Scotia. On markets it says in part: "Not only London and Liverpool, but the smaller seaports of England as well as inland towns are asking for Nova Scotia fruit shipped direct to them. Scotland and Ireland are included in our markets and during the last few years Germany has been calling for our Gravensteins and some other varieties. Mexico has asked for and received shipments and this season fruit growers are being solicited for consignments from merchants in the British West Indies. Pessimists have occasionally talked over-production but the average price of Nova Scotia apples for the past five years has been as good or better than for any five years of our history. For those who take pains to grow good fruit the prospects are bright for the future. Our annual crops of about half a million barrels could be quadrupled without affecting materially the markets of the world."

TRAVELERS' DINNER.

E. D. Marceau, the President, will preside over the annual banquet of the Dominion Commercial Traveller's Association, which will take place at the Windsor Hotel, Montreal, on Dec. 20. Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the members of his Cabinet, as well as representatives of the Quebec Government, will be present, if it is possible to so arrange matters.

AN ATTRACTIVE CATALOGUE.

The cover is in four colors, and is of novel design. Sixteen pages of reading matter on excellent cream-colored paper, give facts and figures regarding the various lines manufactured by this company. The illustrations are numerous and quite in keeping with the generally neat appearance of the booklet.

Attach Importance To What Is Important

Cigar selection is an important matter—Important to you, because on the wisdom of your selection depends the earning power of your stock—Important to your friends, because on the wisdom of your recommendation depends the number of times they'll be seen at your store.

Smokers require value consistency, taste evenness in cigars. Pebble and Pharaoh take full marks on these points.

And these very cigars are included in a "500" assortment that I am now offering to the grocery trade on the "three months" basis.

Discovery and Perfecting of the Corn Cob Pipe—How a Tinker Made a Fortune—A Fortunate Traveller—Notes of the Trade.

The honor of inventing the corncob pipe, so far as can be traced, belongs to "Doc" Carr, of St. Charles County, Missouri. But the discovery which made the corncob an article of commercial value was made by Henry Tibbe, a German, who lived in Washington, a village 20 miles from St. Louis. Tibbe was an all-round tinker, and among his stock-in-trade was a small lathe. One day as he watched the laborious method of shaping and hollowing the corn cob as it was then done, by means of the ordinary jack-knife, the idea struck Tibbe that by utilizing his lathe he could do the work infinitely better and more rapidly. He carried out his plan, and soon he was turning out pipes by the thousand. Tibbe soon realized that "Doc" Carr's simple discovery did not make a complete pipe, or one which would be long-lived. It was then that he hit upon the plan of rendering the pipes less porous and inflamable by closing the pores with plaster of paris, and patented the perfected 'Missouri Meerschaum."

To obtain the best results, it was necessary to employ corn cobs having the largest possible amount of cob. After traveling through the Southern States, Tibbe finally located the grade of corn he sought, and entered into contracts with farmers to sow the seed which he obtained.

The stems of the pipes, made from reeds from the Mississippi and Arkansas swamps were easily procurable. They grew rank over thousands of acres of waste land.

For seventeen years Tibbe enjoyed a monoply in the manufacture of corncob pipes, and in that time the industry grew to such an extent that he and his associates netted substantial fortunes. With the expiration of the patent rights however, competition sprang up, which gradually increased until to-day there are five factories in the little town of Washington. Franklin County, Missouri, is now the chief centre of the corn-cob pipe industry, and the products of its factories are known all over the world.

IN FORTUNE'S SMILE.

R. Johnston, traveler for the Empire Tobacco Co., popularly known as "Bobs" on the road, will shortly confine his interest in tobacco to the smoking thereof. He recently made an incursion into the Cobalt and came out with $25,000 to his credit. His mother left him $10,000. Mr. Johnston it is stated, has decided to retire from the road at the end of the year.

TOBACCO LEAVES.

The Meyer-Thomas Co., Limited, have removed into their new factory at Granby, Que.

B. Wartiz, cigar manufacturer, London, assigned to Alf. Robinson, with liabilities of about $4,000.

Harris, Harkness & Co., manufacturers of "Van Horne" cigars, have moved to 29 St. Peter St., Montreal.

D. Granda, of the firm of F. & J. Granda, cigar manufacturers, Montreal, has left for a trip to Toronto and other Ontario points.

The female drummer is no longer a rarity. Even the cigar business has been invaded by the energetic woman traveler.

The Empire Tobacco Co., have recently installed a most modern system of waterworks and fire protection in their factories at Granby, Que.

F. Martinez, of M. Martinez & Co., Havana, Cuba, is in Montreal at present. He intends to remain in Canada for the winter, since there is nothing being done in Cuba. According to Mr. Martinez the tobacco crop is now quite cleaned up, and the tobacco dealers have not very much to engage their attention. It is for this reason that he decided to come to Canada for a short while. Ultimately his firm may establish a warehouse in Montreal.

AUTOMOBILE PRIZES FOR SALESMEN.

Forty-eight salesmen of the 492 in America representing the National Cash Register Company of Dayton, Ohio, are engaged in a competition for six Stoddard-Dayton automobiles, to be awarded by the firm on January 1. The race was open to the entire selling staff, but elimination trials were conducted in September and October.

The Stoddard-Dayton runabouts, which are to be the prizes, are beautiful, four-cylinder cars, distinctly high grade in every particular. They develop fifteen to eighteen horse-power and sell for $1,500 each.

BUSINESS MEN IN MUNICIPAL LIFE

No. 2

Cranbrook, B.C., is another Western Canada town that recognizes the value of a business administration by a business mayor and that has succeeded in inducing a leading business man to assume the responsibilities and undertake the arduous duties of the position. "The Canadian Grocer" has pleasure this week in presenting to its readers the portrait of G. T. Rogers, the first Mayor of the City of Cranbrook, B.C.

Mr. Rogers is a native of Glasgow, Scotland, as is Mr. Clinkskill, Mayor of Saskatoon, Sask., whose portrait appeared last week. Glasgow is known the world over as a model municipality and perhaps there is something in the political and intellectual atmosphere of the Scottish city which induces her sons to enter public life.

In 1888 Mr. Rogers came to Canada from his native Glasgow, and started in business in Elkhorn, Man. People in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces do not realize it yet, but in the Prairie Provinces west of the Great Lakes people no longer talk of Manitoba as being part of "the West." So it is quite correct to say that in 1900 Mr. Rogers caught the western fever and decided to leave the quiet East to try his fortune in the West. The hustling little town of Cranbrook, B.C., looked good to him and he started in business there as a grocer and dealer in china and glass. A good business man is pretty sure to prosper in the West and this spring Mr. Rogers has enlarged the scope of his business to include boots, shoes, hosiery, mitts and gloves.

In October, 1905, Cranbrook was incorporated as a city, and it made a good start by electing Mr. Rogers, a business man, as its first Mayor. In January last he was returned without opposition.

There was much to be done by the new Mayor and his Council. Previous to October, 1905, if local improvements were not made by the Provincial Government or by the people themselves they were not made at all; usually they were neglected utterly. Sidewalks have been laid this year on all the principal streets, streets have been graded and there has necessarily been a large expenditure for local improvements. By-laws governing and regulating business houses and hotels have been enacted; curfew bell, health, laundry regulation and pound by-laws have been rigidly enforced. The consent of the ratepayers has been obtained for the sale of debentures to cover the cost of improvements and to provide for public buildings.

All the new western towns are providing for the future and large expenditures are necessary. In order to get value for their large expenditures they require business men in control of the administration; and Cranbrook is one of the fortunate towns having a business man as Mayor.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

A. Durocher, Montreal, has returned from a short business trip to Ottawa.

G. H. Helson, Bloor Street, Toronto, is recovering from a siege of illness.

P. W. Taber, with William Galbraith & Son, is laid up with typhoid fever at his home in East Farnham.

Geo. E. King, Wingham, who has been laid up with sciatica is improving and able again to attend to business.

J. S. Ireland, Mount Forest, carries a fancy stock of groceries and is making preparation for a big Christmas trade.

John Duke has been appointed sales agent in Montreal for Shredded Wheat and other products of the Canadian Shredded Wheat Company.

H. J. Colwell, general merchant, of Arthur, goes extensively into the egg business. He has disposed of his entire storage-stock of eggs to a buyer for an English firm.

A. H. Rae, Wroxeter, has returned from a trip to the West. He had some idea of removing to the prairie country but has come back satisfied to persevere in Wroxeter.

J. Russell Murray, the West India broker in Montreal, has recovered sufficiently from the unfortunate accident which he sustained September 5th, to get down to his office for a few hours each day. This will be good news to his many friends who were shocked to learn of the accident, which nearly cost Mr. Murray his life.

J. N. Christie, of William Galbraith & Son, Montreal, whose illness was mentioned last week, is still in the hospital progressing slowly, and his medical advisers say that it will be some time before he will be able to resume his duties. In the meantime Mr. Galbraith, sr. is looking after his customers in the Upper Ottawa, and Mr. Laurendeau after his friends in Quebec and Levis.

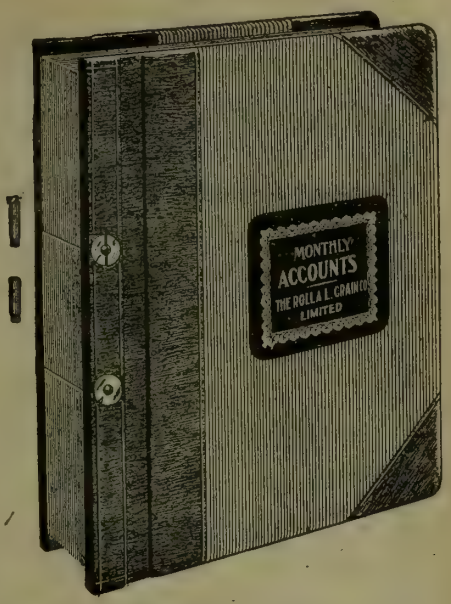
The Crain Monthly Account System



$17.75 is the price we have always charged for this excellent system for the retail trade.

It Cannot Be Purchased Cheaper

that is in the 14 x 11 size. True, the Monthly Account System is being quoted cheaper. We can supply you with a complete outfit for $14.75 in our 8½ x 11 size, but we do not recommend it as it is more expensive in the long run to the merchant, and it is not as easily handled. The sheet being short only accommodates one account, while with the 14 x 11 size you can have three accounts to the sheet.

When purchasing a Monthly Account outfit consider first the size of the sheet, then the cost of supplies. In the first cost of putting in a system a couple of dollars should not be considered. In an 8½ x 11 size one thousand sheets means one thousand billheads; in the 14 x 11 size, assorted one, two and three accounts to the sheet, you get from two to three thousand billheads. BUSINESS SYSTEMS LIMITED
SYSTEM THE SECRET OF SUCCESS
TORONTO

Any retailer who says that about Business Systems, is laboring under a delusion.

The size of a business is the factor that determines the cost of installing Business Systems.

Business Systems are, proportionately, just as much an economy for the smallest retail store as for the largest factory.

In different businesses, Business Systems are designed to fit different ends.

In your business, Mr. Retailer, Business Systems, instead of being "too expensive," are time savers and an actual economy.

You can understand why a system that posts your books and writes out your bills at the same time, is economical, can't you?

That's only one of the things Business Systems will do for you.

A Two Cent Mistake

Don't amount to much in any business, but the striking point is that a clerk is just as liable to make a mistake of $2.00 as he is of two cents, and a few mistakes like this would pay for enough of Allison's Coupon Books to last a year or more. With these books mistakes are impossible.

RISING SUN STOVE POLISH AND SUN PASTE STOVE POLISH

Behind Our Orders

Notwithstanding our immense facilities which have been increased this season (as indeed they have been almost every year for nearly fifty years) we are a little behind our orders. We are making every effort to increase our production to take care of increased business. It will pay you to share in the increased distribution by urging the sale of both RISING SUN Stove Polish in cakes and SUN PASTE Stove Polish in tins. Both goods afford you a good margin of profit. Push them.

Four Reasons why INVICTUS FIBRE is the BEST FIBRE PAPER on the Market

1. Invictus Fibre is made from personally selected pulp wood cut on our own limits.
2. This special pulp wood is again rigidly culled on arrival at our mills.
3. The pulp from which Invictus Fibre is made is manufactured in our own pulp mill and transferred at once to the paper mill, avoiding all drawbacks of transportation.
4. Invictus Fibre will increase in strength and not grow hard and brittle as does fibre made from sulphite pulp. This is a quality of the peculiar and selected pulp from which Invictus Fibre is made.

A trial order will convince you that we are correct. See that each package bears the words "Invictus Fibre." Every ream contains 480 sheets

QUALITY

There is always a "something" lacking in substitute brands—a kind of a too pungent earthy flavorless taste (all pretty much alike), that's because they are only substitutes, and not the original "SALADA" ideas of Tea Quality.

If you don't know this, it is your business and advantage to find out by a "cup" draw alongside of any other Teas on sale.

The sale could not have reached the present enormous proportions without Superior Merit—Now, could it?

The handling of "SALADA" is as safe an investment as Government bonds, and much more profitable.

Why I Order Southwell's Jams and Marmalades

By HENRY BOLTON

HINT No. 3

I systematized my buying and made division of customers who want reliable English Jams and Marmalades, reliable Canadian Jams and Marmalades, and those who want low-priced stuff.

I decided to centre my attention on these three.

In selecting my English line I thought it best to get some English evidence as to continuity of quality, purity of manufacture, etc.; so I wrote to a number of my friends in English retail houses.

NEW TARIFF ON GROCERIES

Trade Not Greatly Affected—Refiners P ay More on Raw Sugar—Half a Cent a Pound Off Rice—Oranges and Lemons Fall—Glassware and Figs Affected.

Finance Minister, W. S. Fielding, on Thursday of last week presented to Parliament his eleventh budget and with a complete revision of the tariff. The schedules in so far as they relate to the grocery, crockery and food stuff trade are given below. They contain fifty odd changes. Two are of outstanding importance compared at any rate with the rest, the advance in the duty on raw sugar of 7 1-3 per hundred pounds, the reduction by ½c a pound of the duty on rice. Other changes are the removal of the duty on oranges, lemons, and limes, change from ad valorem to specfic duty on figs and dates, increasing the tariff on low priced fruit and lowering it on the higher priced; change in sardines, mince meat cocoanuts, glucose, confectionery, candied fruits, candied peels, flavoring powders, custard powders, candles, paper sacks, glue, licorice, glassware, canned meats, cocoa preparations, spices, beans, peas, buckwheat, barley, sago, tapioca, macaroni, tomatoes, vegetables, olives, peas, quinces, apricots, plums, melons, nuts.

The new tariff has three separate custom schedules—the general schedule, the British schedule, to take place of the old style British preferential of a third off the ordinary customs duty, and the intermediate schedule, to be an instrument in the hands of the Government for negotiating favorable trade arrangements with other countries, to be extended to countries with which such arrangements are made, in the meantime lying dormant. On the whole the general tariff is much the same as the former tariff and the British tariff closely follows the old tariff less a third, but for purposes of convenience in reckoning 2½c has been adopted as a unit and whereas under the old tariff an article coming in under the preference paid 16c duty, it would now pay 15c or 17½c as Mr. Fielding saw fit.

The fruit trade are naturally pleased with the removal of the duty from oranges and lemons. The wholesale grocers regard the numerous small changes as irritating rather than important. Some have incurred annoying losses by the change on the fig duty; others have been reckoning their loss on stocks in hand by the reduction in rice. Sugar is something for the refiners to worry about; the grocers have worries of their own.

For purposes of comparison the former customs duties are given with the accompanying schedules of the new tariff and the changes are marked with a star:

Mr. Fielding in his budget speech, referred to only three food stuff changes, those in regard to rice, oranges and sugar. He said:

Rice and Oranges.

We make a change in the duties on rice, which is a substantial reduction. The old tariff rates were for cleaned rice, $1.25 per 100 pounds. We have reduced that to 75c per hundred, and the intermediate rate is 65 cents. The British preferential rate, which under the old tariff was 83 1-3 cents per 100 pounds, we have reduced to 60 cents, and we make the paddy or uncleaned rice free. The reduction on the cleaned rice is very material. The duty collected last year was about $170,000. The reduction on that item will be very considerable.

Mr. Foster—How does that affect the protection?

Mr. Fielding—It is about the same. We take the duty off the raw material and make a proportionate reduction on the finished article.

Another article we propose to make free is oranges and lemons. That may seem an article of slight consequence, but honorable gentlemen will be surprised when I tell them that the reduction in duty I estimate at $190,000. The duty on rice will probably effect a reduction in the revenue which I estimate at $145,000. So that these two items alone represent a reduction of duties of about $330,000.

The general changes will not, I think, affect the revenue much one way or another. Here a little increase, there a little reduction. On the whole, I do not think there will be a material difference by reason of the changes in the tariff. But there are a few large items which will make a difference.

I have shown that in the case of the two large items of oranges and lemons and rice, we will suffer a reduction of revenue to the extent of $300,000 to $340,000. While we do not want to increase taxation materially, we are not in such a position that we are anxious to lose revenue. The public business of the country is growing, public demands are growing and large obligations are falling due.

We are glad to find that the taxation in the past has not been burdensome, while at the same time it has yielded a large revenue. There has been practically little outcry against it. We do not want to increase it, but we do not want to decrease the revenue. Consequently if we make changes which cause considerable loss to the revenue, we must try and make up the difference in some other direction.

Sugar Duties.

I would call attention to the slight change proposed in the sugar duty—not in the duties on refined sugar. The change in that would affect the consumer because the refined sugar is the article which the consumer uses. We make no change in the duty on the refined sugar, but we propose a slight change in the duty on the raw sugar, and I desire to explain briefly the reason for that change.

We think that the schedule of sugar duties we adopted a few years ago was eminently fair. In 1896 the duty on refined sugar was $1.14, and on the raw, fifty cents per 100 pounds. A difference of sixty-four cents per hundred in favor of the refiners. We reduced the duty on refined to $1 and left the duty on the raw fifty cents, so that the difference in favor of the refiner became fifty cents.

It has been our idea all through, to give the refiner about that much advantage. Of course he has to take into account the loss in manufacture and the cost of manufacture. Later, we changed the system of sugar duties, but in a way as we believed, not to affect the rate of taxation.

We adopted the polariscopic test, fixing a certain duty for a certain degree of saccharine strength, and increasing it with every degree of added strength. In doing so, as I have said, we tried to avoid any change in the relative duties, trying to keep the protection between the refined and the raw sugar at about the rate we had originally fixed, and we think that we succeeded.

As the rates varied from degree to degree there may not have been mathematical accuracy in every case, but we think that the change made was rather a matter of departmental convenience than of the relative rates of duty. Then came the perferential tariff, under which one-third was taken off the raw sugar brought in from the West Indies. There has been a great change in our importations of sugar. We no longer get our sugar from Germany or from Java, or other countries outside the Empire; our sugar comes almost wholly from the West Indies.

The refiner is given full benefit of the preference on the raw material. If he had suffered a corresponding disadvantage by way of competition in the refined sugar of course, he would have been no better off by the change, but there are conditions attaching to the sugar refining business which practically prevent Canadian refiners from suffering this competition. We do not say that all refined sugar made in Great Britain shall come in under the preferential tariff. What we say, is preference to refined sugar made from British grown raw sugar. It happens that the refiners in England have not equipped themselves to meet that condition.

They draw their raw material from all sources. If the raw material comes from other than a British country, the refined sugar made from it is not entitled to the benefit of the preference on entering Canada.

The consequence is that, in practice a very small quantity of British refined sugar comes in under the preference. Therefore the Canadian refiner gets the benefit of the reduction on the raw material, but he suffers very little from the competition of the refined sugar from Great Britain.

Have Been Complaints.

There has been a very considerable outcry against the sugar duties. In the course of the investigation by the tariff commission we had strong representations made to us that the refiner was receiving an enormous protection. I frankly say that I could not follow the argument to that conclusion, but I think that under the preference the Canadian refiner gets more advantage than we intended to give him. One point that is made is that the raw sugar manufactured in Great Britain must be taken to England from, say, the West Indies, paying freight, and than has to be brought to Canada, paying freight again.

This double freight of itself is considerable protection. If it works out the refiner gets the full benefit of the preference and he suffers little competition from the British refined sugar.

So, as I have said, we think that the operation of the preferential tariff is to give him, perhaps, more than we intended, and a litle more than he needs, and, in consideration of this and deference to the feeling that the sugar duties should be reconsidered, we propose to add a little to the duty on raw material. We make an increase of 7½ per cent. per hundred pounds on raw sugar, when imported from a British country, which means twelve cents under the general tariff, and ten cents under the middle tariff.

We need consider only the 7 1-3 cents under the British preference because the refiner gets practically all his raw sugar from the West Indies. By giving the West Indies the preference in that respect, we have made this the market for their raw sugar, which, in turn encourages our West India trade.

Mr. R. L. Bordon—I do not follow the argument as to the British refiner bringing his raw sugar from the West Indies and then having to re-convey it to Canada.

Mr. Fielding—The argument advanced by those who think that the refiner has been getting too much advantage, is that the British refiner had to bring his raw material from the West Indies or some other country, paying freight upon it, and then must pay freight upon the refined sugar to Canada.

This was regarded as a considerable protection of itself to Canada refiners. The result is that, while an enormous quantity of raw sugar comes under the preference, very little refined sugar comes in. While it is our desire to encourage the sugar refining industry, and while we wish to promote the importation of raw sugar from the West Indies, at the same time, we do not wish to give the Canadian refiner an undue advantage and as, under the preferential tariff, the Canadian refiner has been gaining rather more advantage than we intended to give, we make a slight change in the duty.

This does not affect the consumer, because it does not touch the question of refined sugar. The increase is very slight, but, as sugar is an article of enormous consumption in Canada, we shall receive about $300,000, of additional revenue from this source which will be almost enough to balance the losses to which I have called attention.

Consumption of Sugar.

The importations of sugar above 16 Dutch Standard during the year ending June 30, 1906, were 28,532,913 lbs., of which 27,695,710 lbs. came from Great Britain and the remainder in about equal parts from the West Indies, Hong Kong, Austro-Hungary, Belgium, China, and the United States. The value was $901,000. The tariff collected $246,000.

The raw sugar imported amounted to 420,429,000 lbs., and of that 324,691,000 lbs. came from the British West Indies and British Guiana, and of the rest 5,876,000 lbs. came from British Africa, 14,755,000 lbs. from the Fiji Islands, 26,096,000 lbs. from Belgium, 32,565,000 lbs. from the Dutch East Indies, 10,687,000 lbs. from Peru, 478,000 lbs. from the United States. The value was $9,335,000, and the duty $2,176,000.

Hugh Blain, of the Eby Blain Co., president of the Berlin Sugar Co., speaking of the change in the sugar duty said:—

"It will not materially affect the Canadian market so far as the sugar-consumer is concerned. Whenever a rise or drop occurs it is usually of ten points, so the new tariff will produce no commotion. It is in favor of the Canadian beet sugar industry, and as such the Government could have raised the duty higher. The only thing it means is that the refiners will have to pay seven cents a hundred pounds more for the raw material which they usually get from the British West Indies .That is a narrow margin of protection for the Canadian refiners. The duty on 96 degree sugar, which is the usual basis for purchases of raw sugar, would be 72 cents for 88 degree sugar, with one cent increase for each additional degree, making 84 cents for the 96 degree kind. Raw sugar under 16 degrees Dutch standard is 34 cents for 75 degrees, and again with one cent for each additional degree over 75 to 96 degrees, making 55 cents for 96 degree sugar leaving a protection of 29 cents on each one hundred pounds of sugar the refiner makes. This may be a fraction more per bag, in which refined sugar is imported. I do not think this is reasonable protection to the Canadian refiner. The duty on the refined sugar should have been correspondingly increased with that of the raw. I think this is a fair statement of the case. The Canadian refiner has hardly been generously dealt with, in fact not fairly. Generally speaking, I think the new tariff will prove fairly satisfactory to everybody. The public will be very much relieved to know the shape it is in."

Some people in the trade entertain the erroneous idea that nearly all the rice consumed in Canada comes in uncleaned. Last year 15,614,000 lbs. came in uncleaned and 19,059,000 lbs. cleaned. The duty on the former was $169,000 and on the latter $74,000. Of the cleaned rice five million pounds came from Great Britain, nearly five millions from China, 2,342,000 lbs. from Hong Kong, 1,137,000 from Japan, 1,041,000 lbs. from British East Indies 282,000 lbs. from the West Indies, and 756,000 lbs. from the United States, and of the uncleaned rice nearly seven million lbs. came from Great Britain, six and a quarter millions from British East Indies, 1,400,000 lbs. from Hong Kong, 4,363,000 lbs. from Japan.

In the Fruits Markets.

Generally speaking, the new tariff has no very far-reaching consequences in the fruit market.

At first glance, the placing of oranges, lemons, limes and grape fruit on the free list would seem to be of considerable importance, but the general impression is that it will affect the consumption very little. The removal of this duty means a difference in cost of between 2 and 3 cents per dozen, which is not enough to induce the retailer to lessen his prices to any appreciable extent, so that any benefits resulting will be divided between him and the dealer from whom he secures his stock. During the past few years prices of these fruits, especially oranges, have had such a wide range that a few odd cents more or less make very little difference. A consignment of Mexican oranges now on the road was sold by a Canadian dealer with the expectation of the buyer having to pay duty. The buyer is now that much in, but the importer gains nothing by the change. This, of course, is only a temporary result.

In the case of pears, quinces, apricots and nectarines, which have been changed from 20 per cent. on pears and apricots and 25 per cent. on quinces, to a general rate of 50 cents per 100 lbs., the ordinary effect of a change from an ad valorem to a specific valuation is seen. By this the duty is less on high priced goods, and higher on low priced stock, while formerly the cost of duty was large or small according to the cost of the article.

Imported plums come in regulation packages, so that very little trouble is anticipated in the change from the old duty of 25 per cent to the new tariff of 30 cents per bushel.

The change in the form of the duty on melons is the item which causes most comment among fruit men. Formerly, in a carload shipment, sold as consisting of approximately 900, 1,000, 1,400, or other number of melons, depending on the kind or quality, a variation of 50 melons more or less was allowed for. With the present duty of 3 cents per melon, every carload will have to be accurately counted, not only by the shipper, but by the consignee in bond, while canteloupes and such other varieties as are shipped in cases, will need to have quantities marked on the boxes. One large dealer has already written to the department asking that a distinction be made between canteloupes and watermelons, and suggesting that if nothing else can be done, the former be placed on the old basis. The new duty will not seriously affect the watermelon trade, but if exacted on canteloupes it will practically keep them off the market. Imported canteloupes come in at a time when the domestic fruit is unobtainable, so that there is really no reason for discriminating against them.

Roughly speaking, all nut tariffs are increased. The rise of 1 cent per pound in the duty on unshelled peanuts seems somewhat unreasonable. Peanuts are not a domestic product and there seems to be no reason for the change. The immediate result of the increase combined with the present famine in peanuts will be that first and second grades will cost 10 and 11 cents per pound.

The duty on vegetables is slightly raised, but little effect will be felt. Imported tomatoes, however. will probably be somewhat higher.

In the opinion of the fruit men there is evidently a definite plan in the new tariff to help steamship lines running direct between fruit growing countries and Canada, the new duties making it more than ever to the advantage of the dealers to buy direct, instead of via foreign ports.

In Montreal.

In Montreal it is the refiners who are most interested in the new tariff as far as grocery lines are concerned. The effect of the new duty was felt in Montreal immediately. The news of the change arrived Friday morning last, and at 2 o'clock in the afternoon prices were advanced ten cents all round. Officials of the St. Lawrence Company stated that they were not in a position to talk, when approached by a representative of the Canadian Grocer, but E. W. Parker, secretary of the Canadian Sugar Refinery, explained the situation very concisely. Mr. Parker said:—

"The new arrangements in the tariff," said he, "will effect the Canadian refiners very much. There are two classes of sugar, raw and refined, and under the tariff arrangements the duty on these has been changed more or less, according to the quality and color of the sugar. For raw sugar imported a certain shade of color has been fixed, and any sugar which is of a lighter shade than this will be subject to a higher rate of duty. Sugars would be considered under the head of the polariscope test, which would have the effect of determining the amount of saccharine in the sugar. There is from 75 per cent. to 97 per cent. saccharine in the average lot of raw sugar brought into Canada. According to the new tariff, 75 degrees, per hundred pounds is taken as the basis for fixing the duty on raw sugars, it being understood that the color is not to be higher than the Dutch Standard, number 16, which is a rather light yellow.

"By the new tariff, the British preferential is now 34c per 100 lbs. against 26 2-3c as formerly, which is an increase of 7 1-3c. The general tariff is now 52c against the old figure, 404 or 12c increase. Then there is the new intermediate tariff of 454. To make one hundred pounds of refined sugar, it takes one hundred and eight pounds of raw material, testing 96 degrees, so you will see we have now to pay duty on 108 pounds of raw sugar against a duty which has to be paid on 100 pounds of the refined article. This means, practically, an all round increase in the tariff of 30 per cent. There is not much change in the extra duty for every degree over 75c per hundred pounds.

"All of the refined sugars which are above number 16 in color, and which do not test over 88 degrees saccharine, pay 72c British preferential, as of old, and $1.08 general tariff, also as of old, but there is an intermediate tariff, 98c. It is currently reported that the duty on refined sugar is unchanged, but this is only the case provided no nation takes advantage of the 98c intermediate duty, in which case the tariff would become 10c per 100 lbs. lower than the old general tariff. You will note, however, that the intermediate tariff on raw sugar is 12½ per cent. above the old general tariff.

"Hon. W. S. Fielding, the Minister of Finance, accused the Canadian refiners of not having given a fair proportion of the British preferential to the West India planters, but this is not the case. As a matter of fact, the average premium we paid in 1905 was, per 100 lbs., 13 7-10 cents, and in 1904 it was 12 9-10 cents, above the ruling price in the new York market, and there cannot, therefore, be the slightest doubt about this matter. The West India planters were given a fair show."

Robt. Anderson's Views.

Robt. Anderson, manager for Robert Crooks & Co., sugar importers, Montreal, stating his views to the Canadian Grocer regarding the new sugar duty, said:—

"The change in the sugar duties in Mr. Fielding's new tariff is in the right direction, and should be welcomed by the trade, and consumers, by leaving the duty on refined as it was, the tariff does not raise the price of this household necessity, while the slightly higher duty on raw will add not less than $300,000 per annum to the country's revenue, which will increase as the importations of sugar grow to meet the greater requirements of larger consumption which must develop with the growth of our population, and the refiners will benefit proportionately by their output being increased, though at a trifling addition to cost, which the heavy protection the tariff still gives them, enables them, if they are greedy, to make up in the price they charge for their refined product.

"It so happens that the market for sugar is strong at present, and justified the Canadian refiners advancing their prices 10c per 100 lbs. on the day the tariff appeared in the public press, which, not only the refiners, but the grocers get the benefit of, for they were well warned that a change might be made and had every opportunity to lay in supplies at the old prices, so everybody ought to be satisfied.

Profit for Refiners.

"The refiners instantly made 10c extra profit on every 100 lbs. of their product, without additional cost to themselves, as they had paid duty at the former rate on all the raw sugar they had on hand, before the tariff was changed. The increase in the raw duty under the preferential tariff of 7 1-3c per 100 lbs., which is the only feature of the tariff that need be considered, only amounted to about 1 3-4 per cent. of the price the refiners were getting for their granulated when the tariff was brought down, and although the cost of the granulated the refiners then had and still have for sale was not increased a fraction, beyond interest on the money they had paid out for the old duty, and they were making a big profit at the old price, they at once added about 2½ per cent. to their selling price, reaping practically the whole of this as enhanced profit. If an importer of refined sugar makes a gross profit of 2½ per cent on the small quantity he is permitted, by the Canadian refiners, to bring in, he thinks he is well off.

"Competition against the refiners is again restricted, by the provisions of the new tariff, to refined made in Great Britain from British grown raws, for entry in Canada under the preferential tariff, which confines importers of refined to a single source of supply, that is at best spasmodic, and must always be limited.

"So long as the Canadian refiners are protected by the Government they will not only have the whip-hand, but it will be to their own interests, as it has always been, to permit a certain quanity of imported refined to come into competition with their product, as, when Scotch refined can compete against Canadian, it is a simple deduction that the Canadian refiners are taking full advantage of their protection, and making, to put it mildly, a snug profit, but, the price at which Scotch refined can be laid down duty paid in Canada will always put a check on the price the Canadian refiner charges for his refined.

Freight Plus Protection.

"It is not only the straight protection given to the refiners in the tariff, of the difference in the duties between raw and refined, that protects them, but the competition from imported refined being confined to the produce of raw sugar grown in the British West Indies, gives the refiners the additional protection of the greater cost of freight bringing refined from Scotland, than it has cost the Canadian refiners to bring West India raws direct to Canada. This in itself is a protection to the Canadian refiners of about 25c per 100 lbs., in addition to the about 30c per 100 lbs. higher duty the importer has to pay on Scotch refined than the Canadian refiner pays on his West India raw.

"The domestic beet industry is assisted by the change in the tariff; the higher duty on raw sugar gives the Ontario and Alberta companies that much more protection in selling their granulated, and if protection to sugar can be justified in Canada at all, the domestic article, from earth to sugar bowl, should be the first to be considered, for every cent expended in the production remains in Canada. But we must have revenue to develop the vast territories we have to govern, so, as customs duties are our principal mode of taxation, we impose them on sugar imported, but it should appeal to all who have the growth and extension of our great Dominion at heart, that these duties should be for the good of the people at large, and not, as has so largely been the case for many years, for the enrichment of a few individuals, who, however, by the tariff now in operation will still reap a golden harvest from the protection extended to them by a considerate Government."

Fruit dealers, speaking generally, are pleased at the placing of lemons and oranges on the free list and greater trade than ever is anticipated in these lines during the coming winter. It is admitted by most that the extra duty of 5 per cent. on vegetables is only just protection for Canadian farmers. Vegetables do not play a very prominent part in the winter trade anyway.

Taken all round the new tariff arrangements meet with the satisfaction of the grocery trade in Montreal.

Chas. Hart.

"I do not think the change will affect us very much either way," said Chas. Hart, of Hart & Tuckwell, fruit merchants, Montreal. "Oranges and lemons being free will possibly have the effect of increasing the demand for these goods, but this remains to be seen. The duty on all nuts imported has been raised to 3c. Peanuts were formerly 2c, but the change is not likely to result in new prices. Where something was taken off the duty in some cases something was put on in other instances, so that after all the new tariff arrangements do not bother us very much."

Jos. Ethier.

Jos. Ethier, manager for Laporte, Martin & Co., Montreal, expressed himself as very much satisfied with the new tariff arrangements. He thought that as far as the grocery trade was concerned there was no ground for complaint.

D. W. Ross.

A representative of the Grocer saw D. W. Ross, general manager of the Mount Royal Milling Company, large millers of rice, in Montreal, in reference to the recent change in the tariff, whereby rice has been placed on the free list. As a miller, Mr. Ross says, that the change will not make any material difference, as it will simply mean that they will get their raw material cheaper, and will have to turn it over to the trade that much cheaper also. The one to benefit, therefore, by the reduction will be the consumer, who will naturally get his supply a little cheaper. The amount of rice consumed in Canada is not so great as to make any very material increase in riches for any one family. Mr. Ross states that the class who will benefit most by the change will be the Chinaman. He pointed out that over half of the entire quantity of cleaned rice shipped into this country is consumed by the Celestial, and to him, who is the user of the much larger quantity, the benefit will naturally come. It is hardly to be expected that the benefit of the Chinaman was the ulterior purpose in placing rice upon the free list, but when a gentleman of Mr. Ross' experience points out the fact, it is rather in contravention of the first supposition that the change is likely to be of general benefit.

The opinions in the trade are rather contradictory, some saying that the change in the duty will be beneficial, while others think the reserve.

Geo. Forbes.

"The change in the sugar tariff came as a little surprise to us," said Mr. George Forbes, of Forbes Bros., Montreal, speaking to the Grocer, "but otherwise the new arrangements do not affect us very much. I think on the whole that the grocery trade is satisfied. Regarding sugar, perhaps the new tariff is not quite so handy as the old, inasmuch that we now, in the case of imported British sugars, have to look up each item and figure out the duty thereon, instead of allowing 33 1-3 per cent. all round as formerly. This is the result of making a flat rate for different goods."

S. J. Mathewson.

"So far as we can see at present the new tariff is quite satisfactory to the grocery trade," said S. J. Mathewson, of Mathewson Sons, Montreal, "although it is a little early to say anything definite. I think it is a great thing to get the tariff making out of politics, a move which will appeal to every business man. Formerly we were loaded up with various lines because of rumored advances in the duty which never took place, and jobber after jobber lost thousands of dollars."

J. F. McLean.

J. F. McLean, of the Montreal Fruit Exchange, thought that the removal of the duty on oranges and lemons was a wise move on the part of the Government.

"These goods will now be much more saleable in Canada, and consumption cannot help but be increased. There will be a difference of from 25c to 50c a case on these goods. Take the Spanish oranges, which come in large cases, they will now sell at a price 50c lower than heretofore. Speaking for ourselves, we have already noticed the difference in the demand. An order has just come to hand for a carload of fruit from a section of the country which never before took such a quantity at one time.

"No, I do not think more oranges will be imported direct from Messina or Sorrento, or Spain, although there can be no doubt consumption of these lines will be increased somewhat. But it is the California navel orange that the people are educated to buy, and these will have a greater sale than ever before."

S. W. Ewing.

"I think the spice men are satisfied," said S. W. Ewing, of S. H. Ewing & Sons, Montreal. "As you may know the spice duty was formerly 25 per cent. on ground spices, and 12½ per cent. on whole. This has been changed to 10 per cent. on whole, and 3c a pound and 10 per cent. on ground. This affords very much more protection for Canadian manufacturers."

Canned Meats.

Canned meats, including poultry, game, soups and extracts have an increased protection of 2½ per cent. in the general tariff and 5-6 per cent. in the preferential. The rates of duty are now 17½, 25, and 27½ per cent. against the old 25 per cent and a third off. In the last fiscal year importations of canned goods aggregated 753,000 lbs., and it may surprise some to know that the year before the importations were not such a great deal more, 890,000 lbs. The increase in duty will have little or no effect upon the trade.

A change which may not greatly affect trade but which is interesting is that in chocolate. It looks now as if the duty had been raised from 20 to 35 per cent upon confectionery preparations, as Swiss Milk Chocolate.

Mr. Langley, of McClure & Langley, agents for Tobler's milk chocolate, stated to the Grocer yesterday that there was doubt about the new classification. At present it appeared as if the duty had been raised but by next week he would be prepared to speak definitely. He did not think the increase if it were a fact, would much affect the price of their goods to the retail trade.

Under the old tariff there were three classifications for cocoa, cocoa beans, "cocoa shells and nuts, chocolate and other preparations of cocoa n.e.s.," "cocoa paste, chocolate paste, cocos and cocoa butter, n.o.p." The new tariff makes five classifications, beans, cocoa nibs and shells, paste or "liquor," not sweetened paste or "liquor," sweetened, preparations in powder form preparations, n.o.p. Under the old tariff, Swiss chocolate and similar preparations came in under "cocoa shells and nibs, chocolate and other preparations of cocoa," at 20 per cent. Manufacturers here have held that such preparations should be classed as "confectionery." Aparently that has been done in effect as the new duty on confectionery is 35 per cent.

Importations as cocoa shells and nibs, chocolate and other preparations of cocoa totalled last year 1,379,000 lbs., and of that 238,000 lbs. came from Switzerland, 657,000 lbs. from Great Britain, 422,000 lbs. from United States.

The other changes, 20 per cent. to 10 per cent. on nibs, 4c to 3c on unsweetened paste, etc., 4c to 3½c on sweetened paste are not regarded as serious. The duty on cocoa in powder form, breakfast cocoas is not changed.

Crockery and Glassware.

There is a change in the crockery and glassware schedule that is very far from being acceptable to the firm. The case is very clearly set forth by Mr. McMahon, of McMahon, Broadfield & Co., Toronto, in a letter he sent Monday to the Minister of Customs. It follows:

Group 7. Paragraph 287.—"Tableware of china, porcelain, white granite or iron granite" p.c. 15, 27½, 30, as the term "iron granite" is not a crockery term, we assume this is intended for "iron stone white granite," a term some makers use. Does this paragraph No. 287 include plain white, printed or decorated ware? What articles does the word "tableware" embrace? "Tableware" is a very abbiguous word in the crockery trade, and is used mainly to designate household pottery from sanitaryware, stoneware, electricalware, etc. The trade were greatly exasperated some two years ago when this word "tableware" was introduced in the change of some items in the tariff at that time, but we understood it was some clerical error, and would be remedied when the general changes were made in the tariff. Many of the appraisers throughout the country differed as to what was, and what was not "tableware." What object can there be in having white ganite or porcelain cups, saucers, plates, pitchers, etc., one rate of duty and bedroomware of the same material at another rate of duty, many of the packages imported usually have some little lot of bedroomware in them, even if it is only a few shillings worth, extra clerical help is required to compute the two rates of duty each invoiced at intricate discounts. As toiletware, such as bedroom sets, etc., are not made in Canada, the trade think the department of customs must have overlooked our former recommendation of three years ago to rectify this vexing complication. The trade would much prefer paragraph No. 287 read:

"Earthenware, plain white, printed or decorated, in china porcelain, semi-porcelain and white graniteware, for general household use n.o.p. p.c. 15, 27½, 30." Much of the lowest priced cups, saucers, plates, dishes, baking dishes, cover dishes, sauce dishes, bowls, jugs, ewer basins, chambers, etc., are made in cc body, and are usually printed or decorated in some way, almost altogether imported from Great Britain, and used almost exclusively by the farming people and the work people in towns.

As the trade will be compelled to explain, that the cause of the advance in prices of their dishes is owing to increase in rate of duty on the ware, and also increased duty on the price of the packages, in which the goods are packed, and as this increased duty on the packages will mean quite an increase in price on this low priced ware, often only about £4 worth of goods in a package and crates and hhds. are charged from 16 to 18 shillings each for packages that are almost worthless when unpacked—on £4 worth of goods the 5 per cent. extra duty is $1.00, 15 per cent. duty on package say cost 17 viz. 0.62 less ¼ the old rate makes this 49c. Total $1.49. This $1.49, with the risks of breakage, the importers and the retailers profits just doubles this and makes the cost to the farmer and workpeople $3 on this £4 package or 15 per cent. more than before, while in the better grade goods there is only the extra duty on the package, containing goods from £8 to £20. Value the extra duty of 49c for package only increased the selling prices from 1 to 2 per cent. We think that household cc or cream colored ware should have remained as it was, as it is not made or sold to scarcely any extent in Canada, and even if the duty was 5 per cent., as it is in the United States, no manufacturer could compete with the British makers in the class of ware mentioned above.

Hundreds of manufacturers in Great Britain make the bodies of their ware by mixing cc clay and semi-porcelain and white granite clay together; not one appraiser in a hundred could tell where to draw the line between cc body and white granite body, causing further complication. Even the importers themselves could not tell. It would greatly simplify the matter and be exceedingly acceptable to the trade if clause 287 was made to read thus: "Earthenware, plain white, printed or decorated china, porcelain or semi-porcelain, white granite or cc ware n.o.p. p.c. all at the same rates of duty," and strike out the words "cc or cream colored ware" in paragraph 288.

Crates, hhds., casks and cases containing earthenware, plain white, printed or decorated, and packages and straw containing moulded, pressed or blown glassware are a large percentage of the cost of the goods contained in them, and are, perhaps, the most worthless kind of package imported after they are emptied, and of scarcely any value whatever, after the goods are taken out of them, and in justice to the trade we think they should be made free of duty. The crockery trade of the Dominion is one of the important branches of business and those engaged in it, feel that the tariff relating to this industry should, if possible, be made free from complications and ambiguous phrases, so that when we send our entries to the various ports in Canada we will have assurance that all the appraisers will appraise alike the thousands of articles made in pottery and imported in this country.

The sub-agencies at Fort Rouge (Winnipeg) and Ste. Anne de Bellevue, mentioned in our last report as about to be established, were opened shortly afterwards. Since the last annual meeting branches have also been opened in the city of Mexico and at Saskatoon, and sub-agencies at Fenelon Falls; St. Henri, Montreal; Upper town, Quebec; and Bank street, Ottawa.

The Ontario Bank having intimated that is was in difficulties and would have to suspend, this bank, on 13th October, last, assumed all its liabilities, under a guarantee of other banks against loss, and it is now being liquidated.

In view of the change in the number of directors made by resolution of the shareholders at the last annual meeting, and in order to bring the by-laws of the bank into accord with the Bank Act, as at present, it has been thought well by the directors to have the existing by-laws consolidated and amended to date. This has been done, and they are now placed before you for confirmation.

All the offices of the bank, including the Head Office, have been inspected during the past year.

G. A. DRUMMOND,
President.

THE VICE-PRESIDENT.

The vice-president then spoke as follows:

As the president will deal with the business of the country generally, I will only refer to the statement of the affairs of the bank presented to you. You will notice that the chief features are increases of about $11,000,000 in deposits bearing interest, and about $13,000,000 in our current loans. These changes took place principally during the last month of our fiscal year, and are the result of our undertaking the liquidation of the liabilities of the Ontario Bank. The profits show an increase of $160,000, due partly to the good rates ruling in London and New York, where we are compelled to carry a considerable portion of our reserve funds. The other changes are of minor importance, and do not call for any special comment.

When in October the deplorable condition of the Ontario Bank was submitted for the consideration of a number of bankers, it was thought best. in the interests of all concerned, that the bank should be liquidated, and, with the view of allaying any excitement which would probably be detrimental to the interests of the commercial community generally, it was decided that this bank should undertake to assume all the liabilities of the Ontario Bank, under a guarantee from other banks in the event of the assets being insufficient to discharge them. The bank is also a party to the guarantee, and we have agreed in addition to pay $150,000 for the goodwill of the business . We do not anticipate that there will be any claim under the guarantee. The liquidation is proceeding quietly, without any public excitement or disorganization of the business of the country, with a minimum of cost to the shareholders of the Ontario Bank, and without the loss of a dollar to either noteholders or depositors. The record of Canadian banks in this respect is excellent. During the last quarter of a century, by failures of banks, which could be organized under our present banking laws, the loss to depositors has been under $750,000. The noteholders, of course, have lost nothing. I speak only of banks that could be organized under our present acts. Other banks during that period failed, involving loss to both depositors and noteholders, but they were acting under old charters and under conditions which do not now exist—in one case there was no double liability. Out of the 12 banks that have suspended since 1880, five only could obtain charters under our present system.

With respect to the general business of the country, I can only repeat my remarks of last year, that we are still in the full flood tide of prosperity. Railway earnings continue large, immigration is satisfactory, and the farming community share with manufacturers and merchants the general well-being; but in its wake it is feared will follow over-expansion, inflated values and increasing speculations, particularly in real estate and mining stocks, leaving wreckage behind when the tide ebbs.

There is still time to set one's house in order and keep it there, but the tardy should remember that the prolongation of the day of grace may add to the severity of the day of reckoning.

THE PRESIDENT'S REMARKS.

The president, in moving the adoption of the directors' report, said:

In accordance with a practice of many years' standing in this bank, I attempt a brief review of the general trade of the country.

Beyond question the general condition is one of great prosperity.

In all or nearly all branches of trade, manufacture and commerce, considerable advances in the volume of trade have taken place, as compared with the preceding year.

The port of Montreal is now, it is satisfactory to note, much more widely recognized as the eastern port of the Dominion, and its efficiency the concern not of the province of Quebec specially, but of the whole Domonion. It is therefore not entirely satisfactory to note that the business of the year now ending shows little, if any, advance over the previous year.

The improvements of the port proceed but slowly, and much remains to be done in the harbor, the channel, and the gulf, to make it possible to claim Montreal a model port

The present extreme rates of marine insurance are a great disadvantage. Upon the whole the shipping business shows a fair season's business, due in part to a greatly increased importation of goods and increased passenger trade, and the shipowners appear to be fairly well satisfied.

In this connection, it is in the highest degree satisfactory to note the improved volume of passenger business, due largely to the appearance on the route of four new steamers of the Allans and Canadian Pacific Railway Company. These boats, if only the pioneers, do much to remove the reproach which forced Canadian travel to New York and Boston, and prevented almost entirely general travel from reaching Canada, in effect placing Canada and Canadian interests in the background. We have the shortest sea route from Europe, and are only beginning to secure a reasonable share of a business which may include not Canada alone, but a large portion of the Western United States.

Taken in detail, I may say the various important departments of trade and commerce have done well.

The hardware trade reports "a larger business during the past year than at any former period in the trade's history."

The new application of iron and steel in building structures added to the demand for other standard purposes have caused a famine in these materials and unexpected delays in many enterprises.

The dry goods trade is reported as never better, and one feature to which I may refer later on, is the much better and more expensive goods now in demand.

In wooollens the report is that while still under a cloud from the operation of the preferential tariff it is better than last year, prices of all classes having advanced.

In cotton, advances in prices and an active demand are reported. Here again buyers are said to be taking goods costing seven to eight cents a yard, when not long ago four to five cents sufficed.

Boots and Shoes.—The demand has been good. Prices it is said have not advanced in proportion to the advance in the raw material, though now from 5 to 20 per cent. above last year.

In leather a large business has been done in the home trade, at an advance of one to two cents per pound. Raw hides having advanced all round about 25 per cent.

Wool has brought very high prices during the year.

Some idea of the value to the farming community of the cheese and butter trade may be found from the following figures.

Cheese. -- The cheese exported to Great Britain during the present season was of the value of $22,401,132.

Butter.—Of butter, $4,433,891, and including what remains to be sent over, we reach a total of over 33 millions of dollars. To these must be added the home consumption, which is every year growing in volume and importance.'

The great feature of the hour is, however, the development of the North Western provinces — Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta—in which the capacity to produce excellent qualities of all kinds of cereals seems to be assured beyond question.

Of wheat alone the present crop is estimated at 85 million bushels, the quality undoubted; the area under cultivation is greater than last year, but the yield per acre is about 19 bushels, as against 23 last year.

If the other grains such as oats, barley and flaxseed, are taken into account, and cattle exported to the value of eight millions of dollars, we are assured that the farmers have shared in the general prosperity .

The number of acres of Canadian Pacific lands sold from January 1st to October 31st, 1906, is 1,080,000, as against 653,000 acres in the corresponding period of 1905.

The number of immigrants entering Canada through Canadian Pacific gateways from January 1st to November 7th, 1906, is 132,000, as against 96,000 in the corresponding period of last year.

The best evidence of the extraordinary activity of trade is to be found in the railway traffic, which is trying to the utmost the resources of the roads; new rolling stock is being put into service as quickly as acquired, and the demand is still unappeased.

In addition, we have three great trunk lines engaged in active construction.—The Grand Trunk to reach the Pacific, the Canadian Northern and the Canadian Pacific in great stretches of extension the pace being only limited by the supply of labor.

The current complaint is of the increased cost of living, and it is an interesting question how far this is due to any increased cost of what are called the necessities of life, or to an advance in the style of living and the increased use of luxuries. Doubtless both enter into the case, but this is too large a subject for adequate treatment on this occasion.

In this matter some evidence may be adduced from the fact that the dry goods and other trades report the more costly class of goods now being sold.

There is abroad in the world at large a prevalent idea that capital and corportions of all kinds are antagonistic to the general welfare. Now it would be an interesting question how much of our present prosperity is founded on substantial realizations of our own, and how much is due to an increased confidence in our future on the part of outside capitalists.

The absurdity of regarding capital with suspicion is evidenced by the fact that the vast additions to our railways and other enterprises essential to the opening up of our country would be impossible without the aid of outside capital.

It would be contrary to all experience to hope for an unbroken continuance of the present condition of prosperity—periods of reaction and of suspended enterprise may be expected, but we may be assured that the surest means of postponing their coming and dealing with the bad times when they come, is the exercise of prudence and caution to prosperous times like the present.

I beg to move: "That the report of the directors, now read, be adopted and printed for distribution among the shareholders." If any shareholder has any questions to ask, we shall be pleased to answer them.

The motion for the adoption of the report was seconded by the vice-president, after which Rev. G. H. Parker asked several questions in regard to dividends, and also as to the bank's premises, which were replied to by the president and the vice-president.

Mr. B. A. Boas spoke on the dividend question, and advocated the possibility of higher dividends in the future.

The report was then unanimously adopted.

Confirm Amended By-laws.

It was moved by the president: "Resolved that the consolidated amended by-laws of the shareholders of the Bank of Montreal, laid before the shareholders and read, be and the same are hereby confirmed, adopted and passed by this meeting of shareholders, and that the same be sealed with the Corporate Seal of the Bank, countersigned by the president thereof."

This was seconded by the vice-president, who remarked: I think it is hardly necessary to read the by-laws through; they are before the shareholders, and the changes are small and few. In paragraph III, the number of directors is increased from nine to ten. Paragraph VI. governs the election of an honorary president, which is a new position. No. X. had to be changed in order to enable us to carry out the quarterly dividends and the closing of the bank's books. As to No. XI., under the old by-laws, if we appoint any local director, he had to be qualified to the extent of twenty shares. We have though it was hardly necessary to ask a local director for any qualification. No. XIII. has been stricken out, as it is provided for by a footnote.

The motion was then adopted, after which Mr. B. A. Boas moved:

"That the thanks of the meeting be presented to the president and directors for their attention to the interests of the bank."

This was seconded by Mr. Henry Dobell, and was concurred in unanimously.

Mr. A. T. Paterson moved:

"That the thanks of the meeting be given to the general manager, the assistant general manager, the inspector, the managers, and other officers of the Bank for their services during the past year."

In making the motion, Mr. Paterson said that the importance of the staff to the Bank was a point which must be patent to everybody. The success of the Bank depended in the first place, upon the chief officers, but the subordinate staff had a hand in carrying out their several offices. The extension of a bank's business necessarily carried with it an augmentation of the staff. When he first joined the Board of the Bank of Montreal the staff was under 300; now it was, he believed, somewhat over 1,000.

Sir William Macdonald seconded the motion, which was unanimously adopted.

The vice-president thanked the shareholders, on behalf of himself and staff, for their kind expression of appreciation.

Mr. H. Paton moved, seconded by Mr. John Turnbull:

"That the ballot now open for the election of directors be kept open until 2 o'clock, unless fifteen minutes elapse without a vote being cast, when it shall be closed, and until that time and for that purpose only this meeting be continued."

This was unanimously concurred in.

THE DIRECTORS.

The ballot resulted in the election of the following directors:

R. B. ANGUS,
E. S. CLOUSTON,
THE HON. SIR. GEORGE A. DRUMMOND, K.C.M.G.,

THE TARIFF.

While the grocery trade is not greatly affected by the new tariff, some of the fifty odd changes are disconcerting and by their very smallest annoying, large enough to appreciably decrease the margin upon which goods are handled and not large enough to justify a convenient advance in the price.

Raw sugar will cost the refiners 1-7 of a cent more. Rice will cost half a cent less. New Orleans molasses will cost 1¼ cent more giving that much further protection to the West Indian product. Quarter size boxes of sardines will cost ½ cent more and boxes weighing more than 8 oz. of which but few are sold, 2 cents. Pickles are advanced two cents or so a dozen because of the new duty on the outer case or cask. Marmalades, jams, etc., are dearer by ⅛ cent a pound. Candied peels are ½ cent a pound cheaper.

The duty on nuts has been raised but walnuts and almonds which come from France and Spain have the old reduced rate under the favored nation treaty made in 1865. This treaty covers also soaps and wines. Filbert nuts which come mostly from Italy and Sicily will be a cent dearer. Peanuts which come almost wholly from the States will also be a cent dearer, though gives an additional preference to the Spanish production and may induce larger importations there.

Figs and dates suffer differently. On them the duty is changed from an ad valorem of 25 per cent. to a specific duty of 80 cents a hundred pounds. The result is that on all figs or dates costing $3.20 a cwt, the duty is unchanged but on those costing more the duty is decreased and on those costing less the duty is raised. This may encourage the consumption of better fruit but the bulk of the trade is in low priced figs. Oranges, lemons and limes are on the free list and consequently 25 cents a box cheaper.

The duty on chocolate preparations that are really confections is asserted to be raised by a new classification from 20 to 35 per cent. Macaroni is advanced a fraction of a cent. The new duty on the container for glassware raises the price of cheap kinds used by the working classes of the people and practically does not affect more expensive goods.

The classification of sardines by weight instead of by size of box is regarded by the trade as a proper change but the increase of the preference afforded Great Britain where sardines are not packed is thought to encourage the importation of fish in oil and the putting on the market of inferior fish as sardines undoubtedly hurts the trade in sardines.

All goods not mentioned particularly in the schedule submitted to Parliament come in at a duty of 20 per cent.

It must be remembered that the new tariff as submitted to the House is subject to change. Representatives of numerous interests hurried to Ottawa upon the publication of the schdules and the effect of their arguments will be seen when the bill gets into committee of the House where the amending process will be in operation. Changes, however, are likely to be few. The tariff as submitted is the chrystalized result of the labors of the Tariff Commission. The manufacturers who advocate higher protection will be disappointed but the Government is to be congratulated upon having at least lived up to its policy of tariff stability.

IRRITATING DELAY.

This is the season when everybody from the largest manufacturers to the smallest retailers should be so busy that they are working overtime, and in many instances this is actually the case, but there is one great drawback to prevent trade running along the usual channels smoothly and harmoniously. This thorn in the side, is the congestion of traffic on the railways. From one end of the Dominion to the other there is a shortage of cars and engines, and the freight sheds of the railway and transportation companies are filled to overflowing. The effect of this congestion is only now beginning to be felt by the retailer. Christmas and the holiday trade is coming on, and it behooves the grocer to have a complete stock of all those lines which are so necessary at this time of year. Orders for holiday goods have been placed for a very long time, but grocers in all parts of the country are daily anticipating the receipt of an advice card from the local freight office informing them of the arrival of the long-looked for goods, which are so slow in coming. During the past couple of weeks there has been a slight improvement in some circles, but on the whole transportation conditions are very bad. The wholesaler is not to blame for non-arrival of the goods so anxiously awaited by the retail merchant, he is just as badly off or more so, because many other customers of his are in the same position as the first grocer. One of the largest jobbers in Montreal has filled a number of contracts at a straight loss. Goods had been ordered by the retailer and the jobber, having waited a reasonable length of time for the receipt of the foodstuffs by him, found it necessary to buy from spot stocks of other firms at enhanced prices, in order to satisfy his customer. As an instance this illustrates the position of the wholesale houses. Another firm has had a car of dried fruits at the station in Montreal since the first of last month—has been unable to get at it owing to the congestion in the local freight yards. No remedy appears to be in sight, unless it be patience, and from present indications it would seem that the grocer possessing this virtue will be able to wait for his goods better than he who is in a hurry. It is a case of making "the best of a bad job."

WORKING SEASON.

The retail grocery trade is about entering upon its harvest of the year. That means its session of hard work. The desks should be cleared. Things that can be done now should not be put off until everyone is working long hours at top speed. Perhaps the stock can be got into more convenient shape, the principal part of the Christmas window decoration can be put in and only minor changes will be necessary. Supplies can be looked after so there will be no shortages with consequent loss of time and effort. Clerks should not feel aggrieved at having to work long hours; its a part of the business. Employees should be forehanded and plan against annoying delays and avoidable hindrances.

POINTERS—
SUGAR—Advanced 10 cents.

Beans—Decline.

Montreal, December 6th, 1906.

Navigation from the port of Montreal closed Saturday when the last ocean-going vessel cleared, and with the end of the season has come a little respite for the jobbers who have kept very busy for the past month and a half. Wholesalers are now turning their attention to the city trade for the holiday season, which is now at hand. It is expected that this will keep them busy up to a few days before Christmas, when the annual aftermath of dullness will set in.

The new tariff arrangements form the and everyone is talking of the matter. On the whole the jobbing trade is satisfied with the new conditions. Sugar has been advanced 10 cents, a direct result of the new tariff. There is not much going on in canned goods, while syrups and molasses are little better in this respect. Teas are firm, while much of interest is transpring in the dried fruit market. High grade prunes are very scarce and bring good prices. Evaporated apples are higher, while beans are lower. It is understood that lower prices for rice will prevail beginning on Monday, December 10th.

CANNED GOODS.—Last deliveries of canned goods are being made in Montreal, although it is expected that it will be some time before all jobbers have received full supplies. Lots coming in are more or less large in quantity, but do not begin to satisfy the wants of the retail grocers in all parts of the country.

SUGAR.—The effect of the new tariff arrangements was noticeable in sugar as soon as the news reached Montreal. Information of the new duty was received Friday morning last, and at two o'clock in the afternoon the prices were advanced ten cents all along the line. It is expected in some quarters that there will be another advance in the near future, but this remains to be seen.

TEAS.—Somewhat more business appears to be passing in teas this week. Prices on all low grade teas—for that matter on all teas—are firm. Low grades, which were obtainable this spring at 10c. to 11c., are now bringing as much as 15c. and sometimes 16c. when obtainable. Ceylon greens continue scarce and high.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.—Locally, the situation in dried fruits remains practically unchanged. Spot stocks are very light. Of sultana raisins, supplies are almost nil. Any lots held are selling at prices around 12c. and 15c. The market for valencias is bare locally, while advices received from the other side say that an advance of 1-2c. has taken place. Reports from Greece are to the effect that the amount of business being transacted in currants is insignificant, all consuming countries being very well supplied. No drop in price is expected, however. Shipments of currants from Patras to Canada, up to October, 31, this year, were 1,476 tons, against 1,675 tons for the same period last year, a difference of about 200 tons, or in the neighborhood of 5,000 cases. Meanwhile, locally dealers are holding stiff until the "Clara" arrives in New York. The new tariff arrangements have caused more or less excitement in this market. Dates, imported direct from Persia, will now be brought in at the rate of 80c. a hundred pounds, instead of 40c. as formerly. This, it is thought, by those in the business, will kill the direct importing business, since the duty is the same, no matter what country the goods come from. On figs, the duty on cheap grades has been put up, while the duty on the better grades has been reduced.

Tarragona almonds have been advanced, and are now quoted at 14c. to 15c. per pound. There is a better feeling in the New York market.

POINTERS.—

Sugar up 10 cents, and firm.

Tariff changes.

Freight badly congested.

Fruit markets.

Toronto, December 6, 1906.

Business with the wholesale grocers continues very brisk, and it will soon be the retailers' turn. If the cold weather continues for three weeks, the Christmas trade throughout Canada will almost certainly be a record maker. Sugar advanced 10c. on Saturday, principally on the strength of the tariff increase in raws, but, as usual, the advance gave tone to the market, and this week the trade is expecting another upward movement. New Orleans molasses are 1 1-4c. dearer, on account of the tariff. The changes in prices due to the new tariff will not all go into effect for some time. It is a somewhat intricate matter, and adjustment takes time. All grocery markets are strong. Valencia raisins have again advanced. There is the usual complaint here and there about collections, but nothing serious.

CANNED GOODS.—All lines continue firm, without changed quotations. Quotations are held over this week.

TEA.—The market remains firm, but demand has been transferred from better descriptions to common sorts. "One of the most noteworthy features in this season's trade," says Gow, Wilson & Stanton, London, "has been the increase of over one hundred per cent. in the quantity of Indian Tea exported from London to foreign markets. This demand has not only materially assisted in the reduction of stock, but the resulting competition has exercised considerable influence in raising the market from the unsatisfactory state into which it had fallen." The principal factor in these increases was Russia.

COFFEE.—The market is about unchanged. The new tariff slightly deincreased the duty on roasted chicory, but coffee is about as cheap as chicory, and the latter is now used only for flavor.

SUGAR.—The market for raws developed a decidedly firmer tone towards the end of last week. American buyers, instead of waiting for the new Cuba crop to open at 1¼c. c. and f., for 96 degrees list basis, as was expected, choose to go in on a basis of 2⅜c. c. and f., and later, paid 2 7-16c. c. and fc., 96 degrees list for December shipment, to the extent of 100,000 bags . That is equal to 3.74c. and 3.80c .landed in New York. Sellers are now asking $3.79 duty paid, New York, for January shipment, but offerings were few. Cuban holders are sitting back waiting their price. There was an advance on refined in New York Monday.

Willett & Gray say:

"There are several influences at work contributing to the improvement side of sugar conditions.

"Our advices from Louisiana indicate that the domestic cane crop will result in something like 100,000 tons less than last year, which means that increased shipments to New Orleans will be required next year from Cuba, Porto Rico and Europe.

"Latest advices from Brazil indicate that the northern crop of Muscovados will result poorly this year. The uncertainty regarding the labor situation in Cuba adds an influence of firmness to the market, notwithstanding the fact that our latest advices from the Island indicate the largest quantity of cane in the fields of any crop ever raised in the Island. Our correspondents are obtaining exact reports from each central and estate in the Island on this particular point of quantity of cane, independent of the labor question and weather conditions, and will soon advise us by cable of estimate of crop based wholly and solely upon the amount of cane available. No doubt this estimate will surprise many by its large size. Therefore, we call attention beforehand, in order that sufficient allowances may be made for inability to turn the entire crop of cane into sugar. Of course, the labor question will only develop from week to week.

"Extraordinary efforts are being made, however, to bring in laborers from Spain, the Cuban Government being appealed to by planters to grant a portion of the cost of transportation of such laborers.

"The European markets show decided strength also, and particularly for future months, quotations being now for May contracts, 9s. 5 1-4d.; with increasing demand from speculative quarters. All signs point to a higher range of values in January to June, 1907, than those ruling during the same time in 1906."

DRIED FRUITS.—Cable advices received Tuesday show an advance of 2s. in Valencia raisins at Denia, replacing the fruit on the level at which most of the business this season was transacted. Advices received this week from Greece regarding currants say: "Market strong, stocks low, expect advance."

The tariff will make Camadra figs and Sair dates dearer.

C. W. Evans, Montreal manager of the Dowd Milling Company, was in Lachute on business this week.

MANITOBA MARKETS

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday, Dec. 6, 1906.)

Activity marks almost every branch of the Winnipeg jobbing trade this Fall and Winter, and the wholesale grocers report the busiest season on record.

Importers were scrambling over each other early last week to get their shipments through customs before the announcement of the new tariff.

Following quickly upon the announcement of the increased duty on raw sugar, the price of refined was advanced last Friday, 10 cents per cwt. The change in the duty on molasses will tend to encourage the importation of the lower grades. Particulars will be noted below. The 1-2 cent duty on uncleaned rice has been removed with the object of encouraging the rice mills in Vancouver and Montreal. It is too early yet to predict the effect on prices.

SUGAR.—Refined sugars have not been affected by the new tariff, but there is an increase of 2 cents per cwt. under the general tariff and 7 cents per cwt. under the British preferential on raw sugar. Immediately following this announcement of the increased duty on raw sugars, the refiners advanced the price of refined sugars 10 cents per cwt. A further advance in the West is considered very likely, with the close of navigation, and the increased freight rates from the East. Prices now are:

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.—Duties on glucose and syrups have been reduced, and some effect in reduced prices will probably occur in the near future. Duties are now as follows, as compared with the old tariff: New tariff: B. Pref. 35 cents per 100 lbs.; intermediate, 45 cents per 100 lbs.; general, 50 cents per 100 lbs. Old tariff: B. Pref., 50 cents per 100 lbs.; general, 75 cents per 100 lbs.

The effect of the tariff changes in molasses will be to encourage the importation of the cheaper grades, and to raise the price of the better quality. As respects molasses not the produce of any British country, entitled to the preference, the rates of duty have been changed as follows: Formerly, molasses 40 degrees and over, paid 1 3-4 cents per gallon, and for each degree below 40, and not less than 35, an additional duty of 1 cent per gallon. Molasses below 35 degrees was duitable at 34 cents per lb. The new tariff provides that such non-British molasses not less than 30 and not more than 56 degrees shall pay 3 cents per gallon general, and 2 1-3 cents per gallon intermediate. Molasses the product of any British country entitled to the preference is continued on the free list, and such molasses may test up to 56 degrees by the polariscope. This is to cover fancy molasses from the Barbadoes. We quote:

Dairy Produce and Provisions

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN.

The cheese situation is now one of doubt for the future, "bears" argue one way, and "bulls" argue the other way. The season of production is practically closed and the questions of stocks and probable consumption, during the winter months, are now the all important ones. We will give the last available figures for this season as follows, viz :

Receipts during last week were 19,853 boxes of cheese and 5,222 packages of butter, against 17,240 boxes of cheese and 5,613 packages of butter for the same week of last year, or a total since May 1st of 2,334,969 boxes of cheese and 585,044 packages of butter, as compared with 2,290,793 boxes of cheese and 747,347 packages of butter for the corresponding period of last year.

Exports were last week 25,342 boxes of cheese and no butter, against 9,873 boxes of cheese and no butter for the same week of last year, or a total since May 1st of 2,227,838 boxes of cheese and 361,400 packages of butter, as compared with 2,129,793 boxes of cheese and 554,041 packages of butter for the corresponding period of last year.

We received since May 1st, 44,176 boxes more cheese and we exported 98,045 boxes more than last year, leaving a deficiency in our stocks in Montreal of 53,869 boxes of cheese as compared with last year.

"Stock guessing" is now the order of the day, latest cable advices report the stocks in London, Liverpool and Bristol at about 523,000 boxes of cheese, our stocks in all Canada are conservatively estimated at nearly 300,000 boxes, or a total amount of supplies in sight of say 825,000 boxes of cheese, which means about 40,000 boxes per week for the consumption until the end of April of next year, while it is generally estimated, that the weekly consumption of cheese is between 50,000 and 60,000 boxes, if this estimate of consumption is correct, we find that we will be about 200,000 boxes short in our supplies, and we might therefore venture the opinion, that the situation is healthy and that higher prices will prevail later on.

The shipping season from Montreal is now closed and it will be impossible to get accurate figures of shipments for the coming winter months, it is therefore very important at the present time, to get the figures of actual supplies in sight, as nearly correct as possible, as the future of the market depends on it.

As before mentioned, we get "bull" and "bear" arguments, both going to extremes in their predictions on the future, we give the figures above as nearly correct as it is possible to get them, and we think that both "bulls" and "bears" will concede that they are nearly correct, but they may dispute the conclusion.

Now about butter, there will be practically no export outlet for our butter from this on, our statistical figures of exports and receipts are not reliable to draw any conclusions on the future of our market, there is a good demand for local and out of town trade and prices are high and firm, but it is an open question, whether prices can go much higher, in fact many dealers are of the opinion, that prices are not only high enough, but that there is danger of a decline, as the production of butter will be continued to some extent until the opening of the new season, the consumption of "stale" goods is a slow one and further, new rolls of dairy butter are coming in now, which will be a check on the market for creamery butter.

Meanwhile the market is firm and prices show rather an advancing tendency, but the "scared" traders, expecting very high prices in the future, are getting filled up with stocks and we are not inclined to very "bullish" ideas regarding the future of the butter market.

OUR OLD COUNTRY LETTER.

88 Fleet Street. London. E.C.
Nov. 24, 1906.

There has not been a very keen demand for Canadian butter throughout the week, although prices still linger in the region of 108 to 112 shillings. These figures are quite high enough, considering the very ordinary quality of Canadian butter on offer, but, of course, this has been a season of abnormal prices in almost every make of butter. Not for years has the Old Country experienced such a consistently hot summer and autumn, and this state of affairs has naturally affected the pastures, so that the home make of both cheese and butter has proved disappointing. Everything has been in favor of a good Canadian season, and while it may be that exporters across the Atlantic have found this an easy market, still the quality of Canadian butter shipped to London has proved so poor that the reputation of Canadian butter has been seriously damaged. It is difficult to assign causes for this lack of uniformity in quality. No doubt Canadians themselves can make a pretty shrewd guess. Over here, however, the concensus of opinion is, as was mentioned before in this column, that the cream is not collected sufficiently frequently. Also, there are those who believe that Canadians are careless in the cleaning of their butter-making utensils. The total supplies of Colonial butter imported into the United Kingdom during the past five months has shown a considerable decrease,—some 139,147 cwts.,—and this has helped to keep prices up. The greatest deficiency has naturally come from Canada, over 110,000 cwts ; while from Australia already a decrease of 22,000 cwts. odd has been noticed.

There is nothing remarkable about the position of the cheese market, and the volume of business transacted is on a fair basis. In cheese, supplies from Canada has been very heavy during the past few months, some 70,900 cwts. more being received during the four months July to October of this year than last. Particularly lately supplies have been coming to hand in large quantities, owing to the approaching closing of navigation in Canada. Quality is stated to have been very satisfactory, taken altogether, although in one or two cases complaints have been made.

PROVISION SITUATION.

Towards the end of last week the price of live hogs were from $6.15 to $6.40. This week the price is down again to $6.15 f.o.b. country points. This competition for hogs here is not justified by the Old Country market, which is again weaker and at latest reports was off from 2 to 3 shillings. Packers estimate that prices for hogs here mean a loss of at least 2 shillings on the bacon when it reaches the English market. The firmness here is probably caused by buyers for domestic trade. The local demand for hog products keeps up and the packers who give their attention to domestic trade want to put away stocks for next summer's trade. The packers assert that stocks for immediate consumption are not accumulating to justify a near reduction of prices.

Very Quiet Markets—Export Flour Markets Dull, But Millers Talk of Advancing Prices on Domestic Market—Oat Products Cheaper.

Stagnant markets everywhere is about the measure of the grain situation. Freeer deliveries at Fort William helped to depress prices a cent since a week ago, but the loss has been about recovered in sympathy with a slight forward movement in Chicago. The flour market has not been quieter in years. The domestic demand, however, continues good and because of the high price of wheat which is above an export basis millers begin to talk of an advance. Some very low ocean freight on wheat prevail and this is against the Canadian miller since it enables the English miller to produce at a lower rate than the Canadian can afford to sell. Oat products are cheaper.

TRAVELER RESTED IN PEACE.

A traveling salesman died suddenly in Pittsburg, Pa., and some of his friends telegraphed the undertaker an order to make a large wreath. Investigation showed that the telegram ordering the wreath read as follows:

"'Rest in peace,' on both sides of the ribbon; if there should be room: 'We shall meet in heaven.'"

The undertaker was out of town, and the new assistant handled the job. It was a startling floral piece which turned up at the funeral. The ribbon was extra wide, and it bore the inscription: "Rest in peace on both sides, and if there is room we shall meet in heaven."

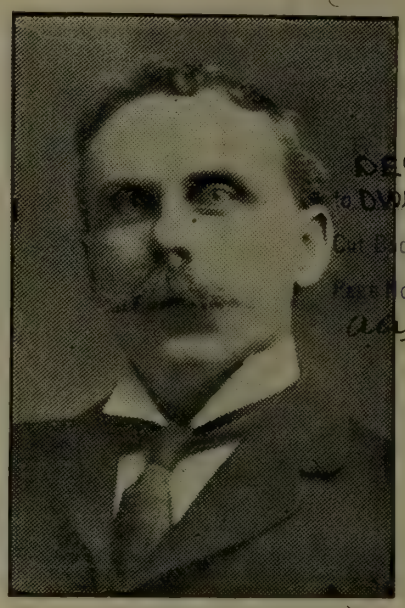
BUSINESS MEN IN MUNICIPAL LIFE

No. 3

It is to experience the greatest of all teachers that genial Charles A. O'Neill, one of Ingersoll's most popular and progressive grocers can point for the thorough knowledge he has acquired of the business. On the first of January last Mr. O'Neill was initiated into aldermanic mysteries by a vote that should elate any candidate for municipal honors. "Charlie" has seized hold of municipal problems with the same earnestness and tact that established a solid foundation for his own business, and as chairman of the Market Committee he is undobutedly the "right man in the right place."

Chas. A. O'Neill is a son of the late Jeremiah O'Neill, who engaged in the grocery business in Ingersoll in 1858, and which he successfully conducted up to the time of his death in 1875. In 1895 Chas. O'Neill entered business on his own account in the stand occupied by his father for such a long term of years and the general appearance of his store is the only testimonial that is needed as to the success that has attended his efforts. "Straight groceries" would be an appropriate description of his extensive and carefully selected stock which in neatness of display always bespeaks individuality which counts for so much in this twentieth century of enterprise.



CHAS. A. O'NEILL

Mr. O'Neill also takes an active part in provincial and Dominion politics. He has been one of Donald Sutherland's nominators, and is a J.P. under the Whitney Government.

In addition to the splendid success he has made of his own business Mr. O'Neill as a baseball player has carved his name on the scroll of fame. He was on the diamond for six years, playing from coast to coast. In 1890 he played left field for Oakland in the California State League. He also played "left field" and captained the Santa Fe, New Mexico, team in 1887, and with the local teams has been a tower of strength for many years. Mr. O'Neill knows the value of being attentive to business and of displaying his goods to the best advantage.

VALUE OF APPEARANCES.

I used to be a clerk in a shoe store, said a hardware traveler the other day. One day the proprietor stepped up to me and said: "If a customer should come in and ask if we sold shoe blacking, you'd say yes, wouldn't you?"

"Yes, sir, of course."

"Well, do you know what I'd say if I were that customer?" he asked.

I said I didn't know.

"I'd ask you," the proprietor replied, "why in the world you don't advertise the fact on your own shoes?"

I "tumbled" immediately, and after that I kept a brilliant polish on my shoes and began to pay much more attention to my personal appearance during business hours, and I soon saw it paid to do so.

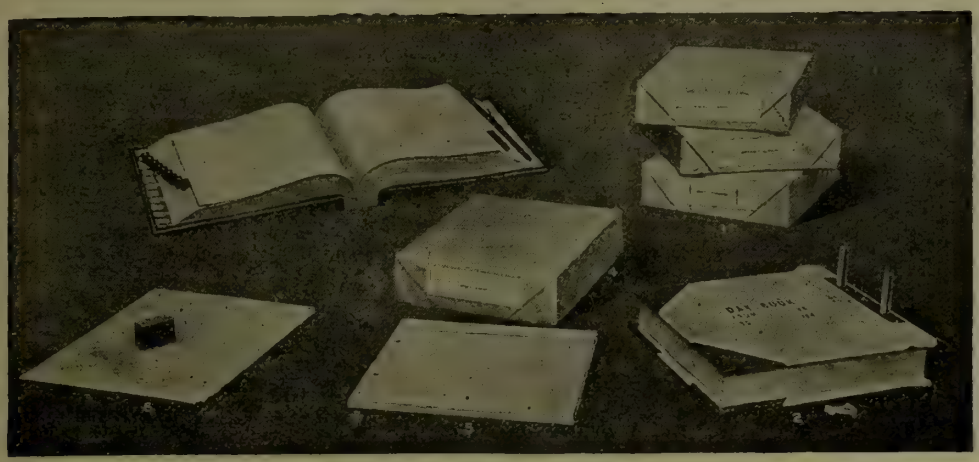
Stores System $15.50



No. 1—Current Binder, Heavy Canvas Binding and Index. No. 2—Day Book Binder, heavy canvas binding, for filing duplicate accounts. No. 3—1000 Duplicate Monthly Statement Blanks, size 9 x 11, your name or the title of your firm being printed with the address. No. 4—150 Ledger Leaves, 125 for customers accounts and 25 for general accounts. No. 5—12 Recapitulation Blanks, for monthly total of sales. No. 6—14 Sheets of Carbon Paper. 1 Box of Manifold Pens.

OUR reputation for making practical labor saving systems to handle business accounting has covered this continent, and is gradually working through Europe. A particular specialty is our system for taking care of bookkeeping in a retail business.

We have just put this special one, known as our "Stores System," on the market. Though low in price, it is a very complete and an ingenious outfit. It is not merely a monthly account system, but includes also the Ledger feature and recapitulation system of sales. It is on the unit plan—the only successful method by which books can be kept—one account to the page. The photograph herewith, and the explanation below it, will give you an idea of just exactly what you will get for $15.50.

This system will enormously reduce the work of handling your bookkeeping and facilitate your general business. It will pay for itself in clerical service value in no time.

Employing our Stores System means that each customer's account is made out daily, items being entered from the Counter Check Books or Counter Blotters. These entries are made in duplicate by one writing, through the use of carbon paper. The ledger sheet faces this account, and at the end of the month it is totalled and amount posted to the ledger leaf. The account is then detached at the perforated line and posted to the customer. The duplicate sheet is removed to the Day Book Binder and becomes a detailed record, to explain the ledger entry.

Send for this outfit to-day — $15.50 F. O. B. Factory, Brampton, Ontario.

EFFECTIVE WINDOW DISPLAY

Diagram of Seasonable Display by Michie & Co., Toronto—Progressive Preston Grocer's Window and Advertising Com bination.

The accompanying diagram shows the main outlines and construction of the grocery window of Michie & Co., Toronto, last week. Figs have been the dominant feature of their window dressing for some time and it was so in this case. The back ground was built up of unopened boxes of many crown figs placed one upon another on edge and making practically a solid wall of figs three or four feet high.

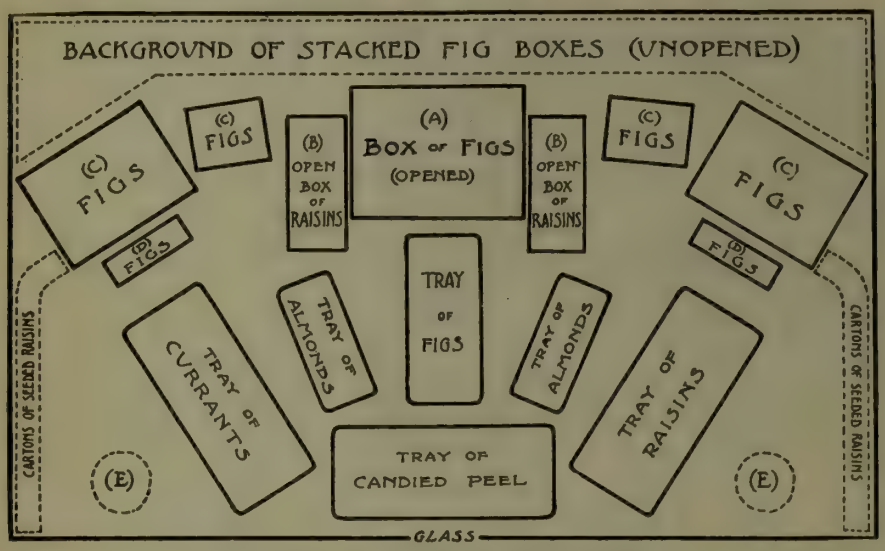

DIAGRAM OF MICHIE & CO'S WINDOW.

The next line of display is also figs with two boxes of raisins as a variation. Here the top boxes are open. The centre is a large box of very fine figs (A) flanked by boxes of equally fine raisins (B). All these are open and are tilted up to afford a better view of the fruit from the street. To right and left are piles of boxes of figs 3 or 4 deep topped by a box of opened fruit (C). In front of the end piles, smaller boxes (D) were built up in the form of steps with the top boxes open leaning against the pillars of figs behind.

The trays shown in the foreground were neatly heaped up with fruit or nuts indicated in the diagram. These trays were not more than two inches deep and looked to be of bronze. At "E" were small pyramids of stuffed dates in glass jars. Cartons of California seeded raisins were arranged without crowding, at the sides. Between the trays were laid single bottles of some line of delicatessen. At one of the most thronged and fashionable street corners in Canada this window made a very attractive display.

This week's window is only slightly altered from the one shown in our illustration. The seeded raisin packages are scattered about a little less regularly, the trays and boxes are placed at slightly different angles, and the articles employed to fill the intervals between have been shifted about. One of these "fillers" which seems to attract considerable attention is a luscious-looking bunch of English hot-house grapes, placed at the left of the central fig tray. The general impression of the window, however, remains the same, placing the emphasis on dried fruits evidently being a definite plan of campaign, leading up to the main Christmas display. It is with the window dresser's notice that despite the close-likeness of the present window to the one diagrammed the window was wholly emptied for the new trim.

CALL ATTENTION TO DISPLAY.

One of the largest of the Chicago retailers recently placed a large card in the newspapers calling attention to his windows. The idea is an excellent one. The card stated that it was to the interest of everyone who was at all interested in good goods at low prices to watch the windows, as there were many goods shown there all the time that were not advertised in the newspapers. Attention was also called to the fact that the store devoted a large amount of care and money to the decoration of its windows, and that they were well worth looking at. This is a good idea to put into practice when it is desired to call particular attention to some article or line of goods which you wish to push, or when there is a special sale on. Make the window, the newspaper advertising and the interior of the store all join forces in booming the special event, whatever it may be.

BE CORDIAL TO CUSTOMERS.

Clerks should always be polite and discreet. An aggregation of clerks who are "flip" with customers and talk about them behind their backs, will soon queer any business. The atmosphere of a store should always be genuinely cordial towards customers.

Clarke Alexander, of Jas. Alexander, Limited, the produce merchants, Montreal, has left for the Old Country, where he will spend the winter.

STAR WINDOW OF PRESTON.

W. E. Pautler, Preston, is one of the most ambitious of the younger generation of grocers in Ontario. He has been in business for himself only a couple of years but has built up a fine trade. He is scrupulously particular about the appearance of his store. Cleanliness is his first consideration, neatness and artistic display his next. He has gone in for window dress too, as this illustration shows. The photograph was not very satisfactory because of the reflection but it shows a very attractive window. Though the principal display is a proprietory article Mr. Pautler is himself the artist.

Small firm Vegetables, well cut, made crisp, delicious and appetizing by being pickled in our special Malt Pickling Vinegar.

We make the best bulk pickles in Canada, that is our reputation and we live up to it.

Put up in the best and most attractive packages obtainable, they will keep better, taste better and sell better than any other pickle on the market.

And they ought to be when you consider the care we take, we select the seed, supervise the planting, the cultivating and packing, the vegetables come to us straight from the fields.

When in our factory they are given the careful attention of years of experience, technical skill and the most modern methods and equipment, achieve results that are making our brands known from ocean to ocean.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

New Tariff Lowers Prices of Oranges, Lemons and Grape Fruit—Fish and Vegetables Little Affected—Christmas Trade Begins.

This week is an interesting one in the fruit market. The first quotations of oranges, lemons and grape fruit under the new tariff appear, and reductions are shown as a result in several lines. The holiday trade has begun in earnest, Christmas specialties being much in evidence. Southern California oranges are expected to arrive this week. The northern fruit is already arriving in good quantity, although there is said to be difficulty in securing cars for shipments.

The Toronto vegetable market shows only one or two changes, while in Montreal several alterations are noted.

The fish department is without feature.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRIUTS—Fair trade is passing in green fruits. The tariff changes have had the effect of increasing the demand for oranges and lemons, which are now on the free list. Valencias to arrive are quoted $4 to $5. Several new lines are quoted this week.

VEGETABLES—Seven or eight cars of New Brunswick potatoes have arrived, but it is hard to say yet how much effect this will have on the local market. For the present, prices remain the same as last week. Artichokes are now quoted at $1 to $1.25 per bag. Spinach is almost done. PROSECUTING FRUIT PACKERS.

Fruit Inspector Carey received from Chief McNeill a list of 41 offenders against the Fruit Marks Act and he is now away prosecuting these cases. Every year the inspectors are tightning up the screws. It is held that after four or five years operation of the Act no one can reasonably put forward the excuse that he did not know. Offences that in the beginning would have been overlooked or merely brought upon the shipper a reprimand are now made the basis of prosecutions.

A revolution has been worked in the fruit industry. W. A. Mackimer, Canadian commercial agent at Bristol, Eng., wrote recently:

"We have had, in Bristol more extensive consignments of apples than for some years past, and it is a pleasure to chronicle the fact that on the whole the shipments so far received have given great satisfaction. I had an opportunity of seeing sample barrels of Blenheim, cranberry pippin, ribston, pippin, and other varieties opened previous auction, and, as stated, these were highly creditable."

The Christmas spirit in the air is shown in this week's price-lists issued by the wholeale fruit merchants. McWilliam & Everist and White & Co., Toronto, have two very attractive-looking folders, printed in green and red on heavy card, and containing complete lists of fruit and specialties connected with the holiday trade.

ENGLISH FRUIT HOUSE EXTENDS.

The fruit trade throughout Canada will be interested to learn that Frederick Fisher & Sons, who are so widely known amongst Old Country dried-fruit and green-fruit houses, purpose making a larger bid for Canadian trade.

The senior of this firm expresses the firmest belief that Canada is the country of the future. Although his house has already built up a connection in green fruits and dried fruits with some of the leading distributors in the Dominion, he hopes to do a much larger volume of trade. Fisher & Sons desire to correspond with just a few really high-class distributors in each of the chief Canadian market centres. They specialize in Alemeria grapes, Valencia oranges, lemons, Palermo and Messina, Turkey figs, Persian dates, nuts and almonds.

This firm may be said to have grown up with the English fruit trade. During the 34 years of its existence, it has made careful study of the chief fruit growing districts of Europe and Arabia. A large export trade has been built up, covering Canada, India, South Africa, Brazil, Argentina, West Indian Islands, etc. Mr. Fisher, the senior of the firm, who is known as a capable lecturer on fruits, declares his belief that the only manner in which a good export trade can be built up is by the use of great care and discretion in the selection of fruit for export.

Mr. Fisher hopes to visit Canada in the course of 1907. In the meantime, communications from the leading wholesale distributors of fruit will receive prompt attention at the firm's offices, Monument street, London, E.C., England.

Attach Importance To What Is Important

Cigar selection is an important matter—Important to you, because on the wisdom of your selection depends the earning power of your stock—Important to your friends, because on the wisdom of your recommendation depends the number of times they'll be seen at your store.

Smokers require value consistency, taste evenness in cigars. Pebble and Pharaoh take full marks on these points.

And these very cigars are included in a "500" assortment that I am now offering to the grocery trade on the "three months" basis.

GROCERS IN GREAT BRITAIN

Matters of Interest to the Trade in the Old Land—Technical Education and Its Growth—The Soap Combine—The Tariff.

London, October 27th, 1906.

The subject most generally engaging the attention of the Grocers' Association in Great Britain at present is technical education. The trade has recognized that something must take the place in trade education of the apprentice sysem has fallen into disuse. Technical education along other lines prepared the way for technical education in food stuffs, and many technical schools are co-operating with Grocers' Associations in providing courses. Other Associations have provided lecture courses. Many prizes and competitions have been established to encourage grocers' assistants to take up the courses.

In connection with the recent National Grocers' Exhibition in London, a national conference in technical grocery education was held showing that interest is spreading about the movement. A leading feature of the Exhibition was a long series of competitions in the practice and theory of the food stuff trade. These gave evidence of splendid progress in the work of technical instruction.

The Soap Combine.

A talked of combine of soap manufacturers is at present a live subject of discussion in every Grocers' Association in the country. Wm. Lever, M. P., of Lever Bros., is said to be behind the movement. The scheme is said to involve £9,000,000 capital. The antagonism of retailers was roused by cutting the pound bar of soap to 15 oz., and increasing the price. The retail prices here have been raised in many places, but the trade has to a considerable extent turned against the combine products, and independent manufacturers are reaping the benefits. Deputations of Grocers' Association have called upon the trust representatives who held that the combination was merely to eliminate some expensive and excessive advertising.

The Grocers' Journal of October 13th, says:—

"Various rumors are current relative to the widely-announced soap combine, but no information sufficiently definite to warrant publication is yet to hand. We understand, however, that on Tuesday last the President, Chairman of the Grocers' Federation Proprietary Articles Committee, with the Secretary of the Federation, had a long interview with Mr. W. H. Lever on the subject. The interview was of a private character, but we are informed that the combination referred to was very nearly an accomplished fact, that it was not for the purpose of forcing wholesale prices, but rather with the object of producing a working agreement amongst manufacturers in order to lessen the costly competitive advertising and other expenses which had arisen owing to the keen competition between various manufacturers; that the combine was being arranged in view of the stringent conditions of the raw material market; and that the arrangements were such that each firm in the combine would continue carrying on its business upon the usual lines, and the promoters hope that the arrangements, whilst in no way interfering with the price to the public, would show profit advantages to the small, the large, and the wholesale distributor."

A fortnight later the same authority says, under the caption, "Soap and Soft Soap":—

"A Lever" has indeed "moved the world," and the grocery trade may well look with perturbation upon the Soap Combine, or Trust, whichever name its originators choose to give it. Mr. Lever may describe the combine as a harmless means of saving the severe competition indulged in for years past by rival soap manufacturers; he may, furthermore, reiterate his assertions that such an amalgamation of previously antagonistic interests will benefit humanity at large, and he may offer proofs of his assertions. No amount of argument, however, can induce the thoughtful grocer to look any way but askance at this combine, which is a trust and only incomplete, we assume, because the inducements tendered to the firms remaining outside were not strong enough, or, as we have reason to believe, these firms disapprove of trusts. As the pioneer of federation for grocers, and as one who has always proudly asserted his beginnings as a grocer, Mr. Lever is strangely inconsistent in his latest move. We should be the last in the world to cast doubt upon anything Mr. Lever says, but as the friend of grocers, particularly of single-shop grocers, his action cannot but be condemned. For many years past the profits realized by the retailer on Sunlight, Lifebuoy, and Monkey Brand soaps have been woefully inadequate, and no grocer could keep his shop open three months if other articles did not pay him better. This margin of profit may not be altered for better or for worse immediately, or for a few years. Mr. Lever, however, is creating a monster that may and probably will soon be beyond his control. When this time comes the grocer will be the chief sufferer, as usual. The public can take care of themselves pretty well, but what is the grocer to do when the same man that suggested federation as a means of better combating the grievances of the trade comes forward with a scheme by which, ultimately, the grocer will be further ground down. Mr. Lever is by repute an exceedingly wealthy man, and it cannot be that money induced his last unfriendly action to the trade which has assisted so ably to make Sunlight soap what it is. Grocers who are content to let the future look after itself may view the situation with that dangerous complacency which a never ending series of oppressive acts engenders. It is absolutely certain, however, that in the comparatively near future the Soap Combine will take another shred from the unsatisfactory profit gained by handling its proprietary soaps. Mr. Lever may not live to see this himself, but his responsibility as the titular head and originator of a Soap Trust is not limited to its immediate results. Trusts are bad, wholly and utterly evil. They are against the laws of nature, and however speciously they are created, their growth means oppression. Our duty lies in warning the retailer in just as strong a manner as we are able—the public have had the warnings trumpeted to them by the daily press. Are grocers going to have their usual grumble and then let the evil continue, or will they for once assert the ample power they undoubtedly possess. The duty of the Federation is plain, if unpleasant on account of Mr. Lever's friendship; whether or not the Federation will take some decisive step is another matter, and we shall see how the Associations throughout the country will act.

Against More Duties.

The Produce Markets Review, an old and influential trade journal, in a recent number sails into the tarrif reformers or improvers to the extent of several pages, under the caption "Customs Duties and the Consumers." The opening paragraphs indicate the tread of the argument:—

"There has, we suppose, never been a time in our history when trade was not checked and interfered with by Customs duties, whether imposed simply for revenue or for protective purposes. The great work of statesmen in the second half of the nineteenth century was to reduce fiscal interference to as great an extent as possible. In this way duties on some 1,100 articles were taken off, and Mr. Gladstone's great Budget of 1860 alone freed over 400 from Customs trammels. At the beginning of the twentieth century there were Customs duties on only seven classes of articles—tea, coffee, cocoa, beer, wines and spirits, dried fruits; and of these the beer duty was practically inoperative because we import little or none, while the fruit duties, though vexatious, yielded only a trivial net revenue. The Customs, therefore, in practice only affected five articles. The result of half a century of constant removals of the burdens that press on the springs of trade and industry was extraordinary, for commerce increased by leaps and bounds, and the country enjoyed a period of unexampled prosperity. Much of this was no doubt due to the progress of invention and science, particularly in the shape of cheapened transport. At the same time, the chief cause of the progress was the nearer approach to scientific taxation, under which people were allowed to buy from, and sell to, whom they pleased.

"By the end of the last century the bearing of these lessons had to some degree been forgotten by our leaders, and when the necessity for fresh taxation arose, new catchwords were invented to excuse a return to the darker ages of finance. It was argued that the national revenue was gathered from too few sources, that our fiscal table had not legs enough, and that it was necessary to widen the basis of taxation so that everybody should pay his share. For the moment the protests were unheeded of those who kept to the financial faith of Peel, Cobden, Bright, Northcote or Gladstone. We had Customs duties imposed afresh on sugar and corn. An export duty on coal was put on, and the duties on tea, wines, spirits, beer, and tobacco were increased. At the same time (quite apart from the cost of the South African War), lavish public expenditure was indulged in, both for Imperial and for local expenses, till the extra burden for the two purposes rose to £130,000,000 a year more than it was ten years before. In fact it appeared to be thought that the nation was so rich that the bottomless purse of Fortunatus had fallen into its possession: and it was forgotten that the bulk of the population, even in a rich country like ours, lives on the verge of poverty. A phrase like widening of the basis of taxation sounds imposing, but in practice it means the starving of the poor; while, at the same time, it interferes in all directions with the freedom of trade."

HOLIDAY CONTESTS.

A Schenectady, N.Y., store, held a contest last Christmas in which the prize was a big Christmas dinner. A dinner was offered to every boy who would bring to the store 500 ads. clipped from the local papers. A special prize of $5 in gold was offered to the boy bringing in the greatest number of ads. It was advertised, however, that any deserving poor boy registering his name at the store would be given a dinner ticket whether he secured the requisite number of ads. or not.

TOLEDO COMPUTING SCALES

Automatic but Springless.

The "Toledo" is a money saver because it positively stops the giving of overweight.

A time saver because it is Automatic.

A labor saver because there are no weights to lift, no poises to slide, or prices to set.

A trade bringer because it indicates to the customer in plain figures the correct weight of the article he is buying.

It is honest both to the merchant and customer.

The Toledo system costs you nothing because it is paid for with the money you are now losing.

JOHN HILLOCK & CO., LIMITED - TORONTO, ONT.

AS IT WAS IN THE BEGINNING

When first produced we introduced MacLaren's Imperial Cheese to the trade as a cheese of

Faultless Quality and Paramount Value

We put all our money, brains and energy into the enterprise, believing that discriminating people would eat lots of cheese if it were invariably good; that the humblest disciple of economy would recognize its value. We believed, too, that the grocer would appreciate a good thing—would welcome a profit both good and sure, and be glad to be rid of all the vexatious drawbacks attending the sale of ordinary cheese.

The Means Justified the End

To-day MacLaren's Imperial Cheese is sold in every civilized country in the world. It makes a subtle appeal to the palate, a strong appeal to the pocket, and the grocer who does not realize that it places his cheese business on the only sound and profitable basis, is the exception.

Four Reasons why INVICTUS FIBRE is the BEST FIBRE PAPER on the Market

1. Invictus Fibre is made from personally selected pulp wood cut on our own limits.
2. This special pulp wood is again rigidly culled on arrival at our mills.
3. The pulp from which Invictus Fibre is made is manufactured in our own pulp mill and transferred at once to the paper mill, avoiding all drawbacks of transportation.
4. Invictus Fibre will increase in strength and not grow hard and brittle as does fibre made from sulphite pulp. This is a quality of the peculiar and selected pulp from which Invictus Fibre is made.

A trial order will convince you that we are correct. See that each package bears the words "Invictus Fibre." Every ream contains 480 sheets

There is one thing that is now generally conceded by both the trade and the public,—and it is this.

"That "SALADA" packets alone contain the maximum of quality at the minimum of cost."

Think of what this means to you—and it should mean considerable.

Our facilities for buying and selling are perfect, and in all of our efforts we have religiously "shunned" the beaten tracks, but dug-out our own pathway, so as to be quite unordinary.

The wisdom of this course is demonstrated in the enormous sale established.

A "Friendly" Profit

The profit you make in selling pure, white, dry, crystaline Windsor Salt is a "friendly" one indeed. It's like getting a note discounted at the bank—you're glad and willing enough to pay the interest for the sake of having the money in hand. That's the way the customer feels about it when buying your Windsor Salt.

It's a real "friendly" profit—no one begrudges your making it, because you deliver the goods that knows no competitor. When you sell Windsor Salt you sell quality that is above suspicion.

You Owe It to Yourself

as well as to the public, to sell Suchard's Cocoa. No other cocoa will please your customers as well, for its flavor is, without exception, the finest and most delicate.

It is pure and very finely ground, and, therefore, completely and quickly soluble. It is remarkably rich and strong, so that, when is used, a much smaller quantity of milk, as well as of cocoa, is needed to make a satisfying, full-flavored drink.

All these points, besides pleasing your customers, make Suchard's sell easier and faster. In addition, the profit to you on each pound is larger than on a pound of cheaper cocoa.

Thus you see it is an all-round good proposition for you to handle Suchard's.

In most places where tomato canning is done the waste matter is made into catsup. No matter how skillfully this is spiced and prepared it will never have the appearance or taste of tomato catsup made from the best of the fruit, any more than bread would if you made it from bran.

Granulated white sugar, pure blended spice, and vinegar made in our own factory are the only other ingredients beside the fresh pulp, everything is the best of its kind.

DECREASE IN BACON EXPORTS

Falling Off of Nearly 38 Million Pounds in 4 Years—The Reason is Shortage in Production of Hogs.

This decline of the Canadian export bacon trade from 138 million pounds in 1903 to 100 million pounds in 1906 looks discouraging, but it is just the history of the bacon trade everywhere repeating itself. The reduction in trade represents just a falling off in the production of hogs by the Canadian and especially the Ontario farmer. When hogs are scarce and prices high, the farmers go into hogs. When, in accordance with the law of supply and demand, supplies increase and prices decline, the farmers say "there's no money in hogs," and sell out to the empty pen. The way it affects the packers is this: When his output is large he goes abroad and buys his way into the consuming markets. That is to say, that in order to establish his bacon he pays for salesmen and sells his products at a low price. In that way he buys a market for six or seven thousand boxes of bacon a week instead of three or four or five thousand boxes as the case may be. Then the farmers go out of hogs, the packers' supplies fail and the demand for his output purchased at heavy cost is lost and he is back where he was when the supplies were low

The period of lowest prices in Canada were from Dec. '03 to Dec. '04, when live hogs sold from $4.40 to $5.10. Next year the low price was in Jan. $4.80 and rose in May to $7. At the time of heavy production in the fall it was $5.75 and $6. This year the prices taking the first week in each month have ranged as follows:—$6.10, $7, $7, $7.25, $7.30, $7.40, $7.65, $7.90, $6.65, $6.65, $6, $6.40.

In Canada the deliveries of hogs ran down to 15,000 one week last summer. In periods of low production the killings will run from 15 to 25 thousand hogs a week and in times of liberal production from 25 to 35 thousand Proportionately the same thing happens in Denmark and other bacon countries.

Prof. Day, speaking at the Guelph Winter Fair a year ago on the cost of producing the bacon hogs, stated, $4.10 to $4.52 as the result of experiments carried on at the Experimental Farm. with mixed meal at $20 a ton, blood meal at $55, tankage at $33 and skim milk at 15c per cwt.

The only cure is for the farmers to stay with hog raising year in and year out. This the farmers will not do as yet, but the slow process of education it is hoped to bring them to it.

Exports of hog products from Canada in thousands of pounds:

TRADE OPINIONS

BANK DISCOUNTS AND BIG BUILDINGS.

Editor Grocer :—

Sir,—Perhaps some of the 20th century bank managers would explain to readers how it is the present rate of interest is 3 per cent. on savings, while a few years ago when country was not in such a prosperous condition, depositors received a larger rate of interest 3½ per cent. and 4 per cent., but then in those days no Bankers' Association existed, there were no big, massive and handsome buildings. Rates of interest were lower and funds more plentiful. What has been done with difference in funds? Are shareholders enriched at expense of the depositors? The bank gives the depositor 3 per cent., then turns around and loan it out on security at 7 per cent. and 8 per cent. The Bankers' Association is a combine, and the Banking Act needs revising and amending for benefit of depositors.

DEPOSITOR.

Editor Canadian Grocer :—

Sir,—As previously suggested in these columns from time to time manufacturers, jobbers and wholesalers should withdraw their travelers from the road on or about Dec. 1st, and hold joint meetings of all their respective staffs and sales department heads in the factory or warehouse headquarters.

The travelers have had their chance of selling the goods, so after Dec 1st the merchants want an opportunity to place their Christmas wares before the public, as a rule a few of the travelers withdraw about above date, others remain out until the 15th of the month. Of course this subject can not be forced it is only of the good-will of different firms and manufacturers.

The travelers will benefit considerably as they will better understand the process of manufacture of lines they sell to the trade. Since we have written these suggestions to our readers, several firms have found to their advantage, to open a sales department, usually selecting one of their best travelers for the position, who understands ups and downs of road, also country from end to end.

There is one thing we regret to have our attention called to, is the large number of "mere boys'. in appearance some firms have placed on road, several only make one trip, others two or three; but they do not carry weight with the average merchant, as a rule, too, they are frivolous, and flitting from town to town, to cover the territory, without regards for results.

SALESMAN.

DELEGATION IN OTTAWA.

A delegation consisting of L. E. Geoffrion, A. L. Lockerby and Alex. Orsali, Montreal, went to Ottawa from Montreal this week to interview the Minister of Finance regarding the increased duty on package goods.

FROM GROCER CORRESPONDENTS

BROCKVILLE.

A very large and enthusiastic meeting was held in the Town Hall here, Tuesday of last week, when a local Board of Trade was organized with 156 members. Mayor H. A. Stewart acted as chairman. He explained the purpose of the organization in a very neat speech.

On motion, a nominating committee was appointed to select officers for the ensuing year. While this was being done, the chairman read a set of by-laws for the organization, which were adopted section by section. The committee appointed reported here that they had gone over the list of members carefully and recommended the election of the following gentlemen, who were elected unanimously:

Pres.—J. H. Gilmour, wholesale grocer.

Vice-Pres.—H. A. Stewart.

Council—W. C. MacLaren, H. Y. Farr, W. H. Davis, J. A. McKenzie, O. K. Fraser, R. G. Murphy, A. T. Wilgress and T. J. Storey.

Board of Arbitration—G. I. Mallory, Jas. Williams, C. H. Buell, manufacturing confectioner, H. Going, J. Curtin, James Bresnan, A. G. Dobie, John Cawley, A. A. Fisher, E. A. Buckman, F. A. Stagg and John Culbert, grocer.

Railway Com.—J. H. Briggs, F. B. Cossitt and A. Gilmour.

Local Improvements Com.—Rev. D. Strachan, W. B. Reynolds, Geo. A. Dana, Robt. Wright, W. A. Gilmour.

Manufacturers' Com.—V. R. Marshall, C. J. Shirreff, W. P. Millar, A. C. Hardy and J. A. Derbyshire.

Mercantile Com.—F. R. Curry, R. Craig, G. T. Lewis, Wm. Rhodes, grocer, F. B. Steacy.

On motion it was decided to hold the annual meeting the last Monday of September, with bi-monthly general meetings in September, November, January, March and May, and that the council of the board hold regular monthly meetings.

CHATHAM.

Wm. Morrice, for some time employed in the grocery business of Ald. Potter, has acquired the meat business formerly conducted on Queen St. by Jas. Tew.

Harry Jacques, the Raleigh St. grocer, is a probable candidate for the Board of Education in the coming elections.

An important business deal was closed last week, whereby Trustee Harry Andrew, for many years on the staff of the Gordon store, acquired the grocery business of Geo. S. Heyward. This is one of the oldest established grocery businesses in Chatham, having been founded upwards of 30 years ago by the late Andrew Heyward, and latterly conducted by his son. Geo. S. Heyward has taken the local agency for the Queen City Oil Co.

Ald. Potter is talked of as a possible mayoralty candidate in a race with four starters. He was the most prominent figure, some time ago, in the fight for the passing of a grocers' early-closing by-law.

The business of Abraham Zakoor, the fruit merchant, who left town rather unexpectedly a couple of weeks ago, was disposed of on Dec. 3rd., to satisfy the city's claim for taxes. Mrs. Zakoor purchased the stock at 95 cents on the dollar, and will continue the business in another stand. Ald. J. A. Thompson has rented the present stand and will probably move his business there.

Robson Brown, who for some time past has conducted a grocery on the corner of Prince and Colborne Sts., has retired from business.

Cecil G. Moore, favorably known as a clerk in Ald. Jas. A. Masse's grocery, has accepted a position with the D. S. Perrin Co., of London, as traveling salesman, and will assume his new duties on Jan. 1st. A multitude of friends here wish him every success.

Merritt & Graham have dissolved partnership, Wm. Graham continuing the meat business at the present stand.

EDMONTON.

Winter is always the herald of brisk trade, and the anticipations of local merchants are being realized to a degree far beyond their most optimistic calculations. In connection with increased orders, it is satisfactory to note that the money is coming in equally well. One of Edmonton's best-known credit men states, that long datings are not being asked to any appreciable extent. "The curse of trade," he remarked, "is this system of extended credit. It is a sign of disease, and, like many another disorder, only requires firmness and resolution to effect a cure."

The difficulty regarding the entry of the Canadian Pacific Railway into the city has been overcome, by the company offering to construct a subway to cross Jasper Ave. Business men are delighted with the settlement, as it is believed that a greatly improved freight service will be the result.

The coming spring must see much competition in trade circles generally. The additions which some eight large Edmonton houses are making to their premises, must mean greater trade.

The Edmonton Fruit and Produce Co., are reported to be negotiating with contractors with a view to erecting a warehouse near the centre of the town. A. O. Dwyer intends to build in the east end of the town a large beef and pork-packing establishment. The plant when ready for operating will be one of the largest in western Canada, and is estimated to cost $50,000. Mr. Dwyer has the experience of many years in the business to help him in running the concern successfully.

C. L. Bailey, of Cobourg, Ontario, proposes building and operating extensive soap works at Strathcona. The company has a paid up capital of $30,000.

We often speak about the educational influences of picture galleries, but half the people who visit these institutions do so in the most apathetic manner. But few people who walk along a business thoroughfare, can help but feel the elevating and educational influence of a well-dressed window. Some very nicely dressed store fronts are to be seen this week. The Campbell Warehouse Co's. window and that of Revillon Bros., show great artistic taste. Secord & McDougall, The Hudson's Bay Co., and Reed & Co., are worthy of honorable mention in this connection. Some merchants are not slow to grasp the fact that one of the best-paying members of a staff is a good window dresser.

HALIFAX.

Robert A. Croucher, another Halifax business man, has caught the Western fever, and with his family is going to Saskatoon to settle. Mr. Croucher has been successfully engaged in business in Halifax for many years, dealing in hay, oats, and feed in general, and is reported to have amassed considerable wealth. He has disposed of his business interests here to Frank Fraser, and the place which he occupied on Blower St., has been closed. Mr. Fraser will continue the business at the premises he now occupies on Power's Wharf.

J. P. Cox, who has for many years been engaged in the flour business and general millers' supplies in this city has left for Winnipeg to engage in business. During his residence in Halifax Mr. Cox took a deep interest in the welfare of the city. He was a prominent member of the Board of Trade, being on the council of that body. Previous to his departure the Board gave him a farewell luncheon at the Halifax Hotel. G. E. Faulkner, M.P.P., presided, and spoke on behalf of the Board of Trade at the loss which would be sustained by the city in Mr. Cox's departure, and how much regret there was personally over his departure.

In replying, Mr. Cox expressed his sincere regret at leaving and said he believed there was no place better than Nova Scotia. Unfortunately, however, there were so many in his line of business here that it caused him to look abroad for opportunties.

The Halifax Conservative Club presented Mr. Cox with a case of pipes and an address.

Edward H. Crease, who has been engaged in the grocery business in Halifax for upwards of forty years, died at his home in this city last week, aged 61 years. He was a native of Somerset, England, came to Halifax when a young man and opened a grocery store on Argyle St., in which he did business for 18 years. His business increased, and later on he purchased the premises on the same street, known as the Salem House, and there he conducted operations on a much larger scale. He was a man who devoted close attention to business and was well and favorably known both to the trade and the public in general. His wife died about 18 months ago. Six sons and two daughters survive. It is likely that the business will be conducted by one of his sons, and the deceased's brother

The Nova Scotia Milling Co. have cancelled their lease of the property held by them during the past two years and have taken over the premises of A. L. Doyle & Co., grocers, on Ochterloney St., Dartmouth. They have also purchased the stock in trade of Doyle & Co., in order to secure the premises. The business will be moved to the new stand, where a wholesale flour and feed business will be carried on. The withdrawal from Dartmouth of Doyle & Co. marks the disappearance of the only cash store in the town.

Howard S. Jones, who has been assisting his father in the stock business in Prince Edward Island, has returned to his home, in Sabrevois, Quebec. Mr. Jones made his last shipment for the season on Monday of last week, having shipped in all since October 22, upwards of 10,000 lambs, besides several carloads of geese. Mr. Jones claims that it is unprofitable both for the buyers and sellers to ship lambs so late in the season, as they shrink very much in the stormy weather. Next season he does not intend to take any lambs later than the first of November.

ST. CATHARINES.

St. Catharines, with its 12,000 inhabitants, is the most important place in the Niagara peninsula, having for its rivals the young city of Niagara Falls, and the thriving town of Welland, both in the County of Welland. Each has a boom on just now, the first on account of its electrical power development, the second by its acquisition of large manufactories.

St. Catharines can boast of seven canneries, all of which did a thriving business during the season, and at times had two or three shifts running day and night to keep up with the demand. Vast quantities of canned goods have been shipped from this port to various portions of the world.

LONDON.

Edwin Lees, formerly of London, has purchased the business of Swinn Bros., of St. Thomas. Mr. Lees recently sold his grocery business here to J. & G. Bloomfield.

Harry Ranahan has received a large consignment of Cresca goods from France, and announces with pardonable pride that his store is the headquarters for these goods for London and vicinity. Mr. Ranahan's "Cresca" stock comprises figs, dates, stuffed figs, stuffed dates, salt pistacho nuts, mushrooms, peas, beans, olive oil, figs in maraquin, cherries in maraquin, sardines and truffles. It is a good line for the "Quality:' store to handle, Mr. Ranahan says, and in his hands the fact that the beautiful packages may be used very effectively for display purposes, has been well demonstrated.

LINDSAY.

T A Fisher, who is one of our worthy city aldermen, has experienced this season an exceptionally good demand for sound potatoes. He quite recently secured a fine carload from Pontypool growers, and soon disposed of the lot. Potatoes have been rather scarce in many localities. In Bobcaygeon, merchants have found it exceedingly difficult to meet the demand.

Mr. Nugent, of Omemee, has accepted a position in Bert. Laidley's grocer store. He is a young man having experience in the grocery business.

The Lindsay Retail Merchants' Asso. ciation have not been overly active of late, but are now taking up the peddler question and are beginning with the case of a tin peddler in the town here, who has been operating without a license.

A. Hamkins, who purchased the business of M. Cole, is doing his share of the trade.

Mr. Suthoff, who conducts a general merchandise business at Cambray and Woodville, has bought out the grocery business of H. Graham, at Kirkfield.

Adams' Bros., as well as conducting a large grocery business, carry on a butcher store. They give much attention to window dressing. A particular fine display was made at the close of the deer-hunting season. It included the choicest of venison, bear, fowl and various kinds of produce.

KINGSTON.

An agitation is on foot amongst the leading citizens of Kingston to hand in a requisition to the council or government which ever is the proper source to have the name Kingston once and forever separated from Penitentiary.

The pen is not in Kingston, it is in a suburb called Portsmouth. Therefore the name should be Portsmouth Provincial Penitentiary—a home for evildoers—bad eggs, etc., as the case may be.

We citizens of Kingston find with disgust in papers all over Canada so and so found guilty of such and such and sent to Kingston Penitentiary, giving strangers who are not acquainted with our beautiful city the impression that there is only a penitentiary with a field around it, a Penitanguishine or a St. Vincent de Paul, etc.,. Not so gentlemen, it is from nature's standpoint the most beautiful city in America. This is the verdict of all commercial travelers and who dare dispute the words of these wise men, God bless them, I hope there is endless fields of flowers and perpetual sunshine for them in the Happy Hunting Grounds whither we are all hustling.

The Galt correspondent complained of carelessness of wholesalers in not shipping goods promptly. This is a great annoyance and very often it is not the fault of the wholesaler, but the manufacturer, and I suppose he blames shipping facilities, and so it goes, they all stand in a circle and point at each other, and you don't know who is to blame—a round robin you know—By the way, try cancelling the order, and you will generally get your goods next morning. A worse fault and a mean one, is travellers cutting the price on an article to start an order, and have the house send on the order less the article which they regret they are just sold out of..

Albert Glover, one of our popular grocers, can now sympathize with Tom Hood. the poet:

"Lullaby, oh Lullaby,
What in thunder makes him cry;
Who's that falling, he or I?
Lullaby, oh Lullaby."

The son of a grocer will be a help to his dad some day, I hope.

Kenneth H. Munro of Montreal, agent of Jacob & Company, biscuit manufacturers, Dublin, Ireland paid a visit to Kingston. His samples certainly show a line of goods unsurpassed. He got his first order from Kingston through his ad. in the Canadian Grocer. I tell you, a space in the "Grocer" for a wholesale house, is equal to a first-class traveller on the road. Retailers eagerly scan the pages of the Grocer each week, and orders pour in from all quarters. Certainly, wholesalers in throwing out tempting offers, may get, once and awhile, a dead beat, instead of a sock eye, but such things happen all along the line, farmers have to put up with wild mustard and quack grass. Yes, the wholesale man who keeps a space, not once and awhile, but all the time, in the weekly commercial paper, is the one who reaps the benefit.

Nick O'Connor, who joined the staff of the Golden Lion Grocery, McRae & Company, when a mere lad, is now proprietor, having bought the stock. Nick is popular and will hold the trade and add to it. Nick has a sweet voice, and is much sought after at local concerts. He carries with him the good will of the noble band of grocers.

A few Kingston merchants sent in tenders for supplying the Asylums, and two were successful. The Hedley Shaw Milling Company, flour, and W. P. Peters & Brothers, potatoes, (around 1 cent a pound). The McCann Milling Company, Toronto, got the contract for rolled oats, at $4.40 and split peas, at the same price. Tendering is a gamble. If the goods advance you lose; if they go down you make.

Last year, Gunns, Limited, had the contract for dairy butter at 20 cents, and creamery at 21 1-2 cents, and I am sure they won't object to telling how much they made. Gilbert of Kingston, had the contract for the two years previous, and made, in the first year, about $200, and lost, in the next year, $200 or, to put it in Algebraic form, x plus y equals 0. Of course, if you are the right side of the fence, the extras help you out. Many merchants do not tender, and I believe that in the long run, they come under the wire first. Again, very often those who tender and miss, are the ones who win. The Kingston merchant who did not get the butter contract last year, by 1-4 cent, feels that he missed, losing from five to eight hundred dollars.

The Kingston Board of Trade intends to banquet Wm. Lesslie, who released the big steamship Bavarian, aground in the St. Lawrence for the past few months. Mr. Lesslie can hardly get to his home through people shaking hands and congratulating him. Every city has.

PRIZE-WINNING WINDOWS

Winners in the November Window Dressing Competition—Halifax, Elmira and Montreal Represented—Quite Different Plans of Trimming Worked Out.

The prize-winning displays in the Canadian Grocer's November window dressing competition are shown this week. The first prize window was dressed by C. E. Choat, of C. E. Choat & Co., Halifax, assisted by V. W. Grant, one of his clerks, while the window which obtained second place was the work of C. P. Ruppel, clerk in Ruppel & Co.'s "White Grocery," Elmira, Ont.

C. E. CHOAT & CO., Halifax.—First.

The two windows under entirely different conditions, show different plans of display. Each is well towards the front in its respective class, but only one could be awarded first place, one had to be placed before the other, and the judges had great difficulty in deciding which was entitled to the preference.

The first prize-window is that of a large city store, where displays are possible that might be considered beyond the reach of smaller establishments. But the second-prize window shows an arrangement which is possible anywhere, and an attractive display is made out of articles every grocer has in his store.

The Choat window is intended to carry out the idea of an "original package display," and in this it approaches perfection. Every article is in its original wrapper, even the large import casks being made conspicious, for the purpose of showing how the goods came from London. The straw envelopes are left on the large bottles to show their original condition. The floor of the window is covered with sawdust, and a good sprinkling of sawdust is scattered over the entire contents of the window. In advertising the display, it was called "A Glimpse of London." Choat & Co. supplemented this window display with some sprightly advertising in the Halifax papers. One of their advertisements was recently reproduced in the Grocer.

Mr. Ruppel's window shows how effectively empty boxes can be utilized in the dressing of windows. The three pyramids are composed entirely of various sized boxes, neatly covered with clean paper.. The articles are then arranged in the manner shown. The floor is covered with red or white paper, while a few hangers, and tissue paper bells and decorations fastened around the top help to brighten the general effect. The cards shown in this window are deserving of notice. "We don't put all the nice things in the windows," "It's easy enough to buy right, if you come to the right store," and "Here you get what you want; some places you take what they have," are three statements which should cause the prospective customer to do some thinking, and when the statements are backed up by an attractive display, his thoughts are likely to prove satisfactory to the storekeeper concerned.

RUPPEL & CO., Elmira—Second.

The third prize was awarded to Morin & Brother, Montreal. The photograph of their window will be reproduced later on.

FIRE MARSHALS DON'TS.

State Fire Marshal D. S. Creamer of Ohio, gives following warning regarding merchant's Christmas displays: "In every December figures of fire losses reach this office which eloquently plead for more care in the displaying of Christmas goods. The greater number of these fires start in show windows, especially in those which are dust proof. These tightly enclosed show boxes, after the lights (even electrical) are turned on acquire a temperature higher than blood heat, so everything in them is ready to blaze on slight provocation. Don't use swinging gas brackets, ever. Don't decorate with straw, leaves or paper. Don't use cotton to imitate snow anywhere. Don't use an electric wire for a clothes line.

"Don't fail to put out the smoker—or his cigar. Don't use an arc light without a spark arrester. Don't use any light without a globe or wire screen. Don't entirely cut off ventilation from a show window. Don't put inflamable stuff against an electric lamp socket. Don't have electric bulbs in show windows hung by flexible cords. Don't have open lights for ribbons, fancy papers and light fabrics to blow into. Don't block aisles or exits with displays so to increase the danger from a fire panic.

"Don't let cotton goods or paper shades rest against electric light bulbs. They may char and when charred ignite. Don't fail, if you have a department store, to test all fire apparatus, to have extra clerks participate in a fire drill.

WESTERN CAR SHORTAGE.

It is related of a Southern Manitoba farmer that one year in the early nineties he had a magnificent crop of wheat which as it matured became the light of his eye and upon which he built many rosy colored financial hopes for the future. But one morning he rose early to find that a severe frost had almost completely ruined what had promised to be an exceptionally heavy and profitable crop. It was enough to make the best of men angry, and as he strode over his quarter section surveying the death-blow to his cherished hopes his wrath was kindled not a little. Unable to restrain himself longer he burst out with "D—— the C.P.R."

Hostility in the West to the C.P.R. is an old story; it is only natural that when any one road has had for years a monopoly in a big country it should be fashionable, with or without reason, to abuse the management of that corporation. Thus it has been that whenever two or three western farmers met in the general store or in the country hotel abuse of the C.P.R. has been a topic of conversation not less staple than the weather. With the arrival of other roads they also are being included in the abuse which rightly or wrongly is sure to be leveled at the devoted heads of railway managers.

This fall the complaint has been as to the shortage of cars to move the western crop. This shortage has been very considerable, but has not been confined to any one railroad, to any one part of Canada or to any one part of the North American continent. The whole continent has suffered, all interests, commercial, industrial and agricultural, have suffered from inadequate transportation facilities and the Western Canadian farmer is not the only one who has reason to complain. In a period of unprecedented prosperity the simple fact of the matter is that the Canadian railways have not been able to secure the necessary equipment to keep pace with the growth of the country's requirements. Orders for more cars can't be filled, lumber, steel and other raw materials are not to be had in the quantities required and the shops, working now at full capacity, can not turn out the cars and locomotives for which the railway magnates are calling. The trouble is not confined to the West, and it can scarcely be said that the railway management are at fault. Their prosperity is bound up with the prosperity of Western Canada and it is in their interests to do everything possible to put money in free circulation by the speedy handling of the western crops.

MAYOR ASHDOWN.

In the election this week of Jas. H. Ashdown to the position of Mayor of Winnipeg by an overwhelming majority the electors of that city did honor to themselves and to one of the leading business men of the West. It is not often that the foremost business man in a city can be induced to accept civic office and under the circumstances Mr Ashdown deserved the honor of an election by acclamation. The opposition to his candidature was ill-advised and it did not command the sympathy of the best citizens of Winnipeg. The Western Capital is undertaking municipal enterprises which will involve the expenditure of several millions of dollars and it is indeed fortunate that in the expenditure of such large sums the city is to have the advantage of the constant supervision of one of the best financiers in Canada. The paper offers congratulations to Mayor Ashdown and the City of Winnipeg.

GROCERS AND ORGANIGATION.

Here is a summary of what a good Grocers' Association can do, given by a secretary of an association in New York State after nine years experience. The grocery trade is much the same on both sides of the line and the grocers of Canada should be very much better organized. Read what the man of experience says :—

"First.—We have practically eliminated the 'dead beat.' He has been corraled in our town. Not that we do not lose any accounts whatever, but we have reduced account losing to a minimum.

"How does 1-10th of 1 per cent. loss on a business of $30,000 strike you? One of our grocers reported that his losses last year was 1-20th of 1 per cent.

"Second.—We have established a system of credits, which gives valuable information pertaining to the probable paying ability of every new customer. This is another thing every 'good' retail grocers' association may do for the grocer.

"Third.—The bringing competitors in trade together, not simply in the association organization, but in actual friendly fellowship—the kind of fellowship that really does something to help each other along in business. Can you imagine a grocer helping his competitor? Can you think of grocers coming together and giving business information to one another that will save them dollars and cents in their business? That is what a 'good' grocers' association will d

"Fourth.—Bringing grocers face to face with the fact that all their material interests are in common; when one suffers, all suffer; when one grocer's business is disturbed, all are disturbed; all are prosperous, or not prosperous together. A 'good' grocers' association will cause its members to recognize this fact.

"Fifth.—A 'good' grocers' association will drive out the trade ticket and the premium schemes.

"Sixth.—A 'good' grocers' association will stop price cutting, and put a reasonable profit on every article.

"Seventh.—A 'good' grocers' association will regulate the kind of goods its members sell. It will agree to specify some kinds of goods, as soaps and cereals, the members do not want to put in stock, and will save them hundreds of dollars in unnecessary stock.

"Eighth.—A 'good' association will see to it that their interests are protected by having passed city ordinances, restricting the huckster, the peddler, and the enforcement of ordinances and laws for their mutual profit.

"Ninth.—A 'good' grocers' association will help the grocer by using its influence to elect members of Assembly and State Senators, who will pass or amend State laws in his interests, like the garnishee law, or the woman's liability bill.

"Tenth.—A 'good' grocers' association will help the grocer in national legislation through the National Grocers' Association, and will bring him in touch with every other grocer in the United States."

HOW THE SOAP COMBINE DIED

Took the British Public, Grocers Assoc iation and the Press Less Than Two Months to Make an End of it—The Advance in Canada.

The sudden demise of the English Soap Trust was a surprise to even its members. They met in Liverpool Friday, November 23, and at the conclusion of the meeting the following statement was handed out:

"The working arrangement entered into between the leading soap makers of the United Kingdom has been received with such great disfavor by the trade and the public as to make it unworkable, and as it is clearly the first consideration to endeavor to satisfy the trade and the public it has been decided to terminate the working arrangement.

"From to-day, November 23, each firm will, therefore, continue to conduct its own business, as was done prior to the negotiations being entered upon, and entirely separate from each other. The working arrangement between the leading soap makers is now, therefore, absolutely and finally dissolved."

When the representatives of the various firms in the Soap Trust went to the meeting at Liverpool yesterday they had no inkling of the startling events which were to follow. A discussion was initiated as to the feeling that had been raised against the Trust, and in the midst of this discussion the resolution quoted above was put and carried.

Didn't Take Long.

It took just a month and a half plus a few days, to smash the trust. There were rumors of the move in August, but it was only on October 5, that a definite statement of the formation of the Trust was made in the London Daily Mail. The Grocers' Associations all over the country got busy, and took what action they could in resolving to handle only, or at any rate give preference to soaps of individual makers.

The press of England entered upon a campaign and not only attacked the Trust, but published the names of independent makers, and under large head lines advised the public which soaps to buy.

Cartoons were a powerful factor in the fight. Herewith is reproduced one from the Daily Mirror of London.

The music halls took up the song, and here is a sample verse:

Our grocers and oilmen are all losing hope,
They're cutting their profits and squeez- their soap;
They've put on the "Lever" and turned on the screw,
But the "Daily Mail" says this won't wash—I'll fight you.

(Chorus.)

Now in Skyland, Skyland, their ways would not do,
For in my land in Skyland, the Trust—
It would jolly soon "bust,"
For we find our own "Sunlight" in Skyland.

In Canada.

The soap situation in Canada is worth keeping an eye on. The grocer who would be equipped should know the weights of the various soaps he sells, and make an examination from time to time.

The makers of Surprise, the St. Croix Soap Company, St. Stephen, N.B., have issued the following statement in regard to the recent advance:

"High cost of Soap-making materials: Tallow, Cocoanut Oil, Cotton Seed Oil, Rosin, and many other articles, is the reason of the advance of 30 cents in price of "Surprise" Soap.

"We determined that we would not change the size of the cake or bar, nor the well-known quality of "Surprise." These remain exactly as they have been.

"In making the change we have kept the advance down to the smallest possible margin, so that the trade will have at least a fair profit on "Surprise," which means after all a good percentage on such a standard article."

PRODUCE FIRM ASSIGNS.

At the request of Charles Mignault, the produce firm of Lajeunesse & Duclos, Montreal, has assigned. Liabilities amount to $19,000 and assets to $1,500. Following are the principal claims: Charles Mignault, $2,588; St. Hyacinthe Bank, $2,400; E. N. Deschatelets, $3,524; Pearn Butler Co., Limited, $854, and the Imperial Bank (secured), $9,297.81. Mr. Charles Mignault, the petitioner, was appointed provisional liquidator.

LIKES THE GROCER.

G. H. Richardson, 109 Pearl St., Hamilton, paid the Grocer office a visit last week. "I am a great admirer of your paper," he said "and must say it pleases me better every week. I made up my mind that when next in Toronto, I would call at your office and personally express my appreciation of the paper you are turning out for the grocery trade.—You are doing a good work.'

"Melagama," the delicious tea blended by the old firm of Minto Bros., was well to the front at the recent Central Canada Exhibition at Ottawa. The firm were awarded a diploma for their exhibit here. Their tea is a blend of high-grade Himalayans and Ceylons.

FROM GROCER CORRESPONDENTS.

its hero, and Kingston is proud of its sons—and daughters too.

Mr. Plewes, who formerly ran a flour and feed store in St. Catharines, is traveling for the Hedley Shaw Milling Company. He is bound to be popular with the business men. He is "Perfection."

The disgraceful old antideluvian toll gates are fast disappearing, and the sooner the better. Kingston has been cursed with them. You couldn't get into Kingston, or out of it, with a horse and rig without being held up. If you refused to pay, the old man with the weather-beaten face, would drop a 3 x 4-inch scantling, hinged to the side of the toll gate, down in front of you. An old wooden bridge across the mouth of the Cataraqui River has a little house on it, and when you wish to drive across the river, the lessee—named Bowman—shoots out like an arrow and demands five cents for a single horse, or ten cents for a team. After you satisfy him, he retires, and you go on in safety—unless your horse breaks through. Of this, however, there is not much danger, as you are compelled to walk or be prosecuted. The stock-holders are anxious to keep the tolls, but public sentiment is against them, and will win. A strong opponent of toll roads used to go two miles around to escape paying 4 cents toll.

If you want to learn a little about travellers and their victims, the retailers, take a five days' trip with a knight of the grip and you will always have a soft spot for the poor devils (please excuse; I seldom use strong language, but I speak kindly). If some of the stick-in-the-office wholesale merchants would turn out of their comfortable chairs once or twice a year and go with John James, or Your Traveler, it would be a revelation to them, especially the way back country, where you get pork and cabbage three times a day for a change, and the mosquitos come at you with a war whoop, and drill holes in your cheek—of course, the traveller's cheek can stand it, but this is on the side. Then you are tired after 40 miles drive. You go to bed, and feel comfortable for a few minutes. Then something tickles and bites in seven or eight—(ate)—places, till you jump out of bed and strike a headlight or a telephone match to investigate what is wrong. They look like flax seed, but my, how they jump. Yes, I would strongly urge every owner and manager of a wholesale house to accompany one of his travellers twice a year, and he will learn something. There is the bright side, you know; fresh air, sunshine, beautiful scenery, pleasant faces, and wealth on every hand. That's why travellers get fat and healthy. Nothing like roughing it, if you want good health.

A Kingston merchant tendering for butter supply of Asylums, put dairy 22 and creamery 23½ cents for last year's supply. He got word back saying: "I have the honor of returning your cheque or bond as you were not the lowest tenderer." The Lambton Creamery of Petrolia, got the contract for both at 23 1-2 cents. Wonderful how some men can stand up and lie. But all's for the best; be sanguine and cheerful.

GODERICH ET AL.

Trade is reported decidedly quiet by grocers and travelers in this section, in spite of the fact that we are having perfect sleighing unusually early. The stores are now showing "Christmas" windows and decorations, and newspaper advertising takes on an appropriate tone; most of them have added to their staff of clerks.

Geo. Stewart, who formerly conducted a grocery business in Clinton, is now "homesteading" in the west, fifty miles from a railroad; his family are staying in Hartney.

Mr. Walkom and Mr. Crawford, the Dungannon merchants, have each added an additional clerk to help handle the anticipated Christmas business.

A number of hotels in this part of the county are changing hands. The Commercial, at Blyth, has been sold to J. J. McCaughey, of Clinton, who will take possession on the 17th. The Albion, at Gorrie, has been sold to Geo. Howes, of Mt. Forest, and the former proprietor, Geo. Town, is going west. Report now has it that the Huron House, Goderich, is to be sold, and that the present proprietor, N. J. Morissey, is to remove to Toronto. The Grip Hotel, Seaforth, has been sold to J. Fitzpatrick, of London.

J. T. Goldthorpe, the Saltford grocer, has purchased another parcel of land in Goderich, and will now build a residence for himself on Gloucester Terrace.

The business block in which P. T. Dean's grocery is situated, was recently sold by auction to D. Brown. The new landlord is going to re-model and extend the grocery store.

A. E. Eggleton, traveler for Ford & Featherstone, Hamilton, was in town a few days ago selling Cary safes to hold the wealth of the merchants of our burg.

The district has been pretty thoroughly worked by poultry buyers lately, and the natives will have to pay decidedly good prices for their Christmas fowl, not to speak of the poor traveler who hopes to get ahead of the city dealer by carrying home a big turkey bought at the country price. A shipment of turkeys, geese and ducks worth over $1,700 was made from Goderich last week by G. M. Elliott, and J. R. McNabb spent $1,500 the week before in Dungannon, for enough birds to fill four wagons. Cantelon, of Clinton, and other buyers, are of course also in the field. The market this year, it is understood, is "out west."

INGERSOLL.

The advent of winter has given trade a very satisfactory impetus. The Christmas shopping is well under way, and in sugar, raisins and currants, and the other articles that form a part of the holiday delicacies, a thriving business is being done. Country people are beginning to market their produce with greater regularity and in larger quantities, a fact that always means more business for the grocer. Ingersoll grocers know the value of preparing early for a holiday rush. This year they have prepared for a greater volume of business than in any previous year.

Thomas Seldon the local poultry exporter, is authority for the statement that turkeys are plentiful this season, and that the quality is considerably above the average. Mr. Seldon stated that he has exported a third more this year than last season. The absence of the turkeys from the markets gave rise to the supposition that they were scarce. Mr. Seldon predicts comparatively cheap turkeys at Christmas time. He explained that the only turkeys purchased thus far were gathered up by the exporters. There was practically no demand from the United States for our turkeys for Thanksgiving, and as the exporting season is about at a close, the remainder of the turkeys will be rushed into the Canadian market for the Christmas season. The farmers have not endeavored to market their turkeys, and, when they do, they will, in many instances, offer their entire flocks. The exporters have been paying eleven cents per pound alive.

IMPORTANT REAL ESTATE DEAL.

It was learned to-day that the large brick block on north-east corner of Church and Fronts Sts., Toronto, has been purchased by White & Co., Limited, fruit and produce people, who will convert it into one large warehouse for their exclusive use. The property was lately owned by John J. Fee and the price paid is said to establish new values in that neighborhood. White & Co.'s extensive and increasing business has made it imperative to secure larger premises, and the new warehouse, it is said, will be the finest and best equipped in Canada. It is their intention to establish eventually a cold storage plant of their own in the building. They have re-leased their present warehouse at 64 Front St., which adjoins the other building and this will give them cold storage accommodation. They will sublet a portion to John J. Fee.

FOR THE CHRISTMAS TRADE.

White & Co. are exhibiting some special lines of fancy fruits and vegetables for the Christmas trade, including Florida pines, red bananas, mushrooms, cucumbers, tangerines, California celery, Jersey sweet potatoes, Boston head lettuce and many other lines for the festive season.

WHOLESALE GROCER MARRIED.

Hugh Blain, of the Eby Blain Co., was married on Thursday last at Hamilton. The bride was Olive Stanley Miller, widow of the late W. H. McClure, of Hamilton. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's son-in-law and Rev. Canon Wade officiated.

TRADE NOTES.

Laporte, Martin & Co., Ltd., Montreal, have been appointed sole selling agents for Canada for the Pasteurized Fluid Beef "Vita."

Medland Bros. have been appointed selling agents in Toronto for the Wallaceburg Sugar Co. They are showing some very fine samples.

POINTERS.—

Fish—Revised.
Evaporated apples—Advanced.
Rice—Decline.
Teas—Interesting.

Montreal, December 13, 1906.

With the coming of the middle of December, is witnessed the first days of the annual December dullness, the aftermath of a busy Christmas season. Orders are still being delivered to local points, and city trade is fairly active, but the real rush which characterizes the holiday season is nearly over. Collections are reported good. Canned goods are quiet, there being little activity in this line. In sugar, trade transacted is of a hand-to-mouth character.

Teas are interesting. Ceylon greens are apparently on the eve of an advance. Business in teas has been particularly good so far this month, to the surprise of tea merchants. Dried fruits are scarce, but arrivals of new nuts are of daily occurrence. The first new shelled walnuts arrived early in the week. Evaporated apples are higher again this week. Beans are scarce, and prices firmly held. Good trade is being done in maple products. There is something in the air in rolled oats circles—just what, remains to be seen. The general opinion is that there will be an advance, but this has to take place before any one can say it is a fact.

CANNED GOODS.—Very little is going on in the canned goods market. Stocks are gradually being completed through the arrival of last deliveries, and the excitement which has existed for such a long time is simmering down.

SUGAR.—Sugar is unchanged at the recent advance in prices. Refineries report good demand, but the jobbers say they are doing only a hand-to-mouth business. Demand does not seem to be very strong at present. Grocers throughout the country are stocked for the holiday trade.

TEAS.—Business in teas during this wee month has been much better than was anticipated by tea merchants. December is a dull month under ordinary circumstances, but this year several good transactions have been made by different tea houses. Cable advices from Colombo say that Ceylon greens are likely to advance, and this seems to be the general opinion locally. In fact, it is said that Ceylon blacks are also likely to be higher in a short space of time. It is rather safe to say, judging from present indications that Ceylon greens will soon be from 1-2 to 1 cent higher. The scarcity of Ceylon teas has created a good market for Japans. These teas are very scarce as many know to their sorrow, not being able to obtain any stock. Low grades are absolutely out of the market in anything larger than very small quantities from the jobber to the grocer, but even so very few jobbers have the amount they would like to have. Some inquiry for black teas from London is reported.

Christmas trade is now pretty well over, and the annual December dullness is setting in. Dealers report having had an excellent season in nuts, despite the high prices which ruled. New shelled walnuts are now on the market, quoted from 23 1-2 to 24 cents. New Grenobles and marbots as well as filberts, continue to move out freely.

EVAPORATED APPLES. — Interest in this market is great, owing to the somewhat peculiar situation which exists. It would now seem certain that this fall's market would follow upon the heels of that of last year. Prices have been climbing steadily and there is every indication of still higher figures ruling. To-day as much as 10 cents is asked for good stock, although sales have been made at less than this figure —as low as 9 cents. Stocks held locally are very small, and are not likely to be replenished to such an extent as to bring prices down materially. Grocers desiring to carry this line should buy before prices advance to a position which prohibits buying.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.—As a result of the new tarrif, rice has declined twenty cents. The new prices are here quoted. It is expected that there will be more buying now that the changes have come into effect.

In tapioca there is very little business passing, and the situation is featureless.

BEANS.—Owing to difficulties in obtaining transportation, the bean market is very firm. Spot stocks are light, and anything held brings a good, stiff price. Dealers are asking $1.40 at present.

MAPLE PRODUCTS. — Although it is getting late for the holiday trade, there is still considerable activity in maple goods. Prices are unchanged at figures quoted. Some fairly good orders were shipped this week, but most of these had been booked during November.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS.—
Sugar—Steady.
Beans—Lower.
Peels—Scarce and higher.
All canned goods firm.

Toronto, December 13, 1906.

The transfer of groceries from wholesaler to retailer continues in sufficient volume to enable the jobbers to say business is brisk, but the holiday dullness is within call, and trade is not nearly as active as it was a week or so ago. Sugar is steady again and there is no indication of a rise or fall at this writing. Canned goods are very firm; fruits are pretty well cleaned up. Dried fruits and nuts are strong. It is said there will be a decided scarcity of candied peels and walnuts. The bottom has dropped out of the bean market. Collections are reported satisfactory. This winter weather has set things going all over the country, and an exceedingly heavy Christmas trade is expected.

CANNED GOODS.—The market is firm for all lines. Fruits are pretty well cleaned up, and there is a feeling that there will be higher prices for vegetables before the next pack arrives. Prices, however, are unchanged.

SUGAR. — The market for raws is steady and without further change in refined. New York refiners have 500,000 bags engaged for early shipment, and are independent for the time being. There are 18 centrals grinding in Cuba, compared with none last year, and 17 two years ago. "The prevailing conditions of the sugar trade," Willett & Gray say, "are much better than they were at this time last year." Willett & Gray say of the visible supply: "Total stock of Enrope and America, 1,785,971 tons, against 1,966,739 tons last year at the same uneven dates. The decrease of stock is 180,768 tons, against a decrease of 203,700 tons last week. Total stocks and afloats together show a visible supply of 1,890,971 tons, against 2,006,739 tons last year, or a decrease of 115,768 tons."

TEA.—There is a very strong market for all teas. The advance on good liquoring teas of the lower grades in Ceylon is 3 cents a pound within the last three months. The lowest point was in July and prices then were 4 cents below present levels. Flavoring teas of the better class are almost entirely wanting and cables from abroad consistently report inability to execute orders for full quantity asked. The Calcutta market has been cabled 1-2 cent dearer from the sale of last week, Wednesday, with light supplies and strong demand.

LAST MINUTE PROVISION MARKETS.

Montreal, Thursday, Dec. 13, 1906.

BUTTER—Good local demand, but no material change in situation.

CHEESE—Continued quiet in market.

EGGS—No change has occurred.

PROVISIONS—Prices unchanged. Business fairly good. Abattoir dressed hogs quoted $9.25 to $9.50 per 100 lbs.

COFFEE.—The market is steady. Willett & Gray, New York, are still very bullish, and declare that prices must advance.

DRIED FRUITS.—The Valencia market in Spain is dearer by about two shillings since last week. The report is that good sound fruit is very scarce, and that the few growers holding them are more disposed to hold on till spring.

A firm market and light stocks of currants are reported from Greece.

The California dried fruit market is in chaos. Seeded raisins are quoted f.o.b. at the coast nearly as high as the retailer is buying them here. That price is practically prohibitive as far as this market is concerned, but the largest shippers are refusing any new business. Prunes are now at about normal prices, which is considerable above the opening. Large sizes are hard to get. They are declared to be now the cheapest fruit available, and heavy business in them is expected after the New Year.

Peels are getting scarcer on spot, and prices are advancing. Some fear an actual shortage.

Whittall & Company Smyrna, report to P. L. Mason & Company, Toronto, that total stocks of Sultana raisins on November 22, amounted to 2,500 tons, and not much of that would be left by the end of the year. No decline on prices could be expected.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS

Halifax, December 11, 1906.

The Halifax jobbers are now rushing out their orders for Christmas, and the volume of trade passing is quite heavy. During the past week, storms of unusual severity have visited the Provinces, and the blocking of the roads by snow drifts has had the effect of restricting business some. All dried fruits are very firm. Just at this season of the year the demand for dried fruits is quite heavy, but the price is an important factor with the consumer, and in consequence the sales are not quite up to the average in some sections. The action of the local refinery in jumping up the price of sugar has been the cause of considerable comment, and to say the least it has not been very well received, many contending that the advance was not warranted just at the present time. The quotations on sugar here at present follow:

xxx Granulated	$4.50
Austrian Granulated	4.40
Bright Yellow	4.30
No. 1 Yellow	4.00
Unbranded	3.85

PRODUCE—The receipts of produce during the past week have been unusually heavy. Vessels from Prince Edward Island points have arrived here with cargoes of potatoes aggregating 30,000 bushels. Fifty cents per bushel is the price quoted at the wharves. At these figures the sales are not very brisk. Householders who usually laid in large stocks for use during the winter are not following out that custom this year, and outside of the big commission houses, but few of the retail men have laid in stocks. Many of them say that they will not fill their cellars this year, for with the high price and the unavoidable rot later on there would be no money in handling them in the spring. The market for potatoes in the West Indies is not quite so strong, as imports from Holland are competing with shipments from Nova Scotia, with the result that the price is lower now than was quoted the shippers before the arrival of the Orinoco's cargo from Halifax.

APPLES—There is a good supply of apples on the market, but first-class stock is scarce. The shipments are not very heavy now, as the frosty weather has made the movement of fruit rather risky. Jobbers are quoting $4 per barrel for the finest Nova Scotia kings, and about $3.50 for other winter varieties. Bishop Pippins, a favorite variety for local use, are very scarce, and northern spies are not very plentiful. Locally there is a fairly good demand for firm fruit.

Dealers are still very busy, markets are firm, particularly dried fruits, which show quite an advance. Cream of tartar is firmer. Outside of the duty, rice, particularly Patna, is higher.

OIL—In burning oil, as is expected at this season, sales are heavy. This is the big consuming month. Lubricating oils just a fair sale. Paint oils are quiet, the outlook is for rather higher values.

SALT—There is but fair sale at this season. Little, if any, Liverpool coarse salt is being received. This always means rather higher prices, as goods must be sold ex-warehouse.

CANNED GOODS—The trade feel prices are too low in vegetables, particularly tomatoes. In fruits, peaches, strawberries and raspberries, are light stocks. Gallon apples firmly held and have good demand. Meats firmer. The new tariff affects these. This is the quiet season. Oysters are scarce and higher. Salmon firm. Lobsters continue extreme. In domestic, fish, sardines held firm, kippers and haddies unchanged.

GREEN FRUIT—This is one of, I might almost say, the few lines in which duties are reduced. Several fruits have always been free, now oranges and lemons have been added to the list. Jamica oranges largely supply the market. Price low. First Valencias here, full prices asked. Lower prices will rule with next shipment. Lemons are lower. Grapes firm. Cranberries quite high.

DRIED FRUIT—In raisins high prices continue, supply not large, particularly in bulk goods. Prunes are not a large stock, prices are higher. Several cars, particularly of Carton prunes, have been late arriving. Currants have been very scarce and high. The situation shows some improvement. Dates, figs, and peels are high. While the change in duty will slightly lower prices in figs it means rather higher prices in dates. Nuts, generally higher, though walnuts are quite low. The advance in the duty on peanuts is very unpopular. Beside the extra cent duty prices are very high. Evaporated apples higher and very firm. Onions remain quite low.

SUGAR—The change in the tariff referring to sugar is generally commended. The protection has been considered too high. Market is firm at the advance of last week.

MOLASSES—To the surprise of many fancy Barbadoes continues its hold on the market. Stock light and prices firm at the higher figures. Choice Barbadoes and Porto Rico unchanged.

FISH—With the colder weather there is improved business in fresh fish, chiefly cod and haddock. Stock is scarce and prices high. In finnan haddies prices held firm. Other fish seem easier. Season of sale is late. This applies to dry cod and pollock and smoked and pickled herring.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—In flour, prices unchanged, sales but fair at this season. Feed is high. Oatmeal, while firm, is unchanged. Cornmeal is also firmly held. Oats keep high. Beans are unchanged except yellow eyes, which show quite an advance. Barley and peas are very dull.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

St. John, N.B., Dec. 10, 1906.

The new custom tariff was a disturbing feature of these first winter days. In looking it over, it is the general opinion, that as a whole, the duties are higher. The changes are very numerous, though not usually great. There is, of course, an entire change in the British preference application. The Chinaman should be happy, as the duty on rice is considerably lower. Not so with the small boy, as on peanuts it has been raised a cent, equal to fifty per cent. The trade are at a loss for a reason, considering that last year the average price of peanuts imported was about 2¾ cents f.o.b. Norfolk, it seems absurb there should be a duty of three cents. The duty on packages has always been extremely unpopular, while in some cases this has been done away with, in very many it has been added. It is difficult to find a reason why packages for goods paying on ad valorem duty should pay and not where the contents pay a specific duty. In fact it is difficult to defend the package duty, particularly where the package is necessary to carry the goods, and in some cases has no further value.

INSPECTION OF CANNED GOODS

Government Measure Introduced in Parliament has the Approval of the Packers—All Cans to be Dated—Cost $60,000 a Year.

Hon. Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, presented to Parliament at Ottawa, on Tuesday, a resolution "that it is expedient to pass an act to provide for the further supervision and inspection of canned food products, meats and fish, and for the appointment of inspectors for the enforcement of the act."

The trade of Canada will approve this measure as a move not alone in the interest of the public and the trade, but one that will tend to protect and foster the canning and packing industry which has grown to be one of the great natural industries of Canada.

The revelation of the Chicago packers' wickedness induced the Canadian Government to make a thorough inspection of the packing industry here. The proposed legislation is the result, and it has the hearty approval of the canning and packing interests.

Inquiries from abroad regarding the nature of the laws in Canada respecting the inspection of food products, Hon. Mr. Fisher explained, demonstrated the necessity in the interests of the trade and of the Dominion that a proper and effective inspection be required. The canners themselves also realized the necessity and had acquiesced in the proposition to enact the proposed legislation. The bill which he proposed to found on the resolution before the House provided for the inspection of all canned meats, fruit and vegetables and fish, and applied also to meats not canned, such as bacon, hams, poultry and sides or quarters of large animals. Canned meats are treated a little differently, the provisions in respect to this article of food being a little more complete and a little more drastic than are those which apply to fruits, vegetables and fish. The phraseology of the bill is designed to cover canned goods when enclosed in bottles. Suggestions he had received had led to the conclusion that the interests of the trade and the country required that there should be most complete Government supervision and inspection of the factories where meat was canned. It was provided that Government inspectors should inspect the animal in the first place before it is slaughtered and the meat after slaughtering and before it is put in the can, and, further, that the Government have authority to inspect the meat at any or

BRITISH AND CANADIAN BACON.

P. B. Ball, Canadian Commercial Agent, at Birmingham, concluding an article on bacon says: "Probably the only remark I can make in connection with this, is the extremely high price of Canadian bacon here. Certain brands of Canadian bacon are bringing 2s. per cwt. more in the British market than British bacon."

This was at the end of October. The "British" bacon was Irish. At that time for some reason, there was an unusual output of bacon from Ireland, sufficeient to cause a glut and the prices went down below Canadian. If a dealer had a good trade in Canadian he would not disturb it for a single cheap lot of Irish, and would continue to pay the usual price for Canadian.

Mr. Ball's comment would lead one to suppose that Canadian was selling for more than bacon cured in England. This home product brings about 10 shillings per cwt. more than Canadian, and five or six shillings more than Danish. There being no transportation to speak of, this British bacon is placed on the retailer's counter almost as soon as it is cured, and in the very pink of condition and no borax is used. Canadian packers will not admit that either the English sow product or packing methods are better than theirs.

Mr. Ball's statement was incomplete, and commercial agents should enquire more carefully into unusual trade conditions before committing their reports to the press.

MONTHLY COMPETITION.

Window dressing, we believe, is one of the most important parts of the grocery business. It needs encouragement in Canada. For that reason The Canadian Grocer is holding a monthly window dressing competition. Three prizes of $5, $3 and $2 will be awarded each month. Those wishing to enter the competition will send photographs of their windows to THE CANADIAN GROCER, 10 Front St. East, Toronto. accompanied by a written description.

This is a chance for the clerk. No department of the grocery trade offers larger opportunities for advancement than window dressing. If you don't know what you can do, try. If you don't surprise yourself the effort will be a great advantage in any case. No grocer is up to his business if he cannot dress a window. Get into the competition.

Dairy Produce and Provisions

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN.

The cheese market remains unchanged since our last report, there are a few scattered orders coming in, but on the whole, the market is exceedingly quiet, which is, however, not unnatural at this time of the year, when navigation of the St. Lawrence route has just come to a close.

Further, the holiday trade in Great Britain has been supplied, and importers are all taking stocks on the first of January, so that they really do not care to buy goods to arrive before January 1st, and these are ample reasons why our market should be quiet at the present time.

As previously argued, the production of milk has been short this season, and with the present cold condition of the weather, this production is reduced to a point where it is difficult to get sufficient for daily use, it is therefore only natural, that the production of cheese and butter is also reduced materially, and the daily and weekly receipts are only nominal in quantities now.

Receipts in Montreal were, last week, 7,253 boxes of cheese and 4,945 packages of butter, against 7,531 boxes of cheese and 7,878 packages of butter for the same week of last year, or a total since May 1st of 2,342,222 boxes of cheese and 588,989 packages of butter, as compared with 2,298,324 boxes of cheese and 755,225 packages of butter for the corresponding period of last year.

Exports are not regularly recorded after the close of navigation, and it is therefore not possible to give the weekly shipment now, but the receipts show an increase of 43,898 boxes of cheese and a decrease of 166,236 packages of butter, since May 1st, which means an enormous shrinkage in the production of milk, and it bears out our previous arguments that, while the farmers have been getting very high prices, all through the season, for their milk, they may, after all, not have received as much money for their season's production as last year, as they had so much less milk to deliver.

We have before gone fully into the question of stocks or the "visible supplies," and we have really nothing to add, the stocks of cheese are, this year, heavier in British centres and considerably lighter on this side of the Atlantic, stocks, held here now, are costing fairly high, and holders have sufficient confidence in the future not to press sales at a loss to themselves. It is well known, that the markets in the United States are higher than ours in Canada, and that there will be practically nothing to go forward from the United States, our own stocks are fully 200,000 boxes short of last year, and, as soon as the present large stocks in British markets are commencing to show a steady reduction, which is bound to come, as the consumption keeps on, there will be new orders coming in and holders will not feel inclined to part with their goods at a loss, this means advancing prices for the future.

While we find a decrease in the receipts of butter in Montreal of 166,236 packages, our exports show a much larger decrease, and besides this, thousands of packages of our butter have been brought back from Great Britain, our market being higher than British markets. Owing to weather conditions, our Winter make of butter may be reduced in quantity, but prices are exceptionally high this year, and there is every inducement to make as much butter as it is possible to make, and we incline to the opinion, that we will have enough butter for our home consumption.

The market is very firm at present, and prices are rather inclined to a further advance, but careful dealers are meeting their customers and, where they can make a profit now, they prefer not to hold their goods in hope of making a larger profit later on, this makes a "trader's market" and, as long as there is no actual shortage in supplies, prices will not be advanced very rapidly.

New dairy rolls are coming forward in small quantities at present, they are bringing unusually good prices, but, as their quantity increases, there will be a halt to a further advance, however, after all, the butter market, like any other market will be regulated by supply and demand. At present the demand is good, and the supply is none too large, but the extreme high prices, which some operators predict for the future, may not be realized and dealers, meeting the markets and their customers, may come out best in the end.

PROVISION SITUATION.

The provision situation cannot be said to be much changed from last week. Packers are paying the same for hogs. Deliveries are pretty free. The packers claim there is nothing in the situation to warrant present prices. The English market is not encouraging and the domestic demand while good for the time of year, is much less than it was. At this season of the year packers usually accummulate stocks for the heavy spring and summer trade, but present prices, it is alleged, are too high to justify putting away large stocks.

PROVISION AND DAIRY MARKETS.

MONTREAL MARKETS.

PROVISIONS. — Pork is easier this week, prices being down one dollar. There is a good inquiry for lard at prices which rule unchanged. Pure lard is in none too good supply, while the compound article is selling freely. Hams are quoted lower this week. Demand is quiet, and the lower figures were anticipated. It is expected that there will be an improvement in hams and bacon for the holiday trade.

INSPECTION OF CANNED GOODS.

all of the processes up to the time of selling, and even, in case of suspicion, to open specimen cans. All cans are to be marked with the Government inspector's stamp, without which no canned meat can be sold for export or interprovincial trade. To guard against condemned and diseased meat being sold for home consumption, the provision is made that meat condemned by the inspector shall not be sold for food.

Owing to the large number of fruit and vegetable canneries scattered all over the Dominion he had not thought it practicable to provide for a similar close supervision, inspection and marking of cans. Provision was made for a general supervision and inspection of the canning establishments, and power was taken to have the inspectors close such establishments if they are not carried on under proper sanitary and cleanly conditions or if they are using articles not in a proper state for human consumption. Each can must be properly labelled and bear the name of the packer and the date of packing. Heavy penalties are imposed for improper labelling or marking of cans which would allow misrepresentation, and would confuse the authorities in tracing the party responsible therefor. In regard to the fish canneries, Mr. Fisher said it was a question whether it was advisable or necessary to have the same strict supervision and inspection as for meat-packing establishments, and he asked the assistance of the House in arriving at a conclusion on the subject. He thought there should be as frequent inspection as possible, in order to insure that the fish is in good condition when put up, and that there should be stringent provisions against a false description of their contents being given on the labels. This, he thought, would be sufficient to accomplish the result aimed at.

The administration of the new law will, it is estimated, cost $60,000 a year.

Mr. Marshall, M.P., of Aylmer, one of the large canners, heartily approved the measure.

It is provided that all canned meats shall be dated.

VINEGAR CHANGE.

E. Saville Webb, formerly of Purnell, Webb & Co., vinegar manufacturers, Bristol, has recently bought out Hutchings & Co., manufacturers of malt and spiced vinegar in Bristol. This concern was established in 1818. Mr. Webb made a tour of Canada a number of years ago in the interests of his old firm and is well known to a number of the trade in this country and he writes The Grocer that as soon as his business is firmly established he will in all likelihood visit Canada again and arrange for agents to handle his goods.

CEREALS AND CONFECTIONERY

Grain Markets Continue Quiet, but Ontario Grain is Beginning to Move—Heavy Demand for Western Oats by Ontario Millers.

Grain markets continue very quiet. Ontario farmers have at last got busy getting out their wheat, and the millers are getting more than they want. There is, at present, however, no export demand. The domestic flour trade is quieter, but there is considerable export business doing. A large Toronto miller reported good orders from South Africa and England. Western oats have been in brisk demand in Ontario at 38 3-4 cents for No. 2, for milling, and the difficulty now is to get shipments. Because of the close of navigation, and the consequent advance in freight rates, oats will cost the millers more, and the price of oat products are likely to advance proportionately.

MONTREAL.

GRAIN.—Barley is a little stronger this week, and prices have been advanced, but otherwise there is nothing new in the market, except the higher price asked for peas. An advance of one cent has occurred.

GRAIN.—Ontario grain has now begun to move, with the result that millers are getting more than they want. Prices are not now much above leading values, and are not likely to go much lower. FISH CHEESE.

Clement & Co., Channel, Nfld., have upon the market a preparation of codfish named "concentrated fresh codfish, otherwise known as fish cheese." The wrapper contains a number of suggestions for cooking and other interesting information to the following effect, which every handler of the article should know:

The codfish from which this is made are taken from the cold waters of the Arctic current which wash the shores of Newfoundland, and which produce the finest fish in the world.

The nutritive albumen, albuminoids, and the valuable phosphates are retained in the patented process of manufacture, while the watery constituents are eliminated.

For building and replenishing the brain, nerves and muscular tissues, and giving great power of endurance, this is a food of signal value. It takes the place of beef, mutton and other meats, as an article or diet.

A BLUFF THAT WORKED.

"Bluff sometimes goes a long way in business as well as in poker," remarked a well known manufacturer the other day." There is one instance which comes to my mind that happened some years ago. There was a merchant in Toronto who had half a dozen stores scattered throughout the city. I was young in business at the time and he got into my firm for about $2,500. As this was a very important sum to me at the time I began to press him urgently for payment. One day when I called on him personally he said that he would fix it up right for the next day, He would get assistance from the bank.

"But,'j said I, "how can you do so? Your credit is not good."

He replied, "Oh, you leave that to me, I have a scheme."

When I pressed him as to what his scheme was he astonished me by declaring that he intended going to the manager of his bank and telling him that if he did not advance him the money he would give instructions to the manager of each of his stores to refuse to accept any bills of that bank tendered by his customers. And do you know, the scheme worked.'

A HIGH PRICE FOR GRASS.

"Talk about women in business," remarked a well known wholesaler to the Grocer the other day, "let me give you an instance of the business acumen of one of their sex. A syndicate that I know of was negotiating to buy a farm which was supposed to be rich in mining properties owned by a widow. She agreed to sell upon one condition and that was that she be allowed to hold six acres. Now the syndicate wanted the whole of the property but could not get her to relinquish the said six acres.

After negotiations had been carried on for some time one of the members of the syndicate asked her why she wanted the six acres.

"Why," said she, "I have a cow which supplies me with milk and that is why I want the six acres."

The member of the syndicate upon learning this said, "Well my dear woman, we will buy your hundred acres and supply you with milk free for the rest of your days."

"This closed the bargain. The price they were offering to pay for the land was $1000 an acre, yet this woman was so short sighted that she wanted to hold back $6,000 worth of land in order to get a supply of grass for her cow.

MONTREAL GROCERS.

On Thursday evening, the monthly meeting of the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association was held in their quarters, on St. Catherine St., under the presidency of A. Laniel.

Considerable routine business was transacted, and on the motion of A. Sarazin, the secretary, a vote of sympathy was passed, condoling A. Laniel and H. Laniel on the death of Mr. Laniel, father of the former and brother of the latter. An expression of sympathy was passed also offering the condolences of the members to A. Dore, whose child died recently. M Repentigny recalled the trip of a dozen members of the association to Quebec last winter, made in the interests of the association at the time of the license discussion. Seconded by Mr. Labonte, he proposed that each member who made the trip should be reimbursed for expenses to the extent of $10. President Laniel, while not objecting, requested that the motion be carried over to the next meeting when more members were present, before it should be voted upon, and this was done. The question of taxation came in for considerable discussion before the meeting closed.

A QUEER TEAM.

"I have seen many amusing systems of transportation," said a wholesaler, "but that which I saw in Austria when I was over there was, I think, the most amusing. It was a cart of merchandise to which was hitched a cow, a pig and a dog, and a woman was giving a helping hand. I might say it is not the first time that I have seen a pig used for drawing carts in some of the European countries."

ALMOST KILLED IT!

The Maple Sugar Industry Has Almost Been Killed

by the manufacturers in the large cities who make the mixed and adulterated maple syrup and sugar. They take one pound of the pure maple sugar and by mixing it with four or five pounds of white guanulated sugar or with glucose, make the imitation article ; thereby increasing the amount of so-called maple syrup on the market and killing the legitimate demand by selling for less than the pure article can be sold.

Th Land of the Maple Leaf is proud of its beautiful forests of maple trees that, in March and April, yield the sweet sap which, when boiled down, makes the most delicious sweet in the entire world.

Millions of Beautiful Maple Trees Have Been Cut Down simply because the farmers had no market for pure maple syrup and sugar.

About one-half of Canada's crop of pure farmers' make maple sugar is exported to the United States as there is no market for it in Canada. If there were no adulterated maple syrup and sugar sold in Canada there would not be enough produced to supply the demand, and more maple trees would be tapped. The product can be increased ten-fold if the Adulteration Act is enforced. The land of the Maple Leaf ought to protect its maple trees. Every true-hearted Canadian ought to protect the tree which gives us our national emblem. You can protect the maple tree by refusing to handle adulterated maple syrup and sugar.

The Inland Revenue Department in enforcing the Adulteration act, have allowed adulterated maple syrup and sugar to be branded as "Maple Flavor Syrup" or as "compound" or "mixture," with the understanding that these words shall be in the same sized letters as the words "Maple Syrup" or "Maple Sugar." Always read the labels on all packages, as it will help you to detect the adulterated article. Unscrupulous manufacturers try to avoid marking their products to comply with the law, and, even when marked correctly, they sell and advertise their mixtures to the grocer and consumer as pure. Maple syrup and sugar is a farm product, and all packages should be sealed and put up near the maple trees, where made, while fresh ; thereby retaining that new, delicious taste so peculiar to new maple syrup.

The Maple Tree Producers Association, Waterloo, P.Q., was organized to encourage and develop the Pure Maple Industry of Canada, and deals only in the pure genuine article. Producers, and those interested in building up a market for pure maple syrup and sugar, are shareholders. Every farmer who makes maple syrup for us signs a guarantee "that it is made only from the sap of the maple tree," and we give the same guarantee to those we sell. In addition we analyze every lot we receive and every lot we sell to be absolutely certain of its purity. Pure maple syrup can be light medium or dark in color. Our "Pride of Canada" Maple Syrup is the lightest and choicest grade, and is made by particular farmers who have all the modern apparatus for making, and by being careful, make a fancy article.

The "Pride of Canada Maple Syrup" is and Always Will be the Pure Genuine Article

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Litle Change in Fruit or Vegetables—Additional Lines in Fish Quotations—Christmas Trade Commences Well.

Fruit prices are not expected to vary much during the next two or three weeks, as the holiday trade has begun, and the present quotations will hold in most lines until that is over. All fancy lines are in good demand, and orders are being placed early. Southern California oranges have been delayed by wet weather, but are expected to arrive before next week. Montreal fruit markets hade quieted down somewhat with the close of navigation, but the Christmas trade promises well.

The advent season has considerably increased the fish demand in Quebec markets. Several new lines are quoted in this department this week. The vegetable market shows very little activity, which is not unusual at this time of year.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS.—Trade has been quiet since the close of navigation. Few sales have been made except for immediate consumption. Activity in oranges and other lines which are always in demand at the Christmas season is beginning, and good business is anticipated. Dealers are bringing in many fancy lines to fill the holiday demand.

VEGETABLES.—There is very little activity in the vegetable market at the moment. Orders received from local points are very small, while city trade is limited. Prices are very well maintained. Potatoes are quoted from 85c. to 90c. a bag, and arrivals continue fairly large, considering the weather. Shippers experience difficulty in sending potatoes to Montreal owing to the extremely cold spell which has held the land in its icy grip. California celery is now on the market at a fancy price, $6 a crate. Each crate contains from six to eight dozen.

FISH.—Brisk trade is passing, Advent season being in full swing. Prices are keeping very steady in most lines. The scarcity of cod and haddock continues, owing to stormy weather, but prices are unchanged. Arrivals of frozen fish have been good, all kinds being in large supply. Receipts of tomcods have increased, and lower prices rule. There is a good demand for Yarmouth bloaters which are coming in quite freely. In salt fish there is a strong demand for all lines at ruling prices. Oysters are scarce, rather than plentiful, owing to weather conditions. Bulk oysters are selling well in all districts, while in shell, Malpeques bring from $9 to $10 a barrel. The cheaper grades are not now offering, few lots being held.

Taking Chances

Most grocers don't; but some do because they do not carry a good stock of "E. D. S." Brand Jams and Jellies. And the grocer is the last man on earth who can afford to take chances.

Mothers are mighty particular about buying jams and jellies. Can you blame them? They insist on the "E.D.S." Brand Jams and Jellies—because they're pure and guaranteed.

Attach Importance To What Is Important

Cigar selection is an important matter—Important to you, because on the wisdom of your selection depends the earning power of your stock—Important to your friends, because on the wisdom of your recommendation depends the number of times they'll be seen at your store.

Smokers require value consistency, taste evenness in cigars. Pebble and Pharaoh take full marks on these points.

And these very cigars are included in a "500" assortment that I am now offering to the grocery trade on the "three months" basis.

PURE FOOD LAW—MAPLE SYRUP.

What G. R. Small Says in Regard to His Case.

Geo. R. Small, of the Canadian Maple Exchange, has been condemned to pay a fine of $10 and $37.50 costs, in the Court of Special Sessions, Montreal, by Judge Choquet, for having sold a can of adulterated maple syrup labeled "selected maple syrup."

His Lordship in sentencing Mr. Small, related the case. In March, Mr. Small had sold a can of syrup. After analysis this was found to contain water. Mr. Small had stated in court that he bought the syrup from a farmer and that it was guaranteed pure. "Unfortunately for Mr. Small," said His Honor, "he cannot produce the farmer as a witness, and although I believe he acted in good faith I have to find him guilty of this offence."

Mr. Small has appealed to higher courts, on the ground that the procedure was illegal, in that there has been no standard fixed in Canada for pure maple syrup.

In conversation Mr. Small said: "I can sincerely approve of the Pure Food Act as laid down in 1890, which is strictly literarily enforced, and I feel it can not but work good results to the health and morals of the Canadian people; but I am equally sincere in the belief that the present administration at Ottawa, instead of enforcing the act in the controlling and healthful development of Canadian industries, have by their weak interpretation and inconsiderate enforcement of Act, been successful in needlessly knifing many natural Canadian industries to the extent that they are helpless, and have but to stand by and allow foreign products to walk in rough shod and take the Promised Land."

Mr. Small referred to one instance in particular, jams.

"We are," said Mr. Small, "at the base of cheap and better supply, yet English jams have the preference on our markets. This is in great part due to the black-eye unjudiciously inflicted by our officials at Ottawa. They are in a fair way to putting our purely Canadian products, the maple, in like position."

Mr. Small said that on this subject he could talk with more certainty and freedom, being a student of it from his youth.

Canada produced the bulk of maple sugar, up till the year Canada Maple Exchange was established. The greater portion of which, hundreds of car loads, was exported in its crude state to Chicago and St. Paul, where it was refined scientifically and tastefully packed, and then sold in nearly every market of the world, including Canada. This was branded United States products, but on the establishing of the Canadian companies, a change was effected. Being at the base of supply, and further having advantage over American canners of 4c. per pound duty, the Canadians had a good start. We have been successful in supplying nearly the entire Canadian markets, and in a great number of cases our brands have been given preference to the displacement of American brands on the French, English, German and United States markets. The action of the government in the present case is to me unaccountable, as it is not a matter merely affecting damage to personal interest, but is a question of the widest national importance and concern, and I believe should have been thoroughly investigated, adjusted and settled as Judge Choquet twice suggested out of court. As to the integrity of my brand being maintained at the next sitting of the Court of Appeal, I have no doubt, but this will not in any way repair the damage done to the maple industry, effected by what I feel was a careless interpretation and wreckless enforcement of the Pure Food Act."

A USEFUL MAP.

Lucas, Steele & Bristol, of Hamilton, have issued the 10th edition of their freight time table and railway map of Ontario. The table shows time of departure of freight from Hamilton and when it is due to arrive at destination, while the map is most comprehensive. The information thus provided should prove useful to all retailers, to whom it is sent with the firm's compliments.

BUSINESS BOOKLETS.

A useful booklet is that just issued by Holbrooks, Limited. Sixteen pages are employed in giving to the public recipes for the making of various soups by means of Holbrook's sauce. The recipes are those of the prize winners in the competition conducted in Toronto last year by the firm.

Another booklet which has reached us is one issued by the Halifax Cold Storage Co. Seventeen half-tones, 6x8 inches, with explanatory text, give the reader a splendid idea of the business carried on by the firm in the curing and storing of fish. Two smaller pamphlets enclosed, contain recipes for cooking and serving fish and oysters.

BUSINESS MEN IN MUNICIPAL LIFE

No. 4

We have pleasure in presenting to our readers in this issue, a sketch of Mr. George Clavet, Mayor of Port Arthur, Ontario.

Mr. Clavet is a native of the Province of Quebec, and located in Port Arthur about thirty-three years ago. Forseeing the future that was in store for this now growing city, he shortly after his arrival established himself in the grocery business, which he successfully carried on in his original building for almost twenty-five years.

About eight years ago a consolidation of three Port Arthur business houses took place, under the name of The Marks-Clavert-Dobie Co., Limited, which embraced the grocery business of Mr. Clavet and W. C. Dobie & Co., and the grocery and hardware business of Thomas Marks & Co.

Port Arthur at this time, was just on the eve of prosperity and the business of The Marks-Clavet-Dobie Co. has grown in keeping with the development that has taken place at the important Canadian city at the head of the Great Lakes.

The block and warehouses, which now house the mammoth stock of this, the largest mercantile house in New Ontario, are considered among the handsomest and most complete to be found on this continent, and advertise Port Arthur from coast to coast.

Some years ago, Mr. Clavet entered municipal politics, and after serving several years in the council, became the mayor of the town, which position he has filled for three terms.

During his regime, the most prosperous in the town's history, many matters affecting the town's welfare have been successfully brought to an issue.

The water and sewage systems have been installed during his occupancy of the mayor's chair, and the energy that he displayed in carrying out these extensive and important works, to some extent reflect the ability that he always displays in matters of business.

It would, indeed, be difficult to write a history of Port Arthur without including the name of the present mayor, whose great ability and energy is evidenced in many ways, in both the business and municipal worlds of his adopted city.

Probably the purchase of the Strathcona property, bought with a view of placing the town in a position to offer intending manufacturers cheap sites with water frontage, demonstrates more clearly than any other action of Mayor Clavet's, his keen business insight, and the town is now getting a practical illustration, in being able to offer desirable sites to manufacturers, as two important industries are about to be located on this property, which otherwise might have gone to some other point, owing to being unable to procure desirable sites.

GEORGE CLAVET, Mayor of Port Arthur.

Mayor Clavet is such an active man, and has so many interests, that it is difficult to write a short sketch of his successful business and municipal career without feeling that in condensing the sketch that many worthy achievements are necessarily omitted.

Port Arthur is to be congratulated in having such an able business man at the head of its muncipal affairs.

EGGS IN ENGLAND.

Canadian Commercial Agent, J. B. Jackson, Leeds, writes:

Eggs are from 2s. to 3s. a great hundred (10 dozen) dearer than they were at the corresponding period of last year. The best foreign eggs are larger than the same kind of eggs produced in this country. The recently issued returns show that the imports for the first nine months of this year were 1,631,418,120 single eggs, costing £4,855,720. English eggs as a rule are cheaper, than foreign eggs of the same quality, the latter being larger and more carefully graded.

A very large part of the Canadian eggs shipped into north England go to Sheffield, which is one of the best egg markets in Great Britain; in fact, there are many more eggs sold in Sheffield annually than in any town in Great Britain (outside of London).

This has long been taken advantage of by English egg shippers, and it is said that there is no home firm of any repute which is not represented in Sheffield. The popular demand in Sheffield is for small sized eggs, either glycerined or direct from cold storage. Sheffield's working classes form such a large proportion of the population, it makes it an excellent market for small sized eggs of good quality at cheap prices.

LONG DISTANCE RECORD.

A notable instance of the ability of the Canadian Grocer to produce results, has just come to hand. The Codville-Georgeson Co., Limited, of Winnipeg, manufacturers of Gold Standard Goods, have received an enquiry for their famous Gold Standard Java and Mocha, "The Chaffless Coffee," from a grocer in South Bend, Ind. This enquiry was one of the results from ads appearing in the Canadian Grocer, and Messrs. Codville-Georgeson have just reason to feel proud of the record their Gold Standard Goods are making.

FACTORY ENLARGING.

Paulin Chambers & Co., Winnipeg, intend enlarging their biscuit and confectionery plant next spring. An addition 55 x 120 feet will be built to the same height as their present building. The capacity will be tripled.

A. P. Tippet, Montreal, was in Toronto last week and favored the Grocer with a call.

We Have Worked Out Your Problem.

BUSINESS SYSTEMS LIMITED — SYSTEM THE SECRET OF SUCCESS — TORONTO.

When you go home at five o'clock, there is no reason why you should have your after-dinner smoke spoiled with a lot of worries over little details of your business.

There is no need for you to jot down memoranda on the back of an envelope for to-morrow.

If your books were arranged on a proper system, they would shoulder all these petty details for you—to-morrow morning they would show you everything you want to know just at the moment you want to know it.

■ ■ ■ ■ ■ ■

Business Systems leave petty routine to your books.

Business Systems do the work but leave you time to think and plan and act.

Business Systems leave nothing to chance and allow no possibility of anything being forgotten.

Business Systems enable one clerk to do the work of two and to do it more accurately.

■ ■ ■ ■ ■ ■

We would like to go into this matter with you either in your office or in ours at your convenience.

A request to know more about Business Systems, will not obligate you.

How Many Slow Debts Have You?

How many of these debts are due to the debtor or to your own carelessness? If you insist on prompt collections you usually get them, but it is important that you properly approach the delinquent debtor when forcing a settlement has proved the most efficient means in approaching debtors. Make it known to your customers that you have adopted the new system—the monthly account system of rendering accounts, and you will be surprised at the returns. Short accounts make best friends. Do your part to foster the friendship and good will of your customers, by letting them know monthly how they stand on your books. Leave your accounts to a convenient time for making them up, when they have piled up into a big amount and you have distrust. They may not tell you but they wonder how it ever mounted up to such an amount. Write us for further information.

THE MONTHLY ACCOUNT SYSTEM

STEP BY STEP

The most remarkable advances in the world's history have been made within the past 25 years. Instance the Telephone, the X-Ray, Surgery, Mechanics, Steel, the Food Question, and the equally important one, "What shall we drink?"

With this new age began the devlopment of and step by step the advance has been made toward perfection, until they now stand "chief among ten thousand."

Our little booklet gives some of the details of this advance. Send for it and read it.

Four Reasons why INVICTUS FIBRE is the BEST FIBRE PAPER on the Market

1. Invictus Fibre is made from personally selected pulp wood cut on our own limits.
2. This special pulp wood is again rigidly culled on arrival at our mills.
3. The pulp from which Invictus Fibre is made is manufactured in our own pulp mill and transferred at once to the paper mill, avoiding all drawbacks of transportation.
4. Invictus Fibre will increase in strength and not grow hard and brittle as does fibre made from sulphite pulp. This is a quality of the peculiar and selected pulp from which Invictus Fibre is made.

A trial order will convince you that we are correct. See that each package bears the words "Invictus Fibre." Every ream contains 480 sheets

Read What an Expert Says:

"SUGAR IS ALWAYS SUGAR"

Sigmund Stein, English sugar expert at the International Congress of Applied Chemistry at Rome, said: "One often distinguishes between different kinds of sugar, but in fact the product is one and the same. Sugar is sugar from whatever source or raw material it may be manufactured, but the public distinguishes different kinds and varieties, and are led to this belief by announcements, which I am sorry to say, are circulated for trade purposes, and which advertise the superiority of one type over another. Canada, following the wise lead of the United States, is doing everything she can to encourage a home beet industry."

Mr. Stein did not mean that sugar was not of varying quality. His object was, evidently, to correct the wrong impression that sugar from beet was essentially different from sugar, the product of cane. —Canadian Grocer, Nov. 9, 1906.

Our Tomato Catsup is not a by-product. It is not made from seeds, skins, cores, and unripe fruit. Nothing but the finest, ripest, juiciest tomatoes, seeded and peeled by machinery, are good enough for it.

In most places where tomato canning is done the waste matter is made into catsup. No matter how skillfully this is spiced and prepared it will never have the appearance or taste of tomato catsup made from the best of the fruit, any more than bread would if you made it from bran.

Granulated white sugar, pure blended spice, and vinegar made in our own factory are the only other ingredients beside the fresh pulp, everything is the best of its kind.

Our catsup has everything the most exacting customer could desire, wholesomeness, purity and taste and the bright, fresh, clean appearance of the package makes it one of the readiest sellers you could put on your shelves.

Why I Order Southwell's Jams and Marmalades

By HENRY BOLTON

HINT No. 4

The result of my enquiries as to the best line of English jams and marmalades, was a source of wonderment to me. Up to this time I had never given the character of groceries much study.

But here I received letters from grocers and grocers' clerks telling me Southwell's Jams and Marmalades were their choice ; and why so,—the whole field from the character of the growing fruit to the character of the preserving was covered by argument.

SOUTHWELL'S JAMS AND MARMALADES

RETAIL BUSINESS METHODS

An address by A. E Provost, wholesale grocer, before the Ottawa Retail Grocers' Association.

After a few words on the importance of the grocer's calling and its great and varied development in the last few years, whereby the edible products of every clime are assembled in the most modest of groceries, Mr. Provost continued:

"We are not here this evening," he said, "as a mutual admiration society, but as a company of business men met for the very practical purpose of discussing the best methods of carrying on our work. In the few words that I will address to you I wish to speak somewhat as I would to a young man who is about to take charge of a business for me, giving him such points and suggestions as I think might be of advantage to him.

The first consideration for a man embarking in a business is the selection of a stand; but as all of those present are probably located in premises where they expect to remain, I need not do more than mention that point.

Relations With Customers.

Once started in business, the next point you have to consider is what should be your relations with your customers. I would strongly recommend you to make the personal acquaintance of each one of your customers. Take occasion once in a while, if it be only once a week, but whenever you have the chance, of paying some personal attention to each one, waiting upon them, having a little chat with them, or passing the time of day. In this way you will make them feel not only that you are glad to see them in your store, but that they will be glad to come. Your personal acquaintance with your customers and establishing good relations with them in this way, will have the effect of attaching them to you so that you will not be, as some merchants are, largely at the mercy of their employes. For, remember that even your most popular salesman of to-day may be to-morrow in the employ of your business rival, and, but for your personal hold upon your customers, might induce some of them to transfer their trade to his new employer. It is of course well to have salesmen of pleasant and obliging manners, but these are not all the qualities that they ought to possess. It is far more important that they should have that supreme qualification, the ability to sell goods, because that is what they are there for, and not merely to be entertainers of your customrs.

Not Too Familiar.

But here I must warn you against being over familiar with your customers, which is almost as great a fault as to be wanting in courtesy. My experience has been that very often a customer with whom you become on too friendly or intimate terms is apt some day to presume on this to ask you for favors which you cannot, in justice to yourself or your business, grant. The true relation between a merchat and his customers, as it appears to me, is something like that which exists in departmental stores between the heads of departments and floor walkers and the public. Thus far, but only thus far, do the proprietors of these great establishments appreciate the importance of personal relations with their customers. That is why we find them engaging for these positions the very merchants whom they have crowded out of business for themselves in the stress of competition.

Good Goods Always.

The next question for consideration is the purchasing of stock. It is very easy to say that the true rule is always to buy the best and buy it right, but as you all know it is pretty hard to carry that rule out in practice. At the same time, I cannot lay too much stress on the importance of handling the very best goods that are suitable to your particular trade. I must confess that I have a special prejudice against low-grade goods. If a customer tells you that some goods you sold him were not up to the mark, what satisfactory argument or defense have you in reply? No one can defend inferiority. Quality is remembered long after price is forgotten —that is an old and true adage in business of every kind. There is not a man in this audience who complains of the price of his wife's hat if he thinks she looks pretty in it, and in the grocery business price is always secondary to quality.

Not Too Much at Once.

Beware of the quantity men who try to induce you to purchase large quantities of one line of goods, using the deceptive argument that five cases are so much cheaper than one. In my comparatively brief experience in the wholesale trade I have been one of the victims of several failures and I have invariably found that these large-quantity goods comprise most of the stock of the men who failed while they had not the means to stock properly with sugar or other goods more commonly in demand. One of the favorite arguments of these quantity men is the long terms offered—sixty days from the first of next month, and so on; but many a man has found that even after the sixty days had expired and he had to pay for the goods, a large proportion of them were still on his hands.

I would also put you on your guard against the man who offers you a fifteen-cent tea as being as good as the one for which you are paying nineteen cents. When you are handling a line of goods that gives you fair profit and your customers good satisfaction, it is ordinary business prudence to stick to it.

Cleanliness a Prime Requirement.

The next point for consideration is the care of your stock. As cleanliness is said to be next to godliness, so it is the prime requirement of the grocery business. In many stores I have seen chests of tea left uncovered in the middle of the store not only to lose its flavor, but to absorb any offensive odors or poisonous germs that may be floating about; for all grocers know that tea is one of the most delicate articles they carry. It is not uncommon to see a grocer dump a bale of Canadian tobacco next to an open tea chest or a firken of butter, or to pile potatoes, carrots and other rvegetables promiscuously on the floor. And men who indulge in these slovenly practices sometimes wonder that they do not sell more tea or butter or other goods of the choicer lines. The careful merchant will arrange his goods neatly, having a place for everything and everything in its place. Along with this I have observed that some very successful grocers occasion shift their stock to different shelves at different times, which imparts variety, brightness and interest to the appearance of the store.

Nice Handling.

Such goods as cheese and smoked meats also need delicate handling. Of course, they have to be displayed to be sold, but they should never be taken into the hands or between the fingers to be shown to the customer or put into the scale. If taken up on a knife or in a piece of parchment paper, a cut of savory cheese or of good bacon will excite your appetite in spite of yourself.

It is well also to keep domestic animals, such as dogs and cats, out of the store. Some merchants put up notices asking their customers to keep dogs out, a small act of consideration which the public will not fail to appreciate.

Speak to All Who Enter.

In the selling of your goods, a word of salutation or greeting to your customers when they come to your store is such an elementary requirement that it is perhaps superfluous to suggest it. But in the press and hurry of business, men are very apt to overlook such little acts of courtesy, and let customers wait for some minutes without noticing them. Even when serving one customer, it is very easy en passent to say a word of greeting to another who has just come in, with the assurance that you will wait on them in a few minutes.

Above all things, tell the truth about the goods you are selling as far as you know it, and avoid exaggeration. By over-praising the qualities of the goods you are selling to-day, you may be unconsciously depreciating the qualities of others which you may have to sell to-morrow. Do not be too anxious to convince your customer of the high qualities of one kind of goods or the inferior qualities of another kind; you can safely leave your customer to find out some of the qualities of the goods he is buying for himself, and some of your customers may use some of the undigested ideas you may have given them to your own disadvantage at some future time.

Credit to New Customers.

Most of you sell largely on the credit system. I would suggest that when a new family comes into your neighborhood and begins to do business with you, it would be well to post yourself upon their financial standing with the dealers in the neighborhood from which they have come. Sometimes they will at first send a child for a small purchase, and you can often learn from a child at such a time what you want to know about the family, the father's occupation, etc., so that when the parents come, as they certainly will shortly after, and ask for credit, you will be in a position to say definitely whether you can give them credit or not. And when you open an account with a new customer, make a definite arrangement as to terms of payment, and see that he lives up to it as far as possible. If on pay day he cannot settle the account, give him to understand that you expect him at least to report and explain the reason why.

With regard to the delivery of goods, it is now a common practice on the part of the larger stores to have from two to four deliveries daily at fixed hours. Experience has proven this to be the very best method. Your customers know the hours of delivery and act accordingly, and you are saved a great deal of expense and trouble.

Watch the Big Advertisers.

As most of you are not large advertisers, I would suggest that you take advantage of the advertisements of the larger stores. Read them regularly, and whenever you find goods advertised that are likely to appeal to your patrons, bring these goods to the front and ticket them at the prices advertised by the large stores. You will be surprised at the effect. For instance, a lady, just after reading in one of these advertisements of 3 pounds of raisins for 25 cents in a big departmental store, walks into your shop: and if she sees a ticket on a box of raisins offering them at the same price, she is at once inspired with confidence in your ability to sell not only raisins, but every other kind of goods as cheaply as the large stores.

Read the Trade Papers.

In this connection, I would recommend you to read the trade papers, which will give you a knowledge of the trade which will enable you to command the market and buy goods at the right time and of course at the right prices.

Just a word about your dealings with your creditors. Do not return a draft because there is some trifling mistake in it, perhaps a consignment has been short by one package. It will be good policy on your part to trust for a few dollars the men who trust you for hundreds, and you will find that you will never have any difficulty about having little errors of this kind rectified. Be careful never to write a cheque which there are no funds to meet. This is simply ruinous to a merchant's credit. These cheques go through the clearing house, and within twenty-four hours after they are written every bank in Ottawa knows that a cheque of yours has not been honored. Some day you may be surprised to find that you are refused a little accommodation by some bank by reason of this neglect on your part.

NEW REGINA FIRM.

Regina, the capital of Saskatchewan, is rapidly becoming an important distributing and wholesale centre. One of the new houses just established there is that of Honeyman, Haultain & Co., whose advertisement appears in this issue, and who will carry on a storage and transfer as well as a general wholesale commission business. The firm has a large new warehouse fully equipped for handling goods in large quantities and will during the coming season distribute for The Canadian Moline Plow Company, the Mellotte Cream Separator Co. and a number of other large concerns. The firm is composed of J. R. C. Honeyman, who is well known throughout the West in his late capacity of Deputy Minister of Agriculture, first for the territories and later for the province of Saskatchewan, Frank G. Haultain, a brother of the Hon. F. W. G. Haultain, late Premier of the North West Territories, who has occupied important positions with some of the largest wholesale and manufacturing concerns in Eastern Canada and Mr. J. A. McLachlan another local man who has been an important official of the Provincial Government and who bears an excellent reputation as an office man. With the encouragement already received the firm expect to do a very large business during the coming summer. The firm would like to hear from wholesale grocery houses requiring accommodation at Regina.

VISITOR FROM ROCHESTER, N.Y.

Mr. Skuse, representing the Stecher Lithographing Company, Rochester, N. Y., was a visitor to Toronto last week.

The Stecher Lithographing Company are manufacturers of canned goods labels and high-class lithographic work of every description, and for some years have designed and printed some of the handsomest and most sale-fetching labels of Canadian packers of canned goods. The Grocer got a glimpse of special labels designed for Canadian packers for the 1907 pack, and if "well-labelled goods are half sold," certain packers may congratulate themselves.

DON'T WANT TO KNOW THE AGE.

P. B. MacNamara, Canadian Commercial Agent at Manchester, says the English don't want canned meats dated as is purposed by the Dominion Minister of Agriculture. He says: "I may be permitted to reiterate the opinion held by the trade in Manchester, regarding the date of packing being shown on the package, and they are unanimously opposed to it, as it would prove inimical not only to their trade, but that of their customers.

"They unanimously claim that it would serve no good purpose if placed on the label, for as in the case of canned salmon frauds, unscrupulous dealers would remove original label and affix a brand of their own. It might be urged that this could be overcome by branding date on tin, but is this expense to be put upon reliable canners to protect consumers against a very few unreliable ones whose sales are restricted owing to that reason. The well known brands with a reputation for quality are always asked for by the customer, and as these contain only food in first-class condition when packed and the canning properly done, should keep in perfect condition indefinitely, if proper storage is effected."

EFFECTIVE WINDOW DISPLAY

Third Prize Winner in the Grocer's No vember Competition—A Grocer Who Put a Flour Mill in His Wondow.

The accompanying photograph shows the window which won third prize in the November window dressing competition. The two other prize winners were given last week. This display was arranged by W. C. Murray, of the E. W. Gillett Co., Limited, for Morin Bros., Montreal. The store is a corner one, so that the photograph shows only one window of the two which had to be arranged. The one illustrated features Magic Baking Powder, while the other was devoted to Gillett's Lye. From the glass to where the building of the display began the floor space was about 2 feet wide. In the window illustrated this was covered with puffed-up cheese cloth, inlaid with black letters to spell Magic Baking Powder. In the centre of the display was an illuminated picture of the Gillett Co.'s factory. Across the corner of the two windows, showing on three different streets, a large oak electric cabinet was placed, which revolved continuously, showing 24 different signs advertising specialties manufactured by the firm. On the top of the electric cabinet was an ornamented jewel light, which also revolved, and the reflector at the base of the light caused it to show a medley of colors, in rainbow style. The whole effect on account of these mechanical and lighting features was one which it is easily seen a photograph could not do justice. On the first Saturday night on which the window was dressed Morin Bros. sold over a case of Magic Baking Powder.

Third Prize for November.

FLOUR MILL IN A WINDOW.

The window of McLeod & Sons, corner of Sussex and Spadina Ave., Toronto, contains a decidedly novel display this week. By means of cotton batting sprinkled with salts, a realistic scene occupying the entire window has been produced. The main feature is a model flour mill, with its wheel turned continuously by a miniature mill stream. The display is attracting great attention.

The store is not located on a busy downtown street, where a crowd is easily collected, but even as it is an audience of fifteen or twenty people at a time is nothing uncommon. The window will be on exhibition for some time yet, and it is well worth seeing. The idea was originated and worked out by "Sud" Black, formerly of Ayr, Ont., who is a clerk in the store. Mr. McLeod intends to enter the window in the Grocer's December competition.

DECORATIVE CHRISTMAS TIME.

The window of Michie & Co., Toronto, was arranged last week to receive its Christmas display. A lattice-work background of alternate evergreen and silver wreathing was built up from a wainscoting covered with red cotton to a little less than the height of the front door window. From the top of the rear wall to the top of the window a slanting roof was constructed in the same way as the background. From this were suspended network Christmas stockings. Evergreen wreathing in the corners of the window gave the appearance of columns to support the roof. The floor was covered with red crepe paper, and the whole effect was then that of a green, red and silver booth. In this the display could be changed as often as desired. The advantages of this around the busy season now on are obvious. The display at present shown in the lower part of the window is made up for the most part of Christmas decorating odds and ends, such as paper crackers, Christmas-tree candles and gilt candlesticks, although a few jars and tins of plum puddings and preserved ginger and some dainty confectionery lines are also given space. But the main idea which is worthy of note is the arranging of the framework of the Christmas display before the holiday rush actually begins, when very few stores have men to spare from the crowded counter for such work as window dressing.

TO PREVENT POTATO ROT.

German papers publish a method to prevent potatoes in cellars from rotting, on which U.S. Consul-General Guenther, of Frankfort, reports:

"It is claimed that the potato fungus causes rotting. This fungus, if present on some potatoes in the cellar, spreads to other potatoes and causes rot. A solution of one pound of chloride of lime dissolved in 25 gallons of water is used for washing the potatoes by means of a broom. They are then spread out to dry. Through this procedure the spores of the fungus are killed."

TRAVELLERS' ANNUAL MEETING

Dominion Association in Good Financial Condition—Four Hundred Members This Year—Commercial Rates on Rail roads.

E. D. Marceau, of the E. D. Marceau Company, Montreal, was by acclamation elected president of the Dominion Commercial Travelers' Association at the annuual meeting of that body in Montreal last Saturday evening. John Paterson was elected by acclamation vice-president, while R. C. Wilkins was elected treasurer, without opposition. Directors were elected as follows: E. E. Guilbault, A. J. Brown, A. L. Friedman, James Robertson and J. T. McBride.

Much business of importance to the members came up for discussion, and the annual report made mention of the progress made by the association during the year. It was shown that the membership had increased to a larger extent than in any former year. The association at present numbers 5,684 members, a gain over last year of 499. Financially the association is in excellent condition. The amount received on revenue account is $67,597. Annual subscription fees make up of $54,340 of this amount and interest on investments $13,110. The capital account is now $283,513. Reports were read regarding the educational, hospital and benevolent funds. Favorable mention was made during the course of the meeting of the generosity of Ald. Robinson and Mathewsons Sons in donating $1,000 each. The report of the Mutual Benefit Association, read by J. S. N. Dougall, showed that this department of the association was in flourishing condition. It was proposed that besides the annual dinner, members should hold, once a month, a smoking concert or lecture, in order that the members should enjoy greater social pleasure among themselves. There was some discussion relative to the changing of the headquarters of the association. The president stated that the lease had another year to run, but meanwhile they were looking for larger and more centrally located quarters. Concerning the commercial rates on railroads the report had to say:

"It is pleasing to note that, in accordance with the request made for a reduction in the commercial rate in the Northwest provinces, the C.P.R. have reduced the rate from 3 cents to 2 1-2 cents per mile on their main line between Manitoba, Calgary and Macleod, including all branches in Saskatchewan and certain branches in Alberta. The same concession has been obtained on the Canadian Northern Railway lines in the Northwest as they now exist."

The increase of the rates from two cents to 2 cents and a quarter over the Intercolonial Railway was commented upon, as well as the taxes which had lately been put on commercial travelers in certain provinces. This latter it was hoped to have remedied during the present session of the House, when a bill would be introduced to abolish the tax.

QUALITY OF CANADIAN OAT PRODUCTS.

Complaints have been made this year to the Pure Food Branch of the Inland Revenue about the quality of some of the rolled oats and oatmeals offered for sale in Canada. An examination was made of samples gathered by the department and chief analyist Macfarlane in his report says:

Only in one case was any foreign starch detected, and as regards crude fibre the percentage varied from 0.80 to 3.35 per cent. The latter amount must be pronounced as excessive, if reference is made to the analyses of both European and American oatmeals which are on record. It is exceedingly seldom that these show higher than 2 per cent. crude fibre, and in my opinion, that amount might fairly be assumed as the highest allowable limit. Among the 155 samples examined, 64 show higher amounts of crude fibre than 2 per cent., and this would seem to indicate that with regard to 41.3 per cent. of the oatmeal samples now offered for sale in the Dominion the quality might be improved. At the same time none of the samples were found to contain the large amount of oat hulls originally complained of, and in the absence of any standard, it is possible to characterize any of the samples as adulterated.

TRADE NOTES.

Thos. Montgomery, of Thos. Montgomery & Son, Montreal, is laid up with la grippe.

It is expected that there will shortly be an advance of ½c. or more, in imported macaroni, owing to the new tariff arrangements.

Mr. Laurereaux, grocer, Ottawa, said to a representative of the Canadian Grocer, to whom he paid his subscription last week, "I am pleased to pay you my subscription because I think the Grocer is very good.."

Mr. Hollingshead, who was recently with the Vair Produce Co., Spadina Ave., Toronto, has taken over a store at 100 Sorauren Ave., Toronto, has made considerable improvements and put in a stock of high-grade groceries.

G. P. Hart, Carnarvon, has sold his general store business to Clayton Rogers, who has been clerking for him for a couple of years. Mr. Hart has been in business in Carnarvon about 10 years, and has built up a very profitable business. He is thinking of going west.

In connection with the Christmas display of toys on the top floor of Hamilton's departmental store, Montreal, the Canada Maple Exchange and B. Gronning are making displays of their manufactured confectionery. Both firms have attractive booths in which they are demonstrating the qualities of their various lines.

A. C. Taylor, Sunderland, has purchased the stock of the late J. Hodgson, Beaverton. The Hodgson business is the largest in Beaverton and for the time being Mr. Taylor will have both it and the Sunderland store. Since her father's death some months ago Miss Hodgson has successfully conducted the store.

NEW C.P.R. LINE.

The C.P.R. is now operating its new North Bay line from Bolton as far as Craighurst. This is a great convenience for merchants at Tottenham, Beaton and Alliston. Passenger rates to Toronto are less than they were, and the freight service is increased. Two passenger trains leave Toronto daily for Craighurst.

FROM GROCER CORRESPONDENTS

KINGSTON.

Kingston has 100 grocery stores, can any city of our fair Dominion show a larger percentage, the population of Kingston being 19,000. I think not.

How do they all exist and make a living? Monday morning they all start scooping tea and sugar and catering to the hungry public whose appetites are sharpened by the keen frosty air. Some of the grocers jump on their sleighs and run around asking the people to help them along and get a little order. Most of the grocers stay in their stores and let the public come and choose their own goods. This is the most independent way, and better for both sides of the counter, and less poor credit is the result.

Xmas presents are the next thing in order, and means a little affair to the customer, and a big expense to the grocer, but as long as Jim gives, so long William has got to. However, it makes the customers happy, and only comes once a year. Calendars are a good thing, and speaks to the one given to for 52 weeks.

Jim the grocer wants to know why the inspector for pure food law, don't analyze sausages. Does the act say what a sausage should be made of, pork, beef, ground hog, or miscellaneous? A filler is largely used now? Is it in the interests of public health and is the dip used to give bacon a bright and appetizing look injurious or not?

Another thing that worries Jim is the sale of cheap candies and chlorodyne lozenges used to a large extent by children now.

The big soap bubble across the ocean has burst. It received a hard blow and went to pieces. It looked nice from Sunlight point of view, pictures of gold guineas and sovereigns glistened on that side, but the retailers would not put up with it, and the desired object fell short. The Lever was short, and we hope his faith in trusts has weakened.

But after all Sunlight is a good piece of soap. It suits the people, (if it were a little larger), and is nicely put up for the grocer to hand over the counter. Some of the old brands such as David Morton's large bar N. P., are still in demand, but Electric soap, which once held the reins, Oh, where is it? Now flattened out like Union Jack soap, made for a time by same maker.

The credit system here is becoming less popular every day. The shoe dealers called a meeting two years ago, and unanimously decided to sell for cash only, and they are the happiest lot of merchants in town. All the wrinkles have left their faces, and several bald headed ones declare some rare bit of hair is appearing. This is capital. Yes, Cash is King, God save the King. Would that grocers would sell for cash and cash only, for thousands of dollars are sunk in the dead sea every year. A coal merchant here, cut out credit a year ago, and he is doing a big trade. He can afford to advertise. more hence the extra flow of business.

Sam Bailey of Broom Corn fame, got a letter from Nova Scotia asking him to handle a car or two of potatoes. The writer said he saw his name in the Canadian Grocer.

Saturday's market, owing to the sloppy weather, was poorly attended and small, but prices were big enough for turkeys, duck, geese and chickens. Farmers here prefer selling by the pair. Some of the turkeys looked as though they had been at a party before coming under the axes, as their crops were full. A merchant bought 50 barrels of No. 2 apples, expecting to get a fair saleable sample. A reliable firm's name of Belleville was stamped over each barrel, and letters indicating the packer. They turned out to be a lot of culls. The merchant applied to Ottawa to have an inspector sent up, but just got a copy of the Fruit Act, and advice to bring the case before the local magistrate. You would naturally think they would be anxious to stamp this unlawful trickery out, and glad of such an opportunity as this, but no they don't care a cent for the individual. There is too much hot air in Parliament, and not enough of the practical. Their carelessness is great encouragement to evil doers. A man who packs culls and puts a nice stamp on his barrels to deceive merchants, is a highway robber, and should be hung up on some apple tree, a Ben Davis, if you like.

OWEN SOUND.

R. A. McDougal, of the well known firm of McDougal & Lemon, commission merchants, contemplates a trip to West India Islands early in January. We understand that a number of the Pacific Coast cities are also included in his itinery.

Harry G. Ainslie, until recently head saleman for McQuaker & Co., has branched out in the grocery business for himself. He has taken over the stock in trade recently purchased from J. T. Joyce, by McQuaker & Co. Harry is extremely popular in his native town and no doubt his long experience in the trade and his wide acquaintance with the purchasing public will insure to him a good share of the best trade of the town.

ST. CATHARINES.

The week before Christmas finds all branches of business at fever heat. The stores have been finely decorated. Evergreens, mountain ash berries and potted plants in bloom, are conspicuous in the displays.

All of the manufactories are operating full time, sometimes extra. It has been the custom for the managers to give Christmas gifts of turkeys or some kind of game to their married employees and money gifts to the unmarried, and these will be continued this Christmas time.

Municipal politics are warming up. Two Mayoralty candidates are in the field. Alderman Joseph Hodgins, fish and poultry dealer, for several years an efficient alderman, is likely to retire from municipal life, while Ald. Bradt, florist, is one of those seeking re-election.

There has been no marked change in grocery prices, but vegetables as a rule have advanced. Potatoes, quoted a year ago at twenty-five or thirty cents per bushel, are now sold at ninety cents, and not of so good a quality. The fact is that potato growers must seek for new varieties to warrant increased quantities. The same may be said of other vegetables, such as celery, asparagus, onions and beans. The poultry market is abundantly supplied with all kinds of fowl, both tame and wild. Eggs have gone up in price, being now quoted at 40c. per doz. Butter took a slight drop, now being sold at 30c. to 32c. per lb.

While 40 years ago St. Catharines had a dozen or so flour mills, to-day the town can boast of but two. These are the Hedley-Shaw and the Black-Forsyth Milling Companies. Each do a large business and ship large cargoes of flour to Montreal and elsewhere continually. The Hedley-Shaw Milling Company has a branch mill in Thorold.

HOW TO BUY QUICKLY.

The little general store usually did a thriving business on Saturday night—pay day. On that evening the crowd of purchasers was so great, that many found it difficult to get served. But not so Mrs. Tooney, who knew a thing or two, and always managed to make her purchases in much less time than anyone else.

"'Ow do you do it, neighbor?" asked a friend.

"Oh, it's easy enough if you know the dodge! Just amble about the shop, dippin' your thumb into all the tubs, and nibbling a biscuit and a bit o' cheese 'ere and there, it's fine 'ow soon the shopman makes up his mind to git rid o' yer."—Tit-Bits.

FIRE IN MOKARA MILLS.

Early Sunday morning a fire occurred in Montreal in the premises of the Mokara coffee and spice mills, owned by Theodore Lefebvre & Co. The damage done amounted to from $25,000 to $30,000. The origin of the fire has not been discovered. A great deal of damage, outside of that done by the fire itself, was caused by the tons of water which was poured into the building, ruining the expensive machinery.

SPOIL THE EGYPTIANS.

There is a movement afoot at Ottawa to enlarge the parcel post system. The departmental store interests are at the bottom of it and it is a blow at the business of every ordinary retailer from Halifax to Vancouver. The retailers of the Dominion are not well organised but they can handle this matter very well individually. Every one of them should send to his representative at Ottawa a post card denouncing the proposal and asking that it be opposed. Such a post card campaign would be found very effectual.

The mail order business done by the few large departmental stores in Canada is enormous, but it is small compared with what would be done by them and exclusively mail order houses that would spring up if the Government undertook to facilitate the movement by becoming the delivery wagon for it.

The mail order people would not be satisfied to have the Government make a profit. The express companies are doing that now and doing the work very well. What these mail order gentry want is to enlarge their business at the expense of the national treasury. To be quite accurate, they want to enliven their competition with the retailers throughout the country and make the retailer, through his taxes, pay the additional expense.

The consumers are not asking for this extension of the postal service and do not need it. The country is better without it. Better far in the interest of the national life a thousand independent business men than one business man with a thousand or five thousand employees. This movement means pulling down small business institutions all over the country to build up a few mammoth houses in the cities. Surely the cities are draining the country too fast now. What the Government should be doing is trying to stem the exodus from the village and the town to the large centres of population rather than facilitating it by aiding in the despoilation of the retailers.

Get the post card campaign going; it is the retailer's opportunity to spoil the Egyptian.

The Toronto market was probably never so bare of currants as at this moment. Forty or fifty carloads for Toronto wholesalers were on the steamer Clara which ran aground on the New Jersey shore on Friday and got off and into New York under her own steam. The New York market was as short of the Greek fruit as any place in America. Dealers there had been depending upon the Clara and when she was finally docked there wasn't much chance of getting goods for Canada unloaded and on their way first. These are probably decorating the dock in New York, and when the smoke of the New Yorkers' rustle clears away and Canadian consignments, or some of them will go another sea voyage to New London in Mass. and come by the long rail route via Montreal to Toronto.

The privileged currant company of Greece has been carrying on an extensive advertising campaign in the interest of currants, in England and it is asserted that as a result consumption in Great Britain has been greatly increased.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS TO YOU

DRIED FRUITS.

With the arrival of Christmas the squeeze in dried fruits may be past and this season of unparlleled scarcity may, by easy gradations, be merged in a new season of abundant production. It depends upon whether or not the world continues to want raisins. Other years it has. In Toronto, for instance, brokers have experienced great difficulty in satisfying the demand upon them for raisins in July. Already the word comes from Denia that stocks of Valencias are about exhausted and that the few growers in the interior who have any are holding for higher prices in the spring. And yet, when the demand becomes sufficiently pressing supplies are generally forthcoming no matter what the article be. And so brokers are saying to themselves now "There will be raisins. Whence? I don't know, but they will come."

GET INTO THE COMPETITION

Nearly every grocer has taken special pains to dress his window for Christmas as attractively as he knows how. THE CANADIAN GROCER is conducting a monthly window dressing competition, and would like to have a picture of every attractive grocery window in the Dominion entered in this contest this month. The prizes are $5, $3 and $2, but the encouragement of progressive window dressing in the grocery trade is of much more importance. Send in your photographs with a description of how the windows are dressed.

KNOCK OFF THE PACKAGE DUTY.

The Government should remove the duty on packages re-imposed under the new tariff. What is the use of it? The excuse that it was imposed because a few importers connived with the shippers, a very remote and impregnant possibility. If they would do this to secure a proportion of their goods free entry, they would do it to secure the same proportion entry at a lower rate of duty. The excuse is a poor one. The duty protects no one and produces no revenue to speak of, but it is a positive nuisance to the trade and a hinderance to business.

HIGHER SALMON PRICES.

A writer at the Pacific Coast is quoted by the New York Journal of Commerce as predicting that canned salmon will be 15c. higher at the opening next year than it was this because of the higher cost of labor, tin and boxes. Some of last year's large pack was carried over, but on account of the very small pack this year next year's pack will come upon an absolutely bare market. This is another reason for the anticipated higher prices.

WORKING AT THE TARIFF

Deputation of Fruit Men see Mr. Bain in Toronto—Strong Objection to the Duty on Packages—Government's Reason.

In connection with the new tariff, letters written from Toronto fruit dealers to the Minister of Customs, failed to bring any promise of relief. A letter to Claude Macdonnell, M.P., for South Toronto, however, resulted in the suggestion that Mr. Bain, Secretary to the Hon. Mr. Fielding, should be seen by the fruit men when in Toronto on Saturday last.

A deputation consisting of Messrs. H. Dawson, Thorpe, Spence, Despard, Stringer and Clemes, accordingly met Mr. Bain, and the result will, it is thought, prove entirely satisfactory.

It was explained that, although muskmelons, on which the duty was changed from 25 per cent. to 3 cents each, might perhaps be worth $3 to $4 per crate at the beginning of the season, they were sometimes worth only $1 to $1.25. The melons are packed 48 and 54 to a crate, so that on a car lot of 400 crates, the duty at 3 cents per melon would amount to nearly $6.00. Mr. Thorpe thought that the 3 cent duty on watermelons was perhaps a benefit, as it would tend to prevent the dumping of poor stock in Canada. But the duty on muskmelons was practically prohibitive, and for this there was no apparent reason. Mr. Bain was inclined to agree that possible competition would also help to improve the Canadian product. As a matter of fact, although obtainable almost all the year round, canteloupes are seldom imported during the season in which the Canadian fruits are on the market, as there is considerable danger of loss in transportation. Mr. Thorpe showed that the fruit was used by hotels and hospitals, and could not be classed as a mere luxury. Mr. Bain thought that it might be possible to put canteloupes back on the old basis. In the matter of grapes, he could promise no relief. The object of the tariff was to encouurage direct importations, and if it were not for this clause, New York, for example, would be reaping the benefit which Montreal, or some other Canadian port, was intended to enjoy. Regarding peanuts, he thought something might be done. This tariff was merely a revenue proposition. The importation of peanuts could not interfere with a Canadian product which did not exist, and the new duty would encourage trade in Spanish peanuts, which are of very inferior quality.

Answers Questions.

Mr. Bain stated in answer to questions put to him, that free importation of oranges, lemons, etc., meant also free importations of the package containing them. It was his idea to have these fruits placed on the free list, and he was pleased to see that the trade was in accord in this instance at least.

Another complaint of the fruit men was touched on in regard to the provision made for the inspection and valuation of perishable fruit. The customs officers stop work sharp at 4 o'clock, and very often the fruit dealers suffer loss through not having goods passed promptly. Mr. Bain stated that an "outside appraiser" had recently been appointed, mainly for dry goods and heavy machinery, and he thought that he might also include the inspection of fruit. He thought that the matter should be placed before Mr. Ryan, and relief would probably be given.

The Care of the Grocers.

With the exception of the increased duty on raw sugar, and the decrease on rice, the forty odd tariff changes on groceries will be the occasion to the trade of annoyance, rather than loss or gain, and to the Government, the source of little extra revenue. What the grocer is asking is "why were the changes made?" Probably more would have been heard about it, but for the fact that wholesalers all over the country, since the tariff came out, have been up to their ears in the Christmas trade, too busy to give attention to anything with an Ottawa date line, and few of them have been bringing in any goods.

Delay on the part of the railway in furnishing advices regarding several car loads of cheap figs, cost the importer $250. This was the increased duty because of the change from an ad valorem to a specific sale.

What the trade feel sorest about is the reimposition of the duty of 15 per cent. on packages.

What One House Thought.

Frank Magor & Company, Montreal, wrote to the Canadian Grocer:

Will you kindly make some reference in your paper to the ridiculousness of the idea of the present Government in charging duty on the value of outside cases of imported goods. The Conservative Government were ashamed of this clause twenty years ago, and since then, no minister has attempted to collect it, and it remains for the present so-called free traders to make a fresh start in this direction.

We understand there is great indignation among the dry goods people and others and the imposition is more annoying than actually heavy, but it means extra work in making up costs, and the real addition of revenue to the Government will not be anything very wonderful.

As you know, outside cases are charged very high in England, and are practically uneless after they arrive here, being in the main, necessary for export in order to protect goods. It seems to us that an agitation among our importers would have the effect of removing the obnoxious charges.

The Reason Why.

The alleged reason for replacing the duty on packages is that dishonest importers got shippers to place an undue value on packages to reduce the duty on the goods. The same temptation would exist in a modified form under the new arrangement, as the duty of 15 per cent. on the case would probably be considerably less than the rate of duty on the contents.

Many of the packages in which goods are imported are of no value when unpacked. The Grocer asked an importer of leather goods what he did with the casks in which the goods were shipped, and he pointed to a big pile of broken hoops and staves. The English manufacturer buys second-hand barrels, often Canadian apple barrels, for 3d. He sells his goods to all the world at the same price, and when they go abroad, he charges the extra packing, separately on the invoice. This means case, export packing and straw, in all about 1s. 3d.

The new tariff is still subject to change, and the Government may yet listen to the urging of the trade.

The Annual Meeting has been arranged for January 26.

W. T. Chapman, the hustler for Red Rose Tea in Western Ontario, went east to-day, to spend the holidays with his family in New Brunswick.

"On the Road," a new magazine for Canadian commercial travellers made its appearance this month. It presented a first-class typographical appearance, and the travellers gave it kindly greeting.

Markets and Market Notes

POINTERS—

Fish—Revised.

Sugar—Decline 10c.

Currants—interesting.

Montreal, Dec. 20, 1906.

Considering the fact that we are now about at Christmas Day, business in groceries generally is very good, and there is little cause for complaint. It is very difficult to secure deliveries from the railway companies, they claiming to be rushed to more than their full capacity Payments are reported very good. The last few lots of California canned fruits were received in Montreal the early part of the week. Sugar has declined ten cents, through an easier feeling in the market. Molasses is still quiet. Teas are very firm and there is a tendency to advance in most lines. Ceylon greens are up ½c, while common black teas are selling at prices 2c above those which ruled last week. In the dried fruit market there is much of interest to the grocer. In coffees and spices there is nothing new. Evaporated apples are firm, and there is a strong feeling in beans.

CANNED GOODS—Last arrivals of California canned fruits reached Montreal early in the week, as did also a few shipments of asparagus from the same source. A little more inquiry for tomatoes at $1.17½ is reported by some houses. Other lines are quiet.

SUGAR—An easier feeling in the market has resulted in a decline of ten cents in sugar, all lines being affected. Fair business for this season of the year is being transacted.

TEAS—It is rather surprising to see the continued movement in teas at this time of year. Last week it was reported that dealers were doing considerable business. This week the same state of affairs exists. As predicted in the Grocer last week, there has been an advance of ½c in Ceylon greens. Japans are firm, but moving slowly. With Ceylon teas scarce, there is sure to be renewed interest in Japans. Several dealers report sales of blacks to the London market at prices 2c above the ruling figure here. Japan siftings are exceedingly scarce.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS—The Christmas trade is now practically over and dried fruits are gradually resuming their normal aspect in the eyes of the Grocer. There is still much interest in the situation. This week the feature is the currant market. Three weeks overdue, the "Clara" arrived in New York Monday of this week. She carried 2,686 tons of currants for New York and Canada. The boat arriving so late made it impossible to supply the trade in time for the holiday trade. The cause of the delay was the grounding of the vessel on the New Jersey Coast. When the news of the mishap became known the state of affairs which would exist at once became apparent, and prices went up a cent. Everybody had been counting upon receiving the goods on the "Clara" and all were naturally disappointed. The market has been bare of currants for some time and the non-arrival of the "Clara" with her large cargo made matters serious. Prunes are reported very firm and in some quarters 4c basis is anticipated. It has been announced that after January 1 the difference in price between 50 lb. and 25 lb. boxes of prunes will be ¾c a pound, instead of ¼c as formerly. The reason given for the change is the extra cost of boxes and other such conditions making the move necessary. California seeded raisins are again quoted in limited quantities at prices 3½c above opening figures. No changes are noticeable in nuts.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS:

Sugar—Down 10 cents.

Dried fruits—Stronger.

Exaporated apples—Continue upward.

Tea—Rising.

Toronto, December 20, 1906.

Business is continuing active right up to Christmas Eve. Sugar declined 10 cents without apparent cause, which goes to justify the claim that there was no good reason for the advance on the day following the submission of the new tariff. The nut scarcity has been relieved, but the market here is almost bare of currants. There are 30 or 40 carloads on the steamer Clara, but it will be a wonder if any of them reach here before Christmas. Currants and valencias are higher on the primary markets. Canned goods continue very firm. Evaporated apples are higher. Collections are reported to be satisfactory.

CANNED GOODS.—All lines are very firm, though for the present there is no unusual demand.

TEA.—Ceylon teas are up 4 cents since the present advance began, and there has been an advance in Ceylon blacks of 1 1-2 cent within a week. Ceylon greens in the same time have advanced 1 cent, and are very scarce. There has been a very serious advance also in Indians. In them, the advance within the week has been 1 cent a lb. The reason for this advance in the price of tea is that the trade apparently refused to believe that teas were on too low a basis, and refused apparently to take sufficient cognizance of the fact that the consumption was persistently reducing stocks. Those stocks have largely disappeared and left the country poorly supplied with teas. This is true not only of Canada, but of other countries.

COFFEE.—The market in New York continues on about the same level, with a firmer tone for the present. Locally prices are unchanged.

SUGAR.—The reduction on Tuesday of 10 cents came as a surprise to the trade here, and no obvious reason was forthcoming. It was suggested that perhaps some Scotch sugars were coming in.

Last week the raw sugar market in New York was variable, because one or two refiners disappointed in shipments due to arrive, ran short, and had to bid up the market for supplies, 3 1/8 duty paid. On the other hand, the general position was weaker, owing to Cuban planters pushing sales for future deliveries. There was a decline of 3d. in European beet for the week.

Harvesting in Cuba is progressing favorably, the number of centrals grinding having increased to 58, against 6 at same time last year, and 45 in 1904. At this rate of progress, the crop will soon be in full swing, assuring large shipments during January and thereafter.

Willett & Gray say:

"As anticipated, our correspondents in Havana report that there is sufficient cane in the fields to produce a crop of 1,500,000 tons sugar, but with the supply of laborers limited and the possibility of political disturbances a little later on, we do not feel justified in making any change in our estimate of a total outturn of 1,125,000 tons sugar.

"The lowest price touched last season was 2c c. and f. (Feb. 8) for Cubas, 96 degree test (3.36c landed), but there does not appear to be good reasons to expect quite so much of a decline this season. In any event, the average price for January-June, 1907,

LAST MINUTE PROVISION MARKETS.

Montreal, Thursday, Dec. 20, 1906.

BUTTER—25 1/2 cents outside price. Demand active. Higher prices probable. Dairy runs from 20 to 23 cents.

CHEESE—Strong demand developed. Bids of 11 3/4 to 11 7/8 for Nov's.

EGGS—Strong tone to the market. Scarcity of fresh stock. No change in prices.

PROVISIONS—Prices unchanged. Activity in Christmas beef. Some fancy prices paid to-day.

deliveries, should be rather higher than that for the same time in 1906, as it will be realized, sooner or later, that all the sugar which Cuba can produce this season will be wanted.

"The outlook for the 1907-08 sugar crop of Java is promising, it being estimated, according to our special cable, at 1,000,000 tons, against the present crop of 950,000 tons."

DRIED FRUITS — Currants are strong in Greece at a slight advance, amounting to about 6d. since last week. Cables from Spain regarding valencia raisins state that the crop is nearly exhausted; the fruit is scarce, and growers in the interior, who have any goods are unwilling to part with them, expecting higher prices in the spring. Meantime, prices appear to have advanced about 7s. from the lowest point, and this within the last two weeks. This is equal to an advance to 1½ cents a pound. Sultanas are very scarce and very high. A cable from Whittall & Company, advises that prices are unchanged, and stocks are becoming very much exhausted.

Locally, prices are firmer. Evaporated apples continue to advance.

N. B. MARKETS.

St. John, N.B., Dec. 18.

As we near the holidays, business is becoming quiet with the wholesale man, and on the other hand, the retailers are exceedingly busy. These expect a record year.

The tariff is still a matter of interest. There is no doubt duties on the whole are higher, and British goods do not get, as before, a full third advantage. The increased application of the packages duty is particularly unpopular

In markets there are not many changes. Values as a rule are high, particularly dried fruits, pork products, dairy products and fresh fish. Poultry is cheaper than for two or three years, particularly turkeys, which is good news at this season. Rice is one line made cheaper by the tariff. Otherwise rice is high. Spice continues at full figures.

OIL.—In burning oil, prices are unchanged. Outside the city prices are more firmly held. Lubricating oils are dull at this season. There is little call for paint oil, but this is the season which somewhat settles values, particularly for linseeds, and the outlook is higher prices than last season. Cod oil unchanged, this has been a quiet year. Receipts not large.

SALT.—Business is quiet. Owing to no arrivals of Liverpool coarse salt, buyers have to pay the extra price and take goods ex warehouse. Sales of fine salt, limited.

CANNED GOODS.—These have but fair attention at this season. Stocks continue to arrive. Vegetables firmly held, particularly tomatoes. Fruits are held at full prices. There is quite an enquiry for gallon apples. Stocks cannot be replaced, owing to export demand. Higher prices expected. Oysters are very scarce, but new daily expected. Prices are high. Meats firmly held. Domestic fish rather quiet. Prices unchanged.

GREEN FRUIT.—There is good business, considering the cold weather. First arrivals of Valencia oranges were high, but prices have gone off. Nice Jamaicas are offered. Florida oranges now arriving, prices are reasonable. Lemons are firmer. Apples have steady sale, at improved prices. Grapes higher. Cranberries quite extreme.

DRIED FRUIT.—Prices of raisins high, except California seeded. Stocks are light. There are no valencias. Some Malaga seeded are offered at attractive prices. Currants continue scarce, and price very high. With better supplies, market will be a little easier. No direct shipments have been received. Market has been supplied from New York. Prunes, while low, are tending higher. Carton prunes popular, shipments are very late. Dates higher. Peels very firmly held. Figs unchanged. Evaporated apples more firmly held. Onions are extreme. Shelled walnuts have been scarce.

ACCOUNT KEEPING ON A FILE

Bruce & Sanderson, Toronto, in Their New Store—A Handsome Front and Modern Fittings—Book-keeping Methods— A Biscuit Department.

Bruce & Sanderson's new grocery on Parliament St., near Gerrard St., Toronto, is the finest store in that section of the city. It is 37 ft. wide and 36 ft. deep. There is but one counter and therefore a great deal of floor space. Behind the counter the wall space next the window is occupied by a glass case reaching to the ceiling for bottled goods. It is 12 ft. wide and has rounded ends. The contents of the case make a very attractive display and are kept free from dust. Underneath the case are dustproof bins for bread. The centre wall space behind the counter is occupied by the very latest form of National cash register, and beyond that are a series of handsome Walker bins, 50 in all, surmounted by quarter cut oak shelving of light and attractive pattern.

The opposite and back walls are very attractively arranged in canned goods. Near the centre of the store is a quarter cut oak roll-top desk, which serves very conveniently as an office, having as an auxiliary a handsome filing cabinet. Nearer the counter towards the back, stands a Walker bin coffee cabinet and beside it the mill. The other principal features of the floor space is a large marble-topped table for smoked meats and a three-crock, dustproof stand for Heinz pickles in bulk. Down the centre of the store are three iron pillars, and these are encased with canned goods. A handsome metal ceiling adds greatly to the attractiveness.

Model Biscuit Department.

A notable feature is the biscuit department, consisting of 48 separate bins for Christie tins on the wall opposite the counter and adjoining the window. Each tin is on a shelf which draws out and tips. It is a very neat and convenient arrangement and lends itself exceptionally well to the purposes of display.

The store has exceptionally fine window display. There are 35 lineal feet of plate glass in the front. The frames are of quarter cut oak. Above the plate glass is a wide, very handsome panel of leaded glass. The windows are very handsomely dressed for the Christmas season and will be entered for the Canadian Grocer's December window dressing competition.

Good Goods, No Price Cutting.

There are some features of this business which are extremely interesting. Messrs. Bruce and Sanderson are brothers-in-law and came to Toronto from Simcoe county four years ago, purchasing the business on Parliament St. a little below where they are now. They found a considerable portion of the trade was a pretty poor class, and set to work to improve the business. Their motto was, "Nothing too good for our customers." The result of perseverance along this line is that they have now a large family trade of a really choice character and their wagon delivers regularly as far as two miles from them, both east and west. They are not price cutters. Mr. Bruce said to the Grocer representative who saw him :

"Our aim is to handle the best goods on the market to the extent that our trade will justify. We're not price cutters. If people want cheap goods they have to go elsewhere. Our customers expect us to make a profit and we don't mind telling them what it is."

Directing Their Trade.

By systemizing their business and their work the partners have been able to get along with a minimum amount of hired help. They have a large call order trade. For this purpose they have an inner and an outer circle of customers. Those in the inner circle are called on daily ; those beyond twice a week. So far as possible they have diverted this trade from Saturday. The distribution is not difficult and saves much extra labor.

Simplified Account Keeping.

"We would like to, but we simply can't do business without giving credit" said Mr. Bruce, but they have reduced the work in connection with account keeping to a minimum. By the means of a counter check book an itemized statement accompanies each order and a copy is kept. These copies are kept on file in a quarter cut oak filing cabinet. An ordinary Shannon file does the rest. Alphabetically arranged on this file is an ordinary bill head of the firm for each customer and under it a sheet of plain paper. Each morning the totals of the orders sent out the day before are charged on these bill heads and a piece of carbon paper gives a copy on the plain sheet below. Suppose a customer comes in to pay. His account is made and can be produced in an instant. If he pays in full the bill on the file is receipted and handed to him and the copy is destroyed as being of no further use. The copies of orders up to that date are also destroyed as being of no further use. If the customer pays something on account, a credit is made on the bill head and that is given him as a receipt, showing a balance due. A new bill head and clear sheet are put on the file and the balance brought forward. As soon as enough is paid to clear this balance the copy of the old bill is thrown away. That is the system which Bruce and Sanderson worked out for themselves. It is very simple and convenient, but it provides no way for keeping track of the business as a whole.

The invoices are kept in a filing cabinot reserved for them. All invoices of each firm from whom they buy are kept together arranged in order of date. In this way the wholesale dealings of the firm for years can be kept in one small cabinet without a scratch of a pen.

Wait for the Demand.

Mr. Bruce said they never bought a new line of goods until there was a demand for them by their customers. A traveler of a widely advertised cocoa entered the store the other day and tried to sell.

"No," said Mr. Bruce.

"Why ? "

"Why, because we have B cocoa and C cocoa and no one has asked for yours."

"But ours is the best."

"Granted, but if your customers don't want it why should I spend my time selling your cocoa to people who want another kind ? "

What argument had the salesman left? But many merchants won't agree with Mr. Bruce. This, however, is an interesting store and an interesting firm. They have taken The Canadian Grocer for ten years.

"I don't see how a grocer can get on without it," said Mr. Bruce. "We get a pointer out of it every time we read it."

T. Miles, sales manager of the United Factories, Limited, is on a business trip to the Pacific coast, and will take in Calgary, Edmonton, and other important commercial centres between Winnipeg and Victoria. Mr. Myles will be welcome , for few men are better known to the trade.

TORONTO RETAILERS.

R. S. Snow, President for 1907 by Acclamation—Other Nominations.

The monthly meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association was held in their rooms in the Temple Building Monday night. Vice-President Snow presided in the absence of president Van Loan, who was dressing his Christmas window. Others present were secretary Beaton, T. Clark, F. W. Johnston, D. Bell, H. D. Kelly, J. S. Bond, B. Panter, Fred Thorn.

There was a little discussion of the resolutuion passed at the previous meeting expressing the view that retailers should not buy canned goods for future delivery. He said a wholesaler had told him that if the retailers would not order ahead the wholesalers would not and the goods would remain with the canners where they should be till they were wanted.

It was the constitutional meeting for the nomination of officers for 1907, but because of the small number present Mr. Bell wanted to hold a special meeting after Christmas. The majority however, stood by the constitution and the nominations were proceeded with.

R. B. Snow was the only nomination for president and by acclamation moves up from the vice-presidency to the chair.

Nominations for other vacancies were:

Vice-President—C. T. Cootes, Fred Thorn, R. H. Stewart, T. Clark.

Treasurer—R. Van Loan, D. McLean, D. Bell.

Executive—J. S. Bond, H. D. Kelly, F. Thorn, B. Panter, D. Bell, C. T. Cootes, R. Van Loan, D. McLean.

Mr. Clark, the present treasurer, was prged to retain the grinds another year but he would not hear to it.

The At-Home will be held on Feb. 6.

D. Ball reported that the summer excursion had netted $214.49. Expenses were $812.62. and reecipts, $1,013.48.

Mr. Ball gave notice of motion that the nomination of officers he held in November and the election in December.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN.

There is very little change in the Cheese Market, but if anything, there is more interest shown and the situation may be called a shade stronger. The late demand has been running entirely on late made November and December goods, as owing to their inferior quality, they could be bought at a less price than September or October made goods, but these goods seem now fairly well exhausted and a fair number of orders received here lately, cannot be filled for lack of supplies, it is therefore only a question of time, when new orders must be filled from the earlier made stocks, which would natdrally mean, that highwhich would naturally mean, that highowing first to better quality, and second to higher cost.

Stocks in London, Bristol and Liverpool were reported on the 1st of December at 515,800 boxes of cheese, against 378,000 boxes for the same date of last year, which is an excess of 137,800 boxes for this year for these three principal centres of Great Britain. Against this our stocks in Canada are fully 250,000 boxes less than last year, leaving a shortage of over 100,000 boxes as compared with last year, when the supplies were inadequate for the natural consumption and prices went very high at the end of the season.

Receipts are falling off rapidly now and the total for last week was only 3,070 boxes of cheese and 3,064 packages of butter, against 2,063 boxes of cheese and 3,695 packages of butter for the same week of last year, or a total since May 1st of 2,345,292 boxes of cheese and 592,053 packages of butter as compared with 2,300,387 boxes of cheese and 758,920 packages of butter for the corresponding period of last year.

We therefore find an increase in our receipts of cheese of 44,905 boxes and a decrease in our receipts of butter of 166,867 packages. Considering that it takes about 2¾ times as much milk to produce a pound of butter to what it takes to make a pound of cheese, the decrease in the production of milk during last season is enormous.

The statistical position of cheese is a very strong one and prices are likely to advance very considerably before the commencement of the new season.

The situation on butter is a very peculiar one and it is difficult to make a forecast on future prices at present. United States markets report a shortage and very high prices, our market is very firm and finest grades are exceedingly scarce, but both the United States and Canada are bringing fairly large quantities of butter back from Great Britain, and to what extent this may affect the future of our market is as yet an unsolved problem.

The make of butter during the winter months will undoubtedly be less than last year, but present prices are already high, fresh dairy rolls will come in and if butter is returned from Great Britain in sufficient quantities, we may have, to say the least, enough butter for our home consumption.

The duty on butter into the United States is six cents per ponnd, this is usually considered prohibitive, but if the U. S. are really very short of butter, and the prices there are already getting very high, they may draw on us for supplies in spite of the duty, as they have done on some previous occasions, and then we may be obliged to advance prices further.

Under normal conditions, admitting a shortage in our own supplies, we would consider present prices high enough, yet abnormal conditions may prevail and cause abnormally high prices.

It seems very strange that butter can be shipped across the ocean, brought back and sent out to the West as far as Manitoba and that there should be a profit in this business for the merchants when prices have been high during the whole season, but strange conditions prevail at times in the commercial world.

PROVISION SITUATION.

Not for a couple of years at least, have deliveries of hogs been as heavy as during the past three weeks. This would be very satisfactory, were it not that prices are away above the export market for products, and too high to permit any material reduction from the prices now ruling in the domestic market. Prices for live hogs are, however, a quarter lower than last week. This week the packer is paying $5.90 f.o.b. country points, which is $6.15 at the Toronto cattle market, and $6.35 to $6.40 off cars at the factory. Last week, deliveries were quite as large as the week before, but they were large, and the month will almost make a record for hog deliveries in Ontario.

The bacon market in the Old Country is bad. There does not seem to be any demand. Deliveries of bacon have not been at normal either. The reason for the slackness is not known here, except that for the time being, the Britton has decided to forego pork. Of course the demand is always light about Christmas. Prices are still several shillings under cost on the basis of the present prices of hogs. The Danes do better. They buy for from 6s. to 10s. less than the Canadian packer, and get from 2s. to 4s. more for their bacon.

The domestic market for pork products is pretty firm, though there is a slightly easier tone in load. The demand for cured meats is very small, but the packers are accummulating stocks for next summer's trade. Just at this season, the Canadian public is going in for poultry and fresh meat and fish; then again, every butcher does some curing on his own account.

In Chicago the provision situation is quite different. Last week the dealing in all branches of hog products was active, with prices irregular but generally higher than those of the week before, and to a new high level for the season. The main influences were the continued light movement as well as the higher prices of live hogs. There was considerable buying by commission houses, as well as by packers, together with good buying for investment and for foreign contracts, while the selling was chiefly by longs, who were taking profits. Packing operations continue to show a deficit compared with last year, and the loss is not being made up. The week past has increased the deficit, while the estimates of the stocks of products show but slight gains at the best. All offerings have been absorbed, and there are no accumulations in the stocks at the moment to give sellers confidence. The packings for the week were 125,000 less than a year ago, and since the first of November it has decreased 675,000. The stocks since December 1, at Chicago, of products are estimated as decreasing somewhat on lard and increasing moderately on pork and ribs.

PROVISION AND DAIRY MARKETS.

MONTREAL MARKETS.

Very little interest is taken in provisions at present. The last of the Christmas trade is being transacted but only local orders can now be filled. There is a fair jobbing demand for pure lard, while inquiry for compound, stocks of which are falling off, are limited.

BUTTER—The market is a little difficult to guage. Dairy receipts are liberal and medium grades are slightly lower, but choice still brings the top price. THINK TANK BOILED OVER .

(Clareholm Review, Alberta.)

Farmers, merchants, citizens of this grandly fruitful, gloriously youthful Alberta, awake! Rub out the sleepy eyes of indifference and take a clear view of your privileges and opportunities. Take time by the forelock; shake off the coddling hand of the sleepy, arrogant East that would make us think we were still children, and let us be the architects of our own future, knowing that "New occasions teach new duties; time makes ancient things uncouth." And it is certainly behind the age to truckle any longer to the Eastern markets at the prices offered.

Farmers, let us sit up and think.

J. M. Dowdall, grocer, Ottawa, will shortly go into the cooked meat business and devote his whole time to it, giving up groceries.

Quiet Grain Markets Everywhere—Millions More in the World's Visible Supply of Wheat—More Barley Coming—Flour Trade Quiet.

Grain markets are quiet everywhere. The flour trade is much less active than it was. The domestic demand is only fair, and the export demand generally speaking, very poor, though some good sales are still reported of established brands, both in England and South Africa, and the world's visible supply of wheat at the beginning of the week was four and a half million bushels more than a year ago, and more than two years ago also. During the week the visible supply in Canada and the States decreased three million bushels, compared with a decrease of four million bushels the corresponding week of last year.

In the States, during the week past, the speculative dealings in wheat have been small, owing to the lack of new features to stimulate trading, and prices have had a slow but downward course, with no apparent change in the market conditions. The foreign markets have reported little, if any, changes, while the advices from Argentine have been favorable, although private cables late in the week reported the weather as unsettled. The trading in general has been wholly professional and is expected to remain so until after the approaching holidays.

Deliveries of barley in Ontario have been larger, and prices are easier.

MONTREAL.

GRAIN.—Corn is three cents lower this week, lots being obtainable at 80c. Demand for this line is almost nil. Other prices are steady.

GRAIN.—Manitoba wheat has been down a half a cent, but is back at the same figure as a week ago. Ontario wheat is lower, owing to increased deliveries by farmers. For the same reason, barley is easier, 3x being quoted at 48 ½ for export, and No. 2 at 51 for local trade. Oats also are slightly easier.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS

Halifax, N.S., Dec. 18.

The produce markets continue to attract attention, there being a notable shortage of potatoes, butter and eggs. Potatoes have advanced five cents per bushel, and are now quoted at 55 cents It is predicted that before another week passes, they will be sixty cents. Very few of the commission men have stocks on hand, and owing to the lateness of the season, the prospects of the closing of Prince Edward Island navigation, their chances for filling their cellars are very slim. One commission man, who requires an average of 8,000 bushels during the winter, to supply his customers, has only a few hundred bags in his cellar.

There is a very marked scarcity of good fresh eggs, and the market is almost bare. There is a pressing demand for eggs just at present, and there is no supply available. In the green market, eggs have sold as high as fifty cents per dozen, a record price for this market. Jobbers find the greatest difficulty in procuring a sufficient supply of good fresh stock for their customers.

FISH.—The lobster season in Nova Scotia will open this week, and a good business is looked for. Lobsters are very scarce on the American market, and as inquires have already been received from dealers in Boston and other United States cities, it is expected that there will be an unusually good demand. The lobsters are usually shipped alive in crates to Boston, which is the distributing centre. Halifax and Yarmouth, are the points from which shipments are made, they having direct steamship communication with Boston. The foreign fish markets are not very active just at present, though the exports to the West Indies are fairly good. Prices on dry fish are unchanged. There is a good demand for Nova Scotia pickled mackerel in Boston, and nearly all the receipts on that market last week were from this Province. The smelt trade with the United States is also increasing, the Provinces weekly sending hundreds of crates to these markets. Prince Edward is probably the largest exporter of smelts, and good prices are obtained. The movement of goods for the Christmas trade is quite heavy, the only drawback being the condition of the roads in some sections. Prices are well maintained throughout the list, though there is keen competition between several of the large retail cash grocers, and some cutting of prices.

There is very little poultry on the market at present, but the dealers say that there is lots in sight, and that prices will be lower than last year. Turkeys are quoted at 17 to 18 cents, per pound, chickens 12 to 14 cents per pound, geese 15 cents per pound, and ducks from $1 to $1.50 per pair.

The receipts of pork are improving, but the price remains unchanged at 8 to 9 cents by the carcass.

ATTRACTIVE CHRISTMAS CARD.

Joseph Brown & Sons, Montreal, have issued for Christmas a very neatly gotten up card. It is surely a business getter, as it is one of the neatest things in its line which has come to the attention of the Grocer for some time. The front of the card shows a line drawing of a bunch of bananas in gold, the reading matter being printed in green and in brown. The back of the card contains some catchy literature which ought to be very effective.

FLOUR TRADE WITH JAPAN.

Alexander MacLean, Canadian Commercial Agent in Japan, has not lost faith in the possibility of opening up a large market for Canadian flour in the Island Empire of the Orient despite the imposition of a heavy duty compared with the small duty on wheat. He has lately received many enquiries, he says, indicating a doubt as to the future of the flour trade in Japan and continues:

The defence of the duty on flour, put forward in the interest of the government when charged with initiating a protectionist policy, is that in this country flour is subject of taxation for revenue when public necessities are urgent. It is further stated that were wheat an article worth considering for revenue purposes, it would have been brought under the revenue impost with flour. The manager of one of the most extensive purveying firms in Japan, who have not heretofore dealt in flour, has been considering the flour question since the prospect of Canadian flour from the Pacific Coast has opened up with a competing chance. He is now recommending, to a meeting of the managers of the several branch houses, to take up Canadian flour. He would not do this if he thought seriously of the prospect of Japanese grinding. He says that flour milling companies will be formed to some extent, but he does not believe that Japanese millers will be able within many years to make flour nearly equal to the imported article. His further idea is that the more the Japanese interest themselves in flour and wheat, the greater will be the force behind competition and consumption, and the greater the progress that will be made towards the general use of flour.

There is this to be said of the present milling predisposition, that China is more its objective point than Japan. China is a very much larger market, and the sphere of Japanese influence is just now a most attractive field for all sorts of projectors.

BEAN CROP IN KENT.

Good Yield—Farmers Holding Half—Light Demand From Europe.

(By our Special Correspondent.)

The bean season here is just now rather dull. The season started with good deliveries, which were all taken care of. The Northwest took a good lot of beans against the closing of navigatin, but just now things are quiet, pending the selling out of the stock purchased earlier in the season. It is expected that the situation will liven up shortly.

The crop in this county is a little larger than that of last year. The acreage was probably a trifle less, but the beans produced have been of a very high grade, and the proportion of culls is very small. In the northern part of the county the crop was harvested without damage; it was a little damaged in the south. Probably from one-third to one-half the crop is already out of the farmer's hands; the balance is being held. Dairymen and others are seeking culls, and can't get them.

The export demand for Europe and the United Kingdom thus far has been much lighter than was expected in view of reports that the crop there was light. There have been only a few shipments.

The increase in the tariff from 15c to 25c is viewed with favor, though regarded by dealers as not sufficient. It is expected to aid business with the West, the extra duty neutralizing to a slight extent the disadvantage in freight rates.

SCOTCH CALENDAR.

D. McDougall & Company, Glasgow, Scotland, have sent the Grocer two Calendars for 1907. The Calendars which are on heavy finely glazed cardboard, represent in striking colors a picture of the ark resting on the summit of Mt. Ararat. The Royal Standard is floating from the stern, while a happy looking individual is looking out with one of McDougall's clay pipes in his mouth. This is presumably the original clay pipe, and portrays its antiquity.

The Ark is labelled "The McDougall," and the cards are printed for both French and English trade. As a calendar advertisement, it is of a character to remind one pleasantly of the flight of time.

SOAP TRADEMARK.

Action Brought to Preserve That of Baby's Own.

An interesting soap action based upon an alleged infringment of trade marks is now before the Exchequer Court of Canada. It was brought by Albert Soaps Limited, manufacturers of Baby's Own Soap against Drysalters, Limited, makers of Mother's Favorite Soap.

Baby's Own Soap has been on the market since 1879 and the trade mark was registered in 1881. Mother's Own Soap was put on the market last spring. Alberts. Limited, allege that the latter soap is put in a box bearing a label so closely similar to the label on the box of Baby's Own Soap" as to be easily mistaken therefor. It is further stated that "Mother's Favorite Soap" is wrapped in paper not dissimilar from the paper and printing used in connection with Baby's Own Soap" and that the soap itself is similar in form and closely resembles in scent and color "Baby's Own Soap" to such a degree as to deceive and confuse purchasers who may desire the latter brand.

The claim sets out that the acts of defendant in so putting up and placing their soap on the market, are acts of unfair competition and are done with the intention of taking advantage of the reputation of "Baby's Own Soap."

In conclusion, the plaintiff claims "that it should be declared that the defendant is infringing the trademarks of the plaintiff."

"That the acts of the defendant in placing its soap upon the market with the labels at present used and in the manner at present adopted constitute a trade fraud and an infringment of the plaintiff's rights.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Holiday Trade in Fruit Above the Average—Shortage of Orange Supplies Causes Trouble—Oysters in Good Demand.

The fruit trade is reported by all concerned as exceptionally good. This week's quotations show very few alterations, although great difficulty has been experienced in some lines, especially oranges, in securing supplies to meet the demand. A general car shortage has prevailed for some time past, in both Florida and California. The Southern California orange crop has been slow in maturing, and packing has been considerably hindered by excessive rains, so that growers in that part of the country did not at first worry about cars. Now, however, the shortage seriously affects them, as it is probable that a large part of their best stock will be too late for the holiday trade. Retailers are said to have been ordering heavily for Christmas. Orders for spring delivery, three months or more away, are also being made. As an example, it is stated that a shipment of bitter oranges due in March, has already been sold.

The Christmas rush has not yet affected the vegetable market to any great extent. Practically the only quotations altered are in imported lines.

The fish market is little altered by the approach of Christmas, with the exception of oysters, which are in good demand, but reported somewhat scarce in Quebec.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS.—Dealers are just about finishing up their Christmas trade, which is reported very good. Oranges have enjoyed excellent sale. Both oranges and lemons have been selling freely since the new tariff arrangements, but the car shortage has resulted in keeping prices firm. Bananas are scarce on the seaboard, and prices locally are firm in consequence. The demand is said to be larger than the supply at present.

VEGETABLES.—A good trade has been done in many lines during the past week. Cucumbers, lettuce, beans, celery and other articles are in good demand considering the season. Prices on the whole are about the same as they were last year at this time. Beans are a little cheaper as is also lettuce.

FISH.—Dealers report active demand for fish. This week has been a particularly good one, there having been three fish days. Prices are very well maintained. Quotations on cod and haddock are lower this week. Tomcods are also cheaper. Lake fish are firm. Cold weather is the cause of a scarcity in bulk oysters, and the figures asked at the source of supply are higher than ever before. Haddies, which are more plentiful, are selling freely. Kippers are scarce. Yarmouth bloaters are now qnoted.

GRAPES AND LEMONS.

Mail advices from Frederick Fisher & Sons, export fruit merchants, London, contain the following regarding the green fruit situation in England:

Almeria Grapes.—The present season will long be remembered as the most disastrous ever experienced by the growers. Although the crop was an enormous one, and the season promised to be one of the best, it has turned out quite the contrary. Shippers and merchants have lost heavily, as very few parcels were of a keeping nature. The season is now finished. In London and Liverpool a few parcels in second-hands are finding their way to the market in straggling lots of a few hundred barrels, but the mere fact of these forced sales proves that their condition is unsatisfactory to the holders. Prices, which it was thought in the earlier stages of the season would be abnormally low, will now finish at extreme rates. With Christmas trade in full swing, it is difficult to find any parcels which give entire satisfaction.

Lemons. — Messina and Palermo growths have practically the whole range on the market to themselves, Malagas being nearly finished. There proves to be a large crop of the Sicilian fruit, in which the quality up to the present has shown a marked improvement over the season of 1905-06. The trees have evidently overcome the results of the disastrous frosts of two years since, and in all probability will better bear this year in consequence. The November-cut fruit is well-known for its valuable keeping properties, and stocks of these could be had throughout this year, and will still be available early in 1907. Advantage should be taken of this particular gathering, as although buyers may have to give slightly enhanced prices for them, yet they will benefit by the advantages in keeping.

The Wee MacGregor Company, has opened another branch for the sale of Scotch oat cakes and Skipper sardines at 1314 Queen Street West, Toronto.

Attach Importance To What Is Important

Cigar selection is an important matter—Important to you, because on the wisdom of your selection depends the earning power of your stock—Important to your friends, because on the wisdom of your recommendation depends the number of times they'll be seen at your store.

Smokers require value consistency, taste evenness in cigars. Pebble and Pharaoh take full marks on these points.

And these very cigars are included in a "500" assortment that I am now offering to the grocery trade on the "three months" basis.

GREAT PRUNE CROP.

A Notable Season—Enormous Demand —Entire Crop Saved.

Prune men in various sections of California are telling big stories about the prune crop of California for 1906. The total crop of prunes this year is estimated at 180,000,000 pounds, the largest since 1900 when the prune output ran up to 200,000,000 pounds says the San Francisco Call. The crop is nearly all out of the hands of the producers sands of dollars on rising prices.

The conditions have been favorable for marketing the California crop to advantage. Excessive rains destroyed half of the Oregon crop, which promised to be a record-breaker at the beginning of the season. The French crop is turning out much less than was estimated early in the season. Another factor in the demand is that there was absolutely no "carry-over" of the crop, for the first time in ten years the previous year's crop having been absorbed by the trade. This created a great demand that required a long time to satisfy.

The Crop to Come.

Still another factor that must be counted in as a market consideration is the uncertainty of the coming crop, as it is seldom that there are two large crops in succession.

Sales at the opening prices were exceedingly heavy. Under constant pressure to sell, lower prices were accepted by some of the smaller packers and the market was gradually forced to a point where one of the biggest volumes of business in the history of the trade was recorded. Nothwithstanding the enormous early demand, there has been a steady trade from all sections. From various sources information is derived that there is almost an absolute clean-up of stocks in the country and packers are carrying much lighter supplies than usual at corresponding dates.

Every Pound Saved.

W. F. Williams, one of the largest prune-growers of the Santa Clara Valley, says that the prune tonnage of Santa Clara will run near to the 120,000,000 pounds, as against 80,000,000, the earlier estimate. Notwithstanding the immense crop, the perfect curing weather during the entire season has enabled the growers to save every pound of their fruit and to turn out a stock of unequalled quality.

NO LOST TIME.

United Factories, Limited, Toronto, have not lost any time since the fire in clearing out all the stock that was damaged by fire or water. The warehouse and offices are now being re,-constructed and they expect to be doing business at the old stand before the year expires. This firm has not missed a single days business and have not in any way been effected by the fire as regards filling their orders, owing to the heavy stocks carried at the Toronto, London and Newmarket factories, and also at the Montreal branch. All orders for Boeckh's brushes and brooms are now being filled promptly from their Clarence St. warehouse, and the Bryan's brushes and Cane's woodenware are being shipped direct from the factory, so that any business entrusted to their care will receive prompt attention.

The company are to be complimented in having such a capable staff who are fully equal to the task which was put upon their shoulders without a moment's notice.

BUTTERFLIES IN DECEMBER.

Santa Claus usually comes heralded into our midst with the sound of tinkling sleigh bells and the patter of horny hoofs of reindeer on the roofs of our homes. This year a report reaches The Grocer from Montreal that the chubby children's friend is sending butterflies as arant couriers, at least the Quebec representative of E. W. Gillett Co., Limited, whose office is in the 5th storey of the Coristine Building, reports that on opening his office window on the morning of December 5th, a large and beautiful butterfly flew into the room. As the thermometer was around the 25 degrees below zero mark the manager came to the conclusion that the Ambassador was out in search of it.

H. A. Northrop, St. John, N.B., was in Montreal last week.

BUSINESS MEN IN MUNICIPAL LIFE

No. 5

John McQuaker, of the firm of John McQuaker & Co., wholesale and retail grocers, Owen Sound, was born in Grey County on the farm near Walters Falls, in the year 1864, of Scottish parentage. His home training was of the old school Presbyterian type and very naturally he is much attached to and closely identified with almost every department of the work of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

His education consisted in the training received in an ordinary public school. He followed farming on the homestead until the year 1895, when he entered business life in partnership with Jas. Struthers, in the operation of "Pleasant View" creamery. Three years later he purchased Mr. Struther's interest in the business and carried it on alone until the year 1904, when the enterprise was merged into "The Owen Sound Creamery Co., Limited," of which Mr. McQuaker is still secretary-treasurer and the largest stockholder. This business has an annual turnover of over $90,000.

In December, 1900, Mr. McQuaker, in company with his brother-in-law, Jas. G. Carrie, purchased the stock and business of R. J. Scott, on Poulett St., and organized the firm of Jno. McQuaker & Co. The business, small at the beginning, grew steadily until in 1903 it was found necessary to seek larger quarters and the premises on the west side of Poulett St. were leased and have been occupied since. At this time A. A. Parks, lately in business in Williamsford, came into the partnership. Mr. Parks' long experience in groceries and crockery has proved invaluable and the business still continues to grow. In November of this year the firm purchased the grocery stock of J. L. Joyce, and are now conducting two stores.

At the municipal elections of 1905 Mr. McQuaker was induced to offer himself as a candidate for the Town Council, and although announced only at the last moment, was elected. In January of the present year he was re-elected. This year he is chairman of the Fire and Water Committee, one of the heaviest departments. The waterworks system is owned by the municipality and requires a great deal of supervising attention on the part of the chairman of that committee. His name is being mentioned as a possible candidate for next year, and although he has made no announcement, it is probable he will be again in the field.

In addition to his many business and municipal engagements Mr. McQuaker is identified with a number of other organizations. He is vice-president of the Dairymans' Association of Western Ontario, secretary-treasurer of The North Grey Agricultural Society, a director of The Owen Sound Hotel Co, and a director of The Owen Sound Iron Works Co., Limited, president of the Young Men's Christian Association in Owen Sound, and at the last Provincial Convention in Montreal was appointed president of the convention. He has gained some distinction as a reader of Scottish humor and his services as an entertainer are sought far and near. He always responds gratuituously if it is possible for him to do so. Altogether he is recognized as one of the busiest men in the busy town of Owen Sound.

GROCERS' HOCKEY.

Second Annual Meeting of the League —Officers Elected.

The second annual meeting of the Wholesale Grocers' League was held last week at which the following officers were elected :

Patrons.—H. P. Eckardt, W. A. Warren, F. W. Humphrey, Wm. Ince, T. Kinnear, Sr., F. Dane, W. G. Lumbers, J. F. Eby, C. L. Marshall.

Hon. President.—Col. Jno. T. Davidson.

Hon. Vice-President.—R. S. McIndoe.

President.—W. H. Millman.

Vice-President.—B. R. Brown.

Sec.-Treasurer.—A. S. May, 120 Church Street.

As some of the wholesalers were unable to make a team from their own staff it was decided to group them as follows : Jas. Lumbers with Warren Bros. & Co., Davidson & Hay, with Perkins, Ince & Co., T. Kinnear & Co., with F. W. Humphrey, Brokers.

The different clubs agreed to accept the offer of Varsity Rink and will practice every night excepting Saturdays from 9 to 10.

The teams are very evenly matched this year and there should be some very interesting games. It is up to one of the other clubs to win the handsome Tillson Trophy which has been won by the Brokers the last two years.

The Brokers will be strengthened this year by the return of their old point player P. F. Millman, who put on about thirty pounds while out West. They will also have most of last year's team.

The following schedule was drawn up :

Jan. 8—Brokers at Davidson & Hay.
11—Kinnear at Lumbers & Co.
14—Lumbers at Brokers.
15—Kinnear at Davidson & Hay.
21—Brokers at Kinnears.

MADE HER LAUGH.

There was a worried look on the grocer's face as he rushed hatless down the street, ran up the steps of Acacia Villa, and gave a nervous tug at the bell-pull.

"I—I'm sorry to say there's been a slight mistake, Mrs. Grubble," he panted, as he wiped the perspiration from his forehead with the frayed edge of his apron. "You ordered two pounds of oatmeal yesterday, and by mistake my apprentice put up some sawdust that our grapes came packed in."

"Oh!" replied the lady. "Then I reckon my 'usban must 'ave got through about arf a pound o' wood for breakfus'."

"You don't mean to say that he ate it ?" gasped the man in the apron.

"Course 'e did," was the reply.

Then the lady leaned back on the door-post, and for three minutes indulged in a laugh that brought all her neighbors to the scene.

"Well, that's right down funny," she observed, at length.

"Funny ?" queried the grocer.

"Yes, funny. 'Ere we've been married thirteen year come the fourth o' December and George 'as never paid me a compliment till this mornin' at breakfus', when blest if 'e didn't pass up 'is plate for another go o' that sawdust, and told me it reminded 'im o' the porridge 'is mother used to make."—Tit-Bits.

CONDENSED MILK SCARCE.

Retail grocers in the Unites States are complaining loudly of their inability to secure an adequate supply of condensed milk. It appears that the excessive drouth for the past season and the extra demand for fluid milk, which has been unprecedented during the past few months, have caused a shortage in the supply.

This condition exists in all sections of the country. The Borden Company, according to an interview fully realizes the situation and is making every effort to remedy it. It is simply a question of supply, it was said, upon which the demands have been extraordinary and have no connection with the combine rumors which have been going the rounds.

The Borden company denies that it has raised prices arbitrarily.

This Does Concern You!

Mr. Advertiser! Here's a little problem for you :—If General Nogi had sent a battalion against Port Arthur one week, half a battalion the next, a troop of cavalry the week after that, how long do you suppose the Russians would have held the Gibraltar of the Far East?

"The Japanese would never have entered Port Arthur that way," you reply, without hesitancy, because you are perfectly sure about it. So are we. No force on earth, within the walls of Port Arthur, could have held out much longer than the Russians did. The besieging army was gradually strengthened to an irresistible force, and then the Japs closed in with a tread as inexorable as fate.

What's Your Objective?

The best business in your line. You might not put it just that way; but that's exactly what you are after. You have your own ideas about advertising. Some business men consider advertising a nuisance—others look upon it as a necessary evil—but all business men know that it pays.

Your objective is a progressive, prosperous business. Has your advertising reached the irresistible point? Emergencies call for increased space occasionally. Success calls for cool, deliberate, decisive advertising all the time. Because when your objective is gained you must hold the fort against the brainiest and most energetic men in your business. Ignore all schemes. There isn't one good business-making scheme in a hundred. Go after trade in an approved way. Keep on advertising in the MacLean Trade Papers. Others owe a large measure of their success and their present impregnable position in the business world to us. Why not you?

¶ Manufacturers and wholesalers may have our advice regarding any business crisis, or advertising campaign, absolutely free. Write our Advertising Department regarding that matter. Do it to-day!

Four Reasons why INVICTUS FIBRE is the BEST FIBRE PAPER on the Market

1. Invictus Fibre is made from personally selected pulp wood cut on our own limits.
2. This special pulp wood is again rigidly culled on arrival at our mills
3. The pulp from which Invictus Fibre is made is manufactured in our own pulp mill and transferred at once to the paper mill, avoiding all drawbacks of transportation.
4. Invictus Fibre will increase in strength and not grow hard and brittle as does fibre made from sulphite pulp. This is a quality of the peculiar and selected pulp from which Invictus Fibre is made.

A trial order will convince you that we are correct. See that each package bears the words "Invictus Fibre." Every ream contains 480 sheets

Our Tomato Catsup is not a by-product. It is not made from seeds, skins, cores, and unripe fruit. Nothing but the finest, ripest, juiciest tomatoes, seeded and peeled by machinery, are good enough for it.

In most places where tomato canning is done the waste matter is made into catsup. No matter how skillfully this is spiced and prepared it will never have the appearance or taste of tomato catsup made from the best of the fruit, any more than bread would if you made it from bran.

Granulated white sugar, pure blended spice, and vinegar made in our own factory are the only other ingredients beside the fresh pulp, everything is the best of its kind.

Our catsup has everything the most exacting customer could desire, wholesomeness, purity and taste and the bright, fresh, clean appearance of the package makes it one of the readiest sellers you could put on your shelves.

DOMINION TRAVELLERS' BANQUET

Important Announcements by Dominion and Provincial Parliamentarians—Quebec Travelers' Tax to go—Discrimination in Favor of British Literature—Shilling Cable.

Just once a year do the members of the Dominion Commercial Travellers' Association stay up overly late on pleasure bent, and this is upon the occasion of their annual banquet which takes place each year about Christmas time.

The Montreal Association held their gathering on the night of December 20th at the fine old Windsor Hostelry. Nearly 300 sat down. Contrary to the stereotyped plan of long rows of tables for all, there was only one long table, this for the guests of honor, whilst the rank and file sat about the spacious dining room in social groups of half dozens, each with a table to themselves.

Commercial travellers are noted for their good digestions but it is safe to say that even this was taxed to its utmost before the dozen or so courses, which composed the excellent menu, were carefully tucked away.

The gathering was particularly fortunate in the presence of several distinguished speakers including Hon. Rudolph Lemieux, Post Master General; Hon. Lomer Gouin, Premier of Quebec; F. D. Monk, M.P.; Hon. P. E. Leblanc; F. H. Matthewson, President of the Board of Trade; J. H. Ashdown, Mayor of Winnipeg; Alderman Robinson, and others, so that the feast was both physical and intellectual. Short speeches were the rule of the evening and interspersed with some good vocal and instrumental music the whole contributed to a delightful programme.

E. D. Marceau, the new President-Elect of the association made a model chairman and he was ably assisted in the vice chairs by J. Paterson, Vice-President, R. C. Wilkins, Treasurer, and W. J. Egan.

President, E. D. Marceau.

Two important announcements were made during the evening by the politicians present, the one which met with most general favor being an assertion on the part of Premier Gouin that the now notorious Quebec Tax, which has been levied against commercial travellers entering this province, will be repealed at the next meeting of the Legislature. Hon. Mr. Lemieux also created some enthusiasm by stating that if he got the necessary support in parliament, that before many months there would be "an intellectual preference" in the direction of cheaper postage on magazines and periodicals coming from Great Britain.

A Pillar of Commerce.

E. D. Marceau in welcoming the guests of the evening referred to the importance of the association of which he had been recently honored with the Presidency. He said, "I consider that this meeting is not without its utility to the men who preside over the destiny of our Dominion and our Province, and to those who are at the head of our Chambers of Commerce and our great Transportation Companies. The commercial man to-day is a very important and very different individual from that jolly chap and good story teller whom he has replaced. The traveller has not lost any of his good qualities of old, but to be successful to-day he must be active, temperate, keen to judge human nature and above all things know his business, that is, know his goods from the time they leave the raw material state to the time when they are ready for the consumer. The commercial man has not only progressed with the country, but he has even anticipated the changes and prepared himself for them. He is the feeder of the factory, the provider of the salary for the workingman and the subsistance of his family; he assures the payment of due liabilities; he is the certitude of the present and security for the future; he is, to a great extent, the credit and the material wealth of the country. Since the commercial traveller is all these things it is, I say, of great utility for you to meet him and know his views.

Eighteen Thousand Travelers

"This association, gentlemen, from a membership of 200, when formed in 1875 has grown to a roll of 5,684 members, with a reserve fund, for their benefit, of $283,500. This has been the most prosperous year of all, as the surplus carried to the reserve has been $28,750.

F. H. Matthewson

"The membership of all the commercial associations of the Dominion now amounts to at least 18,000."

Hon. Mr. Lemieux in responding to the toast of the Parliament of Canada referred to the commercial traveller as having his finger on the pulse of the temper of the country. When those engaged in politics wanted to know what that temper was, whether it was good or bad, they had to come to the traveller for information. The temper of the traveller also was a reflex of the temper of the country. If he was in good humor, then it was a foregone conclusion that the country was prosperous, and vice versa. Mr. Lemieux added, amid laughter, that he was glad to see by those at the banquet that the country was obviously prosperous.

Against the Yellow Press.

Continuing Mr. Lemieux said that in his capacity as Post Master General it was his aim and ambition to protect this country against the invasion of the yellow press. The proper way in which to mould the minds and foster public spirit among young men of the country was by the aid of good literature. The speaker stated that if he obtained the needed help in Parliament, not only from the Government forces, but from the Opposition, before many months there would be a cheaper postage on magazines and periodicals coming from Great Britain.

The Shilling Cable.

Mr. Lemieux stated that the time had come for the "Shilling Cable" from one end of the Empire to the other. With the advent of the "Shilling Cable" would come a greater union of Canada with the mother country and the rest of the Empire. The penny postage had become an established fact and the

R. C. Wilkins

"Shilling Cable" was on the way. The matter had been taken up recently in a lecture at the Eighty Club, London, and the idea was received with favor.

Travelers' Influence.

Mr. Monk also responded to this toast saying that there was no body of men to whom he would go with greater confidence to find out the trend of public opinion than to the commercial traveller of the Dominion. Theirs was the power to mold public opinion, and even to impress thgt opinion upon Parliament itself. The commercial traveller could also disseminate throughout Canada that broad spirit of citizenship so necessary if Canada was to become a great nation.

Travelers Tax to Go.

Hon. Lomer Gouin responded in a brief speech to the Toast of the Legislature, proposed by Mr. Wilkins. After referring to the good work that the travellers could do for the country, he made the important announcement with reference to the abolition of the Quebec Tax before referred to.

The Ruler of Winnipeg.

One of the most popular speakers of the evening was Mayor J. H. Ashdown of Winnipeg, who happened to be in the city and was a welcome guest. In a happy little speech he referred to the great growth of his home city, though he put the audience in good humor by saying that it could never hope to outdistance its older sister of the great metropolis of Montreal. By the time that Winnipeg was as old as Montreal however, there would be a larger city in the West than Montreal was to-day though he gave credit to the metropolis for being able to hold its own in the general increase throughout the country.

Traveler Becomes Merchant Prince.

The City of Montreal was responded to by Alderman Robinson who was introduced by the proposer of the toast, Mr. Egan, as a former commercial traveller now one of the Merchant Princes of the city.

Transportation, proposed by Mr. Terroux, was dealt with in a brief speech by Mr. Henry, representative of the Canadian Northern interests.

He pointed out the vast importance of this problem to the commercial traveller who supplied the backbone for the earnings of the railway.

Commerce called for replies from Mr. Matthewson, President of the Board of Trade, Mr. Harris of Chambre de Commerce, also Messrs. Dougall and Chouillou.

Impromptu toasts brought a most enjoyable evening to a close.

A POINTER FROM NOVA SCOTIA

Merchants who advertise in their local papers should stir up the editors to do something for the town's business on their own account. The accompanying display is a reduced reproduction of a clarion call five inches deep and eight across the top of the front page of a Kentville, N.S., paper. In the same issue the editor said :

"Several of the other towns are holding or have held a merchant's day this season and as will be seen elsewhere in this issue the Kentville merchants have fallen into line and are prepared to meet the outside competition. Every day from now on is Merchants day in Kentville. During the next two weeks we respectfully request our readers to peruse the advertisements in the Chronicle very carefully. Every one will find something interesting."

This is a good line. The Nova Scotians are to be congratulated and merchants in other parts of Canada should give their local publishers a pointer. This kind of thing shows a town is awake and gives the outsiders an impression that their trade is appreciated. It might also stir up a little latent civic pride and that's what is badly needed in a good many Canadian towns.

SPANISH PEANUTS.

In view of the increased duty on peanuts and the possible extension on that account of the trade with Spain, which is included in the favored nation treaty the following by the American Consul General at Barcelona is interesting :

"Peanuts are extensively cultivated in the Spanish province of Valencia, and in the town of that name mozt of the purchases are made. Consumers in Spain complain of the ever-increasing demand from England, and more recently also from the United States, which is steadily driving local prices upward. This year, owing to the shortage of the olive crop, pricer for peanuts are expected to rule very high and a steady advance is anticipated, as the oil crushers will be much larger purchasers than usual. Peanut oil is considerably used in Spain as a substitute for olive oil for certain domestic purposes. The first offers for peanuts which have come on the market have been quoted at 19 pesetas ($3.66) per 50 kilos (110 pounds) for "Corriente" quality (two nuts per shell), and 24.50 pesetas ($4.62) per 50 kilos (110 pounds) for superior quality with three to four nuts per shell. These prices are free on quay, including sacks."

Last year the price of hulled peanuts fluctuated between $10.20 and $11.20 per 220 lbs. The present quotation is $11.

HOW GERMANS ENCOURAGE CASH.

In the German town of Glanchau a novel plan has been adopted by merchants for the encouragement of cash payments. The plan is to give coupons for cash sales and where purchases aggregate 110 marks the customer is entitled to 5 marks or 4½% on his purchases. The method of carrying it out is German. An association of relatives has been formed and each pays an entrance fee of 50 marks (23.8 cents.) The local bank handles the funds and redeems the coupons. To enable it to do that the merchants buy the coupons from the bank, and to cover expenses pay a little more than the redemption of the stamps call for. The bank's renumeration is the handling of the funds. The association's surplus amounting this year to 500 marks, is distributed as prizes is amounts of 5 marks each to the persons whose names appear on the redeemed books first drawn at random from the files of the current year.

BEST IMMIGRATION AGENTS

Canadian Business Men Abroad Well Supplied With Facts About Canada—Government Should Supply Pamphlets About Canada to All Going to the Old Country.

That the Dominion Government should place in every steamship ticket office for free distribution to persons going aboard, circulars or tracts containing attractive information about Canada, its development, resources and possibilities, is the view strongly held by J. T. Madden, manager of the Wm. Ryan Co., Toronto.

Mr. Madden returned the other day from an extended holiday in England with his wife and daughter. His first vacation in a number of years and his first visit to the old country, he thoroughly enjoyed himself and saw much to interest and inform a Canadian.

"I talked for Canada wherever I was" Mr. Madden told a representative of the Canadian Grocer, but I found myself handicapped for lack of facts. People would ask questions that could be answered in a moment if one had the Blue Books beside him. Simple enough questions they were, the extent of Canada's production in certain lines, the size of this or that, questions about distances, things every Canadian is supposed to know about in a general way, but which not one in a hundred thousand can off-hand give accurate facts and figures about. If every enthusiastic Canadian going abroad, and especially to the Old Country, were furnished with a lot of this information in handy form he could do a great deal to advertise Canada in what seems to me about the best way possible. He could interest a lot of people and spread information and that's what is needed."

Mr. Madden went by New York and on shipboard fell in with a lot of Americans, people in a large way of business. None of them had been across the Atlantic and they lost no opportunity to laud America to the disparagement of England. This drew Mrs. Madden into many a warm argument for she is an Englishwoman and enthusiastically loyal to the colors. Several of the gentlemen before landing arranged to lunch together at the Hotel Cecil, London, a week after their arrival. When they came together one of the Americans who had been on shipboard became especially loud in adoration of Uncle Johnathan drew Mr. Madden aside and said:

"I want you to apologize to Mrs. Madden for me. I've been here only a week, but I have seen that while in some small things the English are not up to us, in big things we're not in it with them."

At that luncheon they were talking about how everything seemed obtainable in London. One of them who had been much in the West Indies thought to test the matter and calling the waiter asked for a little known West Indian fruit. The waiter made sure he had the name, went to the head waiter who gave an order and in about two minutes the fruit was on the table.

Mr. Madden was impressed with the cleanliness of London's streets, the great volume of traffic, the thoroughness of the police regulation of it, and the courteous, helpful methods of the metropolitan policeman. When near the Lord Mayor's official residence one day, he asked a direction of an officer, who answered the question and recognizing a stranger, told him if he cared to step around the corner he could see the Lord Mayor drive out in state in a few minutes. Mr. Madden was glad of the opportunity and the officer stationed him where he could see to advantage.

Mr. Madden went away feeling "very chesty," as he said, about Canada as a food producer, but he had the starch taken out of his visit when he walked through the markets of London and other cities and saw the enormous volume of food products of foreign origin, and talked with dealers to whom Canada was but a name and none too familiar at that. He went into a very fine looking fruit store and spied some apples. They were 6d. a pound, Ben Davis. He got some and the clerk showed him others at 3d. which Mr. Madden told him would be fed to the pigs in Canada. Wherever he went, Mr. Madden talked Canada.

Coming back Mr. Madden decided to come by the new C.P.R. line and persuaded an English gentleman on a world tour to do likewise. They sailed in the —mpress of Britain. "A magnificent boat" declared Mr. Madden, splendidly appointed and the service could not have been surpassed." They made good time in the face of a heavy gale. Then they had to run into Halifax with the mails and arrived at St. John when the tide was running out, with the result that they had to lie outside the harbor in sight of the city 24 hours in a gale and with the thermometer 8 below zero. Had he come by New York we could have left Liverpool a day later and arrived a day earlier in a 20-year-old single screw boat All the C.P.R.'s enterprise in putting on fast and splendid boats is undone by the foolish government regulation requiring the landing of the mails at Halifax. I was ashamed. My English friend, as soon as he arrived at his hotel in Montreal, wrote to the London Times, recounting his experience."

PACKERS WILL DEMONSTRATE.

The American packers are going to show the public how their products are prepared for market. The vehicle for this is comprehended in the recently organized National Packers' Exposition Company of Chicago. This is to be a counter advertisement to the "revelations" of a few months ago. It is the intention to hold a series of huge expositions in the large cities of the country, beginning with Chicago, where the first show will be held at the Coliseum, May 1st to 11th, 1907. From here the exhibits will be moved entire to Madison Square Garden, New York, for a two weeks' stay, and from there probably to Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Kansas City and other cities.

FOR CO-OPERATIVE PACKING.

At the annual meeting of the Nova Scotia Fruit Growers' Association, held in Wolfville on Dec. 18th and 19th, John Donaldson, Port Williams, was elected president, and S. C. Parker, Berwick, secretary-treasurer. As an argument for a more uniform method of packing, by means of the co-operative warehouse system. A letter was read from a large buyer in England, in which he says: "We don't think either yourself or anyone else, will ever be satisfied with the farmers packing Nova Scotia apples—to us it seems that good fruit is spoiled by the careless and slovenly manner in which it is graded and packed, and we will never again buy any Nova Scotia apples, except what have been properly graded and packed in warehouses and put up in decent straight lines under one brand."

Stodman & Duncan, St. Thomas, have purchased the grocery business of Wm. Southern. Mr. Southern is now travelling for a fruit house.

FROM GROCER CORRESPONDENTS

CHATHAM.

Hugh Malcolmson, president of the Kent Canning Company, suffered a slight paralytic stroke last week as a result of a fall he recently sustained. His many friends here and throughout the province will be pleased to learn that no serious results are anticipated.

Local dealers have advanced the price of milk to 7 cents per quart. It was formerly 6 cents. The advance is said to be due to the high price of feed, particularly hay.

W. Riley, formerly of the Canadian Packing Company, London, has taken the management of Ald. Potter's retail meat business.

P. T. Barry passed away at his home in Wallaceburg Saturday morning. For several years he had been in the hardware business in that town. He began his business career as grocer and general store-keeper at Fletcher, when that hamlet was just springing into existence in the palmy days of the lumbering trade, many years ago. The funeral took place on Monday morning, from St. Joseph's church, Chatham, to Maple Leaf cemetery.

ST. CATHARINES.

Crisp, cold weather with smooth roads were the inducements to attract outsiders to St. Catharines the past week. The snow that fell was insufficient to make sleighing and incomers used wheels. The merchants in all branches of business seemed to be satisfied. Saturday's market was one of the best attended for years. Supplies were readily taken at handsome prices. Turkeys were sold at twenty cents per pound; geese, of which there was a limited quantity, sold at fourteen to sixteen cents per pound, and butchers that came from Merritton to get their orders filled were much disappointed, as they could not get geese in quantity to supply their customers. Thursday was really a hay market day. No less than 32 loads of prime hay were on the market at one time, and on account of the great quantities prices dropped to $11 and $12 per ton.

Richard McNamara has sold his pork and lard business to Albert Vine, who had sold his butchering business on King street and gone to the North-West Territories. He returned to St. Catharines a few days ago.. Mr. Vine has been making alterations in the interior and opened for business on Saturday.

A firm from Toronto opened an eating house and candy store on St. Paul street a few days ago.

A landmark of the city, on Queen street, erected more than sixty-five years ago by the late Dr. Ferris, has been taken down and the Bank of Toronto will erect a handsome brick block on the grounds.

LINDSAY.

This has been one of the greatest seasons on record for hay. There has been plenty of it, and the quality, considering the quantity, has been very good. Large shipments of pressed hay have been made from Lindsay, and right up to the present time the local dealers find it very difficult to meet the great demand. Pressed hay from Lindsay merchants is sent to Peterboro, and other surrounding towns and cities, and even to Cobalt. Some delays in shipments have been caused through lack of cars, but the railways have done the best they could. Adams Bros. have been one of the busiest firms exporting pressed hay. They have found it to be of good quality and the demand brisk. W. B. Sparling & Co. have concluded the year 1906 with a big rush of orders continually pouring in upon them. Outside dealers seem to leave the bulk of the Christmas buying till the very last minute, and then phone in for "hurry-up" orders. In conversation with your representative, Mr. Sparling, the genial proprietor, said his business was steadily increasing and his warehouse men are kept busy putting up and shipping orders The present Christmas season has been one of the best ever, not only for the wholesaler, but for the retailer as well.

There is not a town in Canada that can boast of having more attractive Christmas and New Year's windows than Lindsay. Especially is this so of the grocers. This season the grocers of Lindsay have had some very pretty and attractive window displays. Among the more noticeable are: T. A. Fisher, A. L. Campbell, Adams Bros., B. Laidley, W. E. Baker, A. Primeau, T. Brady, and Jos. Brown.

The grocers of Lindsay have nearly all been able to meet the demand on them this season for turkeys, in fact this has been a good season for turkeys and the price has been good, 15c to 16c per lb. The birds have been good in size and were easily sold.

TRAVELERS' BENEFIT.

Retiring and New Presidents of the Society—Jos. Taylor & S. R. Wickett.

S. R. Wickett, the new president of the Commercial Travelers' Mutual Benefit Society, has probably had a longer experience on the Board of that institution than any other member, having given his services to this society for upwards of twenty years. He was vice-president in 1898, and again in 1903, and president in 1904. His great business ability has always been a great help to the society. A native of Devonshire, England. He came to Canada in 1855. After a common and High School education, he entered upon the business of leather manufacturing. Coming to Toronto in 1881 he erected a building upon the present location of the extensive factory of Wickett & Craig, of which he was the founder. Mr. Wickett is also a director on several fire and life insurance boards. In politics Mr. Wickett is a National Policy advocate, in religion he is a Methodist. He is a member of the S.O.E., and Masonic Orders. Affable and courteous, Mr. Wickett is one of the best-liked men in the Travelers' Mutual Benefit and in a much wider circle of friends.

Joseph Taylor, the retiring president, has served on the Board as Trustee, Vice-President and President in all about nineteen years, and much of the success of the society is due to his untiring effort in its behalf. He was for fifteen years one of the most active and prominent directors of the Commercial Travelers' Association. He was born in the village of Husthwaite, Yorkshire. On coming to Canada he traveled for Kilgour Bros. for twenty-six years, leaving that firm to return to England, where he spent two years. Returning to this country he engaged with the Canada Paper Co., with whom he has been for the past four years. The world has dealt kindly with him in every way, and it is to be hoped he may yet have many years of activity and usefulness.

THE WINDOW AND STORE FRONT

A Suggestion About Outside Displays—Good Subject for Discussion in the Grocer—The Window and the Inner Store Fronts.

WINDOW AND STREET DISPLAYS.

The accompanying picture of a Toronto grocer's window display of apples and sidewalk display of vegetables, etc., is very interesting, largely because of the information and frank avowal contained in the letter to the Canadian Grocer accompanying it. Here is the letter:

"I am sending photo of window that was very attractive. Large red apples, Greenings and snows, made color contrasts to catch the eye. This, combined with first class quality doubled our sales that day.

"The large amount of fruit and vegetables in front of the window would not appeal to some; but because of the large amount of these goods we handle, it's impossible to do otherwise.

"The price tickets in the window do not show in the photo, but they were all right."

Mr. Sanson has a very nice store in a good industrial section of the city and a window that would double his trade for a day was a dandy achievement in window dressing to be proud of. Much of the attractiveness of this window is lost in an illustration in black and white.

But what about the sidewalk trimmings? They distract materially from the effect of the window. This is the season for resolutions. It would be a good thing for the grocery trade of Canada and for the consumers too, if every grocer would resolve not to do business on the sidewalk. In the first place, it is not cleanly to have goods on the street. In some American cities the grocers' associations are making a strong effort to stop the practice. It spoils the appearance of the store front. If a store has a nice, clean front without obstruction, especially if it is a front of which the proprietor is justly proud, it is a great incentive to dressing the window attractively. Mr, Sanson has such a store front. His store is situated in a handsome brick block with brown stone trimmings.

In the array of goods on the street, shown in the illustration, are summer savory, sage, etc. A grower of these kitchen condiments called at the writer's house not long ago selling summer savory. It was contained in a box, paper lined, with the paper folded over for a cover and carefully tied. He explained that he kept it carefully from dust from the time of gathering. With such service as that available what cleanly person would buy savory that had been lying out in the dust and exposed to the filth possibilities of a busy thoroughfare?

GET INTO THE COMPETITION

Nearly every grocer has taken special pains to dress his window for Christmas as attractively as he knows how. THE CANADIAN GROCER is conducting a monthly window dressing competition, and would like to have a picture of every attractive grocery window in the Dominion entered in this contest this month. The prizes are $5, $3 and $2, but the encouragement of progressive window dressing in the grocery trade is of much more importance. Send in your photographs with a description of how the windows are dressed.

A Window That Doubled Sales.

But Mr. Sanson may begin to think this is a criticism of his display; on the contrary it is a criticism of an almost universal practice among city grocers. Mr. Sanson's store front and attractive window display are merely an illustration. I imagine all that outside display removed; what a presentable and attractive store front would remain! This does not include the pretty, little lady in the doorway. She would lend attractiveness to the commonest of store fronts and adorn the most attractive the hand of man could fashion.

An apple window of this kind is indicative of enterprise and initiative, for which Mr, Sanson is to be congratulated and commended.

The Canadian Grocer would like to have the views of grocers on the practice of putting goods out in front of the store. Such a discussion would be very interesting and instructive and The Grocer would gladly give space to it.

THROUGH THE WINDOW OF THE STORE.

Mr. McLeod, the owner of the flour-mill window mentioned in last week's Grocer, has a number of wideawake ideas on window-dressing. One of these is particularly interesting:

"I always believe in having an attractive window," said Mr. McLeod, "but I do not believe in allowing the spectator's attention to cease with the window display. The window is merely a plan to catch the passer-by. When that is accomplished, the idea should be to interest him in the store itself. For that reason, although, as in this case, a background or screen would perhaps improve the actual window display, yet I never believe in interrupting the view of the stock and equipment within the store. I am proud of it, and I want the people to see it. I have confidence enough in its attractiveness to be able to rely on the result."

GRENADA COCOA SHORT.

The report of the British colonial secretary at Grenada for the year 1905 states that there was an unexpected collapse of the cocoa crop in that year, both as regards quantity and prices. It fell short about 3,000 bags from the crop of the previous year, but the crop for the current year has been curtailed, and the shortage at the end of August, even as compared with last year's short crop, was 9,800 bags. The cocoa crop of the colony for 1905 amounted to 64,300 bags, from which there is a falling off of 10,000 bags for the present year. Cocoa forms 85 per cent. of the island's exports.

CHINA AND GLASSWARE TRADE

The most marked feature of the china trade in Canada is the increase of fine China, especially French. "Every home has some Limoges pieces and tea and dinner sets are very common. There are perhaps a hundred makers of Limoges. The principal English chinas, Crown Derby, Royal Worcester and Colput, will of course always have their patrons, but they go more to tableware and less to pieces wholly for ornamentation as the French does. There are French tea and dinner sets, very beautiful, to be had at comparatively low prices. The fine English ware is more exclusive.

May not this suggest a line of enterprise for the china stores in the smaller places ? They should see that this trade in fine china, for both ornamentation and table service, is not confined to the cities.

The accompanying illustration showing four pieces of a dinner set depicts nothing new. It shows the form and pattern lacking color, the beautiful, home-like, but not homely, Taffre blue, of the famous old Copeland ware named Gadroon Tower. The word Gadroon indicates the edge, a sort of rumpled effect, what in a book would be called deckle edge. The tower is in the pattern. Its quaint shapes, old-time decorative effects in blue and white and deep, rich coloring make it attractive often when the gayer colors of more modern sorts fail of attention. It is also one of the most serviceable of wares.

Gowans, Kent & Co., to whom we are indebted for the illustration, tell of a set that after 16 years in a busy boarding house was practically intact and as serviceable as ever. It showed absolutely no signs of crazing and the only apparent difference between it and a new set was that the color was a trifle dimmed.

The assorted packages continue a feature of the trade and are rather increasing in popularity.

The clay of which fine China is made has not been found on this continent and attempts at manufacture have depended upon raw material imported from Europe. Unless some lucky digger comes upon a deposit the industry is not likely to assume large proportions this side of the Atlantic.

HANDSOME CROCKERY DEPARTMENT.

P. Anderson, of Guelph, has one of the finest grocery and crockery stores in Western Ontario. A few months ago he had it entirely refitted with quarter cut oak and The Canadian Grocer was pleased to show the grocery side of the store in the issue of June 1, herewith is a picture of the crockery, glassware and china department. The bins below are for paint, and the whole is quarter cut oak. The entire store is a model.

Business Management

By HOWARD R. WELLINGTON.

The Tenth in the Series of Articles on the Subject of Book-keeping.

During the period of time in which J. M. Russill has been conducting the business, we have ascertained that he has drawn out for living expenses $700, which should be kept in a separate account, and when the books are closed the total is transferred to the debit of "J. M. Russill capital account" (see Fig. 1).

Similarly the net profits for the period are transferred from the Trading Account, as shown before, to the credit of "J. M. Russill Capital Account," and the balance at the credit of this account now represents the net worth of the business.

It will be noticed that in the Trial Balance at the end of the period Merchandise Account appears as a credit, showing a balance of $350.00, while on the statement of Assets and Liabilities, which will be given in detail in next issue, Merchandise Account shows a debit balance of $4,500.00. In order to reconcile these two amounts it might be pointed out that the Trial Balance is taken before the closing entries effecting Profit and Loss Account are made, and Merchandise Account appears as follows :—

On the Credit Side :—

1906.
June 30. Sales to date.....	$18,000.00
Balance Brought Down.....	$350.00

After the books are closed the only item brought down in the Merchandise Account is the amount of stock on hand at the end of the period, and this appears as the asset of $4,500.00 in the statement of Assets and Liabilities.

It might be here mentioned that, if J. M. Russill admits a partner into his business, at the present stage, it will be necessary to open a Capital Account for such partner in exactly the same way as shown in Fig. 1, and the net profits are then transferred from the Profit and Loss Account at the end of the period, dividing same in proportion to the amount invested by each partner in the business, or in accordance with the partnership agreement, as the case may be.

In case of partnerships where unequal amounts are invested, the arrangement is very often made, whereby each partner is allowed interest at a specified rate on the amoubt of capital invested, and again, each partner may be paid a salary out of the business for the position which he holds, in addition to his share of the profits for the period.

THE MATTER OF DISCOUNTS.

Have you ever given the matter of discounts your serious consideration? Discounts play an important part in aggregating net profits.

All large department and individual establishments have long since come to recognize in discounts a satisfactory profit. They are all the profits there are in many lines of trade. A merchant doing a business of $540,000 received in discounts $24,000 in one year. Suppose you did one-tenth of this business wouldn't you welcome the $2,400 discount? Wouldn't it make a desirable addition to your net profits.

There are many merchants who are constantly receiving new goods, and to these the discounts should be and are a very important item. If you fail to take the discounts, you are losing easy money. Go to the bank and borrow the cash. The discounts will more than make it up. It will pay you handsomely to pay interest on a loan, when you use the money to take advantage of the discounts.

When you can neither take the discounts or pay your bills you pay interest and this will make competition with the catalog retailers or the cash merchant impossible.

In this case, where do you get off?

The man who can use his money and make 5 to 10 per cent. on it through discount is getting the best results.

THE NEW YEAR.

Canada crosses the threshold of the New Year prospering as never before. Every industry, agriculture, mining, fisheries and manufacturing, expanding and progressing, every mercantile house straining under its weight of business, means of transportation expanding as as never before and the nation is beginning to appreciate its possibilities and take them seriously. All this is first rate and adds zest to universal "Happy New Year," but aside from the mere accident of enabling the world to kept tab on time the main economic reason for New Year is that it makes a full stop in every man's life. Every man is confronted with the opportunity of making a fresh start.

In business this is essential. The right method of conducting any sort of business requires a balance sheet periodically. By a proper system of accounting and stock-taking a merchant can know just what his business has been doing for him. He will know too, the cost of doing business and he will be in a position to improve his methods. The wise merchant will not lose sight of the year and its possibilities.

STORE IMPROVERS OVERWORKED

That the store-keepers of the Dominion are showing an ever-growing appreciation of the value of good equipment as an incentive to trade is evidenced by reports which reach us from various manufacturers. Delivery wagon makers and manufacturers of store counters and silent salesmen especially state that they are overwhelmed with orders. Only the other day one of these firms refused a contract for the entire shelving of a large city warehouse, their factory being already rushed and extension to accommodate increased business being impossible owing to scarcity of labor.

Attractive store equipment is one of the sure ways of attracting custom, and the present state of affairs is an evidence that the Canadian merchant is awake to its possibilities.

DANGER OF PROSPERITY.

At the annual meeting of the Ohio Retail Grocers' and Butchers' Association in Youngstown, last week, A. T. Holmes, editor of the Inland Grocer, delivered a ten-minute address on the increased risk in which long continued prosperity involves the retailer. Prices tended upward in good times he said, while retailers were often reluctant to add a just percentage of cost of goods to find the selling price, when cost was high. At the same time consumers were apt to run large bills, and creditors were less vigilant in collecting than in times of stringency. Many consumers were living beyond their means, declared the speaker and he urged the delegates to increase their vigilance along these lines rather than relax it.

This is very ancient advice but the need for it is older. The commercial memory seems wonderfully short and recollection of the trials of hard times are easily forgotten in the wine cup of prosperity. The men who take to heart Editor Holme's advice will have a chance at the profits of the wave of prosperity that will follow the next period of hard times.

A GOOD SUGGESTION.

Fresh from a visit to Great Britain, James T. Madden makes the suggestion that every Canadian going abroad should be furnished by the Government with information about Canada in handy form. They could be distributed through the medium of steamship ticket offices. This is a first rate idea and we recommend it to those having authority. A Canadian abroad is naturally asked a great many questions that ordinarily he cannot answer save in the most general terms. An enthusiastic Canadian abroad gets talking about Canada's industries and development. Some one asks him "Well, what was the value of your manufacturing exports last year?" How many Canadians besides the Finance Minister could answer that offhand. Skimped of such easy questions the cautious man will keep his enthusiasm tightly corked and an effectual damper is placed on the very best kind of advertising the country can get.

KILL THE THING.

Have you sent a postcard to your representative in Parliament asking him to oppose the proposed extension of the parcel post system to assist the big mail order houses? If you haven't do so to-day. It is in the interest of every ordinary retailer that this scheme be killed. What is even more important it is in the interest of the whole country. Tendency to centre trade in the big cities is not in keeping with the successful development of Canada as a nation. A thousand prosperous retailers scattered throughout the country constitute a much greater national asset than a single huge institution in some city and they will better serve the needs of the people.

DRIED FRUITS.

A month ago the hope was harbored that when the holiday demand was past the prices of dried fruits would tend to normal. In reality they appear to be going higher. Spain has parted with its raisin crop and the comparatively few in second hands are not expected to supply the world's consumptive demand until the next crop arrives.

Currants, supposed to have been a fair crop are in limited supply only 20,000 tons in Greece as against 60,000 tons a year ago and the American market at least is practically bare. A fortnight ago before the arrival of the Str. Clara, scarcely a box was obtainable in New York and Toronto was nearly as bare. The consumption of currants this year has been enormous, due partly to the scarcity of other crops and partly to an advertising campaign carried on in England by the privileged company of Greece to urge larger consumption, to spread a knowledge of the healthfulness of currants as a diet.

Prunes are in an equally strong position. For some reason or other consumption began almost as soon as the fruit commenced to arrive. Ordinarily the season for heavy consumption begins about now. Two causes are alleged: The market was bare long before the present crop commenced to arrive and people had become hungry for the fruit, and, it is said less fruit than usual was preserved in the home this year.

Markets and Market Notes

QUEBEC MARKETS

POINTERS—

Fish Revised—

Montreal, Dec. 27, 1906.

The holiday trade is now about over, and it must be admitted that it has been most satisfactory to the jobbing trade, except for the fact that there may have been some trouble in obtaining deliveries of goods to customers in different parts of the country. This, however, could not be helped and therefore had to be borne in silence, or bluster. There is very little doing in canned goods, while sugar is little better.

Sales have been fair under the recent decline. Teas continue to advance, much higher prices ruling now than did two months ago. This applies especially to Ceylon greens. Demand for molasses is beginning to make itself felt, while interest in dried fruits is falling off now that the season is over. The market is bare of currants and raisins. Evaporated apples are strong at 9 cents. There is a very firm feeling in beans at prices quoted. There are no new features in coffees and spices, but a little easier feeling is noticeable in tapioca.

CANNED GOODS.—There is little transpiring in canned goods at the moment. Dealers are now well stocked up for the winter, and jobbers cannot truly state that they are shipping many large lots to any part of the country. It is thought that canned fruits will be sold for fancy prices before the new pack, and from present indications this will become a fact.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.—Christmas being over interest in dried fruits is falling off. The situation which existed in currants was a most annoying one to those in the jobbing trade and the retail as well. The goods, although ordered in plenty of time were delayed until after Christmas through the mishap which occurred to the steamer "Clara" on the Jersey coast, and to which reference was made last week. The situation was most acute. There was hardly a package of currants on the market and everybody was crying for them. This was certainly aggravating at Christmas time. At present the market is bare and the supplies are expected any day. Holdings of raisins, Valencias or Sultanas, are very small Prunes are strong. Other lines are normal, and there is nothing new in nuts.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS:—

Currants going higher.
Watch tomatoes.
Dried apples higher.
All markets firm.

December 27, 1906

Wholesale grocers in Toronto report a larger volume of fall business than ever before, and with a greater margin of profit. Throughout the country the retail trade seems satisfied too: business has been very heavy, and the consumptive capacity of the people has expanded in keeping with their bulging pockets. Years ago the grocery trade rested for weeks after the holidays, now, owing to better shipping facilities, trade revives almost from the opening of the year, and proceeds as if there had not been any heavy holiday buying.

Prices continue firm with a very strong tone to currants, valencia raisins, tomatoes, and all canned fruits. The only change in sugar is the addition of the 2 cent increase in the freight schedule, owing to the close of navigation. Prices are very firm and consumption is unusually heavy.

CANNED GOODS.—All canned goods are very firm, but interest for some time to come will centre on tomatoes. The impression prevails in wholesale circles here that within a few weeks the price will be $1.25. No doubt the jobbers would like to assist, and it would be some compensation for the course taken by the canners in putting the price so high at the start. There is no doubt, however, that a very strong feeling prevails in regard to tomatoes.

Fruits are in very small compass, and some are quite cleaned up. Some packs of beans, also, are scarce.

LAST MINUTE PROVISION MARKETS.

SUGAR.—The market is quiet, Willett & Gray, reviewing the raw market for last week, say:

"The important feature of the week under review has been the free selling of new crop Cuba Centrifugals for future delivery on a declining scale, closing with final business at the lowest prices of the campaign thus far, say 2 3-16c. per lb., cost and freight, for January shipment, equal to $3.55 landed in New York, basis 96 degrees test. Sales during the week amount to as much as 150,000 bags, nearly all for January and February shipment.

Buyers and sellers have not entered upon March and forward deliveries to any extent, and it will not surprise us if before these months are at hand the present downward tendency is replaced by a more or less important rising tone and tendency to all sugar markets. Europe this week declined from 8s. 10 1-2d. to 8s. 8 1-4d. and recovered at the close to 8s. 9 3-4d. for the present month, while the new year deliveries make a better recovery to 8s 11 3-4d. for January, with a firm closing. Futures are quoted at 9s. 2 1-4d. for May beet.

It is also quite likely that a little lower level may yet be reached for early deliveries before the turn comes, on account of the necessities of planters for further immediate cash receipts from some portion of their crop.

Harvesting is proceeding favorably and rapidly in Cuba, there being 91 (or half the full number of centrals in the island) now grinding at this early date in the campaign; last year at same time only 26 centrals were at work and the year before there were 76.

Locally there is no change in refined save the 2 cent addition of winter freight rates.

TEA. — The market continues very strong.

COFFEE.—The most interesting and important information from Brazil, says Willet & Gray, is the promise of smaller receipts. The coffee has been shipped out from the plantations with remarkable rapidity, which astonished everybody, but the accumulations at the railroad stations have been reduced, and a steady decrease of receipts is now assured. The market is steady.

DRIED FRUITS.—All prices are firm and some of them have a tendency to advance. In currants importers who looked for a reaction at the end of the year, have changed their views and do not now anticipate any lower prices. The position of currants in the primary market is exceedingly strong, and there has been a steady advance during the past two weeks. Stocks of currants held in Greece are estimated at less than 20,000 tons, as compared with 60,000 tons at the same date last year. In view of the very restricted stocks held in European, British and American markets, it would hardly appear that there will be sufficient currants to carry the trade through comfortably until the 1907 crop is marketed.

Stocks of select valencias in Spain appear to be exhausted as the few shippers offering fruit recently have now withdrawn their offers. It is understood the crop is cleaned up. Higher prices are looked for. The prune market is steadily working upward and only medium sizes are obtainable at the Coast. Large sizes and the smaller sizes seem to be exhausted with most shippers. The consumption of prunes has been unparalleled for this season of the year and stocks are being rapidly absorbed.

MANITOBA MARKETS

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday, Dec. 27, 1906.)

Christmas week is of course the quiet week in wholesale circles, and jobbing houses are making preparations for stock taking. The Fall trade has been the best on record, the turnover being much in excess of last year. Considerable difficulty has been experienced in getting supplies by rail and also in distributing throughout the West. The railways have been unable to supply the necessary cars and complaints are numerous from country merchants, and also from wholesale houses, of long delayed shipments. Collections are fairly good, but there is still a great quantity of wheat to be marketed and many dealers are having trouble in collecting their accounts. Nevertheless, the trade in general are pretty well satisfied with 1906 business.

CANNED GOODS.—All lines of canned fruits are in good demand at unchanged prices.

The market is reported very firm in view of the heavy consumption as a consequence of the high prices of all foreign dried fruits. At present prices, evaporated apples are a good buy, for an early advance is pretty sure to be made.

N. B. MARKETS.

St. John, N.B., Dec. 1906.

Christmas has again passed and we are at the close of the year. It was a good Christmas and in Canada there was general prosperity, nearly every one who had had a fair chance looked back on a year of abundant success. Perhaps Canada had never had a better year and practically everyone participated. In business the retailers have had a busy time, it is a long time since we had so much winter before Christmas, continued sleighing from the very first of the month. The wholesaler finds things quiet, that is as far as shipping goods is concerned, but he is very busy, straightening up for stock taking. Markets have held firm. Christmas goods high. Market was particularly short of currants. Spice continues high, as cloves and ginger. Nutmegs, however, are still low. Cream of tartar is firm.

OIL.—In burning oil the short days mean large consumption. Practically everyone has to use artificial light in the mornings for a time. Prices at least in the city, unchanged. Lubricating oils are very quiet, except so far as the trade looks forward to another season, there is little doing in paint oil. It is a time of importance, to the jobber, as in linseeds values are largely fixed at this time. Cod oil continues quiet.

SALT.—In Liverpool coarse salt this is the quiet season. Owing to high freights by the winter fast boats it is even quieter than it otherwise might be, as this stops imports. In fine salts stocks small. Little business.

CANNED GOODS.—Just at this season business in every line is quiet. Vegetables firmly held but it is difficult to advance prices, even of tomatoes. Fruits very firm, particularly strawberries, peaches and gallon apples. In the latter, owing to the demand for export, higher prices expected. Salmon a fair stock. Lobsters extreme. Oysters have been very scarce. A few here now

THE New Year is now almost here. It is a matter of but a few days until 1907, with its vast possibilities, will be with us.

IT is up to you to decide whether or not you will make a success of your business during the coming 365 days.

in stock. Prices quite high. Meats quiet and firm. Domestic fish unchanged.

GREEN FRUIT.—Christmas, in spite of the cold weather, means quite a large business. Market was well supplied at average prices. In oranges, Jamaicas, Valencias and Floridas, offered. There is an improved sale for grape fruit. Lemons firm. Malaga grapes higher, quality fine. Bananas are not a Christmas fruit. In apples, Ontario spies, have the best demand.

DRIED FRUIT.—The rush is over. Prices have been high and profits good. Currants in particular were scarce. Not a pound bought for direct shipment, arrived. Those who bought early in New York made handsome profits. Raisins firm at full figures, except seeded, stock very short. Prunes firmly held. Trade greatly disappointed over non-arrival of Carton prunes. Five cars due. Evaporated peaches and apricots scarce and high. Dates unchanged. Sales for figs and peels largely over. Evaporated apples higher. Onions have kept low. Shelled walnuts were another line in which supply was short, owing to late arrivals. Peanuts higher.

SUGAR.—The decline of ten cents in sugar puts the price just where it was before the new tariff. It certainly was not the intention that the new duty would mean a higher price.

MOLASSES.—Situation unchanged. Fancy Barbados held firm at the advance. Choice freely offered.

FISH.—Fresh fish continues high. Supply light, while outside situation in dry cod fish and pickled herring is somewhat improved. Local market is rather flat. Demand light. Smoked herring unchanged. Finnan haddies continue high.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL.—In flour prices are unchanged. Feed is high and scarce. Oatmeal and cornmeal continue as last week. Oats quite high. Beans have a fair demand. White beans which were quoted quite low are firmer. Yellow eyes are held firm at the advance. Owing to the outlook for higher prices seeds have some attention.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS

Halifax, N.S., Dec. 24.

The retail grocers of Halifax did an excellent business during the Christmas season. Notwithstanding the high prices the volume of business passing exceeded that of last year. The cash trade was exceptionally good, and on the whole the grocers are well satisfied with business. The produce markets are very firm. As forecasted in this correspondence last week the price of potatoes reached 60 cents per bushel, and it would not be surprising if they went to 70 cents before the close of the year. Since last week over 10,000 bushels of potatoes have been received here in bulk in vessels from Prince Edward Island, and they were eagerly bought up.

EGGS.—They have reached a new high record price on the local market. Sixty cents per dozen for fresh laid eggs was the price asked and paid in the green market in Halifax. Not only is there a scarcity of eggs in the city, but throughout the whole Province. More hens have been kept in Kings and Annapolis Counties this year than ever before, but the shipments have been heavy, and the supply at the present time is very light. There is always a good demand for eggs at this season of the year, and the receipts now are notably small. There is no money for the jobber in handling the stock at the prevailing prices. Limed eggs are quoted at 23 to 25 cents.

BUTTER.—The butter situation in Halifax at the present time is attracting considerable attention, owing to the scarcity of that article on this market. There is a general complaint among the jobbers regarding the scarcity and the high price, and some of them find it extremely difficult to procure a good supply for their customers. The price is also a most important factor, creamery being quoted at 27 to 28 cents, and small tubs of fresh dairy at 25 to 26 cents. Rolls which are not much in favor here are worth from 24 to 25 cents, and the best of the large tubs of winter butter bring about 24 or 25 cents. Various reasons are assigned for this scarcity. Some jobbers say that it is due to the increased demand from Sydney, and others claim that the high price of fodder necessitates the farmer killing off his cattle.

FRUIT.—There is a good demand for fruit now, and oranges and apples are selling freely. Within the past ten days several thousand barrels of oranges have arrived here from the West Indies. The fruit is of very good quality and is quoted at five dollars per barrel. A lot of the fruit is being re-packed here and shipped to the Montreal market. Good varieties of winter apples are quoted at $3.00 to $3.50 per barrel.

PROGRESS ON THE PACIFIC COAST

Holiday Business Beats All Records—Development of Vancouver Island—Real Estate Boom in Victoria——The Markets.

Vancouver, B.C., Dec. 20, 1906.

December trade has no doubt been a record in the whole history of the city. The volume of trade cannot yet be estimated but judging from bank clearings, which have been making new records each week, and from the busy scenes in all lines of trade, and in both wholesale and retail circles, this is not only the holiday season, but it is the biggest month in trade since Vancouver began to be a commercial centre.

Two factors contribute largely. The population has very materially increased in the year 1906, and in all lines of activity and industry, employment has been afforded to a much larger number of wage-earners at remunerative rates and steady employment has been given right through the season. At the present moment the number of unemployed is very small, much less than usual, and different from the average experience in cities, where in the winter season many lines of work are usually closed down. Prosperity means liberality in buying, and the results have been apparent in the great holiday trade done by the merchants of the city.

What is true of Vancouver applies with equal force in all the coast cities. New Westminster is fast establishing a large industrial centre on the banks of the Fraser River. Nanaimo, the coal city, is working full time and more, getting out fuel for the rapidly increasing trade in the B.C. product. The city of Victoria is possible enjoying the most remarkable era of expansion and activity she has known since the halcyon days of the famous Cariboo trade. Her prosperity is largely due to the fact that the natural wealth and beauty of the city, and its advantages of climate and situation have been impressed on so large a number of people during the past year or two. In other words Victoria has been "discovered" and before long in the quaint French idiom the capital city will be found to have "arrived." Indeed a good-sized boom has already struck Victoria in real estate alone. Many operators who have been paying almost exclusive attention to Vancouver and to mainland properties have opened or arranged to open offices in Victoria, where many properties have already changed hands, and where values are on a steady up-grade.

The development of the 250 miles of territory included in the length of Vancouver Island has been undertaken by the C.P.R. since coming into possession of the Island Railway, the E. & N. Ry., formerly owned by the Dunsmuirs. The responsibility shouldered by the railway is a large one, but with all the resources of the company back of the project and the wonderful undeveloped wealth of the island to work upon there is no question that the island will be made practically a new province in importance and established institutions.

The importance of British Columbia as a fish-producing country is demonstrated by the returns of the Department of Marine and Fisheries for 1905, recently published. The palm has been wrested for the first time from Nova Scotia, hitherto the banner province in fish and fish products. The totals as given in dollars by the report shows a lead of over a million dollars in favor of the Pacific Province.

Chief interest has this week centred on the several cars of Christmas poultry which are somewhere on the C.P.R. between Smith's Falls and Vancouver. This province depends largely on eastern Canada for its Christmas turkeys and this year the orders have been larger than ever. Some early orders have arrived, and there is so far no shortage, but if the storms which have been delaying all trains across the prairies and the bleak north shore of the lakes, do not let up, there is prospect of many people going without their Christmas turkey in B.C. However the railway people are keeping the wires hot, in fact running the risk of burning them out trying to have the cars kept moving westward, and in the four days yet to elapse before Xmas eve, the longed-for birds will likely reach the various distributing centres.

Jobbing prices have so far been on a basis of 18½ to 20c. but these quotations will be much reduced next week if any cars are belated. Retail prices run as a rule 25c. per pound. Other lines of poultry mostly of local production, are in good supply, prices being $5 to $7

The fruit market has been very brisk lately, demand for choice and fancy apples being heavy. Jap oranges have been good sellers, but job higher than usual. The price has averaged 60c. to the trade, and shipments have been fairly liberal. California new season Navel oranges are still slow sellers, being not over matured yet and the Jap orange still leading. The Navels are now quoted at $3.75. Fancy apples, imported from Oregon are quoted at $1.75 per box, Coldstream fruit being off the market entirely. Local apples, cooking grades, are ranging from $1.00 up. Lemons have declined somewhat again, being now quoted $6.25 to the trade. Malaga grapes are well stocked and selling at $7.50 per keg.

In vegetables, hot-house lettuce has been somewhat scarce, and demand has been good. Price is now $1.50 per box.

Fresh eggs are again down a little, extremely mild weather having influenced the production. Last Friday the Westminster market quotations went as low as 40c. per doz. wholesale, but on the Vancouver market the strictly fresh article is not quotable in a jobbing way, and retail is still bringing 60c per doz. as the stock is limited compared with demand.

Fresh butter is higher again, local creamery, fresh make being quoted at 40c. Supplies of creamery from the Northwest are liberal, and the prices of these show tendency to ease off. The quotations on Alberta creamey is now 27½ and 28½c. Eastern dairy ranges from 18c to 22c. Cheese has been dropped a couple of cents, 15c and 15½c being the price to the trade now.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

There has been a little more activity in the cheese market since out last issue, several local exporters getting fair orders by cable, had to make their appearance on the general market as buyers. So far the bulk of these new orders were for the cheaper late made goods, but even October-made cheese received some attention at good prices. November and December made cheese seem now fairly sold out and further demand from across the ocean will have to go onto the earlier made, higher priced cheese.

Receipts are now merely nominal, last week they were 1,433 boxes of cheese and 3,816 packages of butter, against 5,963 boxes of cheese and 4,465 packages of butter for the same week of last year, or a total since May 1st of 2,346,725 boxes of cheese and 595,869 packages of butter, as compared with 2,306,350 boxes of cheese and 763,385 packages of butter for the corresponding period of last year.

For reasons, previously explained in these columns, the shipments of dairy produce are not regularly compiled after close of navigation of the St. Lawrence route, it will, however, be known at the commencement of the new season, how many cheese were shipped out during the winter months, and then we will also know what our stocks really were at the close of navigation, meanwhile we have no accurate figures to guide us and the various estimates of stocks are only more or less guesswork. It is, however, well known that the bulk of the stocks of cheese on this side of the Atlantic, are now held in Montreal, and it seems a further conceded fact that our present stocks in Montreal are considerably less than a year ago, while at this time last year there were fairly large quantities of cheese stored in country warehouses in addition to the stocks in Montreal, against this, there is an increase in stocks in British centres, but the entire visible supplies are undoubtedly considerably less in quantity than last year.

It would be interesting to know, to what extent the retail shops in Great Britain are stocked as compared with last year, this information can, however, not be obtained, but cheese prices were very high the entire season, and it does not seem reasonable to expect, that the British retailers laid in any extra quanitities for future trade, if this is correct, it cannot be long now before a more general demand will come on.

Meanwhile the Christmas holidays interfered with the wholesale trade in Great Britain and, as almost all importers and wholesalers there are taking stocks on January 1st, they are not inclined to increase their holdings until after the New Year, this always makes quiet markets for some time.

On the whole, we feel, as we have before expressed ourselves in these articles, that cheese will be wanted and that there is every prospect of higher prices ruling in the near future and, with any ordinary consumptive demand in Great Britain, there will be a shortage in the supplies before the new season's goods can come on the market.

Butter remains firm and unchanged, there will not be the usual quantity of butter made during the winter months, farmers are not feeding their cattle and let them run dry, which saves money for the farmers, as feed is unusually dear this year, and it gives the cattle a needed rest, which will do them good for the next season.

But the extent of supplies of butter now on hand and yet to be expected, is most difficult to estimate. Exports this season were not only short, but fairly large quantities of butter have been re-imported from Great Britain lately, these do not seem to figure in the receipts, as compiled by the Montreal Board of Trade, yet the goods come here and will be consumed here and while we can fairly well estimate the probable consumption, it is at present most difficult to say, whether there is likely to be a shortage or a surplus in supplies, on which the future prices will depend.

PROVISION SITUATION.

The packers this week are paying $5.90 to $6.00 for hogs, f.o.b., at country points. It was not to be expected that deliveries would be large Christmas week, but they have been fair. The packers, however, look for large deliveries for some weeks to come. There are a good many hogs in the country, and they must come out. This week the packers expect nothing from the English market. They aim not to have any bacon arriving there Christmas week. This policy has made Canadian somewhat scarce on the other side, and as a result a cable to Park, Blackwell & Company, indicated that the market was just a little bit more steady. The immediate outlook for Canadian bacon is not very bright. All depends on Denmark and there hogs are very plentiful. Present prices in England for Canadian is several shillings below the packers' cost price. That means the packers here will try to get hogs down to a profitable basis.

In the domestic trade demand is very light, and will continue so for some weeks. Some do not look for a revival before the approach of navigation, but probably in February, the Canadian palate will again turn to hog products. Prices remain steady. Even if a packer shaded prices, he would not make sufficient sales to justify him, because of the lack of demand.

In the United States last week, witnessed considerable activity in the option market for hog products, somebody having been manipulating those markets for an advance, but without much success, owing to free realizations of profits, on each advance, and the covering of only a moderate amount of shorts. The cause of the anxiety of shorts was continued, light receipts in December, which was expected to make up for November's light movement; and, although nobody seems able to explain the deficit to date in the season's packing, the general belief is that the hog supply of the country is large and that farmers are holding it back for feeding purposes, though the weight of hogs coming to market has been getting lighter, instead of heavier. The packers' position is mixed, some believing them short, while others think part of them are on the long side and part on the short side; and that the current demand for consumption has kept stocks so low that packers have been barely able to supply their cash trade. But prices are now so high that everybody seems afraid of the market, and Chicago dispatches are beginning to warn their customers that the market is getting to look "toppy." Cash prices have been but little affected by the moderate advance in futures, as trade is only of a hand to mouth order, few having confidence in the permanence of present high values, though stocks continue to decrease so far in December.

PIGS SHORT IN ENGLAND.

Writing under the heading "Shortage of Pigs," P. B. Ball, Canadian commercial agent at Birmingham, says in the "Weekly Report" of the Department of Trade and Commerce:

"According to the returns of the Board of Agriculture there is a striking decline in the production of pigs in Great Britain. I have it from an authoritative source that at the annual meeting of a large firm in Birmingham this week handling pork, a loss of £540 was announced on the year's working, due entirely to the high price of hogs which had been dearer than at any period during the last sixteen years. They had killed 870 pigs less than last year, and yet they had cost £7,500 more.

"It was pointed out that there were 100,000 pigs less in England, Scotland and Wales than there were twelve months ago, and although Ireland showed an increase of 80,000, there was a shortage of 20,000 in the country.

"It was also stated that the company in 1903-04 killed 18,434 pigs which cost £77,500; in 1904-05 16,330 pigs costing £74,719, and last year 15,462 pigs costing £81,863.

"As Canadian bacon is now so favorably received in this country, there should be an excellent opportunity for increased pig raising and bacon curing."

PROVISION AND DAIRY MARKETS.

MONTREAL MARKETS.

PROVISIONS.—Dealers report considerable movement in pork at the moment. Storekeepers are laying in stocks of this article as prices are now at as low an ebb as they are likely to go. Lumber camps also supply a great part of the demand, buying large quantities. Hams and bacons are slow, now that Christmas has passed. Excellent trade for the last week, is said to have been done in all lines. Good demand exists for pure lard. Compound is scarce, owing to difficulties of railway transportation.

PROVISIONS.—The market for pork products is firm, and what slight changes are noticeable are upward. For a few choice makes of creamery prints, 29 cents is obtainable, but quite as good butter though not so well known, is going at 28 cents. The spread for quality is as much as 3 cents. FOWL.—After some weeks of low prices, the poultry market firmed up for Christmas, and there was a good strong market. There is plenty of fowl in the country, but the outlook for low prices was not encouraging to the farmers, and they have not marketed their stock. Many country dealers, too, have been paying high prices and holding back their stock. Saturday, as high as 16c.

ST. JOHN, N.B.

Business is quiet. Barrel pork is still held at full prices. Beef is unchanged at full figures. Stocks are very light. Pure lard continues high. Market quite well supplied with Ontario stock. There is practically no refined compound offered. Market has been bare for a month. The Christmas market has been well supplied with fresh beef. Both Ontario and Domestic has been firmer, because of special grades offered. Mutton lamb held at full prices. Veal very scarce. Pork slightly easier. In poultry, turkeys were lower than for the past few years. Market was further affected by soft weather just before Christmas. Geese, chickens and particularly ducks held firm.

Quiet Continues to Brood Over the Markets—Flour Markets Inclined to Weakness—Big Year in N.S. Government Crop Report.

Markets are stagnant and there is little of interest in the grain or grain products situation. The United States Government issued its final crop report for the year last week and found 101,500,000 more oats than had been estimated in July or October.. "The big increase in oats," says the New York Journal of Commerce, "was wholly uncorroborated by the best-posted men in the trade, including the elevator men, except those who were short of the market, while its corn crop figures, at the extreme estimates of the stock-jobbing expert estimators is not indicated by the movement of the new crop or country offerings. Its criticisms were of a severe nature, indicating that this change about in the Government figures to increasing, instead of decreasing former estimates, as has been the case with most other authorities, is done to keep "general prosperity" over-advertised or help to hold the stock market up, by prospective enormous earnings of the grain roads. In the products of grain of all kinds there has been less doing than in grain itself, without enough change in the price or business doing throughout the week to be worth comment. The flour market, however, is weaker, and if buyers would bid for lines they would be able to get 5c if not 10c concessions on the whole list, and possibly more for round lots of spring, as there has been some pressure, during the week, from Northwestern mills to sell bakers, extras on account of accumulations due to poor export demand."

DEATH OF GEORGE BROADFIELD.

Geoge E. Broadfield of the firm of McMahon & Broadfield, Toronto, died in Dresden, Germany, on Dec. 12, after undergoing an operation for appendicitis. Mr. Broadfield was in Europe buying for his firm and the news of his sudden demise came as a shock to the china and glassware trade of Canada and to a large circle of friends besides.

THE TRADE PAPER.

A few articles, and only a few, go directly from the producer to the consumer. Ninety-nine per cent. of them reach the consumer through the jobber and retailer. Therefore the jobber is a permanent and important factor in distribution. A link in the chain which neither producer nor distributor can ignore is the columns of a representative trade paper—the one that goes to him and the one he reads. Letters and circulars are all right; travelers are fine; general newspaper advertising is beyond praise, but there is not an advertising expert on the continent who will say that an advertising campaign is complete which does not include the trade paper in its special field. It does work which is most important.—"Hay & Grain Reporter,' Decatur, Ill.

THE WALTER M. LOWNEY CO. of Canada, Limited
165 William St., - - - MONTREAL, CAN.

AN OLD, OLD STORY.

A farmer was telling his wife one day,
"I need a new plow but I don't want to pay
Such a big price as they ask me uptown,
Even if I can buy with all the cash down.
Of course, I am sure that the plow is all right,
But the profits they make are clean out o' sight,
For plows don't cost much—just iron and wood,
An' a cheap one'll do me, I believe it's as good."
He read "ads" in the papers and big magazines
Of cheap pianos and sewing machines,
And of one plow guaranteed for twenty-five years.
Said he to his wife, "Now, that plow appears
To be jest what I want 'nd I guess I'll try
To scrape up some money and send off and buy
And learn the agents that sell in this town
That in selling to me they must cut the price down."
He sent off his money. The plow came all right.
It was nickeled, painted and polished up bright,
With a big guarantee about eight inches square,
That guaranteed everything except wear and tear.
He felt quite elated. He had saved half the price,
And had a new plow that was uncommonly nice.
He hitched up his team and drove out on the farm,
And started to plow—and the day being warm,
Drove slowly around—then "clucked" to his team,
Which gave a quick start and—snap! went the beam.
The traces fell down and the team ran away,
There was plenty doin' the rest of that day.
He got things together along toward night,
And when he got through he sat down to write.
He explained all the trouble and suggested just how
With a few minor changes they could make a good plow.
They replied by a letter that said they thought
His "team was too strong," and he ought to have bought
"A much stronger plow" — the one they'd recommend Was a different style; they'd be delighted to send
"For cash with the order," or, if he wished, "C.O.D."
But they "would have to decline to send a beam free."
Then he took that poor plow and chopped it up fine,
And swore by the Prophet that he would decline
To buy anything more that he couldn't see,
Just because it was cheap and had a big guarantee
And he said to his wife: "I aint got so much cash—
B'gosh! but I know more, and I won't be so rash.
And now when I buy a tool or machine
I won't look at a paper or a big magazine,
But go right to my dealer and I won't have to say,
I've been swindled by sharpers, as I have to-day."

A FRENZY OF JUSTICE.

One more unfortunate,
Greedy for cash,
Gambler importunate,
Roguishly rash ;
Guilty of robbery,
Slick in his jobbery,
High in his snobbery—
Lord, what a crash !

See the immutable
Proof of his gain,
Watch his inscrutable
Look of disdain !
Scorning the judges,
He never budges,
Saying, "Two fudges !
You give me a pain ! "

Picture his palaces,
Write up his wealth,
Air all his fallacies,
Tell of his stealth—
Scorning the masses,
Calling them asses,
Taking his passes,
He travels for health.

Lawyers, investigate
How it was done ;
Experts, you estimate
Where the sums run ;
Witnesses, hurry
All in a flurry
Trying to worry
The man with the "mon."

Chuck out his brother,
Fire his aunt,
Leave not another
Cousinly "plant"—
Write a report on him,
Roughly cavort on him,
Get in some sport on him,
Curse him and rant !

Let the whole city-full
Know of his game,
No one be pitiful
Tho' he talks tame ;
Cry out for lawfulness,
Weep for his awfulness,
Frown at his flawfulness,
Mash him with blame !

Then, don't indict him,
Call him not slob,
Don't even fright him
Turning a knob ;
Try to placate him,
Dare not to hate him—
Just legislate him
Out of his job.

Take him out tenderly,
Oust him with care,
Honored so slenderly,
Rich and so fair ?
Praise with intensity
Money's imp·
Graft's a propensity

An advertisement of the Edwardsburg Starch Co., in The Canadian Grocer brought last month an inquiry from an East Indian merchant, M. S. Muftee, Tadian (Kadian) Dist., Gurdaspur, for a sample of Crown brand Table Syrup. The far-reaching influence of The Canadian Grocer is one of its most valuable features to advertisers.

WHAT "GROCER" MEANS.

Not the least surprising discovery an Englishman of the Plantagenet period would make, if he could visit the grocers' exhibit at the Agricultural Hall, would be that there is such a person as a "retail grocer." A retail grocer is as impossible, according to strict etymology, as a "weekly journal," since a "grocer," or "grosser," as it used to be spelled, is really a trader "in gross"—that is to say, in large quantities, wholesale. Our ancestors spoke of "grossers of fish" and "grossers of wine," and an Act of Edward III. expressly mentions that "grossers" dealt in all manner of goods. In those days "spicer" was the word for "grocer," in the modern sense. But it happened that the Grocers' Company, founded in the fourteenth century, specialized in spicery, and so "grocer" gradually took the place of "spicer."—London Chronicle.

A CHRISTMAS REMINDER.

Rev. Father A. E. Burke, the familiar delegate to the Annual Convention of the Maritime Board of Trade, who has been a member of the Prince Edward Island contingent for years, remembered the MacLean Company's special representative this year, by a dainty souvenir, in the form of a post card, on which was a life sized photograph of the priest-delegate, surrounded by suitable holly border in tint of green.

The "Best Christmas Wishes" extended are cordially reciprocated with Father Burke.

FROM CALGARY, ALTA.

T. T. Weir, managing director of the Standard Soap Co., Calgary, Alta., was at the King Edward, Toronto, last week. Business in their lines is reported good and their new lines of toilet soaps are meeting with good demand. The coming year is looked forward to as one in which the capacity of their works will be tested to the full.

COLORING ELECTRIC LIGHT BULBS.

First mix the white of one egg, previously beaten to a frosting, and one pint of soft water. Strain through a very fine sieve, and make sure that no bubbles remain on the surface of the liquid. The globe should be carefully cleaned and polished, and then dipped into the mixture and hung up on a string to dry. After about half an hour they should be dipped the second time, to insure a perfect coating. When perfectly dry they are ready to be colored. For this, dissolve ten to thirty grains, according to the density of color desired, of any powdered dye in four ounces of collodion. Dip the globes in this and hang up to dry. If not dark enough, after about six hours, when they are dry, dip again. This coating will never crack or peel off. The best container for mixing the fluid is a baking powder or similar can, just a little larger around than the globe. This requires less of the mixture to make enough to cover the globe.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Oranges Still in Good Demand, With Supplies Not Yet Improved—Holiday Vegetables Selling Well—Priecs Show Little Change.

Quotations on fruits, vegetables and fish are almost without change. The holiday vegetable trade began towards the end of last week, and a splendid business is being done. The fruit trade continues exceptional; it is stated that the Toronto orange market, for example, has been entirely cleaned out by the demand, and good enquiries from outside points continue, Mexicans especially being desired. November-cut lemons are also in good demand. It is understood that all free goods under the new tariff are being delivered without question, and that no packages are being held for examination.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS.—Activity in green fruits is considerable as there is still the New Year trade to cater to. Bananas are selling wonderfully well. Dealers say never has there been such a lot sold. Oranges are going like hot cakes and tangerines, manderines, lemons and grape fruits are all in good demand. Prices are very well maintained.

VEGETABLES—An easier feeling in prices is noticeable this week. Cucumbers are not offering at such extremely high figures as were quoted last week, 50c. to $2.25 being the ruling quotations. Spinach is now quoted $3.50 a barrel, while tomatoes are also lower. Business is slow.

FISH—Trade in fish was very good during the advent season but fell off with its close. At present there is not very much business being transacted. Cod and haddock are in good supply, and quotations are a little lower this week. Haddies are also low. Yarmouth bloaters continue to arrive in good quantities, but kippers are scarce. Good sales of oysters, for which there is a large demand, are reported. The bulk article is very scarce.

NOTES.

A $5,000,000 fish trust has been formed in Boston, under the name of the National Fisheries Company, and some of the best-known firms on the Atlantic coast have been absorbed.

The fourteenth annual meeting of the North-West Fruit Growers' Association will be held in Seattle, U.S.A., on Jan. 16, 17, 18. J. R. Anderson, Victoria, is the head of the Canadian section.

Experimental stations will be established throughout Alberta by the provincial department of agriculture, in the endeavor to make that province a competitor of British Columbia and Ontario in supplying prairie markets with fruit.

A large shipment of Japanese oranges consigned to Vancouver was recently refused entry owing to the fruit being infected with a dozen or more dangerous kinds of scale. The shipment was later sent to points having less rigorous inspection.

The wireless telephone has entered into the deep sea fishing industry. Recently fishermen twelve miles out in Massachusetts Bay, having with them a small vessel equipped with a wireless telephone, were able to communicate with the station at Brant Rock and learn from it the prices ruling in the ...n market.

Capt. George V. Williams, formerly master of the Boston Tugboat company's steamer Lyra, who was for seventeen years interested in the oyster beds at Massachusetts, and Col. A. Markham, of St. John, New Brunswick, have organized the Victoria Oyster & Fish company, capitalized at $100,000, and have acquired 100 acres in Esquimalt harbor and other leases from the Dominion government. Their purpose is to import eastern oysters for breeding purposes, and so improve the British Columbia product that it will be able to compete with importations from the United States. British Columbia and the North-West will be the company's main market.

L. E. Geoffrion, manager of L. Chaput Fils & Cie, Montreal, has been chosen by the Government as one of the members of the new Harbor Board in Montreal. The other members are G. W. Stephens, M.L.A., chairman, and C. C. Ballantyne. Mr. Geoffrion is receiving the congratulations of his many friends who feel that, with his experience, behind him he will make a success of his work on the Board.

A GOOD AD.

A booklet of interesting views of the city of Saskatoon reaches the Grocer with the compliments of James Clinkskill. Hotels, schools and important businessblocks are shown and facts and figures contained in the brochure show that four years ago Saskatoon was a village of 100 people, while now it has 5,000 inhabitants; that it is the hub of the hard wheat belt, the railway centre of Western Canada, and will shortly become the commercial metropolis of that part of the Dominion.

GAVE HIMSELF AWAY.

Five young men went into a shop the other day to buy a hat each.

Seeing that they were in a joking mood, the shopman said, "Are you married ?"

They said, "Yes."

"Then I'll give a hat to the one who can truthfully say he has not kissed any other woman but his own wife since he was married."

"Hand over a hat," said one of the party, "I've won it."

"When were you married ?"

"Yesterday," was the reply, and the hat was handed over.

One of the others was laughing heartily whilst telling his wife the joke, but suddenly pulled up when she said:

"I say, John, how was it you didn't bring one?"

HOW TO WAIT ON A CUSTOMER.

A salesman or clerk never becomes profitable, and is invariably a loss and expense to his employer, until he has learned how to properly wait on a customer. For this reason an article on this subject from the Boot and Shoe Recorder can be read with a great deal of interest. What is said herein is the result of years of experience and observation on the part of the writer.

To properly wait on a customer one must first of all be interested in his merchandise and its owner, be ever ready to greet the approach of a patron and in doing so avoid any form of familiarity even though the person in question be an acquaintance or friend. A mild form of dignity is the keynote to quick confidence in business. This much done, ascertain in as quiet a way as possible the wants of your visitor, without comment or further conversation. Proceed as quietly as possible to get exactly (or as near as you have) what was requested, and at this point is offered the first opportunity for a display of salesmanship.

It is here the clerk can suggest the economy of better priced goods of similar style, or the more perfect suitability of other shapes, size or kind. In offering suggestions of this or other kinds, it is well to add as much strength to same as possible by comparison. If you haven't got the goods desired, do not try to palm off or substitute. Be frank. Admit the fact, and seem to be surprised and disappointed that you should not have just what is requested. Offer some suitable goods instead thereof.

Under no circumstances should the clerk condemn or criticize the merchandise he did not happen to have, or the maker of the same. In offering goods of any kind it is well to point out this, that or the other advantage, and under no condition must one contradict or argue with a customer or prospective buyer. Always bear in mind the adage, "Convince a man against his will, he's of the same opinion still." A sale pleasantly and properly made is the first step toward the clerk's success. This done, the clerk should suggest the possible need of this, that or the other in other departments. Offer any facilities you may have at your disposal, by way of delivery, transfer, etc.

Never promise anything that your house will not afford; very often a clerk's ambition to do this has ended in dispute and dissatisfaction, which costs the employer cash and customers. The clerk also finds the customer who is in this way disappointed harder to deal with and satisfy forever after.

Avoid as much as possible special orders. The clerk who sells $50 worth of stock is more valuable to the merchant than the one who takes $200 worth of special orders, as this is always attended with more or less disappointment, no matter how carefully attended to, and the annual accumulation of left-over specials becomes a burden at stock-taking time.

Avoid guarantees as much as possible, and when necessary frame them in a careful way. Remember, merchandise out of one's store is subject to any abuse its owner may see fit to give it, and a grumbler never makes allowances for this. In hearing a complaint be patient and quiet, and avoid any argument of any kind, even though you know the complainer asks something morally unfair.

Remember, he has come to get something from you. Be as lenient as you can afford, and whatever you do in cases of this kind do it as pleasantly as possible. None are so dissatisfied as a dissatisfied kicker, and remember even mean men have friends and can influence them to pass your door, and because of their meanness are very apt to exert themselves along these lines.

To act any other than pleasant to these customers robs your transaction of its advertising feature. In exchanging goods try always to replace the returns with goods of exactly the same kind, as no matter what value you may give back, if it is not exactly the same the customer stamps the deal as a confidence game, and advises his friends of the unreliable methods of your house.

These are but some of the many things to learn in order to be a successful salesman. Bear these in mind, and act accordingly, and you will benefit yourself, your employer and his business, and mark you, your efforts will not go unnoticed. Your advancement is as sure as some other's failure. It is in this way clerks become merchants. You can in this way earn respect and gold instead of disappointment and failure, which is the positive lot of your running mate who never found out how to wait on a customer.

PREVENTING FROST ON SHOW WINDOWS.

During winter weather many shop keepers experience more or less difficulty in keeping their show windows clear of objectionable ice. No doubt all of the devices for keeping glass clear of ice, published from time to time in the journals, have received a fair test, with varying satisfaction. A writer in one of the foreign drug journals, apparently a druggist who has experienced the rigors of high latitudes, insists that none of the ordinary schemes are of much use, and that the only certain remedy for the opaque deposit of solid water is a double layer of glass with a sufficient air-space between. He states that applications of glycerine, alcohol and other solutions are of no avail in extreme weather, and that, in any case, they must be so frequently renewed that they become extremely troublesome. In northern portions of Russia, where zero weather is sufficiently common, experience has taught the owners of show windows that the only effective protection is a 3-inch air-space between two panes of glass. The outer sash is rendered as nearly tight as possible by calking the chinks and pasting strips of paper over the crevices. The glass is then carefully cleaned and dried on a clear, mild day, and a second sash, fitted with the same care to prevent all circulation of air, is inserted about three inches within the first. The double panes are said to obstruct the view very little. The physical cause of the deposit of moisture and ice upon windows is the difference in temperature between the surface of the glass and the air bearing a relatively high proportion of moisture, which comes in contact with it.

BUSINESS MEN IN MUNICIPAL LIFE

No. 6

Geo. W. Green, Jr., Mayor of Raymond, Alta., is a man of varied business interests, being Secretary of the Knight Sugar Co., and Treasurer and Managing Director of the Raymond Milling and Elevator Co. That such a busy man should find time to serve his town as mayor is an illustration of the old saying that if you want a thing done well you must ask a busy man to do it, and it also proves that the busiest business men can serve their municipality if they are willing to do so.

Mr. Green is a comparative newcomer in the West, having come to Canada from Utah in 1902. His first business venture was the establishment of two flour mills, which are now running quite successfully; and, as mentioned above, he has interests in the thriving sugar industry of Raymond.

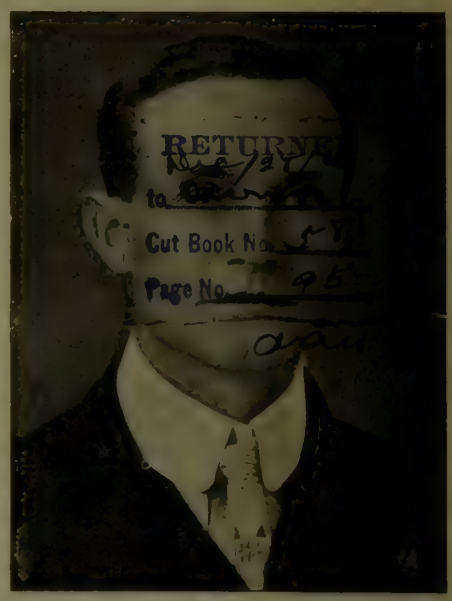
Raymond is a new town as every one knows and Mr. Green has been actively identified with its progress since its organization. In 1903 he was elected a member of the Raymond School Board, and he was successful in his efforts to place the school system of the town on a sound financial basis. That the Raymond schools are acknowledged to be among the best in Alberta is largely due to the intelligent efforts of Mr. Green to secure their successful beginning.

In December, 1905, Mr. Green was elected mayor of Raymond and he has therefore served only one term. A strong believer in municipal ownership Mr. Green has accomplished the purchase by the town of the town pipe line which was formerly owned by a private corporation. Even the bitterest opponents of municipal ownership of public utilities are forced to admit that the plan would have many merits if the municipality could always be sure of a business administration by good business men. Raymond has such a man at the head of her business affairs.

BIGGEST IN THE WORLD.

England now possesses the largest vat in the world, and the famous tun of Heidelberg can no longer give Germany pre-eminence in this particular line. Thousands of tourists have gazed at the Heidelberg vat, which is so large that a quadrille might easily be danced upon its top. It was used for the storage of Rhine wines in days gone by, and stands as a memorial to the drinking powers of the nobles of the age in which it was constructed.

The vat which has now taken its place as "biggest in the world" is in the works of Holbrooks, Limited, in Birmingham. It is capable of holding 100,000 gallons, or about three times the capacity of the Heidelberg vat—an amount equal to the contents of two and a half million bottles of Holbrook's sauce. The figure of the man shown in the accompanying picture will also give an idea of the immensity of the vat.



Mayor Green of Raymond, Alta.

VISITING B.C. MERCHANT.

Arthur Nelson, managing director of the Standard Brokerage Co., Ltd., Vancouver, B.C., is in Toronto this week. Mr. Nelson is East on a purely business trip and during conversation with The Grocer at the King Edward he stated that his company are open for a few more lines of grocers' sundries. The territory covered by the firm's salesmen comprises British Columbia and Alberta and Saskatchewan, and their connection is a good one. If the rest of the staff and company are of the same energetic calibre as Mr. Nelson The Grocer thinks business has got to come.

These two lines are found in every progressive grocer's store. There is profit in both brands, and it is profit that every business man must have to be successful. If you do not already carry a stock of these cigars we want to hear from you TO-DAY.

We believe in our goods and we want you to believe in them, and the only way to test them and learn their selling qualities is to give us a trial order.

Then you will always carry Hogen-Mogen and Royal Sport Cigars.

A post card will bring quotations.

How Many Slow Debts Have You?

How many of these debts are due to the debtor or to your own carelessness? If you insist on prompt collections you usually get them, but it is important that you properly approach the delinquent debtor when forcing a settlement has proved the most efficient means in approaching debtors. Make it known to your customers that you have adopted the new system—the monthly account system of rendering accounts, and you will be surprised at the returns. Short accounts make best friends. Do your part to foster the friendship and good will of your customers, by letting them know monthly how they stand on your books. Leave your accounts to a convenient time for making them up, when they have piled up into a big amount and you have distrust. They may not tell you but they wonder how it ever mounted up to such an amount. Write us for further information.

SYSTEM IN YOUR BUSINESS

bears as important a place as a driving wheel to a locomotive. It is the power whereby you can tell whether you are turning over your goods at a profit or a loss—and goes further—and tells you how much that profit or loss is. We trust it is a profit.

What is Your Book-Keeper's Time Worth ?

BUSINESS SYSTEMS LIMITED
TORONTO

Is your ledger arranged on any special system ?

Ten minutes wasted six times a day looking for an account means a daily loss of one hour. On a ten hour day, this means a loss of a month a year.

And your book-keeper has more than six accounts a day to look up.

Can you afford it ?

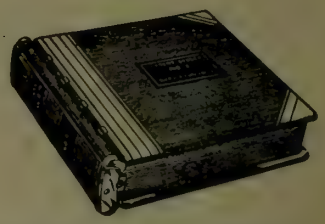
* * * * * *

Business Systems ledgers are all built on the loose-leaf principle.

Business Systems make your ledger accounts run alphabetically; if an account runs over the space you gave it, you merely drop in another leaf.

Business Systems loose-leaf ledgers open perfectly flat and give a level writing surface.

Write us to-day for full particulars.



This will not obligate you in any way and will enable us to tell you exactly how Business Systems may be most economically applied to your accounting department.

Are You Giving "SURPRISE" a Square Deal?

CONDITIONS have changed in the soap trade. The makers of Laundry Soaps are compelled to face high cost of raw materials—so high that a change in soap is somewhere necessary.

We don't know much about the other fellows' business—as to how conditions will be met—cutting down SIZE OF CAKE, reducing QUALITY or what. Not many, so far, have increased the price. THEY must do something.

"SURPRISE" will not be changed in SIZE OR QUALITY.

The large sale for so many years proves "SURPRISE" is now JUST RIGHT. We cannot do business at a loss. The price, therefore, is the only change to be made.

While the selling price is not satisfactory to us, we had no choice.

The NECESSARY only has been done. We assure the trade that when conditions warrant they certainly will have the first consideration.

People will use "SURPRISE." It has the quality they want. YOUR CUSTOMERS want it. All we ask is to give "SURPRISE" Soap a fair deal. Sell "SURPRISE" when asked for. DON'T SUBSTITUTE. It will pay you in the long run.

RISING SUN STOVE POLISH AND SUN PASTE STOVE POLISH

Large Advertising

Goods with merit have a claim upon the progressive grocer's attention, but when that merit is exploited by the manufacturer with such liberal methods of advertising as we pursue with our well-known and deservingly popular RISING SUN Stove Polish in cakes and SUN PASTE Stove Polish in Tins, the real live dealer must recognize the help we give him in selling the right stove polish. Largely increased sales support our policy of merit backed by extensive advertising.

WARNING!

Crescent BM&Co. TRADE MARK Brand

SODA-CRYSTALS (WASHING SODA)

Foreign Soda Crystals—and some of English manufacture—are being extensively offered for sale in this country which are grossly adulterated with Glauber-Salts (Sulphate of Soda), a cheap product which is not only entirely useless for washing purposes, but is even likely to injure the fabrics with which it comes in contact. The Adulterated Soda-Crystals, although nominally lower in price than BRUNNER MOND'S PURE SODA CRYSTALS, are in reality much dearer owing to the large quantity of useless and injurious matter which they contain.
